Ottawa Eight Beat Famous Belgian Crew In Challenge Cup

Special to The Examiner

HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, ENG., JULY 6.—The Ottawa Rowing Club's eight to-day won a grand victory at the Royal Henley Regatta, when in the third heat of the Grand Challenge Cup they defeated the famous Belgian crew. The Belgians, victors several times, and veterans of the Henley course, were generally fancied to win the Cup, and it was said by the majority of critics that the eight which defeated the Belgians would carry off the blue ribbon event. A number pin their faith on the crew representing Jesus College, Cambridge, whom the Canucks will probably have to meet next. To-day's result was somewhat of a surprise. The Ottawas had not made a very impressive showing in their practices, especially the last time out. In to-day's race, however, splendidly stroked by the veteran Harvey Pulford, and rowing with machine-like steadiness and smoothness, they won a fully deserved victory from the crack Belgians and their triumph was wildly cheered by the thousands of spectators, the win of the Canucks being a most popular one.

Thermometer Reached 100 Degrees In The Shade

As expected, the thermometer reached 100 degrees in the shade yesterday afternoon. This is believed to be the first time such a high figure has been reached here, and it is to be hoped it will be the last. It may be mentioned that this figure was registered by an instrument that has the certificate of Kew Observatory, Eng., as being absolutely (not nearly) correct; that the instrument was in the shade, on the north side of a building, on high ground, and had every benefit of what breeze there was over miles of farm lands. Several passing thunderstorms have had a tendency to cool the heated atmosphere, but it is still hot. Rainfall .57 of an inch —W. P.

SEVERAL NARROW ESCAPES RECORDED IN THIS MORNING'S ELECTRICAL STORM

Mrs. Armour Momentarily Paralysed From Effects of Bolt Which Struck Chimney of Her Home—Barn Was Burned in Smith Township

THE RAIN WAS NEEDED

Following five days of intense heat, Peterborough was visited this morning by an electrical storm of more than usual violence, which did considerable damage in the district and at the same time was of decided benefit to the farmers, whose crops were threatened with destruction through the prolonged hot spell. The storm came up shortly before five o'clock, heralded by continuous rumbling of thunder in the west, which awakened the many people who were sleeping on verandahs and balconies and enabled them to get safely indoors before the downpour. The lightning was very severe and the thunder heavy and almost incessant. The rainfall was very heavy while the storm lasted, but by 7 o'clock the shower was over.

A number of places in the city and in the surrounding country were struck and some narrow escapes are recorded.

Lightning struck the chimney of Mrs. Armour 145 Rubidge street. Running down the chimney it smashed out every stop and finally made its exit through the hall into the street, carrying with it clouds of smoke and dust.

Mrs. Armour, who was sitting in the kitchen corner at the time the bolt struck, was momentarily stunned and unable to speak or move a limb. Every moment the house was expected to be in flames, but happily such was not the case, the only damage being that the chimney was somewhat loosened.

The roof of the dwelling of Mrs. Pethwick, 195 Park street, suffered damage to a considerable extent. Tiles and beams were literally shivered, and pieces of the wood were thrown out on the street. This house also was lucky to escape conflagration. Builders are now at work repairing the damage.

During the electric storm this morning, a bolt came in on the wire in the G. G. E., and burned out one of the big machines in the Test Dept., and a large number of employees of that department were thrown out of work this morning.

In Smith township, the large barn of Mr. Harry Garbutt on the Buckborn road a mile and a half from Lakefield was struck by lightning, set on fire and totally destroyed with its contents. Fortunately Mr. Garbutt had not commenced taking his crop off the fields and the barn did not contain anything save a small quantity of hay and oats. It is thought that the damage is covered by insurance.

The house of Mr. K. McInnes in Lakefield was struck by a bolt during the absence of its occupants. The chimney was shattered and the electric fluid tore the clapboards off one side of the building, but did not set the structure on fire.

The storm was very severe at Lakefield with vivid lightning and crashing thunder.

The damage done in the vicinity of Springville was not excessive. A number of fruit trees were uprooted and a number of fences overturned.

Glengarry Town Is Almost Wiped Out By Disastrous Fire

OTTAWA, ONT., JULY 6.—The town of Maxwell, Glengarry County, was almost destroyed by fire last night. The fire started at Smiley & Robertson's sawmill. It destroyed several graineries, houses and stores, and the Grand Trunk station, with a total loss of one hundred thousand dollars, and insurance is less than half that amount. The Village had only a small hand-pump and bucket brigade. Seventy men helped, while the women manned the village pumps With the station burning under him the Grand Trunk operator sent the Mayor's appeal to Ottawa for assistance. A section of the Ottawa fire brigade arrived shortly after midnight, but by that time the blaze was pretty well in hand.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Moon-Light Excursion of the Letter Carriers was Enjoyable

The second annual moonlight excursion of the Letter Carriers of Peterborough was held last night on the steamer "Stoney Lake" and was one of the most enjoyable and successful outings of the season. About 275 were on board the commodious steamer and the sail was thoroughly enjoyed. The conditions could not have been better, bright moon light silvering the waters of the Otonabee, while the air was cool and the escape from the heat of the city gratifying to say the least. Mr. Devey's orchestra supplied splendid music for dancing and a large number took advantage of the opportunity. The committee is to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts and credit is also due Capt. Scollard and his courteous crew.

REMANDED

Alf. Cooney, who was arraigned in the County Court this afternoon before Magistrate Edmison, on the charge of assault, was remanded again. He is out on bail.

THE

Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than these glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown as it has recently is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

All Work including the Lens Grinding is done on the Premises and Fully Guaranteed.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN JUSTICE.

The contrast between British and American justice is strikingly shown in the punishment of homicides, says the Ottawa Journal. England prides herself on her judicial despatch in even the gravest cases. The Crippen trial, watched by the whole world, was an instance, lasting but four days, and speedily followed by execution.

American journals do not disguise their admiration of the British system. Combining the principle that until guilt be established a man is held innocent with rigorous impartiality and the stern execution of the decreed penalties seems to produce a system as near to absolute justice as human law can attain. In England a homicide rarely goes unpunished. The murderer stands no chance of escape by fine-spun theorous "brain storm" and "mania Americana" creations on that side the Atlantic.

The most glaring example of the laxity of American justice is furnished. The last murderer hanged there paid the penalty to society on October 22, 1909. Since then there have been 548 homicides in Chicago, of which 223 were straight, indisputable murders. And not one of that gory-handed throng of 223 has been adequately dealt with by the law.

It is not that the American bench is corrupt. While the election of the judges has grave disabilities, lending colour to the charges of political prejudice, or of that open mind which accompanies the open hand, yet disinterested observers claim that the standard of the judiciary has considerably improved. What has not risen is the public opinion of the heinousness of murder. Any black-hearted slayer, so long as he has the funds, or the friends, to retain clever lawyers, can stimulate a maudlin sentiment in favour of his release, or, at least a light imprisonment. The molly-coddle temper which indiscriminately signs petitions for clemency regardless of equity is akin to anarchy, for its spread would mean that the structure of law collapse like a house of cards.

Canada has fortunately kept far nearer to Great Britain than to her southern neighbuor in criminal procedure and penalties. But signs are not lacking that the same tendencies are at work here as have made a farce of the punishment of American homicides. A mawkish sentimentality engineered for the benefit of criminals, especially murderers, is the grossest injustice against society at large. In her unprecedented criminal record of recent years the United States is reaping the whirlwind sown by her own hands.

WHERE THE DANGER LIES.

(Montreal Herald)

At once the danger and the security in Europe is the fact that it always has one or more problems on its hands. Every spring there is to be fighting in the Balkans, for instance, but year after year passes without Europe being embroiled in war. When flame breaks out in any new quarter all hands rush for the fire-extinguishers. Europe, which is bigger than any of its component parts, does not like to have its peace disturbed. That is why, when an incident crops up, which looks like a signal for fight there comes from every capital assurances that there is no real danger o ftrouble. A couple of years ago it looked as if there might be war over Bosnia. There wasn't, because Europe looked over the position, found Austria and Germany strong enough to do as they wished, and decided that the Serbs had better endure the humiliations of peace than the ravages of a war of conquest. A few years ago there was trouble over Morocco, and Germany was supposed to be ready to invade France; but Europe got together, showed Germany its error, and a free hand was left to France and Spain. This time we are being assured that the Kaiser is only playing for position, and that trouble will blow away like chaff when the time comes for a conference.

But, on the other hand, supposing one or more of the players to be strong enough, this sort of game may lead to war. There are limits beyond which the patience of peoples cannot be tried. The wrangle over the nomination of a Hohenzollern prince to the throne of Spain, troublesome as it was, could yet be arranged. It was all over and done with when the stupidity of French diplomats and the astuteness of Bismark set France and Germany overnight into moods of uncontrollable passion, and war came just when all cause for war had been completely eliminated.

It is hard to judge whether the danger or the security is greater, especially hard for outsiders. Those on the inside know, for they know whether they mean to fight or not. We know now that in 1870, both the French Emperor and the German Chancellor meant war, but that Napoleon wanted to postpone it for a year so that Austria could join him, while Bismarck wanted it over before Austria was ready. The real danger of the present period is that both in Germany and in England there are men who think the two navies must fight, and that it is only a question of when. In such circumstances, the despatch first of the Panther and then of a larger ship can only be held to raise the question whether the time is now. A German paper exclaims: "At last, a deed". The English papers are not saying much, but they very evidently regard the seizure of a harbour on the African Coast as very much a deed, and moreover as the very kind of a deed for the safe accomplishment of which the German navy was brought into existence. If Germany can establish coaling stations and commercial ports all around the world while her Dreadnoughts lie safe behind the shoals of the North Sea, certainly the Jingo school in England will feel that the contest has already been lost.

The outcome may depend upon what passed between Czar and Kaiser at a recent interview. Germany has never taken her life in her hand since Bismarck first took hold of her diplomacy, without having made sure of the passivity of Russia, which she always pays later in kind. If the Czar and the Kaiser understand each other, the situation may be more serious than the diplomatists pretend.

WILD CATTERS AT WORK AGAIN

Grand Trunk Pacific Takes Legal Action Against Private Companies Using Its Name.

WINNIPEG, JULY 6, 1911. — The Grand Trunk Pacific has issued formal warning against real estate men who are offering in the name of the railway company to sell lots in bogus townsites along its lines in the western provinces, and has given notice that all such people will be prosecuted in the courts. D'Arcy Tate, solicitor for the company, states that actions are pending in the courts against six or seven concerns that are using the company's name, and that all wild-catters will be brought to justice in an endeavour to prevent the repetitions of such misrepresentations as have already occurred in a number of cases.

This announcement is official, and states that the company itself has established all divisional points and stations, and that the sales will be made through its bona fide agents. The authorities cite as an example of fraudulent advertising the exploitation of the townsite of Alix, on the Calgary-Edmonton line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. This has been widely advertised as a division point and lots have sold at correspondingly high figures. As a matter of fact, the actual divisional point is at Mirror, some six miles away from the townsite of Alix, and the railway company has no interest whatsover in the townsite last named. Other instances are cited where the Grand Trunk Pacific name has been used to sell lots in townsites miles away from any station, and without any authority whatsoever from the company. Action has been brought against the Grand Trunk Pacific Transfer Company, of Vancouver, to restrain that concern from future trading under the name of the big corporation, and will shortly be brought against the Grand Trunk Lands Company, which also is a private concern. Scores of real estate companies, employment agencies, hotels, livery stables, transfer companies and grocery establishments throughout the west make use of the name of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and it is President Hayes' intention to put a stop to all unauthorized use of the name Grand Trunk Pacific by any private concern.

The use of the name by land companies is described as intended to mislead innocent purchasers, for the most part those who wish to buy lots for the increase in value following settlement of the surrounding country, and the rapid growth of the towns themselves. Where there is no station service there will be no town, and such sales therfore, would be fraudulent and lead to loss. The public is notified that all such intending purchasers should communicate direct with the railway's agency, the Transcontinental Townsite Company, at Winnipeg and get the facts.

(Scientific American.)

Ada Juke is known to anthropologists as the "mother of criminals." From her there were directly descended one thousand two hundred persons. Of these, one thousand were criminals, paupers, inebriates, insane, or on the streets. That heritage of crime, disease, inefficiency and immorality cost the State of New York about a million and a quarter dollars for maintenance directly. What the indirect loss was in property stolen, in injury to life and limb, no one can estimate.

Suppose that Ada Juke or her immediate children had been prevented from perpetuating the Juke family. Not only would the State have been spared the necessity of supporting one thousand defective persons, morally and physically incapable of performing the functions of citizenship, but American manhood would have been considerably better off, and society would have been free from one taint at least.

Other Instances.

Instances such a s these are not isolated. Ever since the late Sir Francis Galton gave us his science of Eugenics, which in its most liberal sense means "good breeding," the scientific students of mankind, the directors of insane asylums and hospitals, criminologists the world over have been compiling statistics to show not only the danger of permitting the marriage of criminals, lunatics and the physically unfit, but the effect upon mankind. Thus, Professor Karl Pearson, Galton's ablest disciple, has driven home the necessity of scientific study of the human race in many a telling statistical comparison and monograph. He has shown that in Great Britain 25 per cent of the population (and that the undesirable element in England) is producing 50 per cent. of English children, and that if this goes on unchecked, national deterioration and degeneracy must inevitably result.

Only One Way.

Galton originally worked only with statistics, and in his capable hands they proved a powerful weapon. After he had enunciated the principles of Eugenics, Mendel's law of heredity was revived and applied to the problem .Imperfectly understood as that law may be as yet, nevertheless it enables us to prophesy with considerable accuracy, what the offspring of animals, plants and human beings may be, not only in the next generation, but in generations to come. Mendelian principles have no doubt long been folowed by professional animal breeders in an empirical way, but only within recent years have enough data been accumulated to show that they apply with equal force to human beings. We know enough about the laws of heredity, we have enough statistics from insane asylums and prisons, we have enough genealogies, to show that, although we may not be able directly to improve the human race as we improve the breed of guinea pigs, rabbits or cows, because of the rebellious spirit of mankind, yet the time has come when the lawmaker should join hands with the scientist, and at least check the propagation of the unfit. Prizes have been offered to crack trotters for beating their own record, $10,000 for a fifth of a second, all for the purpose of evolving a precious two-minute horse. Yet we hear of no prizes which are offered for that much worthier object, the physically and intellectually perfect man. Fortunately the need of intelligent legislation on the subject is being driven home by scientific men and Eugenic associations here and abroad. The Eugenic Laboratory founded by Sir Francis Galton and the American Breeders' Association have done much to clear away the popular prejudices inevitably encountered in such educational work and to prepare the ground for legislative action. Some States have already passed laws that show an appreciation of the situation.

Prevent Propagation.

The proper attitude to be taken toward the perpetuation of poor types is that which has been attributed to Huxley. "We are sorry for you," he is reported to have said; "we will do our best for you (and in so doing we elevate ourselves since mercy blesses him that gives and him that takes), but we deny you the right to parentage. You may live, but you must not propagate."

The absurdity of legislation to cure social evils without scientific facts to base that legislation upon, is no more apparent than in the disposal of the insane. In Wetham's "Family and the Nation" it is stated: "According to the mid-Victorian concept, a man was either sane or insane — quite mad or completely cured. How he became mad, how completely he was cured, were not taken into consideration." It is not enough to take care of an insane man. To discharge him after a period of a few months or a few years and brand him as cured, when his whole family history points to the fact that he is a hereditary epileptic or lunatic, and to place no barriers in his path when he attempts to marry, is statesmanship of the poorest order.

If the Eugenist has his way, "well-born" will acquire a new meaning. It will not cease to mean descent from a proud and noble race that has accomplished great things in the past, but it will also mean that the stock descended from that race is composed of men and women who will live up to its traditions, who will have that perfect physique and stable mental organization which Maudsley, that most literary and philosophical of psychiatrists, calls "the highest sanity."

VIVIDLY PORTRAYS STORY OF THE OLD WEST

The story of the rapidly passing Great West as it was found by the rough and ready pioneers of a quarter of a century ago is vividly portrayed by the Young Buffalo Wild West Show, which will exhibit in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon and night, July 8.

Not only the daring riders of the plains, the wiry broncos that meant so much to the early settlers, the Indians whom they found there, and even the wild bison they hunted, but the very atmosphere of the days when every man was a law unto himself, has been depicted in this great $300,000 production.

It was the privilege of but few men to go through that period and come out of it unscathed. But the now greater YoungBuffalo Wild West Show, as it is being produced this year, gives every man, woman and child in America an opportunity to peep into the pages of history and view events, not as pictured by artists or described by historians, but as they actually occurred. They may see the hunting of the savage bull buffalo, the lassoing of the animal by expert ropers, and, finally—the joy of every great hunter—the dragging of the trophies of the hunt into camp. Not the least important feature of the wonderful exhibition is Annie Oakley, the peerless wing and rifle shot, whose work has made her a world-wide reputation. No woman ever lived who has accomplished what Miss Oakley has. No woman ever braved the perils faced by this young woman on the plains, as dauntlessly as any of the dare-devil cowboys who were her only companions. Almost as famous, although in an entirely different field of adventure, is Ambrose Means, the "lion lassoer" of Africa, who followed former President Roosevelt into the dark continent. As a guide, Ambrose Means has earned the reputation of being the most daring hunter of the king of beasts who ever bagged a lion.

But all of the energies of the Young Buffalo show have not been expended in securing these stars. In fact they have added to the galaxy already mentioned by securing Buffalo Vernon and a score of other equally famous wild west performers. There is the wonderful wild west girls' band, known as "Salome Jane's Musicians," the famous Indion chief, Hawk Eye, who heads his own tribe, a great group of women bronco busters, and, last but not least, historical and stirring pictures of life on the plains in the early days. The attack on the ranch by a murderous and powerful band of Apachee Indians, an actual reproduction of "Shooting up the Town," showing exactly how the cowboys welcomed Colonel Roosevelt on his recent trip throuhg the west, beautiful tableaux of "Peace and War," and a hundred other features. There are upwards of 700 men and women with this great aggregation. A big street parade will be given at 10 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition.

Entertained The Sergeants

The sergeants of the 41st Brockville Rifles held a banquet in honour of the sergeants of the 57th Reigment on Dominion Day at St. Lawrence Hall, and a number of toasts were given, and in each case a suitable reply was given. The affair was one of a very pleasing character, and the kindness of the Brockville men was highly appreciated by the men of the 'red line.' The toast list was as follows:

BATHING PARTY ON THE ROOF

Washington, July 5.— One hundred stenographers and women clerks in the McGill building here provided themselves with bathing suits, and announced to-day that they will give a party on the roof of the building the next time it rains.

"It's the heat's driving us to it," said a blonde typewriter. "We don't get to the bathing beaches during office hours, so we are going to take possession of the roof."

It is said to be a serious plan to celebrate the break in the worst heat spell in years—when it comes.

"ONE WAY OUT"

By WILLIAM CARLETON

This year I watched Rafferty's progress with something like envy. The firm was "D. Rafferty and Co." Within two months I began to see the name on his dump carts whenever I went to work. Within two months he secured a bigcontract for repaving a long stretch of street in our ward. I knew our firm had put in a bid on it, and knew they must have been in a position to put in a mighty low bid. I didn't wonder so much how Dan got this away from us as I did how he got it away from Sweeney. That was explained to me later when I found that Sweeney was in reality back of the liquor dealers. Sweeney owned about half their stores and had taken this method to bring Dan back to the fold, once he found he couldn't check his progress.

During this year Dan bought a new house and married. We went to the wedding and it was a grand affair, with half the ward there. Mrs. Rafferty was a nice looking girl, daughter of a well-to-do Irishman in the real estate business. She had received a good education in a convent and was altogether a girl Dan could be proud of. The house was an old-fashioned structure, built by one of the old families who had been forced to move by the foreign invasion. Mrs. Rafferty had furnished it somewhat lavishly, but comfortably.

As Ruth and I came home that night, I said:

"I suppose if it had been 'Carleton and Rafferty' I might have had a house myself by now."

"I guess it's better as it is, Billy," she said, with a smile.

Of course it was better, but I began to feel discontented with my present position. I felt uncomfortable at still being merely a foreman. When we reached the house Ruth and I took the bank book and figured out just what our capital in money was. Including the boy's savings, which we could use in an emergency it amounted to fourteen hundred dollars. During the first year we saved one hundred and twenty dollars, which, added to the eighty, we came down here with, made two hundred dollars. At the end of the third year we had a total of eleven hundred and ninety dollars. The boy had saved more than two hundred dollars over his clothes in the last two years.

It was Rafferty who helped me turn this over in a real estate deal in which he was interested. I made six hundred dollars by that. Everything Raffrty touched now seemed to turn to money. One reason was that he was thrown in contact with moneymakers, all of whom were anxious to help him. He received any number of tips from those eager to win his favour. Among the tips were many that were legitimate enough like the one he shared with me, but there were also many that were not quite so above-board. But to Dan all was fair in business and politics. Yet I don't know a man I'd sooner trust upon his honour in a purely personal matter. He wouldn't graft from his friends, however much he might from the city. In fact, his whole code, as far as I could see, was based upon this unswerving loyalty to his friends and scrupulous honesty in dealing with them. It was only when honesty became abstract that he couldn't see it. You could put a thousand dollars in gold in his keeping without security and come back twenty years later and find it safe. But he'd scheme a week to frame up a deal to cheat th city out of a hundred dollars. And he'd do it with his head in the air and a grin on his face. I've seen the same thing done by educated men who knew better. I wouldn't trust the latter with a ten-cent piece without first consulting a lawyer.

The money I had saved didn't represent all my capital. I had as my chief asset the gang of men I had drilled. Everything else being equal they stood ready to work for me in preference to any other man in the city. In fact their value as a machine depended on me. If I had been discharged and another man put in my place the gang would have resolved itself again into merely one hundred day labourers. Nor was this my only other asset. I had established myself as a reliable man in the eyes of a large group of business men. This meant credit. Nor must I leave out Dan and his influence. He stood ready to back me not only financially, but personally. And he knew me well enough to know this would not involve anything but a business obligation on my part.

With these things in mind then I felt ready to take a radical departure from the routine of my life when the opportunity came. But I made up my mind I would wait for the opportunity. I must have a chance which would not involve too much capital, and in which my chief asset would be the gang. Furthermore it must be a chance that I could use without resorting to pull. Not only that but it must be something on which I could prove myself to such good advantage that other business would be sure to follow. I couldn't cut loose with my men and leave them stranded at the end of a single job.

I watched every public proposal and analyzed them all. I found that they very quickly resolved themselves into Dan's crowd. I kept my ears wide open for private contracts but by the time I heard of any I was too late. So I waited for, perhaps three months. Then I saw in the daily paper what seemed to me my opportunity. It was an open bid for some park construction, which was under the guardianship of a commission. It was a grading job and so would require nothing but the simplest equipment. I looked over the ground and figured out the gang's part of it. Then I went to Rafferty and told him what I wanted in the way of teams. I wanted only the carts and horses—I would put my own men to work with them. I asked him to take my note for the cost.

"I'll take your word, Carleton," he said. "That's enough."

But I insisted on the note. He finally agreed and offered to secure for me anything I wanted for the work.

I went back to Ruth and we sat down and figured the matter all over once again. We stripped it down to a figure so low that my chief profit would come on the time I could save with my machine. I allowed for the scantiest profit on dirt and rock though I had secured a good option on what I needed of this. I was lucky in finding a short haul though I had had my eye on this for some time. Of one thing I was extremely careful—to make my estimate large enough so that I couldn't possibly lose anything but my profit. Even if I wasn't able to carry out my hope of being able to speed up the gang I should be able to pay my bills and come out of the venture even.

Ruth and I worked for a week on it and when I saw the grand total it took away my breath. I wasn't used to dealing in big figures. They frightened me. I've learned since then that it's a good deal easier in some ways to deal in thousands than it is in ones. You have wider margins, for one thing. But I must confess that now I was scared. I was ready to back out. When I turned to Ruth for the final decision, she looked into my eyes a second just as she did when I asked her to marry me, and said:

"Go after it, Billy. You can do it."

That night I sent in my estimate endorsed by Dan and a friend of his, and for a month I waited. I didn't sleep as well as usual, but Ruth did not seem to be bothered. Then one night when I came home I found Ruth at the outside door waiting for me. I knew the thing had been decided. She came up to me and put her hand on my shoulder and patted me.

"It's yours, Billy," she said.

My heart stopped beating for a moment and then it went on again, beating a dozen ticks to the second.

The next day I closed up my options. I went to Corkery, gave my notice and told him what I was going to do. He was madder than a hornet. I listened to what he had to say and went off without a word in reply. He was so unreasonable that it didn't seem worth it. That noon I rounded up the men and told them frankly that I was going to start in business for myself and needed a hundred men. I told them also that this first job might last only four or five weeks and that while I had nothing definite in mind after that I was in hopes to secure in the meanwhile other contracts. I said this would be largely up to them. I told them that I didn't want a man to come who wasn't willing to take the chance. Of course it was something of a chance because Corkery had been giving them steady employment. Still, it wasn't a very big chance because there was always work for such men.

I watched anxiously to see how they would take it. I felt that the truth of my theories were having their hardest test. When they let out a cheer and started towards me in a mass I saw blurry.

I'll never forget the feeling I had when I started out in the morning that first day as an independent contractor; I'll never forget my feeling as I reached the work an hour ahead of my men and waited for them to come straggling up. I seemed closer than ever to my ancestors. I felt as my great-great-grandfather must have felt when he cut loose from the Massachusetts colony and went off down into the unknown Connecticut. I was full enough of confidence, but I knew that a month might drive me back again. Deeper than this trivial fear, however, there was something bigger—something finer. I was a free man in a larger way than I had ever been before. It made me feel an American to the very core of my marrow. The work was all staked out, but before the men began I called them all together. I didn't make a speech. I just said:

"Men—I've estimated that this can be done by an ordinary bunch of men in forty days; I've banked that you can do it in thirty. If you succeed, it gives me profit enough to take another contract. Do the best you can."

If There Is A Weak Spot

In Your System or a Faltering Organ it Will be Worse at This Time of Year

Vigor and Energy Run Low in Spring Unless You Use

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

It may be the stomach, the heart, the lungs, the filtering or excretory organs, but if there is a weak point it is likely to show up at this time of year.

The blood is thin and watery. It fails to supply proper nourishment. The all-essential nerve force is lacking, and you feel the effects first in your weakest organ.

Your trouble may take the form of indigestion, you may have neuralgia or twinges of sciatic rheumatism. The cause is the same—weak blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you as nothing else can, because it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which are necessary for the strengthening and invigorating of the various organs of the body.

Every dose of this great restorative organ goes to form new, red corpuscles in the blood—to make the blood rich and red. The faltering organs resume their functions, appetite improves, digestion becomes good, and gradually new energy and vigour find their way to every nook and corner of the body. To keep strong and well this spring use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50 at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

PETERBORO ONE DAY ONLY, SATURDAY, JULY 8th

When the English residents of East Africa heard that the Buffalo Jones exploration party was coming to Africa to lasso lions and other wild animals, they laughed with glee, but when the American cowboys returned from the interior with a full grown lioness, they piped another tune. Chief of these cowboys with this expedition, was Ambrose Means, a devil-may-care sort of chap, who is absolutely fearless to any and all danger. It was he who cast the first rope that caught the first lion ever lassoed. When the Young Buffalo Wild West exhibits in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon and night, July 8, Ambrose Means will appear in the arena and will give vivid demonstrations of how the wild animals of the African veldt were captured alive. Means was the big feature of the sportsman's show, held in Madison Square Garden, New York, last winter. Annie Oakley, the peerless wing and rifle shot, is the bright particular star of the Young Buffalo Wild West Show. Other artists who have achieved international fame and whose names appear upon the programmes of this aggregation are Capt. O. G. Stevens, Curtis Liston and Capt. Stewart, remarkable sharpshooters, Buffalo Vernon, the man who leaps from the back of a rapidly moving horse to the head of a steer and throws the beast by a quick turn of the steer's horns; Montana Jack, the world's greatest lariat thrower; Capt. Hardin and his company of Boy Scouts, said to be the finest drilled body of young men in the world. There are over 500 men and women with this show, which is claimed to be the largest of its character in the world. A big street parade will be given at 10.00 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition, at which time the Indians, Russian Cossacks, Mexican rurallies, Northwestern Canadian Mounted Police, U. S. Cavalrymen, and other representatives of the world's most daring men and women will be seen. Col. Stewart's 20-ox team is a feature of the street demonstration.

RICHARD HALL & SON

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

PRETTY—yes, I suppose she is. But, do you know, I never can bear to look at her long enough to find out. She's always squirming around so.

So a business man commented on a young girl in his office when I asked him if he didn't think she was pretty.

And the reason I mention the matter at all is that it seems to me a good many of our young girls have unpleasant little mannerisms like this.

I know another girl who has a disagreeable trick of perpetually lifting her hands to her face. Now she rubs her eyes, now she puts her hand to her mouth or passes it across her cheek. This girl is a brilliant girl, an unusually interesting conversationalist and yet I know that her hearer's pleasure is often dissipated by this habit.

Just recently I heard of another girl who was discharged by a rather punctilious business man from her position as his stenographer because she was always taking out her combs and combing up her hair. "She's a good stenographer," he said, "but I want a girl who will arrange her toilet in the privacy of her home and not in my office."

Now, if any one of these girls should chance to read this article I have no fear that she would recognize herself, for the habit in each case had become, I am sure, almost unconscious.

But the part that puzzles me, the point I want to bring out is this: The families of those girls could not possibly have been unconscous of these unpleasant little mannerisms, could they?

And what were they thinking of to let them go on?

What were they doing that they hadn't time to attend to such vital matters?

I don't.

Just think. Beauty and brains and efficiency were each nullified by one foolish unnecessary little habit that might have been so easily nipped in the bud by a little plain speaking.

Of course no outsider can criticise a habit like this without risk of being considered rude and intrusive.

But, equally of course, no family can afford not to speak out on such a matter.

One of the most important functions of the family, I think, is to give us, when we particularly need it, a chance to "see ourselves as others see us."

Nip the unpleasant little mannerism right in the bud. Nip it as gently as possible, but even if you cause a little temporary bitterness, nip it thoroughly, and in the end you will win lasting gratitude—or would I be safer in saying, deserve it?

HUSBAND NEVER BATHES SAYS WIFE ASKING DIVORCE

Marion, O., July 5.—Asserting that he is the meanest man on earth, the wife of Charles S. Winch, a farmer, is suing for a divorce. She says her husband, who is 41 years old and in good health, never took a bath during all the years she lived with him except by wading in a stream when they lived near the Whetstone River.

She further says he objected to bathing their baby and cursed her when she did.

He never changed his clothing, the petitioner recites. He put it on and never took it off until it was worn to shreds.

The plaintiff claims her husband compelled her to live in a shack in the heart of a dense woods in Tully Township.

The defendant owns a 175-acre farm.

DOZEN WOMEN CATCH AND BEAT A BURGLAR

New York, uly 5.—When the cry of "Robber! Police!" sounded through the six-story apartment house at No. 162 Harrison street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon a dozen women ran into the hallway and attacked an athletic looking youth who ran from the home of Alexander Karits on the third floor.

The youth fought his way to the street and attempted to run, but a woman sent him sprawling with a blow from her fist. When he got to his feet he swung a long "jimmy," but the women attacked him on all sides. He was knocked down time and again and he fled into the house at No. 160.

The door was locked, but the women forced the lock and again attacked the youth. They dragged him into the street and were pummelling him when Policeman John Smith of the Clymer street station ran up.

When the young man saw the policeman he broke from the women and hurled several of them to the pavement. Then he attacked Smith and fought like a madman. He fought until he was clubbed insensible, and then the women cared for him until he revived.

At the Clymer street station the prisoner said he was Joseph Gordon, 17, of No. 18 Thornton street, Williamsburg.

He was charged with robbing the Karits apartments. Several articles of clothing belonging to the family were found in his possession.

Mrs. Sarah Rosenberg, who lives across the hall from the Karits family, told the police she saw Gordon in her neighbour's home and sounded the alarm.

Divergency of Opinion As To Sunday Law; Some Toronto Views

The Toronto Star says: The question of the Sunday sale of ice cream and soft drinks, which has been unusually prominent all this summer, is more in the limelight than ever since the heat wave. It is surprising to find the great number of people of all ages and classes who are in favour of more freedom to eat and drink on Sunday. Young people might be expected to take such a view, but older people also are in sympathy with the demand for wider liberty.

"Of course I never want a dish of ice cream myself on Sunday, nor a glass of soda water," said a comparatively old man to The Star this morning, "and yet I do think that a great mistake is being made by the stringent enforcement of what looks like antiquated by-laws. The best thing to do would be to repeal the laws altogether."

"If anyone had told me a few years ago,' said a lady to The Star, "that I would be in favour of allowing ice cream to be sold on Sunday, I would have contradicted them. To-day, however, I really am in favour. Our theories are all right as theories, but actual facts make us revise our ideas. No one believes in a quiet reverent Sunday more than myself, but I can see no irreverence in putting your mind into a greater tranquility by eating a cooling dish of ice cream."

What the Law Says.

Crown Attorney Corley would say nothing more to The Star to-day than refer the representative to the instructions be sent to Inspector Kennedy about a month ago. It included a resume of Mr. Justice Middleton's decision, and emphasised the following points:

A cigar is not a drug, and must not be sold on Sunday, even by hotel clerks.

Restaurants are not within the operation of the act as far as they carry on a strictly restaurant business. They are not allowed to sell candy to be taken away, since this is the trade of a merchant.

The decision did not dispose of Sunday ice cream sales, which was not a question before the judge.

It is apparently being taken for granted that ice cream can be sold by restaurant keepers as a part of a meal, but can not be taken away. Fines were levied last week against dealers who sold ice cream cones to be taken away from the premises.

What a Restaurant Is.

The Star this morning made inquiries at the License Office as to exactly what a restaurant was, and to whom licenses for such a business were granted.

"There are a number of qualifications," said the official. "In the first place", the proprietor must have facilities for serving meals, such as stoves, tables, dishes and suitable accommodation. We have difficulty in distinguishing between people who make applications for restaurant licenses and ice cream licenses. Nearly everyone asks for a restaurant permit under the false impression that it allows them to sell ice cream at any time on Sunday. As a matter of fact, this is not true under the existing laws.

"As far as the by-laws are concerned, it is illegal even to have a restaurant open on Sunday. In the olden days in Toronto these places were not open. It has gradually come to be taken for granted that restaurants can serve meals, but the indiscriminate sale of ice cream has never been allowed.

"Mr. Justice Middleton's decision by analogy permits ice cream to be sold if not taken from the premises, but it does not allow ice cream to be sold alone. It still must be served with a meal, as one of the courses.

Drug Stores Not Immune.

"That means that all drug stores and places with only ice cream licenses can not do business on Sunday. There is no question about that. As far as the booths at the Island are concerned, some of them are well equipped to serve meals, and have been granted full restaurant licenses; others are only ice cream shops, and should not be allowed to be open at all on Sunday according to the law. Even the restaurant booths, legally can serve ice cream and soft drinks only with a meal.

An Official's Opinion.

"My own opinion is that the law should be enforced with great strictness. It is the habit in Canada to boast of the vigorous enforcement of all laws, and it is unusual to allow some regulations to be dormant and even to be laughed at. Such a contempt for law will spread rapidly, until it will be difficult to work up any public opinion in favour of law enforcement."

Heat Bug The Latest Insect In The Limelight

(Montreal Herald)

Have you been bitten by the Heat Bug yet?

A number of Montrealers have been assaulted by a strange insect resembling the famous "Kissing Bug," which struck terror into people's hearts a few years ago, but unlike that wonderful myth, the Heat Bug actually exists and has been seen and felt.

The first symptom is a sharp pain, usually in the back of the neck, which resembles a stab from a needle. Unlike the victims of the Kissing Bug, the victim does not die at once of delirium tremens or lockjaw. The bite usually results instead in sudden death for the Heat Bug, and the scanty descriptions of this insect come from the fact that there are few remains to identify after the victim's heel has finished its work.

The heel of one's boot is not the only way of dealing with this new plague. One courageous young woman who found no less than four of the creatures in her home, after pounding them vigorously, proceeded to pierce them with hat-pins and throw them out of the window.

In appearance the Heat Bug is said to resemble a brown or black beetle about half an inch in length, with claws. For the above-mentioned reason no further data as to its appearance are as yet forthcoming. It appears to drop or fly from the trees, alighting on the back of its victim's neck, where it inserts its sting. Although the bite is sharp, it is not extremely poisonous, the pain disappearing in a few days at most. The insect occasionally attacks the feet or ankles for a change.

It has been suggested that the Heat Bug may bear some relationship to the tussock moth, said to be attacking Montreal trees.

In answer to the statement that the moth usually lays eggs and hatches caterpillars and not beetles, it has been remarked that some of the tree-devouring insects have four changes in their lives, and not three, from moth to egg, from egg to caterpillar, from caterpillar to beetle, and back again. But that is a question for scientists to solve.

At any rate this Heat Bug has apparently only made its appearance in the last few days of extreme heat, and if you see a gentleman or lady madly clasping the back of his or her neck, instead of ringing for an ambulance it would be wiser to approach carefully and attempt to alleviate the sufferer's symptoms by killing the cause, at the same time preserving the remains for a museum.

A BABY HERCULES

Twenty-three Months Baby weighs Twenty-six Pounds

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., JULY 4.—Thomas Bates, jr., of Pembroke, has gone to work at the age of twenty-three months to earn a college education. Though he weighs but twenty-six pounds, he is known as the "baby Hercules."

When his father, a Pembroke farmer, but once a member of the California Legislature, saw his child lift a baby rocker and two flatirons from the floor he wondered. Then he discovered that the little fellow could lift nearly his own weight with one hand. He made the boy a trapeze and flying rings, and baby Thomas took to them as a duck does to water. Before he could talk he could cling to a flying ring with one hand while being swung almost to the ceiling.

Little Thomas has now posed before a moving picture machine in his stunts and the pictures are to be sent throughout the country. A percentage of the profits will go to the baby.

The trustees of Harvard College have ben asked to care for and invest the money until the boy is ready for an education. His education completed, any money left will be invested.

NEGRO WHO SHOT OFFICER IS SAVED FROM MOB

FOUND UNDER MATTRESS

New York, July 5.—Another name was added to New York's long list of heroic dead yesterday morning when Policeman Michael Lynch, 33, of the West Thirty-seventh street police station, living at No. 304 West One Hundred and Forty-third street, was shot through the head while trying to arrest an infuriated negro at No. 349 West Thirty-seventh street.

John Collins, a mulatto, 27, from Cedar Key, Fla., and his wife lived on the second floor front at No. 349 West Thirty-seventh street. Mrs. John Watt, wife of the coloured janitor of the house, said yesterday that Friday night Collins brought two white men and two coloured women into the house and introduced them to his wife. Watt told him that they could not stay, as it was against the rules made by the landlord. The visitors were ordered out by the janitor, and in the fight that ensued Collins, who had been drinking, shot at the janitor in the hallway, but did not hit him.

Collins, after anight of drinking, was furious yesterday morning, and after striking his wife discharged his revolver several times from the window. Policeman Lynch, on duty, and Policemen Edward McDonald and Thomas Brady, in citizens' clothes, ran to the building and were met by Watt, who told them Collins had done the shooting.

POLICEMAN SHOT DEAD.

They hurried up to the door of the flat. McDonald guarding the front door and Brady the head of the stairway. Watt opened the kitchen door with a pass key and there stood Collins with raised revolver in his hands. Before either men could move, Collins pushed the revolver past Watt's face and shot at Lynch, the bullet striking him in the left shoulder, passing through the base of the brain and out the back of his head. He fell dead.

Collins fled up the stairs, closely pursued by Brady, who shot three times at him. Dropping his revolver into an areaway, the negro scaled a seven-foot fence to the roof of an adjoining building, jumped a six-foot areaway to the roof of a structure on Thirty-eighth street and disappeared. McDonald carried the body of Lynch to the street, sent to the station house for reserves and called an ambulance from the French Hospital in West Thirty-fourth street.

The streets were full of negroes, shouting angrily, and of white men and boys struggling to reach the doorway of the house where the shooting had occurred. In running to the house where the shooting occurred about half of the reserves went around to Thirty-eighth street.

Policeman Michael Coogan was told by a negro woman that she had seen Collins run into No. 306 West Thirty-eighth street from the roof. With Policeman West he ran through the house till they got to a flat on the third floor where the door was locked and knocked. The policemen forced the door. Apparently there was no one in the flat, but passing through the bedroom Coogan saw the mattress tremble. He ordered whoever was beneath the mattress to come out. There was no response, and the policeman fired a shot into the wooden head of the bed. Instantly Collins crawled out, shaking with fear. He went on his knees and begged not to be killed.

SAVED FROM MOB VENGEANCE.

West and Coogan dragged him to the street, where they met a crowd of whites and blacks swarming up the stoop. They started through the crowd, which was fighting to get at Collins and calling for vengeance. Halfway up the block twenty reserves fought their way to the two policemen and formed a square about them, and in this way the prisoner was taken to the station house. Coloured men and whites aimed blows at Collins over the clubs of the police. Collins had received a scalp wound, which was dressed, and with his wife was hurried to Headquarters in a patrol waggon. There no one recognised him as one having a record.

Coroner Hellenstein sent Collins to the Tombs without bail and held several witnesses.

Policeman Lynch had a fine record. He was a native of Kenmore, County Kerry, Ireland. He married Miss Nellie M. McCarthy four years ago. Besides a widow he is survived by a two-year-old son, Thomas Francis Lynch. Another child is expected within a few days. Lynch became a member of the force Oct. 24, 1905.

Reserves were sent to the West Thirty-seventh street police station from five adjoining precincts to stay on duty over Sunday in fear of a race riot.

PICNIC WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The most successful picnic ever held under the auspices of the Lakehurst and North Smith Sunday School Association, took place on Friday, June 30. The day was ideal and everyone was out for a good time. The steamer "Stoney Lake" took on part of the crowd at Gannan's Bridge and the rest at Buckhorn, numbering in all about 250.

Dinner was heartily partaken of at McCracken's Landing, and after sailing around a number of the important islands, landed at Juniper Island for an hour of recreation. The musical treat given by Miss Simpson and Messrs. Theo. and H. Simpson was greatly appreciated by all.

A large number took advantage of Captain Scollard's kind invitation of a free trip from Buckhorn to Gannon's bridge and return. The crowd thanked the captain by three cheers, and cannot speak too highly of the splendid accommodation afforded by the steamer "Stoney Lake" and its crew, which is a credit to the Stoney Lake Navigation Company.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL THOMAS ANDREWS.

The death took place yesterday of Mr. Thos. Andrews, concession 12, lot 4, North Monaghan.

Deceased, who was in his 66th year, was a prominent farmer of North Monaghan, having lived there the greater part of his life. He was well known for his sterling integrity and strict honesty in all personal and business matters and his many estimable characteristics won for him the esteem of a wide circle of friends with whom he came in contact. In religion he was a Methodist, but of late years had been a regular attendant of the Springville Presbyterian church, the location of this church being much more convenient to where he resided. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, two sons and one daughter. They are Norman of this city, William and Mabel at home.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning. The service, which will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, will be held at the house at 9.45, after which the remains will be taken to Port Hope on the 11.45 train via G.T.R., where interment will take place.

FRED DAVIES.

Mr. Fred Davies, husband of Mrs. Davies, of 219 Charlotte street, passed away at Chatham on the evening of Tuesday.

NORTH MONAGHAN FARMER FALLS FROM HAY WAGON WITH FATAL RESULTS

Tragic Death of Mr. Andrews Well Known Resident of the Township---Ribs Were Broken and He Failed to Rally From the Effects of the Shock

A sad fatality occurred yesterday afternoon in North Monaghan township, which resulted in the death of Mr. Thomas Andrews. The deceased, with the assistance of his son, was engaged in hauling hay into the barn from the field, and while attempting to get down from one of the loads, he slipped and fell and his whole weight was precipitated onto the breast beam of the barn. Several ribs were broken and he was otherwise badly shaken up, but at the time his condition was not thought serious.

He was immediately removed to the house and medical aid summoned, but to no avail. The shock to the system was too much, he rapidly sank until death took place several hours later.

Deceased, who resided on concession 12, lot 4, Monaghan, was in his 66th year. He leaves a widow and three children to mourn his loss.

The late Mr. Andrews was well known and highly respected throughout the district in which he lived, and the news of his tragic death will come as a startling shock to his many friends.

The funeral notice will be found elsewhere in these columns.

Schweier Pleaded Guilty of Stealing Revolver and Other Articles

Young Man Who Was Arrested Yesterday Pleaded Guilty of House Breaking and of Stealing $3.25, a Revolver and Cartridges and a Pair of Trousers---Black Lister is Wanted

Earle F. Shweier, the hero of the race with the police officer yesterday morning, and who was arrested on a charge of housebreaking and theft, appeared in the police court this morning. The charge was that of breaking into the house of J. W. Edwards, Sherbrooke street, with intent to commit an indictible offence, and stealing therefrom one revolver, one pair of trousers, $3.25 in cash and a box of cartridges. He pleaded guilty of the charge and Mr. R. E. Wood, Crown Attorney, asked for a remand until Saturday. The offence was committed on the 29th of June.

A young man whose face is a familiar one in the police court, failed to appear this morning on the charge of violating the liquor law. He was served with a summons to appear this morning. He was put on the black list on the 13th of Feb., 1911 under section 125 of Liquor License Act, and since that time has paid several fines for being drunk. Several witnesses were present and gave convicting evidence against the accused. The magistrate said he would reserve judgment until Saturday. In the meantime the authorities will endeavour to find the accused.

GREAT BARGAIN SALE AT J. T. C. LANG'S STORE

On Saturday next, July 8th, there will be inaugurated at the store of J. T. C. Lang and Company what will undoubtedly be one of the biggest and most sensational sales of men's and boys' clothing, furnishings, etc., ever undertaken by a Peterborough firm. The entire stock, valued at $26,000, will be placed on sale at prices that are unprecedented. A quick clearance is desired, and with this in view the prices have been cut down ruthlessly with no regard whatever taken of the original cost. It should be remembered that this sale is a genuine bargain-offerer of the latest and highest grade goods—not merely an expedient to clear out old stock. Everything in the store comes under the bargain knife and there will be opportunities of a nature that have rarely been offered here. The store will be closed to-day and to-morrow for the purpose of adjusting prices and marketing tickets and the sale will commence on Saturday. The advertisement in this issue of the Examiner will give a slight idea of the manner in which the prices have been cut.

57th BAND TO PLAY WEEK AT SCARBORO

Thirty members of the 57th Regimental Band will play a week's engagement at Scarboro Beach, the popular Toronto amusement place, beginning July 17th, and giving two programmes daily. The engagement of the crack local organization is indeed a feather in the cap of Mr. Gliddon and his men, and will prove a big advertisement for the city. The Scarboro Beach management has been featuring some of the best bands of the United States since the season opened and only a couple of Canadian bands will have the honour of playing there. That the 57th should be considered worthy of a week's engagement as Scarboro is a very high honour indeed, and the members are naturally pleased. The proposition means considerable work for the band as twelve different programmes will have to be given the contract, which was signed yesterday, providing for this. The band will be paid $750 and expenses for the week's engagement for thirty men.

HER 86-DAY SLEEP MYSTIFIES THE DOCTORS

Springfield, Mass., July 5.—Medical men are puzzled over the eighty-six-day sleep of Mrs. Francis Trudeau. The cataleptic period is one of the longest on record in which death has not immediately followed the recovery of consciousness, and the case has other unusual features.

On the morning of March 26 Mrs. Trudeau had not risen when her husband went to his business. When he returned in the evening she was still in bed, apparently in a deep sleep. Efforts to arouse her were unavailing, and Trudeau summoned Dr. E. L. Davis. Mrs. Trudeau slept on. Consultations of physicians were held, but all efforts to break the spell failed.

For twenty-six days Mrs. Trudeau lay in bed with her eyes closed. On April 16 she partly arousedherself and then lapsed into deep slumber again. For three weeks her pulse was 126. Gradually the abnormal rate of heart beats subsided, and the patient began to show signs of restlessness.

A few days ago Mrs. Trudeau awoke. She was weak and emaciated and had lost control of her voice. Attempts to regain her speech at first resulted in meaningless words. She is now able to talk, but only with effort. She sleeps nights and has a normal appetite.

During her long sleep she was fed liquid nourishment through a tube. She has not yet been told how long she slept.

Mrs. Trudeau is thirty-one years old. Before her marriage she was Miss Alma Russell of New Rochelle, N. Y.

BAND REHEARSAL

There will be a rehearsal of the 57th Regimental Band, in the main hall of the Armoury, this evening, at 8 o'clock, and every member is requested to be present. The change was made in the place on account of the heat, it being thought that the Armoury main hall would be cooler than the former place, and no doubt it will be quite cool and pleasant.

8 BOXES CURED PSORIASIS

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Comstock, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and am entirely cured—not a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

ENTERTAINED AT PICNIC

Minnedosa, Man., July 6.—A grain growers' picnic introduced variety into the tour of R. L. Borden yesterday. It was held at Sheal Lake and was the second meeting which the Opposition leader addressed during the day. He spoke in the morning at Binscarth and in the evening at Minnedosa. All three meetings were in the riding of Marquette, which is represented at Ottawa by Dr. Roche. The meeting of Tuesday afternoon was originally arranged for Birtle, but the grain growers invited Mr. Borden to attend their picnic and the invitation was accepted.

The proceedings at the picnic opened with a meeting of the grain growers, which was in progress when Mr. Borden and his party arrived. At this meeting D. N. McCuaig, chairman of the provincial elevator commission, spoke of the work of that body and appealed to the farmers to support the provincial institution. It appears that in some districts where the provincial elevator has private competition the farmers are readily drawn away from the provincial elevator by an offer of a couple of cents higher by the private company.

Mr. McCuaig was followed by President Henderson of the Grain Growers Association for the Province of Manitoba. He discussed reciprocity "from the grain growers' standpoint." He stated that for four years the question of reciprocity had been before their annual convention at Brandon. The attitude of the grain growers, therefore, was no snatch verdict.

R. M. Cherrie of Birtle read a resolution which declared: "We are sorry to learn that you are not in favor of reciprocity between Canada and the United States, which is in the interests of, not only the farmers, but of all the people of Canada, except a few capitalists."

David Mair of Hamilton read a resolution which expressed "warm and sincere appreciation of the service you have rendered and the stand you have taken in regard to the Hudson Bay railway, terminal elevators and chilled meat, and concluded, while we regret that you cannot see as we do in regard to reciprocity, we admire your sincerity and frankness in stating your views."

Mr. Borden again acknowledged this compli[illegible] his opposition to reciprocity, [illegible] he would rather go down to defeat than give us his sincere conviction."

A Voice—You'll go down then. (Laughter.)

"If my friend can speak for the whole people of Canada," replied Mr. Borden, "I will go down, but at all events I will go down fighting for what I believe to be right."

The chairman—"Hear, hear."

The grain growers' meeting closed with cheers for reciprocity, asked for by the chairman, and cheers for Mr. Borden, suggested by one of the audience.

At the public meeting which followed, Mr. Borden had to face considerable heckling in regard to the dangers from the favored nation competition and agricultural implements.

HONOR TO HEROINE.

Sir Charles Moss Unveils Laura Secord Memorial

St. Catharines, July 6.—A large assemblage gathered at Queenston Heights yesterday to witness the unveiling of the handsome memorial to Laura Secord, the Canadian heroine, who distinguished herself so nobly in the war of 1812. The monument erected on the site of the old Brock monument, twelve feet high and costing $2,000, was unveiled by Sir Charles Moss, Chief Justice of Ontario, and at present administrator of the province. Sir Charles made a notable speech. Speaking of the wonderful achievements of the heroine and of the appropriateness of erecting the monument on Queenston Heights, not far from her own home, he mentioned the fact that he had come to unveil the monument instead of Sir George Ross, who was prevented by recent bereavement in his family. He spoke of the work of former Premier Ross and also of Mrs. Currie of St. Catharines, through whose efforts the money was obtained from the Government for the erection of the monument. Sir Charles, on behalf of the Government, presented the monument to E. Langmuir of the Victoria Park Commission.

Fell From a Train.

STEEL MEN ARE UNITING

IMPORTANT GATHERING

Brussels, July 6.—The steel interests of Canada, England, the United States, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Austria and Spain were represented by 160 delegates who met in conference yesterday preliminary to the formation of an international association, broadly similar to the American Steel Institute.

Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, who presided, said he believed the idea to be feasible. Necessarily, it should be formed and managed, so as to avoid antagonism or intereference of any other institution, and so as to secure the approval of public sentiment.

Baron Van Bodenhausen of the Krupp Works, speaking for the German group, warmly supported the idea, and one by one the members representing all the nations and groups fully accepted the project. M. Kestranek of Austria, M. Diex for France, Sir Hugh Bell and Sir John Randle for Great Britain, M. Greiner for Belgium, Count Zubiria of Spain, M. Witmeur of Russia and M. Arninvonbird of Hungary, T. J. Drummond of Canada, J. A. Farrell, C. M. Schwab, Willis L. King and E. A. S. Clarke of the United States.

The conference adopted a resolution accepting Judge Gary's proposals, and decided to appoint a committee tonight to work out a definite plan.

Just Where They Were.

Banff, Alta., July 6.—Chairman Gordon has almost completed his report to the Minister of Labor, and left last evening for Winnipeg. It is almost certain that Mr. McLeod will sign this report along with Chairman Gordon, thus forming a majority report. Mr. Carter's report will differ widely from that of the chairman, provided the latter is along the lines of his proposed agreement, which both sides of the controversy turned down so emphatically. The minority report will support the contentions of the mine workers in all the essential points of the controversy.

Indications are that the miners are preparing to make a stubborn fight for what they are asking for. The operators are non-committal as to future action, but the outlook for any immediate advance by each side is decidedly gloomy.

Wholesalers Elect Officers.

Toronto, July 6.—The following officers were elected at the convention of the Wholesale Grocers yesterday: President, John M. Dillon, London, succeeding Mr. F. T. Smye of Hamilton, vice-president, A. H. Pafford, Toronto; second vice-president, A. Allward, Ottawa; manufacturers' committee, A. H. Pafford, Hugh Blain, John Dillon, T. H. Escott, Albert Allard, W. H. Craig, Fred T. Smye.

Fire at Maxville.

Ottawa, July 6.—The Grand Trunk Railway Montreal train was held up all night at Maxville, where the town and station is reported burned. Telegraph linemen have gone to assist in getting news. Ottawa has sent fire engines, ladders, men and 2,000 feet of hose by special train by request of Maxville, and arrived there after midnight. The town was reported to be burning.

Killed In Runaway.

Renfrew, Ont., July 6.—At North Ooze, a short distance from Renfrew, Tuesday evening Mrs. Henry Crozier of North Ooze was killed in a runaway accident. She and a neighbor Mrs. Carswell, were driving home from a women's missionary meeting, when something went wrong with the harness and their horse started to run. When nearing a hill Mrs. Crozier jumped. A husband and three young sons survive.

RAIN IS OF LITTLE USE

Ontario Put In Another Day of Extreme Heat—Hamilton Reached a Mark of 103 Degrees

DAYS OF MISERY

Toronto, July 6.—The present spell of torrid weather is now being broken, but the process is gradual. Reports from the meteorological office last night stated that there would be a general rainfall all over the heat-affected areas. There was a slight thunderstorm yesterday in the Niagara district, but it was very local, and did not even extend as far as Buffalo. The electrical disturbances in the afternoon upset the Hydro-Electric transmission line for a little while. The affected section of wires was somewhere near Port Credit.

There was a considerable drop in temperature last night, the mercury not registering over 82 degrees. The humidity of the atmosphere, however, made it very uncomfortable.

John Chisholm, aged 70, of 15 Riverdale avenue, was seized with faintness yesterday morning about eight o'clock after he had breakfasted. He lay down on a couch and expired almost immediately. Mr. Chisholm was a retired farmer, having come from near Agincourt to make his home in Riverdale not long ago.

The heat hastened the death of William Patterson, printer, 67 years old, who had been ill at the residence of his sister, Mrs. George Owen, since a few days previous to the start of the hot spell.

"All we want is rain and more of it," said F. W. Hodgetts, secretary of the Fruit Growers' Association yesterday. "There is still a hope for the raspberry crop if the showers continue."

The United States is still suffering from severe heat. Never in the country's history has the intense heat area been so widespread as yesterday. It extended from South Dakota to the Atlantic coast.

Chatham Swelters.

Chatham, Ont., July 6.—The temperature in Chatham yesterday has been hovering around the hundred mark, with no sign of abatement. Old residents of the city cannot remember any time during the past seventy years, when the heat was so intense. Several serious prostrations are reported. Andrew Harding, a driver for Geraty, the ice man, keeled over on his ice wagon as a result of sunstroke. He is in a very serious condition. A workman on the roof of Park's drug store was overcome by the heat and his steel helmet was not what he could not hold it at the temperature at the top of the building (was 130 degrees. Automobile [illegible] and bicycle tires are softening and peel off, and several autoists have been unable to run their machines yesterday, as their tires would not hold the air.

One Hundred and Three.

Hamilton, July 6.—The mercurial remained in the spotlight here yesterday, and, in addition to equaling his Monday heat record of 103 in the shade, he threw in a bountiful supply of humidity for good measure, with the result that the Ambitious City experienced what passed the limit of discomfort. Everybody who could manage to do so parted company with work and shed as much clothing as the law would allow. The street car men threw convention and discipline to the winds, and appeared on their cars minus caps, collars and coats. The postmen went their rounds a la negligee, and the populace in general suffered only such garments as were considered absolutely necessary.

Succumbed to Terrific Heat.

Toronto, July 6.—Thirty-five deaths were registered at the city clerk's office yesterday, fifteen being directly due to the heat. Ten of these deaths were of children of whom four succumbed to the heat.

Most of the adults whose deaths are directly attributable to heat were well over middle age, ten were over eighty and one had reached 108. One man, though, was only 38 years of age.

Oxford Grand Finding.

Woodstock, July 6.—Judge Saunders' report on his investigation of the charges of graft in Oxford County was given to the County Council yesterday morning. The report contains little that was not already surmised. He disapproved of the charges against the three county officers, Louff, McIntosh and Barth, who were said to have paid to get their positions. There was no evidence to substantiate these charges. He found adversely against John Youngs, M. T. Buchanan, J. G. Mills, deceased.

Lad Drowned at Lachine.

Montreal, July 6.—Emile Dagenais, the 11-year-old son of Philip Dagenais of Lachine, was drowned while swimming with four or five companions in the river near his home last night. The lad ventured beyond his depth and was caught in the current, which is very swift at this point.

Canadian Cadet Shot Well.

London, July 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Cadet Lawson of Quebec scored 99 out of a possible 100 in the Earl Grey Cup at Twickenham. The competition closes Saturday. Last year's highest score was 98. Yesterday the cadets left for Brussels, and Saturday they go to Bisley.

Conferred With Orientals.

London, July 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Birmingham Post understands that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, while in England, conferred with Chinese and Japanese ambassadors, regarding the poll tax imposed by Canada on orientals, and arrived at a satisfactory agreement.

Queen Dowager Dead.

Turin, Italy, July 6.—Maria Pia, Queen Dowager of Portugal, died at the royal chateau, at Stupinigi at 3.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She had suffered from uremia.

SEEKING SETTLEMENT.

German Papers Tell Why Warship Was Sent to Morocco.

Berlin, July 6.—The final object of the step taken by Germany in sending a warship to Agadir, Morocco, according to The Cologne Gazette, is an honorable and useful settlement of the Moroccan question.

This is the note struck by other responsible organs which are now most anxious to discredit any idea of territorial acquisition. They say that Germany has been trying in vain to come to an understanding regarding Morocco, but the French Government has evaded the issue since the advent of the now retired Premier Monis and the launching of the French expedition to Fez, and that a demonstration was necessary to make the Frenchmen talk business. Baron Von Kiderlen-Waechter, the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has returned to Berlin, which indicates that an answer from France is soon expected.

In conclusion The Cologne Gazette makes reference to Theophile Delcasse, whose resignation as French Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Rouvier Cabinet was due to the delicate Moroccan situation in 1905, and against whose supposed influence in the present controversy certain German newspapers are conducting a campaign. The Gazette says that although the closing days of Delcasse's occupancy of the Foreign Office were hostile to Germany, "we have no reasons for regret if a person with a real personality like that of M. Delcasse should become French Minister of Foreign Affairs."

Death Is Mysterious.

Montreal, July 6.—Mystery surrounds the death of Heldevre Desroches, forty years of age, who died in the general hospital at four p.m. on Tuesday as the result of poisoning. The man, who was married, had been away from home for three days and had been staying at a hotel on St. Dominique street.

At 2.30 Tuesday afternoon, the ambulance of the general hospital was summoned by someone in the hotel, who found Desroches lying on one of the beds in a very weak condition. He was taken to the hospital, but only lived two hours.

No poison of any kind was found in the room, as would have been the case if the man had committed suicide.

Dog as a Life-Saver.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 6.—Charles Weiderhold and his dog yesterday saved two Greeks from drowning in the Niagara River, a mile above the falls. Weiderhold went to the river to give his dog a swim. While he was there two Greeks came along and removing their clothes waded into the water. Neither could swim. They got beyond their depth and cried for help. Weiderhold jumped into the water without removing his clothes and brought out one man, while his dog grabbed the other and made a desperate effort to bring him in. Weiderhold then returned to the water and brought the second ashore.

Played With Dynamite.

Quebec, July 6.—While some children were playing at Beauport yesterday morning with a dynamite cartridge, it suddenly exploded and two of them were painfully injured. The injured children were brothers — Cyrille Belanger, aged 10, and Rolland, aged 8. The oldest boy had one of his eyes badly damaged and his left hand and one leg wounded. The other boy had his left hand broken.

BASEBALL

More pitchers were "knocked out" by the heat than by the prowess of the opposing batsmen yesterday. Not only the twirlers, but the players suffered. Vaughn, of the Leafs, who has been under the weather, succumbed at Rochester, while Starr, of Buffalo who was taken sick here, had to be sent home. Right-fielder Walsh, of the Philadelphia Nationals, collapsed on the field, and was carried off. Cicotte, of the Boston Americans, also City looked like the Burchell of old Sol.

According to Joe Yeager of Montreal, Burchell, in the game at Jersey City looked like the Buchell of old till he was injured by a pitched ball.

Some people think that the Royals would come near winning the championship if Ed. Barrow had remained with us.—Gazette. And that is pretty nearly right, too.

"The Royals are certainly the strongest club we have played against this season," was the opinion John Ganzel expressed before leaving Montreal.

Vickers has already pitched about thirty games for Baltimore. If anything happens the big fellow there will be no pennant for the Orioles this season.

After the Newark Indians had won six in a row Manager McGinnity gave each player a present.

Frank Laporte is leading the St. Louis Americans at the bat.

The Chicago White Sox are still looking for a good first baseman, but classy first-sackers, who can hit, are scarce.

Here's a new one. President Kavanaugh of the Southern League, has traded Umpire Byron to President Barrow of the Eastern League for Umpire Rudderham.

Manager Stallings, of the Buffalo team, has released Pitcher Speer to the Binghamton Club of the New York State League. Shortstop Harold Kling, the Syracuse University boy, who was given a tryout by Stallings, has been returned to the Tigers' fold.

Pitcher Pierce, a former member of the Bisons, has signed a Providence contract. Manager Ats looks to be going from bad to worse in his deals.

The Rochester Repeaters as a team are the real speed boys of the League, having pilfered 110 sacks on the Eastern League backstops so far this season. Augie Moran, the speedy little left fielder, leads the team, with 23 to his credit. He has also made the most base hits and sacrifices.

Hub Hart, the new catcher secured by Manager Ats, of Providence, does not seem to have much of a throwing arm, five of the Indians stealing on him in Tuesday's contest. Dalton and Loudon had two each.

Ward Miller of the Royals, went into the lead in the Eastern League's stolen base contest by pilfering sacks in Saturday's and Sun contests. He now leads Casey Dolan of the Skeeters, by two, having 29 bases.

George Banker, the recruit signed by Manager Jack Ryan, of the Skeeters, looks all to the good. In an exhibition game between the Skeeters and Giants on Sunday Banker held the Giants to a single rally in eight innings, when 2 errors behind him filled the bases, and Josh Devore spilled the beans by driving out a home run. Banker made six of the Giants fan, and allowed only seven hits.

Connie Mack gives the following version of McInnis' famous home run: "McInnis went to the plate before the pitcher had gotten on the rubber. This, of course, would prevent the pitcher from warming up. But one ball was pitched and Umpire Egan warned the pitcher to stop which, however, he did not do. The next ball pitched McInnis hit through second. Gardner made a dive for the ball but could not reach it, and as none of the outfielders were in their positions, he only had to walk around to score. Of course there was an awful howl, but the hit was legitimate and was allowed, as it should have been. It only proves what the rule is for. A pitcher can warm up until the batsman takes his position, but not after that."

FOCND IN RESERVOIR.

Tragedy at Beamsville Looks Like Murder and Suicide.

Beamsville, July 6.—With the finding of the body of the three-year-old infant of Edna Comfort in the village reservoir yesterday, murder was disclosed and by 10 o'clock last night it was known that the crime had been expiated by the mother, when her body was also found in the same place.

The woman was a hired girl of 20 years, who worked about with different farmers in the locality. On Monday she was employed picking berries on the farm of E. W. Tinlin, close to the reservoir. She had her child with her at this time, and after having her supper, took it to return to her home with her mother and brother. She never arrived there, but as she often stayed at the houses of those by whom she was employed, no great alarm was felt.

The body was discovered by Isaiah Pufford, a farmer, who saw it floating in the reservoir. When it became known that the Comfort woman's child had been found in the water, inquiry disclosed her disappearance and a party set to work to drag for her body.

Coroner Alexander of Grimsby opened an inquest in the Town Hall last night, which was adjourned until Tuesday next, after the child's remains had been identified by the grandmother, who appeared unmoved under the trying ordeal. He will open an inquest into the death of the mother to-day, when post-mortems will be performed on both bodies, which now lie in the morgue of Undertaker J. W Buck.

The reservoir in which the bodies were found is a mile south of the village and the girl lived on her brother's farm, a mile south of this. No motive is known for her terrible act. She was of cheerful disposition, had a bank account and had no trouble in finding employment.

BLOWN OFF THEIR FEET.

Man and Two Children Picked Up Bodily by the Wind.

Long Branch, July 6.—Trees were uprooted, a pavilion demolished, the wharf badly damaged in yesterday's storm, which damaged property to the extent of $3,000 in all. The electric light wires were dismantled but were temporarily repaired last night.

So strong was the wind when the storm struck at two o'clock yesterday afternoon that Harry McDonald, a boathouse keeper on the lake shore, who was putting away a rowboat, was carried fifty feet with it through the air. Fortunately he struck in a pile of brush, and beyond a few scratches was unhurt.

Two little children attending the Salvation Army picnic were under a wooden canopy with slate roof at the shore end of the dock. The girl was blown 75 feet along the shore, bringing up against a dinghy. She was only slightly hurt. The boy was buried under the roof of the canopy, which was completely wrecked, but crawled out of the debris uninjured.

Killed by Lightning.

St. Mary's, July 6.—The electrical and rainstorm that passed over St Mary's and district shortly after four o'clock yesterday was the most disastrous in local history. A young man named Holmyard, for nine years hired man for Adam Smith, on the Mitchell road, two miles north of St. Mary's, who took refuge under a tree, was struck and instantly killed.

Large barns on the farms of W. Moffit and Donald McLetton, in Blanchard, were struck and totally destroyed. A new barn on Chas. Barnett's farm was blown off the foundations and totally wrecked. The fire hall was struck and badly damaged. There was a heavy fall of rain, and trees were uprooted and poles and fences blown down.

Robbed on Street.

Toronto, July 6.—The hot weather was forgotten in a wild pursuit on Spadina avenue at 5.30 yesterday afternoon when Thomas Keenan, a visitor from Montreal, came upon Mrs Annie Lloyd, who was wheeling her infant child in a baby carriage Mrs Lloyd's chatelaine lay in the perambulator, and Keenan spied it. He grabbed it and extracted $10.

Then Mrs Lloyd gave chase, in which others joined and, at Queen street, Keenan unwillingly ran into the arms of Policeman Beaton. He was taken to the Esther street station and charged with theft.

Severe Wind Storm

Preceding the thunderstorm which passed over here yesterday afternoon was a severe wind storm, bearing the ear marks of a young cyclone. Before leaving for parts unknown it succeeded in ripping the two chimneys on the Gilmour Baptist church near Bridgenorth. It also smashed some of the rafters.

A new barn which is being erected by the Toronto Loan and Savings Co., to replace the one which was burned down some time ago, had the rafters blown off. Considerable damage of a minor nature was done by the wind during its progress through the country.

He is reported to be doing well.

Had Been on Thin Ice.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 6.—The ceremonies in connection with the grand convention of the Knights of Columbus closed yesterday when the Canadian Club entertained the visiting delegates at a banquet, attended by 300. An address was made by Bishop Fallon, who dealt with imperialism. During his remarks he stated that he had recently been on thin ice, but had not yet fallin through, no doubt referring to his bout with Hon Mr. Hanna re bilingual schools. The address was admitted to be one of the best and most entertaining ever delivered before the Canadian Club here. Bishop Fallon's remarks regarding closer intimacy between the mother country and its dependencies met with favor from those attending.

RAVAGES OF STORM

Ontario Points Suffer From Electrical Disturbances Three Houses Are Hit in Brockville

TROLLEY CARS STRUCK

Brockville, July 7.—Two thunderstorms which brought the rain down in torrents, giving relief from the stifling heat, were gladly welcomed throughout this section yesterday. Farmers are also in a joyful mood, as meadows and crops were beginning to feel the need of water after the unusual warmth.

During the storm lightning struck three cottages close to the town. The summer home of F. B. Steacy at Fernbank was the scene of one of the attacks. The lightning struck the roof, tearing a hole through and twisting the rafters as though they were matches. It made its way through the interior downstairs, ripping up floors and woodwork. In the cottage at the time were Mrs. Steacy, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Bell, and daughter, Miss Bell of Toronto, and Adiel Steacy and servant, all of whom sustained injury. The cottages of Lieut.-Col. Cole at Oriental Isle and H. S. Brown at Bay View also sustained damages by the lightning's pranks.

Deafened by Shock.

Barrie, July 7.—Considerable damage was done in this locality early yesterday morning during the electric storm, which passed over the section during the early hours. The homes of J. Wellington and William Goddon, on Centre street, in the Allandale ward, were both badly torn up. Godden was deafened by the shock, and up to noon his hearing had not been restored. His wife was also stunned and their cat was killed outright. Several barns in the locality of Barrie also reported to have been completely destroyed.

Stocks and Implements Burned.

Beaverton, July 7.—Yesterday morning about six o'clock during a severe thunderstorm in this vicinity, about four miles south of Beaverton, the new bank barn of Donald Brown, reeve of the Township of Thorah, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Mr. Brown's loss will be heavy, as four horses, twenty-five hogs, one cow and six calves were killed, also all his hens and implements were burned.

Trolleys Struck.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—For half an hour yesterday the most severe electric storm of the summer raged along the frontier. On the American side great hail stones fell. Several trolley cars were struck by lightning. Firemen were called out to extinguish a blaze resulting from two telegraph poles being struck.

MEN ARE NEEDED.

West Is Faced by Old Trouble In Worse Form.

Winnipeg, July 7.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is rousing to a sense of its responsibilities in harvesting what at the present time promises to be the two-hundred-million-and-over bushel crop of the Canadian prairie west. It was stated yesterday at the company's office that a number of enquiries had been telegraphed to large employers all over eastern Canada, asking whether they could spare men. Answers received to date show that the labor situation is not encouraging. Instead of being able to spare men, employers say they have not enough to meet their normal requirements.

It is possible, though, that an altogether novel experiment will be made, of bringing from seven to ten thousand men from British Columbia points, mainly from Vancouver. It has been pointed out to Sir William Whyte that owing to the exceptional labor conditions prevailing at Vancouver, a large number of men are out of work. The Canadian Pacific Railway has been asked to grant the same cheap harvesters' fares from the coast as are offered from eastern Canadian points. There is little doubt that these will be conceded, and that the prairie west in its hour of need will thus get help from the Pacific coast. Rates will be extended to Seattle and all points in that territory, reached by the Canadian Pacific.

Inquest Adjourned.

Beamsville, July 7.—The body of Edna Comfort, which was taken from the reservoir Wednesday night, was removed to an undertaking establishment and a jury was empanelled yesterday morning at six o'clock. A postponement was taken till Tuesday evening, July 11, to procure further evidence. Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Drs. Fairfield, Elmore and Stallwood conducted a post-mortem, but they decline to make any statement until the inquest. The mother's hat and a little wagon belonging to her son were found in the woods a short distance from the reservoir by a squad of boy scouts yesterday afternoon.

Two Fingers Crushed.

Chatham, July 7.—A. McCormick, up the creek at Harwich, met with a serious accident yesterday morning. He was aiding in the removal of a barn when his hand got caught in a pulley. Before he could release it two fingers of his left hand were crushed to a pulp. He was brought to the city, where he was given surgical attention.

Excursionists Were Thrown Into Water at Park at Aylmer and One Woman Is Drowned in Catastrophe

PROMPT RESCUES

Ottawa, July 7.—Through the collapsing of a section of the pier leading to the dock at Queen's Park, Aylmer, shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, fifty people, all residents of Fitzroy Harbor and Torbolton, were precipitated into the water. A scene of indescribable confusion followed. One fatality occurred, Mrs. Justin Davis of Woodlawn, near Torbolton, losing her life by drowning. Miss Pearl Graham, Torbolton, had a narrow escape, only being brought around with difficulty.

The lives of the whole fifty persons were endangered, and had it not been for Mr. Foley Ottawa, and Mr. Mullin, Hull, two young members of the Victoria Yacht Club, it is more than probable that a score or more would have met their death by drowning. To these young men and to Mr. Armitage, Torbolton, who assisted them in pulling the rescued out of the water into a boat, many owe their lives.

At the time the accident occurred the pier was crowded with about 200 members of the Anglican Churches at Fitzroy Harbor and Torbolton, who were awaiting the arrival of the steamer G. B. Greene, which was to carry them back to their homes. The occasion of their visit to the park and to Ottawa was their annual excursion, held under the management of Rev. A.r. Ivison, rector of the two charges. The steamer was about to put into the dock at the Victoria Boat Club to take on the excursionists awaiting its arrival. Many of those waiting were engaged in watching young Foley and Mullin swimming and diving. At the sound of the steamer's whistle a half rush was made toward the end of the dock, when suddenly there was a sound of rending timbers, and in a moment those who were standing over the spot where the break occurred, were hurled into the water with great force.

The balance of the excursionists stood seemingly helpless. Not so with Foley and Mullin. In a trice the two young men were engaged in their work of rescue. Hastily sizing up the situation and seeing that they alone in the crowd had any thoughts of helping those in peril, they plunged into the lake and commenced to bring the women to the pier. One after another was pulled, hauled, or carried to the platform, raised up the side of the pier so that willing hands could bring them to the safety of the dock. With no thought to themselves they worked like beavers and never stopped until all were accounted for. Men stood watching them and did not offer a hand. Indeed, it seemed to be "save him who may."

In the water several incidents occurred that throws no heroic light on the men who were thrown in along with the women and children. One of the occurrences was of a particularly cowardly nature. Young Mullin had just pulled a woman out who was going down for the last time. Seeing another in a like predicament he asked one of the male passengers, who was clinging to the dock, to take charge of the first woman while he went to the help of the second. Mullin had no sooner turned than he heard the sound of a cry, looking around he saw the man strike the woman full in the face, sending her back into the water. Happily, however, Mullin was able to rescue both women, but in the hurry he lost track of the man who did the cowardly act.

Backing For C. N. R.

Montreal, July 7.—The presence of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann, together with Col. Davidson, in this city at the same time has given rise to much speculation, and some of the forecasts were verified yesterday when it was officially announced that the Canadian Northern has secured financial backing for the construction of the entire route from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It was also announced that within thirty months the railroad would enter Montreal by a tunnel and erect a magnificent central station.

Kicked to Death.

Toronto, July 7.—Although he had been warned against so doing, 14-year-old Eddie Harvey, 282 Dupont street, entered the back yard of the new Howland avenue fire hall at 11.20 yesterday morning and approached a horse tied there. He was so severely kicked by the animal that he died a short time after.

When the little fellow was found by the firemen, his left side was terribly injured. The horse had broken loose and either kicked or trampled him. An inquest will be held.

PUSHING TREATY.

Bryce and Knox Sign First Schedule In Pact.

Washington, July 7.—The principle of arbitration of international disputes, in so far as its application to the United States and Great Britain is concerned, received a pronounced impetus yesterday. Secretary of State Knox and Ambassador Bryce signed the first schedule of certain pecuniary claims existing between the United States and Great Britain and the terms of their submission to arbitration in accordance with the special agreement signed August 18 last.

Not satisfied with this accomplishment for one day, the Secretary and Ambassador then further lent their energies in the cause of international peace by conferring for an hour on the proposed general arbitration treaty, which is to supplant, by broadening its scope, the very convention under which the pecuniary claims will be arbitrated.

This conference was devoted to questions relating primarily to phraseology. It is admitted in official quarters that the treaty is all but completed, and the administration is confident it will be finished in time for submission to the Senate for ratification at the present session.

The pecuniary claims to be arbitrated aggregate several million dollars. Some of them are of long standing, even antedating the war of 1812, while many grew out of the war in the Philippines. Others relate to fisheries and the Fiji Islands.

Both the special agreement and the schedule of claims will now be submitted to the Senate for ratification. The special agreement commits the two Governments to the arbitration claims and provides the machinery of the arbitral tribunal, while the schedule is a list of claims believed to be legitimate and worthy of consideration.

Reorganizing Standard Oil.

New York, July 7.—It is reported here that within a short time plans for reorganizing the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey will be announced. The company it is said will undergo complete disintegration and that all subsidiaries that are charged with having combined and conspired to monopolize the oil trade will operate separately. The company may be split into fifteen or twenty parts and each will operate in its own territory independent of other companies. The control, however, will continue to be the same.

Stewart Sharpe Drowned.

Ottawa, July 7.—While bathing at Riverside Park a summer resort on the Ottawa, Stewart Sharpe, aged 16 was drowned last evening.

VETO BILL CHANGED

Important Amendment is Added by the Unionists Lords Who Are Warned by Lord Morley

THE ADDED CLAUSE

London, July 7.—The committee stage of the Parliament bill, otherwise known as the veto bill, for the curtailment of the powers of the Lords, was concluded in the House of Lords last night. Although numerous amendments and new clauses seeking to modify its provisions were proposed by members, these were all withdrawn or rejected.

The debate throughout displayed great restiveness on the part of the peers against their leaders and there were significant differences of opinion. Lord St. Aldwyn, who as Michael Edward Hicks-Beach, was Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1885, and again in 1895-1902, the financial leader on the Conservative side, more than once declined to vote with his party.

The House of Lords shows the greatest reluctance to yield its control of money bills. As the bill leaves the Lords, it commits to a joint committee of six members of the two Houses the power of deciding whether or not any bill is a money bill—a power which the Government bill reposes in the Speaker of the House of Commons alone.

Further, the same committee will have the virtual power of referring any important bill to a referendum of the people. The report stage has been fixed by the Lords for July 13, and when the bill goes back to the House of Commons, it is certain that these new clauses and amendments will be rejected en bloc. What course the House of Lords will then adopt is uncertain, but the strongest influences are being brought to bear from the strongest section of the Unionist party to persuade the leaders against forcing the Government to invoke the creation of 500 peers.

Lord Cromer and his fellow Unionist peers profess to fear that a money bill may pass the House of Commons with general legislation tacked on, and they declare that it is not a sufficient safeguard to leave the settlement of the question to the speaker.

Lord Morley of Blackburn said that he could not understand how members who had voted on a measure could be expected to consider it impartially afterwards. This clause, he declared, would destroy the entire structure of the Parliament bill and involve the incomplete betrayal of its objects. Therefore the Government would not consent to it.

After several peers had spoken in support of the new clause, it was adopted and added to the bill.

Heat Hastens Vote.

Washington, July 7.—A more general sentiment for expeditious action on the Canadian reciprocity agreement, wool revision and free list bills was apparent yesterday after informal conferences among various groups of Senators and six hours' of continuous debate in the superheated chamber of the Senate. It was the first of the longer sessions under the decision of the Senate to meet one hour earlier than usual in order to hasten action on the legislative program. Senator Grouna of North Dakota, an insurgent Republican, after a long speech in opposition to the agreement, during which he clashed frequently with the advocates of the measure, was forced to give up almost exhausted at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the Senate almost immediately afterwards adjourned.

The informal discussions among Senators indicated that the present feeling, doubtless influenced to some extent by the existing hot wave, is that debate may be brought to an end within ten days or a fortnight, and that when the reciprocity bill is passed, the Democrats will be willing to vote on the wool and free list bills without any extended debate, and adjourn almost immediately. The insurgent Republicans are still holding out, however, for other legislation.

May Need Special Election.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—City Solicitor McBurney goes to Toronto to-day to interview Master in Chambers Cartwright on the Homan case, the latter having been recently unseated from the council. McBurney will endeavor to ascertain whether or not it will be necessary to hold a special election to fill the vacancy on the aldermanic board.

Boatman's Body Recovered.

Sault Ste. Marie, July 7.—A body taken from the river two miles below the Soo Wednesday evening has been identified as that of John Sherwood, a local boatman, who met his death in the river last November, while bringing a party of Canadians, three of whom were drowned, to the Canadian side. It was rumored at the time of the accident that Sherwood had escaped and had left for parts unknown, fearing the consequences of his act. The body has been interred in the local cemetery at the expense of the city, as he had no relatives here.

No Fireworks Allowed.

Montreal, July 7.—The building inspector has been instructed to write to S. Letourneau, secretary of the Laurier demonstration committee to inform him that the use of firecrackers and other fireworks will not be permitted on the occasion of the welcome to be given the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, after returning from Great Britain. A little girl lost her eyesight through the last fireworks' display and the city had to pay heavy damages.

Motor Car Jumped Road.

Chatham, July 7.—Hilliard Braggs' new Ford motor car jumped the roadway on Wednesday night, out near the nineteenth concession on the gravel road. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Bragg and a boy, were thrown out, but fortunately all escaped without any serious injury. The machine was badly wrecked.

New Nationalist Club.

Montreal, July 7.—A Nationalist club, the object of which is to propagate the political doctrines of Henri Bourassa and F. D. Monk, has been formed in this city, with several hundred charter members. L. O. Maille is president and D. Aug Leine, secretary.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of than these glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

All Work including the Lens Grinding is done on the Premises and Fully Guaranteed.

"ONE WAY OUT"

By WILLIAM CARLETON

There wasn't a mother's son among them who didn't appreciate my position. There were a good many who knew Ruth and knew her through what she had done for their families and these understood it even better. The dirt began to fly and it was a pretty sight to watch. I never spoke again to the men. I simply directed their efforts. I spent about half the time with a shovel in my hands myself. There was scarcely a day when Ruth didn't come out to watch the work with an anxious eye, but after for anxiety. I think she would have liked to take a shovel herself. One Saturday Dick came out and actually insisted upon being allowed to do this. The man knew him and liked to see such spirit.

Well, we clipped ten days from my estimate, which left me with all my bills paid and with a handsome profit. Better still, I had secured on the strength of Carleton's gang another contract.

The night I deposited my profit in the bank, Ruth quite unconsciously took her pad and pencil and sat down by my side, as usual, to figure up the household expenses for the week. We had been a bit extravagant that week because she had been away from the house a good deal. The total came to four dollars and sixty-seven cents. When Ruth had finished I took the pad and pencil away from her and put it in my pocket.

"There's no use bothering your head any more over these details," I said.

She looked at me almost sadly.

"No, Billy," she said, with a sigh, "there isn't, is there?"

CHAPTER XIX.

Once Again a New Englander.

During all those years we had never seen or heard of any of our old neighbours. They had hardly ever entered our thoughts except as very occasionally the boy ran across one of his former playmates. Shortly after this, however, business took me out into the old enighbourhood and I was curious enough to make a few inquiries. There was no change. My trim little house stood just as it then stood and around it were the other trim little houses. There were a few new houses and a few new-comers, but all the old-timers were still there. I met Grover, who was just recovering from a long sickness. He didn't recognize me at first. I was tanned and had filled out a good deal.

"Why, yes," he said, after I had told my name. "Let me see, you went off to Australia or somewhere, didn't you, Carlton?"

"I emigrated," I answered.

He looked up eagerly.

"I remember now. It seems to have agreed with you."

"You're still with the leather firm?" I inquired.

He almost started at this unexpected question.

"Yes," he answered.

His eyes turned back to his trim little house, then to me as though he feared I was bringing him bad news.

"But I've been laid up for six weeks," he faltered.

I knew what was troubling him. He was wondering whether he would find his job when he got back. Poor devil! If he didn't what would become of his trim little house? Grover was older by five years than I had been when the axe fell.

I talked with him a few minutes. There had been a death or two in the neighbourhood and the children had grown up. That was the only change.

The sight of Grover made me uncomfortable, so I hurried about my business, eager to get home again.

God pity the poor? Bah! The poor are all right if by poor you mean the tenement dwellers. When you pray again pray God to pity the middle-class American on a salary. Pray that he may lose his job; pray that if he does it shall be when he is very young; pray that he may find the route to America. The tenement dwellers are safe enough. Pray—and pray hard—for the dwellers in the trim little houses of the suburbs.

I've had my ups and downs, my profits and losses since I entered business for myself, but I've come out at the end of each year well ahead of the game. I never made again as much in so short a time as I made on that first job. One reason is that as soon as I was solidly on my feet I started a profit-sharing scheme, dividing with the men what was made on every job over a certain per cent. Many of the original gang have left and gone into business for themselves of one sort and another, but each one when he went, picked a good man to take his place, and handed down to him the spirit of the gang.

Dick went through college and is now in my office. He's a hustler, and is going to make a good business man. But thank God he has a heart in him as well as brains. He hopes to make Carleton and Son" a big firm some day and he will. If he does, every man who faithfully and honestly handles his shovel will be part of the big firm. His idea isn't to make things easy for the men: it's to preserve the spirit they come over with and give them a share of the success due to that spirit.

We didn't move away from our dear, true friends until the other boy came. Then I bought two or three deserted farms outside the city—fifty acres in all. I bought them on time and at a bargain. I'm trying another experiment here. I want to see if the pioneer spirit won't bring even these worn-out acres to life. I find that some of my foreign neighbours made their old farms pay even though the good Americans who left them nearly starved to death. I have some cows and chickens and pigs, and am using every square foot of the soil for one purpose or another. We pretty nearly get our living from the farm now.

We entertain a good deal but we don't entertain our new neighbours. There isn't a week, summer, or winter that I don't have one or more families of Carleton's gang out here for a half holiday. It's the only way I can reconcile myself to having moved away from among them. Ruth keeps very closely in touch with them all and has any number of schemes to help them. Her pet one just now is for us to raise enough cows so that we can sell fresh milk at cost to those families which have kiddies.

Dan comes out to see us every now and then. He's making ten dollars to my one. He says he's going to be mayor of the city some day. I told him I'd do my best to prevent it. That didn't seem to worry him.

"If ye was an Irishmon, now," he said, "I'd be after sittin' up nights in fear of ye. But ye ain't."

I'm almost done. This has been a hard job for me. And yet it's been a pleasant job. It's always pleasant to talk about, Ruth. I found that even by taking away her pad and pencil I didn't accomplish much in the way of making her less busy. Even with three children to look after instead of one she does just as much planning about the housework. And we don't have sirloin steaks even now. We don't want them. Our daily fare doesn't vary much from what it was in the tenement.

Ruth just came in with Billy, Jr., in her arms and read over these last few paragraphs. She says she's glad I'm getting through with this because she doesn't know what I might tell about next. But there's nothing more to tell about except that to-day as at the beginning. Ruth is the biggest thing in my life. I can't wish any better luck for those trying to fight their way out than they may find for a partner half as good a wife as Ruth. I wouldn't be afraid to start all over again to-day with her by my side.

THE END.

When Blood Was Impure

The Old-fashioned Doctor Brought Relief by Bleeding

To-day We Keep the Blood Pure by Using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The doctor of a century or two ago was accustomed to free his patient of an excess of poisoned blood by the cruel process of bleeding.

We would not stand for that heroic treatment to-day, because we understand better the work of the liver and kidneys and how to awaken them to their duty of filtering poisons from the blood.

These are the only organs of the body which filter poisons from the blood, and so cleanse the system of the foul waste matter which causes pains, aches and dangerous diseases, and there is no way you can so quickly bring the liver and kidneys into action as by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Don't imagine that a liquid medicine is necessary to purify the blood. The supreme test is, "Does the treatment awaken the action of the liver and invigorate the kidneys?" Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique in their combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, and on this account wonderfully successful as a means of purifying the blood.

The whole digestive and excretory system is cleansed and invigorated by this treatment. The appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, and the tired, languid feelings of a poisoned system give way to new health and vigour. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

HOW UNCLE SAM LOOKS TO THE FEEDING OF HIS FAMILY

THE AMERICAN GOAT, A RIDICULED HERO

How Uncle Sam Is Experimenting in Order to Elevate the "Poor Man's Cow" to His Rightful Place as a Monarch of the Dairy

WITHIN the last few weeks the United States government has transferred a flock of thirty-eight pedigreed American goats from an experimental farm at Bethesda, Md., to an experimental farm of larger proportions and better facilities for breeding at Beltsville, Md. The significance of this move is that Uncle Sam has taken a keen interest in the "poor man's cow" and has drawn to the conclusion that it is no way deserves the ridicule that has been heaped upon it. Through the lowly goat he sees a chance not only to cheapen but to greatly improve the milk supply of the country and consequently improve the health and the prosperity of the people.

It was only a few years ago that Mr. Gilruth Pearson Thompson, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., published a bulletin on the Angora goat. He says himself:—

"Probably the highest compliment that was paid to that bulletin was by one of the celebrated papers devoted to humor in these words:—'The only funny thing about the book is that the author treats the subject seriously.'"

That in a measure indicates the difficulty under which the government goat experts are laboring. Their work is laughed at. The goat, especially the American goat, is somehow but popularly supposed to be good for anything but to eat tin cans in Casey's back yard and pose for comic paper artists.

But Uncle Sam has some mighty good reasons for undertaking to develop the American goat. Some of them are these:—

It is the unanimous opinion of milk experts that goat's milk is much better than cow's milk for invalids, children and cookery and nearly every other purpose.

Goats milk contains a much higher percentage of albumen and fat than cow's milk, and therefore is of more nutritive value.

It is more digestible than cow's milk.

It can be had the milk is absolutely free at all times from the germs of tuberculosis.

Cheese made from goat's milk is of the choicest variety and commands the highest prices, as for instance, Roquefort, Schweitzer, Ricotta, Altenberger, Fromage de St. Marcellin, St. Claude, Cheverotin, all famous European cheeses.

A goat is much less expensive than a cow to keep as well as to purchase in the first place.

Any one with a small back yard, who desires the purest and most wholesome milk, guaranteed to be free from disease, can keep his own goat, which will easily supply a small family at a low figure and with a minimum of labor.

With a fine disregard for the antics of the fun makers, the government experts are going right ahead with their work of trying to produce by selective breeding a good type of American milch goat from the common stock that is to be found scattered here and there over the country. When this has been accomplished these goats will be raised in large quantities and distributed to the various experiment stations in every State, which will in turn sell them or give them to the farmers and endeavor to interest the people in the serious side of goat keeping.

In the opinion of Uncle Sam's animal breeders it will not be long before the goat industry will be as important in this country as it is in Germany and Switzerland, which are ahead of the United States in many ways. Goat dairies will become nearly as common as cow dairies; fewer babies will die for want of proper nourishment, and the same will be true of invalids; and the American dairymen will get the big prices that are now going to foreigners for special brands of cheese.

The most natural question and the one that is always asked when a person learns that the government is going to develop an American milch goat is, "Why doesn't it import the best milch goats from Europe?" The answer is very simple. They have been imported, and in every instance they have brought with them some sort of disease, such as the foot and mouth disease that has attacked American cattle in the past. Rather than run any more chances, it has been decided to go to work with the domestic goat and make an aristocrat out of him.

Making Him a Hero.

So far the breeding on the Bethesda farm in Maryland, which has been transferred to the Beltsville farm in order that the work may be pursued to greater advantage, has been encouraging, but not so encouraging as the breeders desire. A very fine quality of milk is now being given by the does of the flock. The percentage of butter fat when it was last analyzed ran from 4.6 to 6.9. The butter fat in the average cow's milk is only 3 per cent. The quantity, however, is not so good. They have been giving only about a quart a day.

American Milch Goats, Photographed in Iowa

Still, too much cannot be expected in the two or three years that the work has been going on. It must be remembered that the parents of these goats were nothing but poor lowly creatures, with no great reputation for milking, picked up in various places in the South, mostly in Alabama.

"Give me time," says Uncle Sam, "and I'll make the goat a hero."

Milch goats are a prominent feature of the live stock industry of Europe, especially in Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Austria, France, Norway and Spain. They are peculiarly adapted to the needs of the poorer classes of those countries, and to a large extent it is this adaptability which, in the opinion of the government, recommends them for many localities in this country. This is so because milk, which is food and drink to all mankind, is furnished by the goat in cheap form, because for most purposes its quality is superior to cow's milk, and also because the yield of milk, when the size of the animal and the amount of food are considered, is much greater than that of the cow.

Only a very rough estimate can be made of the number of goats in the world. German writers on milch goats have estimated that there were about three millions of them in Germany in 1892. As there was an increase shown for every decade from 1873, it is probable that the number is considerably augmented at the present time. One writer places the value of the German milch goats in 1892 at $11,900,000, the value of the milk product at $35,700,000; value of kids slaughtered, $1,785,000; value of the goats slaughtered, $1,547,000, and the total at $50,932,000.

That is certainly not an industry to be laughed down. It appears that the milch goat industry in Germany alone is worth annually about $88,000,000 to her citizens, after the value of the foundation flocks is deducted. For the whole of Europe the value of this industry must reach enormous proportions. With the vast extent of the United States there is no estimating the length to which the milch goat industry might not go with profit to our people. The production of goat's milk in Switzerland in 1901 was officially stated to be 19,875,000 gallons. At an estimated value of ten cents a quart this equals nearly $8,000,000. The number of goats there of both sexes and all ages for that year was 354,534, which was 126,000 more than the number of sheep.

Although Switzerland is peculiarly adapted to goat raising it should be remembered in making comparisons and estimates that her total area is about 16,000 square miles and that much of it is mountain tops unavailable for any use. Indiana is more than twice as large as Switzerland, and Texas has an area more than sixteen times as great. All this shows that the goat business of that little republic is of great importance.

At present the situation regarding the milch goat industry in the United States is confined largely to an awakening of interest. The government hopes that before very long it will have passed beyond that stage and that more interest will become practical. Every month inquiries are reaching the Department of Agriculture concerning the milch goat, and they are becoming more and more numerous. Many persons have asked where they could purchase a good milch goat, and physicians have suggested over and over again that steps be taken to establish goat dairies in the large cities.

There are many sanitariums in France and Switzerland where goat's milk is advertised as a prominent feature of the treatment. In these places the milk is the principal food used, boiling, and the patients are encouraged to drink as much of it raw as they can. The reports that come from such institutions are very flattering to the medical worth of goat's milk. The milk is especially recommended for infants, because of its similarity to mother's milk, and medical literature is full of instances of success attending the use of goat's milk with children who previous to its use were rapidly wasting away. It is interesting to note that of all domestic animals the goat is the best foster mother. She will adopt infants, calves, lambs, colts or pigs.

Quality of Goat Milk.

The color of the milk is nearly always pure white. When a doe is "fresh," or has recently "kidded," there are rare instances when the milk is highly tinged with yellow. The leading characteristic of the milk is the small size of the fat globules. They are so small that very little cream rises. Some persons say that it does not keep as well as cow's milk, but experiments made in this country tend to disprove this idea. There appears to be no reason why it should "change" sooner than cow's milk.

"How much milk will a goat give?" That is one of the first questions that is always asked about a milch goat. While this cannot be answered definitely, it can be said that if a doe yields less than a quart a day it is not considered profitable to keep her. If she yields two quarts a day she may be regarded as profitable. German literature is full of instances of goats that yield four and five quarts a day, and the average yield in Germany and Switzerland is probably about three quarts daily. Many goats yield eight times the weight of their bodies annually in milk, and exceptional animals as much as ten times their weight.

While there is a natural taste to goat's milk that enables one to distinguish it from cow's milk, it is by no means an unpleasant taste. If there is any ill flavor to goat's milk it is always due, as it is with a cow's milk, to the character of the feeding and the surroundings, as milk very quickly absorbs outside odors and tastes.

Probably the only way in which goat's milk is not better than cow's milk is in its butter making qualities. In the Orient, especially in Syria, goat's butter is frequently, though not extensively, used. It is so served to American and European travellers there, and they find it very disagreeable. The reason for this, however, is largely due to the way in which it is made. As the cream rises slowly the milk is allowed to stand a long time and becomes sour before the churning, and no care is exercised in keeping it pure and clean. When made under sanitary conditions no taste is pleasant and it is soft and white, but it is generally considered to be inferior to cow's butter.

Goats can be raised to advantage in practically every section of the United States, it is believed. They require a dry soil and their butter a cool, dry climate, but these are not essentials to any means. They eat almost anything and are very inexpensive to keep on that account. What is more, the goat is a very lively animal, although he must have something to eat besides colored posters and tin cans in order to keep him from starving to death. The average length of life of a goat is twelve years.

Milch goats are very hard to purchase in this country, not because they are high priced, but because it is difficult to find them. Thousands of inquiries have reached the Bureau of Animal Industry in the last few years on this question and no definite reply has been given. In most instances the seekers have been referred to the suburbs of large cities. This is the reason that the government is taking such a lively interest in the question. It is determined that in a few years there will be places where milch goats may be had when they are needed or desired.

"The American goat" is the name which has been suggested for the breed that is supposed to develop by selection from the so-called common goats of this country. Where these goats came from in the first place is not known, but as most of them are found in the Southern States it is supposed by some people that they were originally brought over by the Spanish settlers. It is known that among these common goats there are often found some excellent milkers. Some of these good milkers are said to have been brought over as young kids in baskets by Italian immigrants. Others are said to have come from Bermuda.

It is these good milkers that are being selected as the foundation for the American breed. The best milkers of every generation are to be bred again, in the expectation that the milking qualities will be transmitted and accentuated until a real good thoroughbred American milker will have been evolved.

HOW THEY DESIGNATED HER.

THE butcher's boy was such a bright little chap that the woman engaged him in conversation while writing out her order.

"You have all the trade of this house, haven't you?" she asked.

"Yes'm."

"And do you call for all the orders the same as here?"

"Yes'm."

"And I suppose you go to other buildings, too?"

"Yes'm; lots of 'em."

The woman looked at him admiringly.

"Dear me," she said; "what a splendid head you must have to remember so many things. Don't you get people mixed sometimes?"

"No, ma'am," he said. "I need to," he added, warming into speech under her genial smile, "but I don't any more. Anyhow I'd never get mixed about the families in this house. I know 'em too well. Why, I know 'em so well that when the boss tells me to come over here he don't even call the families by name. He says, 'We got this building down fine, because there is so much music going on. The first floor folks has a piano, and when the boss sends me to them he says, 'Jiminy, go and see what the piano wants now.' The second floor is the cornet, the third floor the fifth the banjo. Even the folks in the basement is in for music. The boy down there plays the organ."

The woman smiled still more broadly.

"What a confusion of sounds," she said to herself. "We have no musical instrument at all. What does the boss say when he sends you to us?"

"Oh, we fix that all right," was the airy reply. "He says, 'Just drop in, Jimmy, and see what that woman with the foghorn voice wants to-day.'"

And that ended the conversation.

HINTS TO THE TRAVELLER

IF you are going to keep a journal of your summer holidays the most convenient form is the leather holder with metal rings, which permits of the insertion of leaves at will, and if one is spoiled it can be conveniently removed and another substituted. If your travels are prolonged or the notes very full the leaves, which should always be numbered, may be removed and put away until the end of the holiday, when they may be bound with suitable photographs, post cards, programmes and other souvenirs of the journey, making a volume of permanent value.

Itineraries may be arranged in similar manner, but should be only about half as large for convenience in carrying about. Sheets, about three by five inches, in a slightly larger leather case, are a good size. Leave a margin for notes and write only on one side of the paper. In jotting down the names of places and the dates on which they are to be visited, add a few words indicating their most interesting feature and put down boat or train time and persons to be seen.

As the journey progresses the leaves may be removed, as in the diary, and should be preserved to refresh the memory later.

One can hardly have too many bags to put in one's trunks in travelling. Among the highly useful ones are simple cotton bags with a draw string, each large enough to hold one shoe, so that they may not rub upon each other.

There are innumerable cases for pins, buttons and sewing materials, but one of the best in its convenience and economy of space is made by facing a piece of pretty, flowered silk, about three by ten inches, with white eiderdown flannel, for plain, fancy and safety pins of various sizes, and finishing at the end with a little bag, in which the necessary sewing materials, including scissors, with a cork shield on the tip, are kept. The bag is closed with a ribbon draw string, and the whole case may then be rolled up and tied with a similar ribbon.

HER PHOTOGRAPHIC MONITOR.

"ABOVE my desk," said the woman who does not like about her age, "I keep an uncomplimentary photograph of myself. I keep it there as a disciplinary measure. My present photographic monitor makes me look about seventy years old. I am not seventy, but I am more than half that age and I look every day of my actual age. But I don't feel that old. Gay and giddy exploits still attract me. Pleasures, diversions, flirtations that for a young girl are perfectly legitimate appeal to me also, yet if I should rush into those gayeties as a girl does my behavior would be characterized as foolishness. Every day I hear the actions of women younger looking than myself so described.

"Then I come home and study this photograph. That destroys whatever inclinations I may have had to behave like a sixteen-year-old. I never write a letter to a man friend—I never make an engagement without keeping an eye on that photograph.

"'Don't be a fool,' says that veracious guide. 'You can't afford to do that. You look too old.'

"So I temper ardent phrases and tone down ebullient spirits generally."

HASTINGS NEWS

HASTINGS, JULY 4.—A very pretty June wedding was celebrated on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Thomson, when their only daughter, Mattie, became the bride of Mr. Robt. Oakman of town. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. D. A. Thomson, in the presence of a number of the relatives of the contracting parties. Promptly at 3.30 the bride made her appearance, leaning on the arm of her father, and took her place under a beautiful arch decorated with wedding bells and roses. She was handsomely gowned in cream duchess satin, with bridal veil, and carried an exquisite bouquet of white roses. At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony the young couple received the congratulations of their friends, then led the way to the dining room, where a dainty luncheon was served and much enjoyed. The gifts were numerous and costly, showing the esteem in which the bride was held by her friends. The happy couple left on the evening train, for a short honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a costume of navy blue, and pale blue hat On their return they will take up residence in Hastings.

On the same day a similar event transpired at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Beamish, when their daughter, Aggie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John Collins of Otonabee, the Rev. Wm. Burns officiating. A large number of guests were present to do honour to the occasion, and a great many beautiful and useful presents were presented to the happy bride, as reminders of the auspicious event. MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 6.—A sudden collapse in prices to-day came as an immediate result of an end of the heat and drought. Corn led the downfall, closing with a net loss of 2 1-8c to 3c. Oats made a close second, finishing 1 1-4c to 2 1-8c down. Wheat was 1 1-8c and 1 1-4c to 1 3-8c lower than last night, while provisions, too, scored a decline of a nickel to 25c. Corn sharply reversed the action of yesterday and closed at almost the bottom figures of the session. During the session Sept. ranged from 62 3-4c to 65c, closing fairly steady at 64 1-8c, a net loss of 2 5-8c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ½d to ¾d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ¼d lower on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged, Berlin ½c lower, Buda Pest ½c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 6.—A fair amount of business was worked in low grade Manitoba spring wheat over the cable, but the prices bid for No. 2 northern were 1½d lower than yesterday at 20s 6d. The trade in oats for export account was quiet, and the only business of importance reported on spot was a sale of 10,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian western at 47½c per bushel afloat July shipment. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour was moderate, and all the offers sent out last night at advanced prices were accepted, and orders were received for winter wheat flour, but the prices bid were 6d per sack under what sellers are asking. Local trade is fairly good, and prices steady. A local feeling has developed in the market for Ontario and Manitoba bran, and prices have declined $2 per ton, and shorts are also $1 lower.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 6.—The railways reported 55 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 574 cattle, 1445 hogs, 416 sheep and lambs and 140 calves.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought for the Harris Abattoir Co., 833 cattle, on Wednesday and Thursday as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.30 to $5.90; a few heavy cattle, at $5.80 to $5; cows at $3 to $4.90; common cows, $3.50 to $3.90; bulls, $3 to $4.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stock and feeding cattle market was stagnant. Lack of good pasturage in many sections, and the desire of those who have the grass to hold on to their money believing that the bottom has not yet been struck is keeping the country demand down to small proportions, and prices are down to much the most attractive level for many months. Sellers had to force the trade to take hold at prices that are from 75c to $1 per cwt. less than were current about a month ago.

Milkers and Springers.

During the week there has been a fair supply of medium to good cows, but not enough of the high grade toppers. Prices have ranged from $40 to $65, and $70 to $75 for a very few choice cows.

Veal Calves.

Receipts moderate, prices steady to firm, at $4 to $7.50 per cwt. with an odd one or two extra quality at $8.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn quoted prices as follows: Heavy ewes and rams, $2.50 to $3.25; light handy ewes, $3.50 to $4.50, and yearlings at $5 per cwt. in a few instances, lambs, $7 to $8 per cwt.

Hogs.

The hog market was weak at $7.10 for selects fed and watered, and $6.75 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 6.—Cattle—Receipts 250 head; market dull and steady; prime steers, $6.60 to $6.75; butcher grades, $5 to $6.45.

Calves—Receipts 75 head. Market active and firm. Cull to choice, $5 to $8.50.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 1600 head; market active and steady; choice lambs, $7.40 to $7.50; cull to fair, $7 to $7.20; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.75; sheep, $2 to $4.75.

Goods began to change hands at 11⅝c, but 11¾c was soon offered and this was the prevailing figure. Cowansville sold lots, however, secured 11¾c. On the street 11¾c also ruled and the total transactions, curb and board, reached a total of about 7000 boxes.

FORTY ARE DEAD.

Heat Wave In Toronto Exacts Heavy Toll of Lives.

Toronto, July 7.—The heat wave is on its way west. Quebec and Ontario last night bid it good-bie. The weather man said that its next stop would likely be Manitoba and Alberta. During the last few days it has been quite cool in the west, Calgary having been only four points above freezing.

The prolonged previous dry spell in Ontario made the heat harder to bear. Added to this was the usual Ontario humidity. Had the atmosphere been dry like the western air, the heat would not have been nearly so oppressive.

The death toll in Toronto has now reached over 40, and possibly more have died indirectly. Yesterday thirteen out of twenty death registrations at the city hall were caused by the heat. The total number of registrations since Saturday is almost double that of the same period of last year, and judging from this, it is not at all unlikely that many deaths, while not being attributed to the heat, may have been hastened by it.

New York Still Torrid.

New York, July 7.—Showers last night brought measurable relief to New York from the hot wave which has taken more than 180 lives and caused hundreds of prostrations during the five days it has hung over this city. Until the shower area began to develop locally, shortly after eight o'clock last evening there had been no sign of a letup in the intensity of the wave. Indeed the day's maximum of 95 bettered Wednesday's high mark by half a degree. All that made conditions in any way endurable was a brisk breeze.

Stricken horses were to be seen every few blocks. One driver went mad on his seat and had to be restrained and forcibly taken to a hospital.

England Also Warm.

London, July 7.—England is experiencing a hot wave also, which, however, according to meteorologists has no connection with the American heat wave. The temperature in London yesterday was 83 in the shade—the hottest in two years and the high temperature is driving the people by the wholesale to the seashore.

Motor Cylist Hurt.

Chatham, July 7.—Murray Hogarth had an unfortunate experience yesterday morning, when motoring in town on his motor cycle on the river road Harwich. A horse hitched to a wagon was being driven by a man who was going in the same direction. When it heard the cycle come up suddenly from behind it became frightened and dashed right into the cyclist, knocking him down into the side ditch and damaging the motor cycle considerably. Hogarth was badly injured.

Vessels Destroyed Crib Work.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 7.—Siroux and Collins, who have the Government contract for crib work at the upper approach to the canal, complain of delay in operations through the cribs being destroyed by vessel downward bound. Five times this season cribs have been badly damaged, four times by American vessels and once by a Canadian.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Ten acres of Jackson Park at Galt has been sold to manufacturers.

Mr. G. H. Bolton of Toronto was run into by his own automobile and injured.

The body of a murdered infant was found in a pew in St. James' Church, Montreal.

Jerome Cronk, an inmate of the House of Refuge at Belleville, was found hanging in the barn.

Contracts for the construction of the Canadian Northern Vancouver to Kamloops line have been let, and work will begin this fall.

The fire loss at Maxville will amount to $100,000. The Grand Trunk station, five box-cars and several large business establishments were burned.

The honey crop in Kent, Lambton and Essex this year is the smallest in twenty years. Climatic conditions are for the most part the cause of the shortage.

W. J. Gerald of the Inland Revenue Department has reported, regarding complaints made against the Gas company in Toronto, that the meters are correct, and the quality of the gas up to standard.

Fire of a mysterious origin last night destroyed the grand-stands at the Winnipeg Exhibition Grounds. The loss is estimated at $70,000, which is partically covered by insurance. A thousand men were put to work clearing the ground, and at noon five hundred carpenters got busy on the new structure.

Will Receive Increase.

Montreal, July 7.—When the workmen at the Angus shops of the C.P.R. get their next pay checks they will find them considerably augmented, as the company has decided to grant an all-round increase to its employes.

The schedule is practically completed and affects all departments except the office staff. It gives increases to all the mechanics and their helpers, ranging from half a cent to three cents an hour, and takes immediate effect.

His Ear Torn Off.

Chatham, Ont., July 7.—William Dunford, St. Clair, an employe of the Manson Campbell Co., while unloading a car of lumber late yesterday afternoon, fell off the car and sustained several serious injuries. His left ear was torn off and his head was badly bruised.

Fish Dying by Thousands.

Chatham, Ont., July 7.—The fish in Lake Erie are dying by the thousands, and are daily being washed up on the shores. Along the lake front near Erie Beach and Erieau people are burying dead pickerel, bass, and herring by the ton. No reason can be assigned for this remarkable slaughter of the finny tribe.

Will Be Extradited.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—Arrangements are being made to bring Antonio Vescio, wanted in Winnipeg for murdering a fellow-countrymen on Oct. 30, 1910 back to Canada. Pending completion of arrangements he is held in Buffalo. The Canadian Government offered $500 reward for his arrest.

$10 FINE FOR "INDIAN" IN POLICE COURT

Blacklister is Mulcted a Ten Spot For Having Been Drunk—Wouldn't Tell Where He Got His Liquor

OTHER CASES TO-DAY

A local man was fined $2.00 and costs in the Police Court this morning for being drunk in a public place. The total amount was $4.60.

A man named Peter Hill, who stated that he came from Sudbury, was arraigned on a charge of being drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty. The magistrate let him go, however, as the prisoner wanted to go to Campbellford, and made arrangements for an officer to escort him to the train. Hill stated that he had $20.00 with him when he came to the city, but when his wad was counted in court, he had only $12.75.

Another local man, a blacklister, was fined $10.00 for being drunk. He stated that he had had no liquor for a year, and he denied knowing where he got the liquor that made him drunk this time.

KEENE MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN STOPPING A RUNAWAY TEAM

Mr. Geo. Gall, Central Figure in a Sensational Incident at Corner of Simcoe and George Streets To-day—Dragged Some Distance

WAS A WILD DASH

Mr. Geo. Gall of Keene, had a narrow escape from being badly injured, if not killed, at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, shortly before noon to-day, in making a plucky and effective attempt to stop a runaway team. Fortunately, he escaped with a bad shaking up, and the ruin of his clothes, but to the many eye-witnesses of the event it looked as if he was going to be killed.

The team attached to Mr. I. Noble's express rig, standing at the C. P. R. station, startled by the whistle of the noon C. P. R. express, suddenly bolted, and tore up George street at a mad clip, the light rig swaying from side to side behind the wildly running horses. Near the corner of Charlotte street the rig struck the bus of the Oriental Hotel a glancing blow, shunting it to one side, but doing no damage. A street car was standing at the corner of Charlotte and George street, and an aged man boarding the car, had a very narrow escape, the horses brushing him as they swung past the step of the car, and continued their wild race. As they passed Warne's drug store Mr. Gall, who was inside at the time, rushed out to try to stop them. He saw there was no chance there and running up to the corner of Simcoe street, he grabbed the reins as the frightened team dashed round the street, was pulled off his feet and dragged for fifteen feet in the dust, but pluckily held on and swung the team into the sidewalk, where they fell. To the spectators it looked as if the man was going to be crushed beneath the horses, but luckily they fell clear of him and he escaped with a bad shaking up. His coat was torn to shreds and totally ruined by the dragging along the road. The horses were unhurt and the vehicle escaped with a broken pole.

FAVOURED THE SMALL INVESTOR

The success of the Canadian Locomotive stock flotation was most remarkable. So many subscriptions were received for the stock that it has been found necessary to make a proportionate allottment. All subscribers to shares of from 1 to 10 will have them allotted in full. Those who have subscribed to 11 to 30 shares will receive 50 p.c. All subscribers to 31 and over will be given about 25 p.c.

This indicates that the public looked upon the issue as a very safe avertment and the result is most gratifying alike to the company and to Aemilius Jarvis & Company who made the flotation.

FIELDING ON THE WAY

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, JULY 7—Hon. Mr. Fielding sailed for Canada to-day.

BIG CROWDS AT THE ROYAL

Great crowds of people visited the Royal theatre yesterday to see the wonderful picture of the greatest event in modern times, viz. "The Coronation of His Majesty King George V." and it is needless to say that one and all went away highly delighted with what they had seen, and many were the promises made to return and see it again to-day. The picture is quite an education in itself and no one should miss the opportunity of seeing it to-day or to-morrow, when it will be shown for the last time in Peterborough.

WHAT BABIES WOULD SAY IF THEY COULD PROPERLY EXPRESS THEIR FEELINGS

Dr. Shirreff, medical health officer of Ottawa, is sending the following circular to every home or institution in the city where a birth occurs. It represents what the baby would say if it could talk, and is as follows:

1. Please let me sleep in a cot all to myself and keep my nursery window open.
2. Please nurse me yourself (as God meant you to) till I am nine months old.
3. Please feed me regularly, let me sleep all I want, and don't stick pins into my clothes, and then I promise not to cry.
4. Please scald or sterilize Dairy Milk before giving it to me to drink, and remember to cleanse and scald my bottle every time I use it.
5. Please don't give me artificial feeds unless ordered by Doctor, or scraps of anything left over by the "grown-ups," or I am afraid I shall be very ill.
6. Please let me have loose clothes, as I love to move my arms and kick my legs quite a lot.
7. Please give me a bath every day and let me splash about as much as I like.
8. Please let me be out in the open air all you can. I love to sleep out in my "Pram."
9. Please don't let lots of stupid "grown-ups" kiss and dandle me; it makes me so cross. All I want is to nurse my Golliwog and "play bears" with Daddy.
10. Please give me lots of fun with other little boys and girls; when I am bigger tell me all the things every boy and girl should know, and don't let me hear about them first from horrid big boys and girls whom I am sure to meet some time soon.

Signed,

MILLIONAIRE STOKES TELLS SENSATIONAL STORY IN REGARD TO SHOOTING EPISODE

Says That Girls Tried to Make Him Retract Statements and to Write Out a Cheque in Their Favour for $25,000—When He Refused He Alleges the Girls Blazed Away at Him and He Was Wounded—Then They Called for Police—Investigation Was Commenced.

Special to The Examiner

NEW YORK, JULY 6.—That a demand that he retract statements affecting the honour of Lillian Graham's mother and her two sisters was changed to a blackmailing demand for $25,000, and that when he refused to be "bled" the Graham girl and Ethel Conrad deliberately tried to murder him, was the sworn statement made in the Police Court today by W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire, hotel proprietor and sportsman.

When the two chorus girls faced their accuser in Magistrate Freschi's court there was plenty of sensational evidence from the start. Despite the extreme heat, the police reserves had to be called to control the crowd that wanted to hear the story of the millionaire and his two charmers.

Both girls daintily garbed in white, sat directly in front of Stokes, and listened scornfully as he pictured the events that happened in the apartment at 225 West Eighth street on the night of June 7.

"On that afternoon I received a 'phone message from Ethel Conrad," said Stokes. "She told me that Lillian Graham had sailed for Europe on the Baltic and had left a package of letters I had written her to be turned over to me. She asked me if I would come up for the letters, or if I would send for them. I told her I would come at six.

Went to Get Letters.

"I got to the apartment at the hour named, and the elevator boy told me to walk right in. Inside the door Miss Conrad was standing, and told me to sit down until she could go and get the letters.

"I heard her talking with some one else in the other room. A few minutes later I was surprised to see Lillian Graham coming down the hall. She had a revolver in her hand. As she jumped through the door she yelled: "I have you where I want you now, you ——

"You have told it all over New York that my mother ran an improper house in Seattle, that my sister was an inmate of another in Cincinnati; that my sister, Mrs. John Singleton, ran one in Los Angeles, and that I was a bad woman. Over there is a desk and a pen and ink. You get over there and sign a retraction and if you move I will certainly kill you.

Threatened With Death.

"I looked at her in amazement as I had never said anything like that to any one. Then the Conrad female came in and said: "Now you do as we tell you and you will be all right, otherwise you will be killed.'

"I told them that I was not afraid of them or of their pistol, and Conrad said: 'Well, we will make you afraid. You won't be the first man that has been killed in a New York flat. We can kill you and get away with your body and no one will be any the wiser.'"

As he accused the girls, the voice of the millionaire was raised almost to a shout, and he gazed straight at them. Neither flinched.

"The girls wrangled over what I was to write," continued Stokes, "and I finally interrupted them to tell them emphatically that they could shoot as soon as they pleased, that I had no intention of writing anything.

"I tried to talk them out of their mood, and reminded the Graham woman that I had given her thirty dollars once, two hundred another time, and fifteen only a few days before, and that she had promised to return to me eighteen letters I had written her. I also warned her that I did not like the way she was trying to double cross me.

Demanded $25,000.

"I will sign nothing, as I have not made any such absurd statements," I told them, and then the Conrad woman broke in. 'Yes, you will, and now you will sit down there and draw up a check for $25,000; get a gait on you.'

"I told her I preferred to be killed to giving up money in that way, and warned them I would have them arrested if they persisted. "Oh, no, you won't,' yelled Conrad, 'you see we have it all fixed up. If you won't give us this money we will just kill you. Then I will swear you tried to assault me and I killed you, and I guess there won't be any twelve men found who will blame me for what I did.'

"'I won't give you a cent; I'd sooner be killed,' I told them, and then the Graham woman stepped back and began snapping the trigger of the revolver. The first two times nothing happened, and then I saw a flash and stinging pain in my leg. As she shot again I jumped and grabbed her. We fought across the room to the door, she yelling: 'Ethel get your gun, you said if I didn't kill him you would.'

Called for Police.

"I saw Conrad open the door of a cabinet and get a gun out. She fired and hit me in the ankle. Then I pulled the other woman around in front of me. As I did so Conrad ran to the front window, yelling: 'Police! Murder! Help!' I told her she could not get the police there quick enough to suit me, and she stopped yelling and came back at me just as I managed to open the door into the hall. We rolled through the door, both of them fighting me, and then the door snapped.

"Why don't you shoot!" yelled Graham, as I pulled myself free of them. "How can I when the door is shut and locked?" was the answer and then I saw I was safe. A bunch of Japanese ran out of an adjoining apartment and began to beat me, but just then the police arrived and all hands were arrested."

BOARD OF WORKS AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING DECIDE TO PURCHASE NEW PUMPING ENGINE

At a meeting of the Board of Works, held last night, it was moved by Ald. Graham, and seconded by Ald. Brown, that the Smart, Turner Machine Company's pumping engine be purchased. There were several tenders—one from the Fairbanks Co., for $466.00, and the one accepted, from the Smart, Turner Machine Co., for $216.85, f.o.b., Hamilton.

A communication was received from Mr. Chipman, also one from the City Engineer, advising the purchasing of the Smart Turner Pump, and the Board acted upon their advice.

There were present at the meeting Ald. Metheral, Chairman; Alderman Graham and Brown, and the Mayor.

The application from the Wm. Hamilton Co., asking to be allowed to lay a pipe on Reid street, was reported on by the City Engineer, who had no objections to the request being granted. The company will, therefore, be granted the privilege of putting in a pipe from their machine shop to the foundry.

A communication was read from the Bell Telephone Co., asking that they be given permission to open up certain streets to put lines on. The City Engineer will report on it.

Residents in the neighbourhood of the corner of Wellar and Walton Sts., asked that a catch basin be installed at the corner of the above streets. The matter was left with the chairman with power to act.

A few communications were then dealt with. The Engineer will be instructed to report on the sidewalk on Park street, from Bolivar to the C. G. E.

The Engineer will be requested to make an estimate on the walks that will be needed for next year, as soon as possible.

The matter of extending the storm water drain on George street north from Simcoe, on the east side, was left in the hands of the Chairman and the Engineer.

A communication was received from freeholders owning property on Chambers street, asking that that street be paved. It was moved by Ald. Graham and seconded by Ald. Brown, that the Engineer be instructed to report on the matter. The asphalt will be 2 1-2 inches thick. It was suggested that a representative of the Board visit Lindsay, and inspect the work there, but no action was taken.

MAGDALEN COLLEGE PROVED TOO MUCH FOR THE CANADIAN CREW TO-DAY

Present Holders of the Grand Challenge Cup Defeated Ottawas in Classic Event at Henley To-day.

CANUCKS CHEERED

Special Wire to The Examiner.

HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, ENG. JULY 7.—The Ottawa eight, which won such a sensational and well-merited victory over the Belgian crew of Ghent yesterday in the Grand Challenge Cup, and were conceded to have a splendid chance of carrying off the coveted event, were forced to concede a victory this morning in the semi-finals, to the Magdalen College crew, the present holders of the trophy, and with this defeat are now out of the running. The Canucks rowed a splendid race, but the College crew were their superiors, their experience and familiarity with the course standing them in good stead. The Canadians were roundly cheered for their plucky showing, and a win would have been popular, although, of course, no one begrudges the crack college crew their win.

STRIKERS' PICKETS ARRESTED

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, JULY 7.— Nine striking garment makers arrested when acting as pickets, were fined by the police magistrate to-day ten dollars each for disorderly conduct. Detectives said they had stood in a group at the door and said, "Had better not go up there to work."

LOCAL MAN DROWNED

COBOURG, JULY 6.—A young man named W. J. Cook, a moulder, whose former home was near Stirling Ont., where his father resides, was noticed about the lake-front yesterday afternoon, and was last seen about 10 p.m. This morning Mr. Albert Stott discovered his lifeless body in the water near one of the boathouses. It was recovered, but he had been dead some time. Coroner Elliott viewed the remains and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains will be taken to Stirling by his father for interement. Cook had only been in town a short time, and had been living in Peterborough.—Globe.

The late Mr. Cook was well known here, having lived here for a considerable length of time. He was employed at Wm. Hamilton's as a moulder, and boarded at 346 Aylmer St. He left Peterborough on Tuesday night for Cobourg and has not been seen here since.

That better position, with better pay and shorter hours, may require better qualifications. Moon College has delivered thousands from bondage.

J. W. GATES IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Special to The Examiner.

PARIS, JULY 7.— John W. Gates, the American financier, is dangerously ill here. It is feared that his son, who is crossing the Atlantic, will not reach his bedside in time.

CORONATION PICTURES HAVE ARRIVED

The pictures depicting all the glorious splendour of the Coronation ceremony have arrived in Peterborough and were shown at the Royal Theatre for the first time last night. The pictures are the finest that have been seen here for some time. The rest of the performance is fully up to the Royal's standard of excellence and no doubt a large number will to-night avail themselves of the excellent opportunity to see the first pictures of the Coronation proceedings that have arrived in the country.

'ADVENTURE" EXAMINER'S NEW STORY

Fascinating Story From the Pen of Jack London will be the Next Offering in This Paper's List of Serial Hits

STARTS NEXT WEEK

The Examiner is pleased to be able to announce that the next offering in its list of serial hits will be Jack London's latest and most interesting story "Adventure," which the Examiner has no hesitation in pronouncing the most fascinating yarn this paper has given its readers in a long time. Every one who reads fiction is acquainted with Mr. London's earlier books, "The Sea Wolf," "Burning Daylight," "The Call of the Wild" and his host of stirring short stories, and it is perhaps only necessary to say of "Adventure" that it is told with such intense dramatic vigour and with such an effective audacity of phrase that it almost seems as if the author's appeal was to the bodily eye as much as to the inner mentality and that the events are actually happening before the reader. It is clear-cut, sharp, incisive, told in Mr. London's best vein and no better index to its contents could be given them than its title, "Adventure" will commence in the Examiner next week. By all means, do not miss this absorbing yarn of adventure and romance in the South Seas.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

A sad fatality occurred at Somerville Wednesday afternoon when Stephen Demond, of Norland, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Deceased resides about five miles out of Norland and was over helping his son draw in hay when the accident happened.

Mr. Demond was in the field and was hurrying with the work as he was afraid of the storm breaking, when about four o'clock the lightning struck him.

Deceased was well known in the vicinity and his demise came as a shock to all. Mr. Joseph Jacque, a bartender at the Grand Union Hotel is a nephew of the deceased who leaves a large family to mourn his loss.

BOY STUNNED AND TWO COWS KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Yesterday morning about seven o'clock a young boy working on the farm of Mr. Robt. Hutchison, four miles east of town, was struck by lightning and stunned, while two cattle were killed. The boy was bringing the cattle in from the fields to milk and had reached the side of the barn when a lightning bolt struck the cattle, killing two and stunning another as well as stunning the boy.

The boy was carried into the house and a doctor summoned. He has recovered and is little the worse for the accident.—Lindsay Warder.

LORD STRATHCONA.

The forthcoming retirement of Lord Strathcona, announced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, says the Ottawa Journal, will cause the public mind to consider what so easily escapes recognition while the office is being satisfactorily filled—his eminent services to Canada and the Empire. Fifteen years' incumbency of the distinguished position of High Commissioner has fitly crowned a long life of devotion to his adopted land and to the noblest imperial ideals.

It is not too much to say that Canada has had no greater asset in London since 1896 than the disinterested and untiring service of the High Commissioner, and no one can say how much of Canada's enhanced prestige in the British Empire and in the family of nations may be due to the baron's unobtrusive but unremitting activity. His high office doubtless compelled him "to go one mile" in Canadian and British concerns; but by private munificence, by initiating various imperial enterprises and by constant championing of Canada's best interests, he has gone far beyond the scriptural "twain."

As to his successor, it can only be hoped that the breach will not prove wholly irreparable. The traditions of the office, we are told, require a commissioner of ample fortune. Canada has many worthy and wealthy men who would discharge the duties of the office with their best ability. But where shall we find one whose public-spirited zeal could inspire him with the strength of youth until his ninety-first year?

JULY EXAMINATIONS.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The unprecedented hot spell which has been oppressing the country since the advent of July is an opportune time for another protest against holding the matriculation and other important departmental examinations at such a season. The educational authorities at Toronto have grown accustomed to the annual wailing and gnashing of teeth which the midsummer examinations have inspired. The fervid protests are only an incident of office, to be pigeon-holed until the never-dawning "convenient day."

Yet there is too considerable a mass of real injustice in the existing arrangements to permit a complacent attitude. To subject thousands of high school pupils to the torture of matriculation and other crucial tests at this torrid season is so stupendous a folly, not to say iniquity, that one can only wonder why the abominable system continues. The only defence offered, in addition to the clinching argument, "just because it has been so," is that the school year naturally ends with June and the examinations should accordingly come on in July.

This limping plea will no longer support the provincial department in its present stand. If the arduous science and arts courses of the universities can be brought to a close each year, examinations and all, in April or May, there are no insurmountable barriers in the way of reforming the departmental schedule. Even bringing on the tests two weeks earlier would be an improvement well worth effecting. Certainly to compel young scholars to stew and sizzle until the middle of July in the throes of a crisis which means everything to them, and all this after the strenuous period of preparation, is nothing short of barbarous.

Hon. Dr. Pyne has not yet dealt with reform in school matters. That being so, one of Sir James Whitney's potent words, presaging relief, will be eagerly welcomed.

HOW THE BIG CITIES SAVE THEIR BABIES

Miss M. McQuarrie, a Chicago nurse, now visiting Ontario cities, tells an interesting story of what that big centre of population is doing to save the lives of babies in the hot weather.

Just now in Chicago they are on the great and glorious mission of saving children.

Last winter in New York, they held a great exhibit in the Madison Gardens, and called it "The Child's Welfare Exhibit." Then Chicago borrowed the whole show and put it into the Coliseum, a place that will hold 12,000 people.

Everything concerning children, their troubles, trials and triumphs, was in that exhibit and it "got to" those Chicago people with great power.

One result is now coming in force, health. Some two hundred different organization societies and bodies are lending their aid, time, money and influence for the purpose of child saving, and a definite plan has been worked out.

How Work is Carried On

One special form of this great movement is known as the "Field Work." This work is organized under Dr. Caroline Hedger, a woman whose knowledge of the child problem is very full and exact. Under Dr. Hedger some 50 trained nurses have been appointed to carry on this branch of the work. One of these trained nurses is Miss M. McQuarrie.

"Yes, I am taking a part in the campaign in Chicago," she said in an interview. "Our work this year is to be educational and preventive. We are to reach the babies and their mothers before sickness reaches them if possible.

"You see, Dr. Hedger divided the city in 50 districts. These cover the parts of the city where the death-rate among babies is the highest owing to congested conditions.

"Each district has in it six blocks. Most of the houses are tenements with large numbers of people living in them, so that I will have such a district to look after on my return.

"My first duty will be to make a house to house canvas of my six blocks and obtain a list of all the babies under two years of age.

We receive a partial list from the registered birth rate of the district, but this is found to be not very full, as there appears to be many births not registered at all. Our duty is to win the confidence of the parents, advise the mother concerning the child. We want to catch the child before sickness has weakened it. The city finds an interpreter where needed, and we have a badge showing that we are under the Board of Health.

"Where we find sickness, if it is necessary we have mother and child removed to a suitable place. That may be to the day tent, when both can return home at night, or the mother can leave the child in care of the nurse in the tent, and see the baby daily.. Various places have been provided. "The Mary Crane Open Air School" has been turned into a day nursery for the summer. All the hospitals are holding themselves ready for this special service. Some business firms are providing field nurses with ice tickets good for one small box of ice for the babies' food. The city has also provided several hundred of these boxes.

"At Oak Forest the county has made provision for 200 convalescent babies, where the mothers can go and remain with them. The university settlements and some 20 other places are ready to do their part in receiving and caring for our sick babies.

Educating Fathers.

"We find that when we have the mother persuaded, then the father interferes. To meet this the Board of Health are organizing 'smokers' at which the men will be addressed in their own language by doctors on the subjects of hygiene and child welfare. Moving pictures will be exhibited, which will show the proper methods of feeding and the wrong methods. The papers published among the foreigners are all co-operating, and giving much space to the work.

"We have seven infant welfare stations, with doctors and nurses in charge. These are for the well babies, where the mothers come and have the doctors prescribe the proper formula for the baby's feeding. Then the nurse goes to the home and instructs the mother how to carry out this modification of the milk. We are to report on the lighting, ventilation and sanitation of each home visited, the number of inmates, members of the families and boarders, the state of the yard and the lanes and alleys."

Miss McQuarrie is enthusiastic over the outlook, and expects that during July, August and September, the months of this special effort, the death rate will go down from former years in a marvellous way. All of which shows that Chicago can do a big Christian work in a big Christian way.

THE KING AND FLAG OF ENGLAND.

Hath not thehour and sorrow passed away,
In this glad dawning of a wondrous day,
When through our Empire shouts of triumph ring
To acclaim the solemn crowning o' our King?
Unfurl the English Flag to ev'ry breeze,
Send forth this message o'er the Seven Seas:
"Behold one Flag, by one great nation flown

Mark wellthat Flag, by God Almighty's grace
The emblem of the glories of our race;
From tarnish of dishonour keep it free,
As in the past, through all the years to be;
Splendid with ancient glories proudly worn,
Noble with weight of sorrow greatly borne.
Pledge of our Trust, as all the ages run
We strongly hold what we have strongly won.

Red for the blood of English heroes shed,
Who nurtured England for us when they bled;
White for the Faith that England shall hold true
To God, whose sky is as the Flag's own blue;
Blue for the blood that marks our pride of race,
Red for the blush that kindles at disgrace,
White for the purity of hope and aim
To keep undimmed the honour of our name.

King of our England, when you don your Crown,
Think of this Flag, and England's high renown;
Symbol of all our joy, and all our tears,
Pointing to a large endeavour through the years.
Keep o'er it ever faithful watch and ward,
For England, and the glory of the Lord.
That England with this stainless Flag in view
May keep her faith in God, her faith in you.
—Keith J. Thomas, in London Opinion.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A FIREMIST and a planet,
A crystal and a cell.
A jelly fish and a saurian,
And caves where cavemen dwell,
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And a face turned from the clod,
Some call it evolution,
And others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood,
Socrates drinking the hemlock
And Jesus on the Rood,
And millions who, humble and nameless,
The straight hard pathway trod—
Some call it consecration,
And others call it God.
—William Herbert Carruth.

There is a class of thinkers whose state of mind I simply cannot understand. I often wonder if others experience the same bewilderment about them.

The thinkers I mean are those who claim that they are atheists.

A specimen of this queer species, a man who insists that he unwaveringly disbelieves in the existence of a God has lately focussed my attention on the subject and I have been wondering again if it is always a pose or if there ever was a man who even way down in the bottom of his heart didn't have the least belief in some kind of a God.

I don't mean that I can't understand the man that doesn't believe in a personal God who watches every act and spends his time preparing brimstone and boiling oil for those who don't follow certain narrow little rules of conduct, and harps and white dresses for those who do.

The man I mean, the one I can't understand, is the man who doesn't believe in any kind of a power greater than man, any definite, intelligent force behind the universe.

The agnostic, the man who asserts that the existence of a God cannot be either proven or denied is a comprehensive creature.

But the atheist, the man who disbelieves and denies the existence of any God—well, don't you truly think that way down in his heart of hearts he knows there is some God?

I do.

But if he doesn't if he is genuine and not a poseur, not even a self-deceiving poseur, aren't you sorry for him with all your heart?

I am.

It seems to me that of all man he is the most unfortunate.

It seems to me that we might with reason cease our effort to bring cheer to the blind, the bereaved, the shut-in, the sick and suffering, and just concentrate on him. For he needs it more than all the rest.

Don't you think so?

Live not without a God! However lowly the rock must own
Its mossy grace or else be nothing but a stone.

Live nuot without a God! However low or high,
In every house should be a window to the sky.
—William Wetmore Story.

SUPPORT THE VICAR

BY

Mrs. Angela Dickens

"You wouldn't have thought the Reverend 'ud have asked her a thing like that, Churchwarden, and her a woman and him a lone man!"

Amelia Speechley, in common with all Frinscombe generally, spoke of its vicar as "the reverend," amplifying it now and then in the case of a stranger into "the reverend Browne."

She was his housekeeper with—in her own words—"a girl under her and a boy—in livery." The last words were always emphasised—they were felt, with reason, to be impressive. Any housekeeper in a farmhouse might have boys and girls to do her bidding, but Amelia was the only woman in or near Frinscombe who held a suit of livery—and its buttons—under her sway. Robert's buttons had a mysterious affinity with the Articles of the Church of England as by law established, and they were always proving it.

"Thirty-nine only Robert and you'll put the other on with your own hands before you sleep this night."

This stave, for so it seemed in Amelia's East Anglican intonation, was chanted on the three evenings out of every seven in the Vicarage kitchen. Robert always obeyed, for he and the girl were very decidedly "under" Amelia. It was by the work of their hands chiefly that the house was kept immaculate, Amelia devoting herself to observing her master's doings and commenting on the same to her great crony, Jim Stone, sexton, clerk, and handy man to the vicar.

She leaned her arms as she spoke on the low boundary wall between the vicarage garden and the churchyard, where Jim Stone happened to be. He was digging a grave, but neither to him nor to Amelia was this any bar to a genial chat. Nor he nor she meant any disrespect to the realities of life and death, for they were too near them to be mysterious—too real to be terrible.

"I don't see nothin' so surprisin'," said Jim. "I don't suppose it's any odds whether churchwardens is men or women, or he wouldn't think of it. I don't see how you come to know he is thinkin' of it neither without you heard him talkin' to himself."

"It don't matter how I knows it," responded Amelia, "it's enough for you I do—let alone him being gone there this arternoon."

Jim grappled for a moment with a heavy spadeful of soil and also with the calibre of the feminine intellect before he said—

"To me that don't prove he's astin' of her anything—him being gone there."

"Very like—men never see nothin' nowhere."

"If"—pursued the undaunted Jim—"if he was to ast her to be churchwarden or anything else 'twouldn't surprise me. She's a very personable young woman and he don't mean to be lone man always maybe."

Amelia sniffed with disdain.

"And him been one this nine and forty year! Don't you tell me he's thinking of altering his condition at this time o' life."

"There's others does—same age;" said Jim rather timidly. The advances he made to Ar[illegible] received responses that indicated timidity.

"All on 'em fools," said Amelia tersely.

"The Reverend" meanwhile was precisely where Amelia and Jim believed him to be—in the house of Miss Woodward, his chief parishioner. It stood back from the road and was enclosed in high red brick walls, old as the old house itself, over which clustet roses in summer threw lovely flowery arms. Passers-by were wont to stop and gaze longingly through the ironwork of the gate at the cedars on the lawn, and sometimes at the mistress of the house seated under the cedars. But no one was under the cedars to-day. It was April, and chilly April, and Miss Woodward was indoors—in a drawing-room with white wainscoting.

"I came to see you," the Vicar said. He had just sat down and the two had said between them that it was hot, that it was chilly, that it was unusual weather, that it was what one must expect in April, that a hot surmer was certainly to be expected, that a wet one was inevitable, and these conventionalities of conversation being ended, a silence had fallen which he broke in this original manner. He had chosen a very upright chair, being one of those energetic men who seldom "take their ease," and never unless they themselves are mentally at their ease. At this moment "the Reverend" was not at his ease. He was very anxious to say what he had to say, and he heartily wished it said and himself at home in his study again from every point of view save one. From that point of view he could have sat and stared at the opposite tea-table until midnight. For he saw there the prettiest sight in the world to his honest grey eyes. Small, slight, with soft dark hair and large blue eyes, she possessed much more than these last could give her in a vivacity and charm of expression which, taken together with her small stature, gave her a curious piquancy and attractiveness.

"I came to see you," the Vicar repeated awkwardly.

"I am aware of it, and I am very pleased to see you," she said. Lifting her eyes with a smile from the tea she had just begun to pour out she looked at her guest. His face and figure were ordinary enough; he had a great deal of ugly grizzled hair a clean shaven face save for an old fashioned remnant of whisker high up and he stooped slightly, thus taking off a full inch from his height of six feet. "Country parson" was written all over him, and many a stranger seeing him, had said the words to himself with a smile. But the smile was always tempered with respect—respect for the simplicity and earnestness of the grey eyes and the firm mouth. This was how the world in general saw "the Reverend Browne." How Sybil Woodward saw him she alone knew.

"On important business," he went on.

"Still I am pleased," she said "And the business?"

"The business—the business is difficult to approach."

"Have I been doing anything wrong?" she asked demurely. "For you remind me of the catechism—especially my duty toward my neighbour."

"Anything wrong!" he said with an emphasis that brought a little flush to his hearer's face. "It's—it's something I want you to do."

"Oh—well, you're my pastor and master—I'm sure it must be some thing I ought to do."

"It—the whole thing seems to me almost absurd now I approach it," he continued. "But the fact is it is nearly Easter, and at Easter I shall have no churchwarden and no prospect of one."

He sighed heavily.

"I am very sorry," she said, answering the sigh. "But why is it absurd? Mr. Trotter is your churchwarden surely." He himself is absurd, I allow. Do you remember him at the Coronation memorial meeting, when he wanted to—what were his words—oh, to 'duplicate the Albert Memorial, in a smaller size, for the green—in the centre.'"

The Vicar's anxious demeanour fell from him like a garment, and he laughed outright.

"Never shall I forget him!" he said. Then his laughter died away, and his anxiety reasserted itself "But the point is not himself just now but the lack of himself. He resigns at Easter, says that he is too old to undertake the respnsibility of being my churchwarden any longer. He is seventy-three as he reminds me. And I must accept his resignation—in short, I've no alternative—he refuses to go on."

There was a short silence while the Vicar seemed to gather up his courage. Quite suddenly he spoke again:

"There's no one else—not a soul So I have come to ask you."

"To ask me—what?"

"To be—oh, it seems ludicrous to you perhaps, but I have no alternative but to ask. Will you be my churchwarden for the coming year?"

Sybil Woodward had been leaning back in her chair. She pulled herself bolt upright with a movement quite as expressive as a spoken word.

"Me—churchwarden!" she said.

"You — churchwarden," responded the Vicar, unconscious of the repetition. Then, with the words, a picture found itself in the mind of each simultaneously. Miss Woodward saw before her the worthy old farmer in creaking boots, a very tight black Sunday coat and beard cut like Kruger's, whom she was asked to succeed; the Vicar saw the excellent young carpenter who helped him to count the offertory in brown boots and a light suit on summer Sundays, who was people's warden and would therefore be Miss Woodward's colleague, and the sense of the cntrast was too strong for each. Each broke into laughter, but the Vicar pulled himself together suddenly and smoothed all the lines of laughter out of his face.

"Will you?" he said simply. "I don't really know what to do if you won't."

But Miss Woodward had not recovered herself so fully.

"Me—your churchwarden!" she repeated between litt| gasps for breath. "Do you really mean what you say?"

"You are the only householder capable of it if Trotter won't go on. I couldn't, I thought, do otherwise than ask you, ridiculous though it must seem."

At [illegible] Miss Woodward choked back [illegible] laughter and the colour flooded into her face.

"Ridiculous," she said. I don't see why it should be ridiculous. I am not, [illegible] the only woman who has filled [illegible] position."

"Oh, no—[illegible]frequently—not you," said [illegible] poor Vicar in much [illegible] would [illegible]—that seems [illegible] ridiculous. It's the position somehow. It is because I had to ask you. Because I need your help very much and I earnestly hope you will consent to take office. It seems so odd—incongruous."

"To take office—" she said reflectively. "That sounds very serious."

"It isn't," he said eagerly.

There was a silence. "The Reverend" looked at his prospective churchwarden. Her hair, her eyes, her pretty spring gown all made a charming picture considerably out of keeping with the idea of responsible work. But her pretty lips were compressed thoughtfully together.

"Is it my duty—towards my neighbour?" she said. "I beg your pardon—I'm not laughing, anything but that. Is it my duty as a householder, mean? And—do you wish it—really?"

"Yes—I think so. Yes, certainly," were the Vicar's two answers.

"What are my duties if I do take place—I mean office?"

"I can soon explain," he said cheerfully. "To support me."

II.

"It now only remains for me to hank the gentlemen—"

"The lady and gentleman, sir," he murmured in a choky whisper the more indistinct because he had put on a high stiff collar—a portion of his attire usually reserved for Sundays—in order to attend the Easter vestry meeting. The vestry of Frinscombe Church was at the west end of the aisle, of which, in fact, it formed part, with a wooden partition to shut it off. A like partition shut off its other side from the belfry. The enclosure thus formed was chiefly furnished with objects discarded at various times from higher uses. Conspicuous among them was a wooden font of over remarkable for height and hideousness, a very ancient muniment chest, from which, being devoted to camp cleaning apparatus, a subtle odour of best kerosene diffused itself, and an old square table, holding an inkstand. Round and about this table at this moment sat the representatives of the parish of Frinscombe "in vestry assembled."

Jim Stone had arranged their chairs with care Lorn of experience. The Vicar, as chairman, was at one end of the table, beside him a Mr. Trotter, in a chair thoroughly adapted to solidity of mind and body, while various other chairs were occupied by persons of various weight in every sense of the word. Exactly opposite to the Vicar Jim had placed a chair from the vicarage dining-room and into this the general sense of the meeting had inducted Miss Woodward.

It had been known for some days—Jim best knew how—that Miss Woodward was to be a churchwarden, and therefore it had come about that more people than usual had found it necessary to attend the vestry meeting, and that everyone of them as he came and also found it necessary to take an exhaustive survey of Miss Woodward—a proceeding which she had suffered with an unmoved dignity.

The only woman present, the fact in itself gave her a curious distinction: she was also looking unusually small in her heavy grey furs, which she had drawn rather closely round her, for the vestry was cool. She was wearing a hat trimmed with pink roses, and her pretty hat and her pretty face formed the only touch of colour in her decidedly grey surroundings.

"Certainly," said the Vicar, hastily, "thank you, Mr. Trotter. I am much obliged—to thank the lady and gentleman who have so kindly consented to serve in the capacity of churchwardens—I beg to propose a vote of thanks to both."

Mr. Trotter had already seconded all the proposals as yet put to the meeting, but there was always a general understanding that unless he were the mover of a resolution he, whether he personally agreed with it or not, was the heaven-appointed seconder, and he rose hastily to the occasion and to his feet.

"I beg to second them remarks," he said briefly, and the vote was carried with effusion. In the silence that followed, Miss Woodward, who had been sitting very still, lifted her face and made a pretty bow of acknowledgement, and Mr. Darnell rose in his brown suit, bowed himself in various directions and sat down again.

"And now, gentlemen—Miss Woodward and gentlemen—the year's accounts being satisfactorily passed and all our financial affairs in train—for the special business of the meeting, I particularly wish to bring before your notice on this occasion the question of the re-seating of the church. It is the most important—"

"Beg pardon, sir, but I think myself the bells and who's to ring 'em, and who's to head the ringers is more important. Since John Martin's gone that boy of Askew's—he ain't no more—the airs he gives himself, and me been a ringer this fifteen year—"

The speaker, a thin, middle-aged man, paused for want of breath, and a squeaky voice proceeding from a very stout man with reddish hair, a good-natured face, and the general appearance, in spite of his best coat, of a working builder about him, broke in instantly:

"Seems to me there's more to be done than bells and seats. What I want to ask, sir, is whether you and this meeting don't think as the flagged path to the south door of the church 'ud do with a bit of mending—I may saya good bit of mending. I've got a man and a boy I could put on the job and this being the time o' year—"

"When you're slackest, Fyson—we understand you," interpolated a man almost hidden by the font cover. "What about that bit o' glasing, now, in the chancel, sir," he continued. "I ain't slack, but I could clear off them chancel windows a sight quicker'n Fyson'll—"

Fyson, who had hitherto stoutly ignored his libeller, here turned [illegible] a meaning [illegible] the Vicar [illegible] his opportunity.

"Gentlemen—one thing at a time—please," he said gently. And Fyson and his libeller, and the enemy of Fyson of Askew, prepared to store their grievances for future reference and to [illegible] themselves into the [illegible] with cheerful combativeness.

"To take the item first, please," continued their pastor. "The old pews are really—"

"If you're speaking o' them rubbishing free seats I've heard my grandfather say they was more'n wore in his time—specially the ends on 'em—and I'm with you there, sir."

The beach ends of the very ancient free seats were one of the great features of Frinscombe Church and the pride of the Vicar's heart, but he did not pursue this line of argument.

"I meant the old square pews, Mr. Fyson," he said. "They are entirely out of date, to say nothing of their being most disfiguring."

"Only comfortable places in the church—save draught to the legs," murmured Mr. Trotter firmly. "While I live nobody don't move mine or me."

The Vicar was for a moment silent in the fact of this unpromising opening, and an idea seemed to occur in the interval to Mr. Fyson.

"Now if we was to do 'em up a bit," remarked he cheerfully, "fresh baize and new flooring—brick flooring—it 'ud make a power of difference. That there floor in Mr. Trotter's is wore out beyond speaking, and if they was all done new with a handsome brick flooring—red brick 'ud be what I should recommend—"

"Brick flooring be—" began Mr. Darnell, the people's churchwarden, rising in some haste: "I beg your pardon, Miss Woodward, and sir," he added, "but brick flooring's an exploded idea—you take that from me, Fyson—in churches nowadays. If there's anything to be done, sir, it should be pitchpine, seats and flooring throughout. Same as my mother's brother's chapel what he attends in Manchester, that's what I should recommend. Well varnished—or if you preferred, stained with the very best mahogany stain would be very tasty and up to date. But I only offer the remark. I don't see myself any reason for clearing out the old pews—give 'em a touch or two of mending and painting, that's all. They're solid enough, and I ought to know, being a carpenter—and so Mr. Trotter says, very comfortable. I don't see no reason for clearing them out—not even if you was to give the job to me, and I can't say fairer nor that. No reason at all, I don't."

Three supporters arose at once, followed by five more, to assure Mr. Darnell that he had given voice to their views, and when those selected had spoken—fully—of their personal feelings, the thin ringer related at great length the history of a terrible chill culminating in "ammonia" which his grandfather had contracted through attending divine service "somewhere in the shires" in "a bopen pew," and his impressive peroration "baise and the old pews for me," was received with what, in any other surroundings, would have been applause.

"But I assure you," he said, "they are entirely out of date. Very few churches now in the whole country have any such left, and in retaining them we are not only behind the times—which I'm sure no one here wishes to be"—the Vicar advanced this specious plea with a confidence which received no response from his audi-

WIFE HAS DISAPPEARED

New York, July 5.—After searching for months for his young wife, who disappeared mysteriously from Bellevue Hospital last February, Charles Clark, an employee of the New York Telephone Company, who lives at the Commercial Hotel in Washington street, Newark, has asked the police to send out a general alarm for her.

"I wanted to avoid publicity if possible," Clark said to a reporter last night, "but the time has come when I no longer can keep my affairs secret, and now I will give any person $500 who will bring me news of my wife, whether she is dead or alive.

"Mrs. Clark was suffering with a ringing in the ears and was advised to go to a hospital for an operation. At that time we were living at No. 272 Washington street, Jersey City. My home always has been in New York, and I brought Mrs. Clark here. A physician said that her condition could be relieved by an operation. I took Mrs. Clark to Bellevue Hospital Feb. 16 and she was prepared for the operation.

"I called on my wife daily. The ringing in her ears made her very nervous, and for a time she was in the observation ward. To me she appeared perfectly normal mentally.

"When I went to the hospital Feb. 22 to see Mrs. Clark, I was told that she had been discharged the day before and had gone home. I made further inquiries and learned that she had left the hospital in the morning shortly after I had called on her. She did not go to our home, nor has any one seen her.

"Since then I have searched for Mrs. Clark night and day. I have visited every hospital in New York. I have paid almost nightly visits to the Morgue and have gone to every institution where insane or ill persons could be taken.

"I haven't got a trace of my wife, and it is my candid opinion that she has met with foul play or that she is being held prisoner in some place."

The Clarks have no children. They have been married twelve years. Mrs. Clark is described as handsome and thirty.

Honsburger, 10 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 10 years."

Thief and Woman in New Game, Live ligh

New York, July 5.—About a week ago Manager Seering of the Hotel Ansonia was called to the telephone by a man who gave the name of W. E. Peck, banker, of No. 116 Broad street. The man explained that he had just returned from a yachting trip and that he would send two friends to the hotel for a short rest.

"Let them have all they want, and I will settle their bills; they are on their way to Boston," the voice continued.

That afternoon a man and woman registered as "Mr. and Mrs. William I. Stewart." They told Manager Seering that they were Mr. Peck's friends. For five days they stayed at the hotel enjoying taxicab rides and the best the house afforded. All the checks were assigned to Mr. Peck.

When the bills grew exceedingly large the house clerk at the Ansonia wrote to Mr. Peck, reminding him that his two guests were having a good time and had not made any plans to leave for Boston. The banker at once telephoned to Mr. Seering, telling him that he had never heard of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and knew nothing about the previous telephone conversation.

Detective McCormick of Police Headquarters called at the Ansonia early yesterday. Just as "Mr. Stewart" was leaving the elevator the detective walked up to him.

"Hello, Bobby," Mr. McCormick said. "This seems like old times."

"Hello, Mac," said the other. "I guess you've got me again."

Stewart, who appeared very stout, was taken to Police Headquarters. He became considerably thinner after he had been relieved of several blankets which the police say he had bound about his body.

The records at Police Headquarters contain the picture Bobby Burns, hotel thief. When Stewart was identified as Burns he was taken before Magistrate Kernochan in the West Side Police Court, who held him in $500 bail for the Court of Special Sessions. Burns' companion disappeared.

ness—"but we are retaining a real disfigurement—a very sore disfigurement—not only in my opinion, but in the opinion of the best experts, to our church; our very beautiful church," he added emphatically.

There was a silence, and then a low murmur, a murmur not exactly of active opposition, but of stolid and steady disagreement. The Vicar looked from one face to another as if puzzled what argument to try next, when suddenly an idea seemed to strike him. Acting on the idea, he looked full at his churchwarden and gave Miss Woodward a look which—so he thought—conveyed an unmistakable desire for support. He remembered his own words to her when he asked her to be churchwarden, and the resume of her duties—it seemed to him comprehensive as he looked back upon it, which had followed them, and he reflected that now was the moment in which she could show the result of that comprehensive summing up. Now was her chance, and she would certainly rise to the occasion.

"Miss Woodward?" he said appealingly.

Miss Woodward threw back her furs with a quick gesture as if to show that she was ready for anything that might be asked of her.

The Vicar turned confidently back to the meeting.

"Miss Woodward will give her views, gentlemen," he said. "I am sure you will be glad to hear what she, as my churchwarden, has to say."

Miss Woodward stood up, and thrust her furs back on her chair. She was a little flushed and her lips were compressed. The Vicar noted, with satisfaction, what he believed to be signs of decision in the pretty face before him. He had indeed done the right thing in appointing her, he said to himself. She would carry the meeting with her at once.

"Gentlemen"—the pretty voice was clear, and no one could see that her hands were very tightly clasped within her muff. "I shall be glad to speak to you on the subject of the old pews, as the Vicar asks me to do so. But I do not agree with him in the least—not in the very least."

The Vicar started, Mr. Trotter leaned eagerly forward—he was a trifle deaf—Mr. Darnell let his hat fall resonantly and the thin ringer led a chorus of "Bless me!"

"I think," Miss Woodward went on, "that those old pews are delightful. I have sat in the corner of mine ever since I was a little girl and I love it dearly—and—and what does it matter about disfigurement and that sort of thing? Only antiquaries and people with nothing else to do or think about but altering churches make a fuss about disfigurement. If you feel as I do, gentlemen, you only hope that they may never be taken away—never."

She sat down very suddenly. There was a silence that literally could be felt. The Vicar uttered not a word, and at length Mr. Trotter, who felt called upon to be the saviour of the situation, said something incoherent about being "short o' time" and rose slowly to his feet. As soon as his words and his intention penetrated to the mind and understanding of the meeting each member of it discovered his hat and a pressing engagement simultaneously and the vestry in five minutes was empty—save for the Vicar and his churchwarden.

The two sat staring blankly into vacancy and no sound broke the silence except the sound of the slow ticking of the church clock as the great pendulum swung backwards and forwards in the tower. The Vicar had taken a penholder from the table and turned it round and round in his fingers mechanically. Miss Woodward's attention was apparently concentrated on some distant object—presumably the wooden partition of the vestry. At length the pen dropped from the Vicar's fingers and rolled across the table down to the floor and over the uneven flooring to the back of the muniment chest. When the last echo of the small sound had died away he spoke.

"You might, I think, have given me some warning."

"Warning!" she said. "I don't think I understand."

"I don't think you do," said the Vicar blankly. "That is just it."

"I don't see. What is there o which to warn you? Why is the meeting all over at once? What has happened?"

"What has happened?" echoed he in a tone from which he had with evident difficulty taken all expression. "Why—you have—you have given me away completely."

At all ordinary times the Vicar slang. But now it seemed that he was ready to use any telling words if by them he might make his meaning clear to his churchwarden.

Apparently the churchwarden did find his meaning clear now. She leaned impulsively across the table.

"I have given you away!" she cried. "I don't see—but why—but now—tell me, please, what I have done."

The Vicar got up, walked to the front cover, seemed pained and surprised to find himself brought up short by it and turned.

He thereupon directed his steps towards the muniment chest and finally, finding himself in contact with sharp and projecting locks, gave up the effort and sat down.

"You have flatly contradicted me in the face of the parish," he said.

"I contradict you? I haven't! Oh, I beg your pardon, I did then, but not before. I couldn't help knowing if I had."

"I thought you couldn't help knowing, too. I ought to have been sure of what you were thinking—I blame myself—it is my fault."

The patient tone in which the Vicar said this seemed to induce a very contrary spirit in his churchwarden. Her voice was irritable as she said

"I do wish you would be clear! If I am to blame why are you? Do explain."

The Vicar turned to look at her, but only one shoulder was visible, for she had turned her chair sideways and her face away from him.

"I thought you knew I was anxious and deeply interested about the seating of the church."

"So am I. I said so."

The churchwarden spoke with increased petulance, but as the Vicar did not again glance in her direction he could not see that her eyes were fixed on him and that they had an odd softness, which was at variance with her voice. He proceeded without answering her directly.

"I had set my heart on getting the square pews cleared away this year. I have several times before discussed the subject and I thought that to-day I could get the vestry to my way of thinking with patience—I know them well—patience would have done it, and—your support. You are my churchwarden and you have influence in the place—naturally—you are the chief parishioner. But now you have not only withheld your support, you have definitely opposed me, and thereby done the idea the greatest damage. The mischief is probably irreparable. I expected support and I got a blow—that's the case in a nutshell."

His voice seemed grieved and disappointed, and this seemed to make his churchwarden literally angry.

"You expected me to agree with you? You couldn't expect that. I don't."

"I expect you to support me. I told you that the other day."

"To support you—of course. But I can't agree when I disagree—how can I? You don't expect me to?"

"I don't expect you to disagree with me openly and defiantly as you did to-day. As my churchwarden that is impossible—hopeless."

"Then you do expect me to agree with you?".

The churchwarden's voice was high and just a trifle tremulous. The Vicar, who was enlarging a hole in the faded cloth with a penholder, looked up from it at her and thereupon she instantly turned away again as he said:

"I ought to have been sure you did agree. It was my fault. But—as my churchwarden—yes."

"I can't!—I won't!—I never could!"

The words resounded in the empty vestry. The hole engaged the Vicar's attention—at any rate he did not take his eyes from it as he said heavily:

"I don't see, then, what we are to do."

"I never could—as your churchwarden."

The words came slowly after a long pause, during which the hole had grown immense. Apparently something in the way they were spoken arrested the Vicar's attention. He flung away the pen and left his work of destruction to be deplored by Jim as "Some o' them nasty plagues of moths," strode to his churchwarden's end of the table and stood looking down at her, looking, that is to say, at the pink roses in her hat, for nothing else was presented to his gaze. Neither spoke for a minute or two; then the Vicar said:

"As my churchwarden you couldn't ever agree with me. You—you needn't ever agree in any other capacity if you didn't wish it—you should do and think precisely what you liked—you should indeed—if—Could there be any other capacity?"

It was his voice that was inclined to be tremulous now. His churchwarden answered in what may be described at a terse and vigorous fashion by rising and walking towards the door. But the Vicar shut the door and stood between her and it.

"Could there be any other capacity?" he repeated humbly enough, but insistently. "Say no and I'll be silent for ever. But say—say something."

The churchwarden put a hand out to grasp the edge of the table and leant against it as if for support.

"I could—" she said at last, in an almost inaudible tone. "I could agree to anything you wished—not as churchwarden."

"As my wife?" he said breathlessly. "Do you—do you mean that?"

"Not as your churchwarden," was all she said.

* * * * * * *

Amelia Speechley was, according to her usual habit, hovering between the hall and the dining-room of the vicarage, while Robert laid the supper, in order to blame him at every possible and impossible opportunity for all he did and left undone, and Robert, having thrice removed and replaced a fish slice to a running chant of: "Bother the by; will he never learn what gentlefolks eats what with?" was in desperation providing a game-carving knife for the cold salmon when the Vicar walked in at his front door and Amelia's chant was hushed. She remained in the hall, however, and turned her attention from Robert who instantly fled down the kitchen stairs, towards the study door which opened from the hall. The Vicar had gone in there and left the door ajar as was his custom, and was talking to himself in a low voice, as was also his custom. With promptitude Amelia, as was her custom, drew nearer to the door.

"Not as churchwarden," he was saying in a tone of unmistakable delight—"not as churchwarden—as—my wife."

"There, Jim," said Amelia to herself. "Didn't I say with all his churchwardening he'd marry her?"

With this ingenious reversal of their respective sentiments she gave a shrug, which included all her petticoats, and went to seek Jim to place the matter before him in the same light without delay.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of little Florence Viola Doig, who died June 30, 1911:

A flower from our garden,
The Lord plucked that day,
Our darling, Viola, He soon took away,
To dwell up in heaven,
Among friends gone before.

A seat that was vacant,
A crown that was still,
He took our Viola,
Away for to fill.

The little cot is empty now,
Her clothes are laid aside,
Her mother's love,
Her father's care,
Is with the glorified.

To wear a crown
Of peace untold,
God took our flower away,
To strike a tuneful harp of gold,
Viola went away.

She is gone, but never
Will be forgotten;
Never will our memories fade,
Pleasant thoughts will ever linger,
Round her still and silent grave.

Terrific Windstorm Swept Over Ennismore Doing Considerable Damage

Two Barns Were Lifted Off Their Foundations and Badly Damaged---A Number of Trees Were Uprooted---Crops Are Improving

On Friday morning a severe storm swept over Ennismore. Mr. Edward Gorman's barn was blown off the foundation and carried several feet, and left in an unrepairable condition. A similar occurrence happened half a mile away when Mr. Timothy Curtain's barn was blown over. Many fences have been blown over, and trees uprooted. The cyclone is supposed to have been two miles wide and unfortunately swept over this vicinity, doing great damage. The crops, however, are improving, and the farmers are preparing for haying season.

Another Hot Wave Is Possible Next Week Conditions are Favourable

TORONTO, JULY 7.—The terrific hot weather is really over at last, and there is no danger of the thermometer soaring into the nineties to-day. Officially, the Weather Man says: "Moderate northerly to easterly winds; fair and a little cooler"; but, speaking unofficially last night, he was emphatic that the worst is passed. "It may not rain to-morrow," he said, "but it certainly will not be extremely warm, and the humidity has greatly decreased during the day. There was no rain in Toronto yesterday, but heavy thunderstorms, accompanied by scattered showers, occurred at Niagara Falls and in the districts adjoining Lake Simcoe and the Georgian Bay. The official who was spoken to, however, refused to guarantee that there will be no more heat waves in the immediate future; the ground is still very dry and favourable to enormous temperatures, and the most he will say is that the present spell is at an end.

TOLD TO PARSON

(By Eden Phillpotts, author of "A Tiger's Cub," Etc.)

A little girl came rushing into the gate of the vicarage at Postbridge, Dartmoor; and it chanced that she met the minister himself, as he bent in his garden and scattered lime around upspringing seeds.

"These slugs would try the patience of a saint," he said, hearing footsteps and not looking up. "They have eaten off nearly all my young larkspurs. How can one fight them?"

Then a small, breathless voice broke in upon him.

"Please, sir, mother sent me, an' I've runned a'most all the way from our cottage wi'out stopping once. 'Tis old Mr. Mundy, please. He'm dying—so he told mother when her fetched him his milk this morning—an' he says he've got something very special to tell anybody as'll care to come an' listen to it. But nobody don't want to hear his secrets in the village; so mother said 'twas your job, please, an' mention me for your honour."

"'My job'—so it is, little maid. I will come at once. An' they'd better send for the doctor. It isn't his regular visiting day until Thursday; but probably it is 'his job' too."

"'Mother axed the old man that; an' he said as he didn't want no doctor nor his trade (medicine) either. He says he's nearly a hundred years old; an' he won't be messed about with at his time of life; but just die easy and comfortable."

In twenty minutes the clergyman had walked a mile and crossed a strip of the wilderness that stretched round about the little hamlet on Dartmoor where he laboured. A single cottage separated from the rest by wide tracts of furze and heather stood here, and near it lay a neglected garden. But Gaffer Mundy had long ceased to fight the Moor or care for his plot of land. His patch of the reclaimed earth returned very fast to primitive savagery. Brakefern sprouted in the potato bed; rush, heather and briar choked the currant bushes; fearless rabbits nibbled every green thing.

"Come in, whoever you may be," said an ancient voice. So the visitor obeyed and entered, to find the sufferer fully dressed, sitting by a fire of peat. Noah Mundy was once very tall, but now his height had vanished and he had been long bent under his burden of years. A bald yellow skull rose above his countenance, and infinite age marked his face. As the earth through centuries of cooling has ocean beds between them, so these aged features, stamped and torrn with the fret and fever of long life, had become as a book whereon time had written many things for those who could read them. Very weak was the man and very thin. He was toothless and almost hairless; the scanty beard that fell from his chin was white, while his moustache had long been dyed with snuff to a lively yellow. His eyes remained alive, though one was filmed over with an opaline haze. But from the other he saw clearly enough for all his needs. He made it a boast that he could not write, and he could not read. There was no book in his house.

"'Tis you—eh? I could have wished for a man but of your trade, but it won't matter. I've got a thing worth telling; but mark this: I don't care a button what you think of it an' I don't want none of your bunkum an' lies after I've told it. Sit down in that thicky chair an' smoke your pipe an' keep cool. Ban't no use getting excited now, for what I be going to tell 'e happened more'n sixty years ago—afore you was born or thought about."

"My smoke won't trouble you?"

"Bah! I've smoked and chewed an' snuffed for more'n half a century. I'm baccy through an' through—soaked in it as you might say. An' as for smoke, if what you tell to church be true, I shall have smoke, an' fire too, afore long. But hell's only a joke to frighten females. I don't set no store by it."

"Better leave that, Mr. Mundy. If you really believe your end is near, let us be serious. Yes, I'll smoke my pipe. And you must feel very, very sure, that what you tell me is absolutely sacred, unless you wish it otherwise."

"Nought sacred about it, I reckon—all t'other way. An' as for telling, you can go an' shout it from top of Bellever Tor if you'm minded to. I don't care a farden curse who knows it now. Wait till I'm out of it; an' then do as you please."

He drank a little milk, remained silent a moment with his eyes upon the fire, and presently began to tell his life's strange tale.

"Me an' my brother was the only children our parents ever had; an' my brother was five years older'n me. My father, Jonas Mundy, got money through a will, an' he brought it to Dartmoor, like a fool, an' rented a bit of Moor from the Duchy of Cornwall, an' built a farm upon it, an' set to work to reclaim the land. At first he prospered, an' Aller Bottom Farm, as my father called it, was a promising place, so long as sweat of man poured out there without ceasing. You can see the ruins of it yet, for when Jonas Mundy died an' it falled to me, I left it an' comed up here; an' the chap as took it off my hands—he went bankrupt inside three year. 'Tis all falled to pieces now, for none tried again.

"But that's to overrun the matter. When I was fifteen an' my brother, John James, was twenty, us both falled in love with the same maid. You stare; but though fifteen in years, I was twenty-five in understanding, an' a very outcoming youth where women were concerned. Nelly Baker had turned seventeen, an' more than once I told her that though a boy of fifteen couldn't wed a maid of her age without making folks laugh, even if he could get a parson to hitch them, yet a chap of three-an'-twenty might very properly take a girl of five-an'-twenty without the deed calling for any question. An' her loved me truly enough; for though you only see a worn out scare-crow afore you now, yet seventy year agone I filled the eye of more maidens than one, and was a bowerly youth to look upon—tall, straight, tough, wi' hair so black as a crow.

"John James he never knowed that I cared a button for Nelly. I never showed it to a living soul but her by word or look; an' she kept quiet—for fear of being laughed at no doubt. Her folks were dead on the parish with John James, an' he passed her so hard that she'd have took him but for me. He was a pretty fellow too—the Mundys were very personable as a family. Quite different though from me. Fair polled, wi' flaxen hair, an' terrible strong was John James, an' the best rwastler on Dartymoor in them days.

"Me an' her met by appointment a week afore she'd got to give him a final 'yes' or 'no.' I mind it very well to this hour; an' yet 'tis seventy odd years agone. On Hartland Tor us sat in the heather unseen, an' I put my arms around her an' loved her, an' promised to make her a happy woman. Then I told her what she'd got to do. First I made her prick her finger wi' a thorn of the furze, an' draw blood, an' swear afore the Living God she'd marry me as soon as I could make her mistress of a farm. She was for joking about the matter at first, but I soon forced her to grow serious. She done what I told her, an' since she believed in the Living God, I reckoned her oath would bind her fast enough. As for me, I laughed out of sight, for I never believed in nothing but myself—not even when I was a boy under twenty years old. Next I bade her fall out with John James. I put words in her mouth to say to him. I know the fasion of man he be—short an' fiery in his temper.' I told her. 'Be hot an' quick with him. Tell him he's not your sort an' never will be—quarrel with his colour, if you like. Tell him he'm too pink an' white for 'e. Say 'tis enough that your own eyes be blue, an' that you'd never wed a blue-eyed man. Make him angry—you ban't a woman if you don't know how to do that. Then the rest be easy enough. He'll flare an flame like a tar-barrel on Guy Fawkes night. But he'll trouble you no more, for he'm so proud as Satan.

"Nelly Baker took in all I said: an inside a week she'd dropped my brother. But 'twas what he done after that that startled folks, for without a word to any living soul, he vanished, like the dew in the morning, four-an'-twenty hours after she'd flinged him over. I was the last that seed him. We were working together out pon' the land: an' he was sour and crusty wi' his trouble an' hadn't a word to fling at me. Dimpsy light fell, an' I went in a tool shed to don my jacket an' go home. 'Twas autumn an' us had been spreading manure upon the meadow. 'Be you coming, John James?' I said. 'You go to hell,' he answered. 'I'll come when I've a mind to, an' maybe I won't come at all.' So home I walked wi'out another word an' he never comed: an' nobody ever heard a whisper about him again from that day to this. For a soldier he went 'twas thought: but the after history of un never reached nobody at Postbridge: an' whether he was shot or whether he gathered glory in foreign parts none 'pon Dartymoor can tell you.

"A nine days' wonder it was: an' it killed my mother: for John James was the apple of her eye. Her never cared a button for me, 'cause I was the living likeness of her brother—my uncle Silas Bond. They sent him to Botany Bay for burning down wheat-stacks. A bad lot he was, no doubt: an' he deserved all he got—for letting 'em catch him.

"With John James out of the way, I comed to be a bit more important in the house; an' when my mother died, father got to trust me with his money. I was old for my years, you see. As for Nelly, she kept so true to me as the bird to her nest for five years, an' then I'd got to be twenty, an' saved over three hundred pound for her; an' she was twenty-two. A good many chaps wanted to marry her; but she kept our secret close; an' said 'nay' to some very smug men, an' just waited for me in Aller Bottom Farm.

"Then, when I'd reckoned to name the day an' take her so, soon as I comed of age, Oliver Honeywell turned up from down country an' rented that old tenement farm what he called Merripit. So good land as any 'pon all Dartmoor goes with it. An' he comed wi' a flourish of trumpets an' plenty of money. He was going to larn us all how to farm, an' how to make money 'pon weekdays, an' how to get to heaven Sundays.

"Rot the devil! I see him now—a smug, sleek, fat, handsome, prosperous man, with the insolence of a spoilt cat! He'd preach in the open air of a Sunday, for there was no parson nor church here in them days. Strong as a horse—a very practical man — always right. Did plenty of good, as the saying goes, an' went about like a procession, as if he expected angels from heaven to be waiting for him at every street corner with a golden crown. His right hand was generous, but he took very good care his left hand knowed it. He didn't do his good in secret, nor yet hide his light under a bushel. He was a black-haired man with, scholarship an' money behind him. He knew the bettermost folks. They called upon him, I believe, an' axed him to their houses, it was said. He hunted and paid money to help three different packs o' hounds. An old mother kept house for him. He tried to patronise the whole of Postbridge an' play the squire an' vicar rolled into one. Men as owned nought an' thanked him for nought pulled their hair to him. But there be some fools who will always touch their hats to a pair o' horses. There comed to be an idea in people's minds that Honeywell was a God-send, though if you axed them why, they generally couldn't tell you.

"An' my Nelly falled in love with him.

"At least she said so, though Christ knows that the pompous fool, for all his fine linen, weren't a patch on what I was at twenty-one. Any way he comed courting her, for 'twas not known yet that me an' Nelly was more'n friends: an' then when he heard how we had been secretly betrothed for no less than six years, he comed to see me with a long-winded lie in his mouth. An' the lie was larded wi' texts from Scripture. Nelly Baker had misunderstood her feelings about me, he said; her had never knowed what true love was till she met him: an' he hoped I'd behave as honestly as he had: an' all the rest of it. In fact, she'd throwed me over for him an' his money an' his high position: an' he comed to let me down gently with bits from the Bible. As for her, she always lusted after money an' property.

Us fought hand to hand, for I flew at the man like a dog, an' I'd have strangled him an' tored the liver out of him, but some chaps heard him bowling, an' runned along, an' pulled me off his throat in time.

"He didn't have the law of me; but Nelly Baker kept out of my way afterwards, like as if I was the plague; an' then six months passed an' they was axed out in marriage so grand as you please at Widecombe Church.

"I only seed her once more; but after lying in wait for her, weeks an' weeks, like a fox for a rabbit, it chanced at last that I met her one evening going home across the moor above Aller Bottom Farm 'pon the edge of the last of our fields. Then us had a bit of a tell. 'Twas only a fortnight afore she was going to marry Mr. Oliver Honeywell.

"I axed her to change her mind; I spoke to her so gently as a dove croons; but she was ice all through—cold an' wicked to me. Then I growed savage. I noticed how mincing her'd growed in her speech since Honeywell had took her up. She was changed from a good Devon maid into a town miss, full o' airs an' graces that made me sick to see. He'd poisoned her.

"Do try and be sensible," she said. 'We were silly children all them years, you know, Mr. Mundy. You'll find somebody much better suited to you than I am—really you will. Have you ever thought of Mary Reep now? She's prettier than I am—I am sure she is.'

"Her named the darter of William Reep, a common labour as worked on Honeywell's farm at ten shilling a week. Then the devil in me broke loose, an' quite right too.

"'We've gone up in the world of late then. 'Twas always your hope and prayer to come by a bit of property. But 'tis a coorious thing, 'I said, 'do you know that yo'm standing just where my brother, John James, stood last time ever he was seed by mortal eyes.'

"'What's that to me?' she said. 'Let me go by, please, Mr. Mundy. I'm late as it is.'

"'He was never seed again.' I told her. 'Tis a coorious thing to me, as you be standing on the same spot at the same time—just as he did—in the first shadow of night. His going, you see, made me my faither's heir, an' rich enough to give you a good home some day.'

"Then her growed a thought pale an' tried to pass me.

"I went home presently: but from that hour Nelly Baker was seen no more. None ever knowed I'd been the last to speak with her: an' none ever pitied me: but there was a rare fuss made over Oliver Honeywell. He wore black for her; an' bided a bachelor for five year. Then he married a widow: but not till his mother died. "An' that's the story I thought would interest some folks."

The minister tapped his pipe on the hob and knocked the ashes out. He cleared his throat an' spoke. He had learned nothing that was new to him.

"It is a strange story indeed, Mr. Mundy; and I am interested to have heard it from your own lips. Rumour has not lied for once. The tale, as you tell it, is substantially the same that has been handed down in this village for two generations. But no one knows that you were the last to see Nelly Baker. Did you ever guess what happened?"

"No — I didn't guess, because I knowed very well without guessing," he said. "All the same I should have thought that you, with your mighty fine knowledge of human nature, would have guessed very quick. 'Twas I killed my brother—broke in the back of his head wi' a pickaxe when he was down on one knee tying his bootlace. An' me only fifteen year old.' An' I killed Nelly Baker—how it don't matter. You'll find the dust of 'em side by side in one of them old 'money pits' 'pon Bellever Tor. 'Tis a place that looks due East, an' there's a ring of stones a hundred yards away from it. The 'old men' buried their dead there once, I've heard tell. Break down a gert flat slab o' granite alongside a white thorn ree; an' you'll find what's left of 'em in a deep hole behind. So she never comed by any property after all."

The ancient sinner's head fell forward, but his eyes were still open.

"Good God! After all these years! Man, man, make your peace; confess your awful crime!" cried the clergyman.

The other answered:

"None of that—none of that rot! I'd do the same this minute; an' if there was anything that comed after—if I meet that damned witch in hell tomorrow—I'd kill her over again, if her still had a body I could shake the life out of. Now get you gone an' let me pass in peace."

The reverend gentleman departed at his best speed, but presently returned, bringing soups and cordials. With him there came a cottage woman who performed services for the sick. But when Mrs. Badger saw Noah Mundy, she perceived that little remained to do.

"He's gone," she said, "soft an' sweet as a baby falls to sleep. Some soap an' watter an' a coffin be all he wants now, your honour; not this here beautiful broth, nor brandy neither. So you had best go backa-long, sir; an' send old Mother Dawe up to help me, if you please."

BASEBALL

Lester Long of Summit, N. J., the sensational twirler of Lafayette College, has signed with the Athletic Club. Long has pitched wonderful ball for Lafayette this year, having to his credit a no-hit and no-run game against Pennsylvania and various other scalps from many colleges. Long, in addition to being a really good pitcher, can also bat some, for he has won many a game for Lafayette by timely hitting.

Walter Johnson, the Washington star, who used to be able to tell the Highlanders what he was going to pitch to them and still beat them has lost three games of the four he has pitched to them this season. The game Johnson got away with was handed over with a rank error.

Roger Bresnahan can't be blamed for having a real pennant bee in his bonnet when it is observed how closely his Cardinals are trailing the leaders in the National League race. Roger says he'll cop the bunting because his team finishes up the season with a long series at home. Folks here may be skeptical about Roger's chances in the end, but then they don't live in St. Louis.

The movement for an earlier starting of the National and American League games is spreading to every city on the circuit. In St. Louis baseball fans are ten to one in favor of calling the contest at 3 o'clock. The gong has sounded at 3.45.

None of the old-time rivalry that obtained when Indian Bender was at Carlisle and Eddie Plank at Dickerson is noticeable in the relations of the two great pitchers on the Athletic team to-day. Back in the days when the American League was just a baby Bender and Plank often met in fierce combat on their respective college fields. And always there was a desperate battle.

John McGraw, leader of the Giants, has several close friends in Pittsburg. "Mac" talks to these acquaintances, now and then, growing more or less confidential. New York's active commander was in a confiding mood last trip. Pittsburgers hurried forward to exend him congratulations on the Giants' leap to the front, with dandy chances of the 1911 banner. McGraw unbosomed himself to one man, declaring that he felt sure of a pennant if the team had any kind of luck. Then the peppery pilot blurted: "See them run the bases!" John J. for a minute boosted his boys for their dashing manoeuvres around the four corners. —Sporting Life.

"Once over at the old Exhibition Park I had been in a batting slump for some time," remarks Hans Wagner. "I had not been able to make a hit for a week, and was just about to ask Clarke to put me on the bench. One morning, while at home in Carnegie I went down in the cellar when I stumbled across one of the most dilapidated bats you ever saw. It was split nearly the whole length, and very badly cracked. I picked it up, took it to the game with me that afternoon, used it and proceeded to make a safe hit every time during my next thirteen tries, certainly quite a record."

Speaking of the teammates Lefty Leifield of the Pirates, justly says: "Ordinarily I am opposed to protests, and like the American League plan of playing the game on the diamond and not in a board meeting, but one club cannot afford to be a good sport, overlooking chances to grab a game on a technicality when all the other teams take what they can get. Cincinnati once protested on a flimsy technicality and Chicago robbed us of a hard-earned game on Decoration Day, so why should we not retaliate?"

A Pittsburg hotel compelled the Chicago players to eat in a barroom. An indignation meeting followed. "Not that the players had any religious scruples," prints the Chicago Tribune against entering the gateway which leads to the drunkard's grave, but they did object to inhaling their solid sustenance surrounded by bugs in various forms of stew." The hotel people thought they were doing the players a favour.

PETERBORO TEAM FOR BOWMANVILLE TO-MORROW

The Peterborough Midland League team will go to Bowmanville to-morrow to meet the Goodyear team in what should be one of the most exciting games in the League this season. Bowmanville chased the Petes to the limit to win out here on Coronation Day, and on their own stamping ground will undoubtedly take a lot of beating. It looks like the hardest game the local team has had this season. Ernie Rahmel has been selected to do the throwing for Peterborough with Manager Quinlan and Cresswell being held in reserve. The team will be as follows:

McFadden—catcher.
Rahmel—p.
Quinlan—pitcher.
Cresswell—pitcher.
M. O'Brien—1st base.
O'Hearne—2nd base.
Gonter—short stop.
Murphy—third base.
W. O'Brien—centre field.
Fred Craig—right field.

A week from to-morrow the famous Grand Trunk team, leaders of the Belleville City League, will meet Peterborough, at Riverside Park, in an exhibition game that promises to be the battle of the season. The Railway men will run a big excursion to Peterborough for the match.

The Peterborough team will leave for Bowmanville on the 7.40 C. P. R. train to-morrow morning, driving from Burkton Junction to Bowmanville.

How The Ottawa Eight Beat The Famous Belgians

Henley-on-the-Thames, July 6. —(Canadian Associated Press.)—While millions of enthusiastic Britishers cheered them, the great Ottawa crew today rowed the redoubtable Belgium crew to a standstill, and established themselves in the public mind as almost certain winners of the Grand Challenge Cup for eights. For the four years ending with 1909 the Belgians held the cup, though they were beaten by Magdalen College last year. The victory of the Ottawas to-day, which was very popular, at least assures that the cup will stay in the Empire.

The time in to-day's race was 7.13, as compared with 7.19 last year. The record is 7.05.

Jesus College beat the Thames Rowing Club in heat two, their time being 7.33. The winners led by a length. The Ottawa-Belgian race was the third heat.

The Belgians went down stream first and were followed by the Canadians to take up positions at the starting post. A great heat wave passed over course just then. The Canadians were vooiferously cheered as they went by. The water was smooth.

The Canadians won a grand race. The crews were almost on even terms throughout until just before the winning post was reached, when the Belgians cracked, and fell back beaten. At the start both stroked forty-two to the minute, and were level for the first ten strokes. The Belgians then got slightly ahead, and at the quarter mile were half a length ahead. Then the Canadians came up and caught the Belgians at the half-mile in 3.25. The Canadians then forged ahead and outrowed the Belgians, whose stroke and number seven broke down. The result was received with great cheering.

Henley rejoices over Ottawa's victory, for in the last five years such a race never created so much interest in the rowing world. The Canadians never showed their form at the practises, and the great heat prevailing led the experts to believe that the Belgians would win. However, in the race Ottawa held the Belgians closely till the half mile, and when they made a spurt the Belgians could notrespond.

In an interview with the crew they say that the race was very hard on them, but they felt fit and the spurt they made gave them courage. When they reached the boat house, Hon. W. S. Fielding was the first to greet them.

To-morrow Ottawa and Magdalen meet.

In an interview with the Belgian coach he admits that his crew rowed well and the beating was a good one. Urbain Molmans, who rowed number seven, reports that he injured the muscle of his stomach in the race. The experts say that the crew, though well trained, was not as good at Ottawa. Magdalen is fancied to-morrow, but the Belgian and English rowing men say that the race will be the greatest ever witnessed. The crews are powerful and Ottawa is very hopeful.

In the Grand Challenge Cup Magdalen beat New College. The time was 7 minutes 9 seconds. Magdalen won by one-quarter length. Magdalen won the cup last year.

In the Diamond Sculls, heat two, Bruce of Oxford, beat Charlton easily. The time was 8.55.

BROOKLIN TEAM WILL PLAY HERE TO-MORROW

Brooklin play All Saints the return game in a Midland Football League semi-final game on Saturday at 2.30 on Brinton Meadows, and come with a one goal lead from the game in Brooklin on July 1st. The All Saints' team is strengthened by several players from the other Church League clubs and are a well balanced team, and as Brooklin is very strong, a good game is looked for, and every lover of good clean sport should turn out and see this game. Mr. Geo. James, of Bowmanville, will referee. The All Saints' team will be picked from the following: Morarity, Robinson, Gamble, Gregery, James, Simmonite, Edwards, Smith, Tooley, Monk, Gash, Vickers and Downer.

McFarland And Wolgast May Come Together

San Francisco, July 6.—As to a fight between Ad. Wolgast and Packey McFarlane, Manager Hones says McFarland nor any other lightweight outside of Freddie Welsh can get a match before November. "We will let McFarland come in the ring weighing 133 pound three hours before the match," he said. "That is the best we can do. I don't know whether McFarlane can make that weight but we are willing to give him a reasonable chance.

It's up to Freddie Welsh whether the proposed Wolgast-Welsh match for the lightweight championship of the world takes place in September. Tom Jones has deposited $9,000, making good the champion's end of a $10,000 side bet, for which Wolgast already had $1,000 on deposit. This money will remain up until July 10. If it is not covered Wolgast says he will drop Welsh.

Chicago, July 6.— Packey McFarland, lightweight, of Chicago, has returned from Albany, N.Y., where he knocked out "Young" Ahearn. McFarland said last night that he is anxious for a fight with Ad. Wolgast, the lightweight champion.

James Coffroth, the San Francisco promoter, has wired McFarland a guarantee of $8,000, with a privilege of 30 per cent. of the gross receipts for a twenty-round bout with Wolgast on Labour Day in his Colma Arena. McFarland says he is willing to fight then, but the weight question which has kept the fighters apart may again interfere.

Burton Has 27 Strikeouts In Sixteen Innings

New Liskeard, July 5.—At the baseball tournament here on Dominion day, Archie Burton, the Barrie twirler, again demonstrated the fact that he is the best pitcher that has yea appeared in Temiskaming. Burton ,with his team-mate, Scott, arrived in New Liskeard on Friday to play for the locals in the tournament, in which Cobalt, Haileybury, Cochrane, and eNw Liskeard were to compete. New Liskeard played Cobalt in the morning, the Cobalt team getting three runs off the local pitcher, who was then removed to make room for Burton. The latter commenced a series of strike-outs, which soon subdued the Cobalters, they not being able to secure another run, and during the remaining six innings of the game Burton struck out eleven players. New Liskeard batters succeeded in making six runs during the game, winning by 6 to 3.

An accident up the line prevented Cochrane arriving in time, so New Liskeard had to line up against Haileybury, who had an imported battery from the Midland League. Burton again pitched for New Liskeard, and during the game fanned out 16 Haileybury batters. New Liskeard again won by 3 to 1. During the two games, 16 innings in all, only one run was made of Burton's delivery, while he fanned 27 batters.

Surely this is the holiday record, and Stamps Archie Burton as one of the very best pitchers in the Ontario leagues. Big League scouts should see Burton perform if they are looking for promising material for their respective teams.

BASEBALL

Detroit fans recently yelled "Coward" at old Cy Young when he purposely passed Sam Crawford for the second time with two men on the bases.

Manager George Stovall of the Naps is apprehensive that Lajoie will be unable to play again this season. In fact, he is not counting on the great player being in the lineup again this year.

Fred Hunter will remain a member of the Pirate band for the time being, at least. The Boston American Club has refused to waive, and as the price asked by Pittsburg isn't forthcoming, Hunter will be kept rather than sold for a song.

It is declared that Garry Herrmann, President of the Cincinnati Club, is dickering with John Ganzel, former manager of the Reds, with a view to having Ganzel supplant Griffiths, the present chief. Ganzel is now managing the Rochester Club of the Eastern League.

Jack Coombs, who twirled a one-hit game against the Browns, is the first American League pitcher to accomplish the feat this year. In the National League Moore and Frommo have turned the trick, the Red heaver holding the Pirates to a single on May 27 and Moore letting the Giants down wih one safety on April 21.

Here is the mean comment one Western writer slings about the appointment of Johnny Kling to the captaincy of the Rustlers: "Johnny Kling has been appointed captain of the Boston Club. This is about equivalent to receiving the appointment as manager of the balls on a real ball club."

"Too many pitchers kill the game," says Umpire "Silk" O'Loughlin. "Make every pitcher stand on his own record and finish when physically able."

Says an exchange: "The New York Giants returned home after nearly a month's absence with practically the same lead as when they left. In some circles such a fact might be considered highly significant; in most circles, in fact."

Pitchers no longer argue that the new ball is harder to curve. They made that excuse for the heavy hitting early in the season. Pitchers are curving the ball as well as they ever did. The heavy batting was due to a poorer brand of pitching than was offered in other seasons.

In Pittsburg they claim that Hans Wagner plays first base as well as Hal Chase ever did. Of course the fact that very few of the Pittsburg fans or scribes ever saw Chase perform makes no difference. Wagner is a National League player. That settled it.

TWO PARADES BY BUGLE BAND

The [illegible] band of the 57th Regiment is making [illegible] to hold two big parades on Monday and Thursday nights of next week, in order to advertise their moon-light excursion down the river on the evening of July 17th. The band was never in such a flourishing or proficient condition as it is at the present time, at no previous time in its history coming up to the present standard in numbers of efficiency. During the trip of the Regiment to Brockville last week the snappy playing of the Band won them encomiums on every side, and the people of Brockville, particularly the Non-Coms. of the Brockville Regiment vied with each other as to which could say the most about the Peterborough Bugle Band. The Buglers are certainly a credit to the Regiment and to the city, and did their share in gaining laurels for the Rangers during the recent trip. Very few regiments in Canada have such an accomplished bugle corps, and the members and their instructors are to be congratulated upon their fine showing this season. Citizens should bear in mind the two parades they have arranged for next week.

THE WINNER OF THE PRIZE

An Italian Story by Joseph Hocking

"What is this place, Signore? Is it possible you have never heard? Why no: even San Marco in Venezia or Giotto's Tower in Firenze, or even la chiesa del San Giovanna in Rome is more renowned. Scusi Signore, but you surprise me. What! never heard of the Easter Races at Purungo! Ah, but you have not lived in London?"

"Yes," I replied "I'm a Londoner. I have lived there for many years."

"Then Signore has not come to Italy often?"

"Yes, I generally come each year."

"But not to Purungo."

"No, not to Purungo. This is my first visit here."

"Still I am surprised that you have not heard of the Easter Races. They are renowned, Signore. People come to them from Firenze, from Pisa, yes even from Rome itself. And no wonder. Italy has no finer sight to show. Ah, you should be here then, Signore. You say Purungo is beautiful now; but then, ah! you should see it then. Then the flags fly, then the streets are decorated, all the shops are closed. No one works that day, no not one. All the children are here, all, all! As for the Signorinas,—ah, but they all come, all, all- Beauty! But you do not know, Signore. In Tuscany we have the beauty of Italy, and in Purungo we have all the beauty of Tuscany. So what would you? And they come from miles around, all in their best attire. Ah, but the Signorinas rival the glory of the sky, they are more splendid than the flowers that grow on the slopes below Valambrosa. No wonder many come from Rome to behold!"

I could not help being amused, and although I did my best to hide any expression of my amusement I am afraid I was not altogether successful.

"Ah, you smile, Signore, but wait till next week. You will see for yourself then. You see this square; well the horses course around here. The ground as you see does not form a perfect square, the piazza is so much longer than it is wide. That makes the race so much more difficult, for that end being narrow, well, the turning has to be sudden; moreover if this is not done with great skill the horses dash into the wall yonder, and both they and their riders are killed. Ah! more than one brave fellow has been killed at that corner."

My attention was naturally drawn to the spot to which he pointed, and I saw how true his words might be, for the end of the square to which he pointed was narrow, and the turning were sudden. Indeed it seemed to me that a horse going at full speed could not be guided around the corners. As fas as I could judge, any horse going at full speed, must rush headlong upon the high stone wall, and thus be dashed to death.

The square in which we stood was called the Piazza della Santa Maria, and was situated in the heart of the little town of Purungo in Tuscany. On the one side was a high wall, on the top of which was a promenade, and on which were now placed seats for spectators at the coming races. At the other side was a row of houses, and at each end also was a high stone wall. The square was not large. Perhaps it was two hundred yards long by forty yards wide, and in the midst thereof were gay flower beds. The race course could not be more than about forty or fifty feet wide, whese several horses were to run abreast, each taking turns as to which should run on the inside and the outside of the circle.

"You see," went on my companion, a black-eyed, young Italian of about twenty-eight years of age. The race is open to all Italy, and the winner in the great race is, well—," and then he stopped as though words were altogether insufficient to express his feelings.

"He is made much of," I suggested.

"Made much of Signore He is almost made a god of, especially if he be a Purungo man. Whoever wins the final race—ah, but nothing is denied him. No woman would say no to the man who wins that race, and who at the same time asked her to be his wife. Why think, Giovanni Lucano was but poor, and not good to look upon, yet did the Mayor's only daughter, who had despised him up to this time, willingly become his bride when he had won it. How could she help it? Was he not the talk of Italy? was not every highborn dame for miles around ready to kiss his hand? ? Ah, I know, no man better"

I saw his lips tremble as he spoke, and he dashed the back of his right hand across his eyes as if to wipe away his tears.

"And have you ever ridden in one of these races?" I asked.

"But last year, Signore."

"And you won?"

"No, I did not win."

"Ah!"

"No, I did not win, he won," and he pointed to another young fellow about his own age who was then passing by.

"He won?"

"Ay, he won, he won," and there was a faraway look in his eyes.

"Tell me about it." I said.

"Ah, but would you care to hear?"

"I would indeed. Is there a story attached to the race? Did you both love the same maid? Tell me."

"But how did you know, Signore?"

"It is true then: you loved the same maid, and you ran the race, and he won both the race and her. Is that it?"

His eyes flashed fire, and he turned in the direction whither his rival had first gone, but he did not speak.

"Ah," I thought, "now I shall have a story of an Italian's hatred, and an Italian's revenge. This of itself should be worth coming to Italy for," and the whole plan of the thing spread itself out before my eyes in a moment. Here were two hot-headed Italian youths in love with the same black-eyed maid. Possibly she had been coy to both, but determined to bestow her hand upon the winner of the race. They as a consequence hated each other like poison, and when the other man had won it, my companion made up his mind to have evenge.

"Tell me," I said; "your story should be interesting."

"Yes," he said, and I thought his voice grew hard. "Yes, it is interesting," and again he looked towards the retreating figure of the man with a strange look in his eyes, but he did not speak again.

"He seems a fine fellow," I said, trying to make him speak further. He must be a formidable rival, doubtless you hate him!"

"Ay, he is a strong man," he said, strong as a young lion, and he has nerves of steel. Yes, steel! We were always rivals. We fought as boys, and fenced, and performed feats of strength together, and he generally won."

"No wonder you hate him," I suggested.

"Hate him! Signore!" and I felt would not like to meet the man alone on a dark night.

"And did he strive fairly honourably? Did he ever take mean advantages?" I said, doing my best to put he thought in my mind in understandable Italian.

"Fairly! Honourably!" he cried; "ah, but I will tell you the whole story, Signore. Then you will know. He was better born than I, better house, better educated. He wore better clothes, and was better looking."

"No," I said, "not better looking."

He bowed. "You compliment me highly, Signore, for he is said by some to be the handsomest man in Tuscany. His father is rich, and he bears an old name. What would you? He is called Luca della Robbia, and is said to be a descendant of the great artist. His father is a marble merchant, and he has great quarries, and keeps vessels of his own to send the wonderous things he carves all over the world. You see that great white palazzo on the hilside? That is his father's, and Luca will have it some day. He will have the proudest position in Tuscany. As for me—well, I am only Paolo Bianco, and my father is a sculptor. Not that I am of the people, Signore. My mother was of the Fontane family, and she brought my father the Fontane house and farm as a dowry; but it is nothing like Palazzo Robbia. Still my mother's blood made it possible for Luca and I to go to the same school, it enabled me to have him as a playmate.

"I did not mind him being cleverer than I, or handsomer than I—nay, nor was he always sharper, and cleverer than I. There were times when I beat him. But presently I cast my eyes upon Beatrice del Verona, and I loved her. Ah, Signore I loved her, and the moment I discovered I loved her, I knew that he also loved her."

"And she was very beautiful?" I said growing more and more interested in his story.

"Bellissima, Signore. Ah, but you do not know! I thought first she favoured me, and then I thought she favoured him. I asked my father to plead for the hand of Beatrice for me. He did, and the Signore del Verona said that he would allow his daughter to choose for herself, English fashion! He also told my father that the Signore Della Robbia had asked for Beatrice for Luca, so you see how things stood.

"I believed Beatrice loved me best. Oh, yes, I believe she did, but what would you? I did not possess an income of 200,000 lire a year. I had to work for my bread. I am an artist, Signore, a sculptor.

"One day Beatrice asked me if I was going to ride in the Spring races, and I said yes, for I had trained a horse on the Fontane farm, a horse so good that even Luca had not a better.

"'Ah,' she said 'Luca della Robbia is also going to ride in the races.'

"I looked into her eyes and I knew what she meant. I had asked her for her love, and this was her answer. If I won, I knew that I could ask for nothing in vain, but if Luca won—well even although she loved me the best, she could not refuse him. For what maid can refuse the hand of the man who wins against all Italy in the Spring races. She might have refused the winner if he came from Napoli, or Genoa, or Lombardy, although that would be difficult: but one from Purungo, and that one Luca della Robbia, he who bore the best beloved name in Italy, ah no! That would be impossible. And yet I believed she loved me the best, yes I believed that.

"'And if I win in the great race, Beatrice,' I said.

"Then, Signore, she looked at me, and her eyes grew soft and velvetry and I knew! I knew!

"'But if Luca wins?' I said, scarcely daring to keep my eyes on her, 'what then?'

"'Then he will be the better man, Paolo,' she said, 'then my father would not say him nay.'

"'And if your father said yes,' I replied.

"I should have to obey him,' she replied.

"Ah, Signore, you can see how things stood now, and you will not wonder that I went back to the stables and took my horse Carlo out to try his speed, his steps, and his staying power. No man could be more careful of his greatest treasure than I was him. No mother ever tended a sick child like I tended Carlo. I would allow no one else to groom him, or feed him; I did it all.

"Then I hated Luca, my life-long friend, and he hated me, for both of us loved Beatrice to distraction. He knew that no rider in Italy besides myself could beat him, and I knew that I need fear no one but him. And we both loved the same woman.

"For weeks we never looked each other in the eyes, and although I blush to think of it now, Signore, I schemed how I could get his horse Leone lamed, or made unfit for the race. But grazia a Dio, I did nothing, no I did nothing. For how could I? The Beatrice I loved was as pure and as holy as the Beatrice whom Dante loved; and so if I won her unfairly I should for ever be ashamed to look into her eyes. No one knows, Signore, how a pure woman can keep a man from selling himself to the devil.

"And yet we hated each other. Grande Dio, how we did hate each other! Every time I passed him I thought of the devil, and I longed to drive my stilletto into his heart. As for him Ah, if you had seen his eyes you would know.

"When it became known that we were both going to ride in the great race, there was much excitement, for every one knew what it meant. Beatrice was not the first woman who had been won on this Square, nay nor will she be the last. Many a proud woman in Purungo learnt to love a man as he won the victory here. How could she help! Nay, every woman regards it an honour to be chosen by the victor on such a day, for the eyes of all Italy are upon her, in envy and admiration.

"Thus Beatrice was not the only woman who thought of us. More than ten of the fairest maids of Tuscanny wondered whether the winner would think of them.

"No one seemed to doubt that one of us would win in the great race. As all men said 'It will be either Paola, or Luca; but which?' And as I heard them debate among themselves, I set my teeth together and swore that it should be I.

"Ah, Signore, but excitement ran high as the day drew near. The Italians, as you know, are great gamblers, and thousands of lire were staked on the result of the race, but no stake was as great as mine. I ran not for money; but for the woman I loved.

"Not that great money prizes were not given. Rather two thousand lire were to be given for the man who came in first in the great race, but as I say, I thought not of that. I never gambled, I have seen its evil. I ran for love, and the stake was a lifetime's happiness. If I won there could be no happier man in Italy than I. If I lost! but you can imagine, Signore!

"At last the day came, and the crowds gathered. There were thousands and tens of thousands of people from all over Italy. It was a great festa for the town. First of all as many as could went to the great cathedral to pray, for it is a religious festa, Signore, and much of the money goes to the Chiesa. Besides, the clergy came to the race, and cheered like mad. All the town was gaily decorated, and every man, woman and child had a holiday.

"At first the interest was not so keen. They were only little races. Boys could win them. Old men could win them, so I took no notice, but presently the grand race cam on.

"Oh my heart did beat, while my brain was on fire! I saw Luca there, seated on his horse Leone, and never did I see the weak points of my own Carlo as I did then. I was sure the Leone stood half a hand higher, I feared he had most staying power.

"The conditions of the race were simple. Only ten riders could compete, and every competitor must have in previous years won other races. That was simple enough as far as Luca and I were concerned, for we had won races from boyhood. Then we were to go around the course ten times, changing, and interchanging, so that we should each take our turn in having the inside and outside of the ground. After that the two who came in first after ten rounds, should run five rounds for the final victory.

"Well, Luca and I came in first, people shouted and cheered, but it was nothing but what they had expected.

"But then came the great trial. I examined my Carlo and my heart beat high with hope. He was scarcely winded. He tossed his head proudly as much as to say that what we had done was nothing, and that I might depend on him. I looked around among the seats where the great people sat, and there I saw Beatrice, her eyes all shining with excitement, her mouth slightly open, showing the perfect ivory of her teeth.

"Ah, Signore, have you ever been in love? Ah, no, you English do not know what love is. You are too cold, too calculating. But I, Grande Dio! I loved, and I felt that all the world would be black if I did not win her. Paradise itself would be poor if Beatrice did not belong to me.

"She waved her hand, but whether it was to me or to Luca I knew not, but he thought it was for him for he smiled back like a man well pleased.

"Well, the race commenced. Three times we went around, and neither seemed to gain advantage. Sometimes he would lead by half a neck, and then I. But in the fourth and fifth round came the struggle. It was then that we had to prove whether Carlo or Leone, were the better horse, and whether Luca or I were the better man.

"I gained! Oh yes I gained! I heard Luca's horse panting behind me, and although I heard the whip cracking, and the voice of Luca urging him on, he could not gain on me. I used no whip. Why should I? Carlo did not need it. He felt the love fires in my veins, and he dashed forward.

"Those sharp corners! Ah, they are difficult to manage, but what then! Neither Luca nor I were babies at horsemanship, and we were riding for the happiness of a lifetime. And I gained! At the starting of the fifth and final round, I was ten yards ahead. Ten yards, think of it! my heart beat high, I could have shouted for joy. I came along here, just here, Signore, at full gallop! I had only that sharp dangerous corner to turn, and the race was won. In truth I had won it already. Then, I did not see it, my eyes were on my work, but one of the flags which flew from that pole there, the Italian national flag, slipped from its rope and fell fluttering down.

"Did any one plan it? God knows, but I do not think so. Anyhow just as I was turning the corner,—I had nearly turned else I had not been here alive now,—the flag was carried by the breeze right over my head, and it fell upon me, enveloping my face, so that I could not see.

"Now, you see, Signore. Naturally I was obliged to slacken speed, and before I could get it from me Luca had dashed ahead of me. My Carlo did his best, and had we another round I believe I should have won, but there was not: and so he came in a full length before me.

"Many there were who cried out that Luca had not run the race fairly, and that we should ride again, but the judges were much in awe of the owner of the Palazza Robbia, and so he was declared victor."

Paola Bianca stopped and looked at me, as though he wondered how his story had affected me.

"So Luca won," I said, "that is why you hate him!"

"I hate him!" he cried. "Grande Dio no!"

"And yet he won the race! And he won the woman you loved!"

"You do not know Luca," he said, "I did not then. But we both went to where she was, and he fell before her. But her eyes were not upon him they were upon me.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than these glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

THE WINNER OF THE PRIZE

"She had in her hand the two thousand lire, for it was she who was to give the prize, and then the father of Beatrice, who was president of the Race spoke. 'The prize has been won by Luca della Robbia,' he said, 'won against all comers. The money is his and aught else he may ask is his too.'

"Ah, Signore, you may guess what I felt, for his meaning was plain, and yet there was great joy in my heart.

"Beatrice handed him the money, but spoke no word. Luca could have claimed her! Oh yes he could. The people had decreed, and he could have claimed her.

"I saw Luca look at her as he took the money, and then he looked at me.

"'I have won the race, Signorina,' he said almost in a whisper.

"'Here is the prize,' she said.

"'But the prize, Signorina?'

"She did not speak, but again she looked at me. I knew what was in his mind, knew the battle he was fighting. There before him was the woman he loved, the woman to win whom he had run the race. But he felt he had won it by an accident, felt too that her eyes were cold when she looked on him.

"'The prize, Signorina, who has won that?'

"So low was his voice that no one but she and I heard it; besides, all the people were cheering like mad.

"Again she looked at me, and as she looked I saw that her eyes became soft and velvety. He saw it too, and he had his answer.

"Even then he could have claimed her. Even then she would not have said him nay, but Luca had a noble heart.

"He rose to his feet to speak, for this was expected of the winner of the great race, and then a great stillness fell upon the mulitude.

"Parlate Voi! Parla Lei!" shouted some one, so he doffed his hat and spoke.

"'According to the decision of the judge I have won the prize,' he said aloud, and his voice rang like a bell throughout the square, 'but the race would have been won by Paolo Bianca but for an accident. Therefore I will take the money, but he will take the real prize, and the joy!'

"Ah, Signore, I know what it cost him to say that, and I fell on his neck and embraced him. Everyone knew what it meant, and everyone knew it was just."

"And so you won the Signorina?" I said eagerly.

He laughed.

"The Signore has promised to come and look at my work," he said, "if Signore will I will introduce him to the Signora Bianco."

A few minutes later, we stood together in a pleasant Italian garden, and there I beheld one of the most beautiful women it has ever been my fortune to see. In the garden also was a nurse who carried a baby in her arms.

The woman looked up as we entered, and then gave a glad look as she saw my companion.

"I have just been telling the Signore Inglese about the race last year, Carissima mia," he said.

She looked at me again, then at her husband; and as I saw the light in her eyes, I had no doubt as to who had won the prize in the great race.

NOT A PARTY QUESTION

Regret Expressed That Reciprocity Should Have Got Into Politics

W. H. Johnson, President of the Brandon Grain Growers' Association, said it was regrettable that the reciprocity question had been taken into party politics. When the farmers were at Ottawa the Conservative leaders had not been antagonistic to the farmers' demands. When the farmers overflowed the treasury benches on that occasion Mr. Borden had said he had never seen those benches occupied by men in whom he had more confidence. Mr. Borden seemed now to have lost that confidence. For some time there had been no antagonism to reciprocity, but immediately the Government took up the question in a practical way the Opposition had become antagonistic. It looked to him as if it were a political dodge in order to get into power. He was glad that their own Western friend, Mr. Haultain, had taken a different stand upon the matter. The Saskatchewan Conservatives were to be congratulated upon having kept reciprocity out of party politics. He was sorry to note that the eastern capitalists had come out so strongly in opposition to reciprocity. The eastern farmers had stood shoulder to shoulder with the Western farmers in making their demands upon the Government. They had been agreed that what was good for one was good for both. He appreciated the fact that the Government would have to fight a combination of parties and interests with money at their backs.

The speaker said he was aware that a lot of people could be bought by five dollar bills. That was where the trouble was going to come. If bribery could be prevented the Government would be all right. He knew that a number of Conservatives were trying to whip him into line against reciprocity. He would stand by those who had dealt fairly with him. It was all rot to say that the present prosperity of Canada was due to the National Policy. The price of wheat had most to do with Canadian prosperity. Let the price of wheat drop to 60 cents a bushel and where would Canada and the farmers be then?

Cause and Cure of Headache

The cause of headache as you know is the stoppage of the circulation resulting in pressure on the delicate nerves of the head. In time nature will start the blood going again, but meanwhile we suffer and are unfit for duty.

Assisted by two ZUTOO Tablets, which by the way are as harmless as the soda they contain, nature will remove the pressure and stop the headache in twenty minutes. Why continue to suffer? Why be unfit?

It is really remarkable how many people now use ZUTOO to cure their headaches. Do you? If not, why not?

Eczema on Leg for 25 Years

I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My own doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off, but I said I would try the Cuticura Remedies first. He said, "try them if you like but I do not think they will do any good." At this time my leg was peeled from the knee down, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After the first two treatments the swelling went down and in two months' use of the Cuticura Remedies my leg was cured and the new skin grown on. The doctor could not believe his own eyes when he saw that Cuticura had cured me and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. But for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. I am truly grateful for the wonderful cure that Cuticura wrought. I have many grandchildren and they are frequent users of Cuticura and I always recommend it most highly as a sure and economical cure for skin troubles.

KILLED HIMSELF BY AEROPLANE

Explanation of the Strange Death of Captain Mazenewitch, the Russian Aviator

Some months ago speculation was rife among flying men as to the cause of the terrible accident which befell the well-known Russian aviator, Captain Mazenewitch, who, for no apparent reason, fell from a height of 2,000 feet, being instantly killed by his fall.

Light has now been shed upon the mystery by the confession of an arrested Terrorist named Anev, who, by his confession, lifts the veil upon one of the most dramatic episodes in the history of Russian Terrorism.

Captain Mazenewitch, though an officer of distinction, was, nevertheless, at heart an ardent Nihilist; and, with the birth of aviation, Mazenewitch, together with his conspirators, realised that the flying machine had put into their hands a novel and effective means of bringing about the destruction of a certain general, a high dignitary of the Emperor's Court, a man who, by his sweeping reforms and political beliefs, had made himself the detested enemy of the Revolutionists.

The general was known to have the greatest sympathy with aviation, which at that time was little heard of in Russia; hence Mazenewitch, having obtained leave of absence, was despatched post haste by his comrades to England, so that he might return as a skilled and proficient aviator, well fitted to carry out the task allotted to him.

Captain Mazenewitch first visited Brooklands Aerodrome, but subsequently left for Pau. Within a few days of commencing his apprenticeship Mazenewitch was executing spectacular flights in a rough wise with amazing sang-froid to the astonishment of his fellow pupils and instructor, and articles appeared in several English papers at the time, forecasting that a brilliant career as an aviator lay before this courageous Russian.

On obtaining his brevet, Mazenewitch returned to Russia, and proceeded to carry out daring evolutions over the city of St. Petersburg. As the terrorists had foreseen, it was but a matter of time before the exploits of their comrade would receive recognition, and, in due course, the Imperial Court, amongst whom was General N——, paid a private visit to the flying grounds outside the city.

It had been arranged by the society that Mazenewitch, with the general as passenger, should rise to a great height, and, when at an altitude of some thousands of feet, should suddenly take his hand from the lever and abandon the machine to its fate.

After a few preliminary circuits, Mazenewitch approached his victims, who, all unconscious of the plot weaved about him, accepted with alacrity the offer of a flight around the aerodrome.

A moment before starting, detectives stepped across to the pilot, and, in low tones, urged the captain to give his word, as an officer and a gentleman, that he would, as far as was in his power, restore his passenger safe and sound. Mazenewitch thereupon gave his parole. The engine was started up, and presently the aeroplane became but a little black speck in the sky, and even the Terrorists shuddered at the contemplation of the ghastly scene which was to follow. Yet the minutes flew by, and all was going well. No machine was seen to be falling like a stone through the air, to be shivered into a million fragments as it struck the ground; and, to the astonishment and indignation of the watchers beneath, the aeroplane, looming larger and larger, finally came gently to rest at the feet of the cheering crowd—for Mazenewitch, as an officer of the Tsar, had found himself unable to break his parole.

At the tribunal held in the city that evening, it was unanimously resolved that the traitor must die by his own hand within twenty-four hours of his sentence.

At daybreak the following morning Mazenewitch wheeled his bi-plane from its shed, and, climbing into the pilot's seat, rose rapidly to a height of 2,000 feet.

Some few moments later the spectators below were horrified to see the machine, for no apparent reason, dive suddenly forward, and, turning over and over in the air, fall like a stone to the ground.—London Opinion.

KILLED A WITCH

A County Mayo Woman Beat Her Companion Unmercifully

Going to the police at Clonturk, County Mayo, Ireland, a woman named Mary Anne Feeney, said to the officers, "I have killed a witch." Police went to a little roadside cabin where the woman Feeney lived with an old pensioner named Norah Conniffe, and there they found Norah Conniffe terribly injured. She was unconscious, and died shortly afterwards. Investigation showed that Mary Anne Feeney was seized with the idea that her companion was a witch, and, it is alleged, she stripped her of all her clothing and ordered her to bring some water. When the woman refused, she took the bar off the door and beat her unmercifully, inflicting terrible injuries.

OTTOMAN OUTLAW KILLED

Brigand and Rebel, Who Was Known as "Brage the Tiger"

One of the most famous figures on the stage of Ottoman outlawry life has just been killed in an encounter with Turkish troops. It is the notorious Vivodde Brage, half brigand, half rebel—a man of astounding courage and of a most atrocious disposition. He was of Bulgarian origin, and in the country of King Ferdinand there are few who do not consider him to be a sort of national hero. Many are now deploring his death. Brage killed many hundreds of persons during his long brigand existence. Bloodthirsty like a tiger (he was popularly known as "Brage the Tiger"), he often massacred for the mere sake of seeing human blood flow. In some provinces of Rumelia he acquired such a terrible reputation as an "avenger of wrongs" that the civil and police authorities trembled at his name and frequently refused to pursue him. They preferred to suffer dismissal or even imprisonment rather than undertake anything which might excite his anger or suspicion.

It is said he had on his body over a hundred wounds, received during the endless affrays he had had with the Turks.

GAS IN A GRAVE

The Grave-Digger Was Overcome and Died Soon Afterwards

Harry Spencer, a foreman gravedigger, lost his life under curious circumstances at Abney Park Cemetery, Stoke Newington, recently. While digging a grave he was overcome by gas. James Hexell, who was with him, raised an alarm and promptly descended to his assistance, followed by another workman named Prentice. All three men were later discovered to be overcome by the gas. When brought to the surface they were in an unconscious condition, and Spencer, after artificial respiration had been resorted to, was found to be dead. The other men were attended to by Dr. MacDounel, of Stamford Hill. Prentice being eventually removed home. Hexell was removed to the Metropolitan Hospital, Kingsland Road, where he regained consciousness.

WEIGHT OF APPAREL

An Interesting Table Showing Man's to Heavier Than Woman's

Women, dressed in the summer fashions, have the advantage of men in the weight of attire, as the following figures, supplied by a London firm of outfitters, show:

Women's Attire

Hat	0	8
Shoes	0	12
Silk stockings	0	1½
Silk underwear	0	3½
Corsets (various weights)	1	2
Lingerie	0	10½
Dress (lessed at hem)	1	1½
Parasol	0	13
Long Gloves	0	1½
Handbag	0	14
Total	6	3½

Men's Attire

	lb.	oz.
Suit	4	0
Shoes	1	9
Silk shirt	0	7½
Underwear (silk)	0	13
Gloves	0	1½
Braces	0	1¾
Walking-stick	0	8
Straw hat	0	3½
Socks	0	2
Total	8	0

There is, of course, no arbitrary rule for the kind or weight of raiment worn. The corset in the case given is heavier than the dress, because while the dress is composed of gossamer fabrics and absolutely limp, the corset is long and amply boned. If, instead, a boned belt, or a maillot of woven silk lightly bound were worn there would be a still greater diminution of weight.

Woman insists that her headgear shall be light in weight. Yet it is rarely so light as a man's hat. A man's "straw" weighs 3½ oz. against the 8 oz. of straw and trimming apportioned to feminine wear. A "bowler" weighs 3¾ oz., and a silk hat, for which a man is pitied so heartily, turns the scale at about 6 oz. only.

A parasol may be a heavier burden than a walking-stick, and the fashionable bag a woman carries in lieu of pockets, scales without anything in it nearly a pound. But even these additions do not bring the sum total of her apparel up to that of a man's.

KILLED THE POLICEMEN

Unable to Escape, the Assailant Then Committed Suicide

A sensational shooting affair occurred recently in the Friedrichstrasse, the most frequented street in Berlin. A well-dressed young man, who had been denounced to the police for offering violence to a woman, was followed into a tavern by three policemen, who summoned him to follow them to the police station. The man drew a pistol and shot the policemen dead, at the same time wounding a waiter in the lungs. He then tried to escape by the back entrance, but, finding the exit cut off by the police, he returned to the bar, and shot himself through the head, and dropped dead in the presence of the police and the terrified patrons of the place.

She saw a motor-car for the first time a few days ago; previously she had only heard their noise.

FOOD COLORS.

If You Like Brown Victuals You Are a Person of Refinement!

An extraordinary food theory has been brought forward by Dr. J. S. Goodall, lecturer to the Middlesex Hospital Medical School. He declares that when you enter a restaurant and select a chocolate-colored food you unconsciously show yourself a man of taste and refinement; but if, on the contrary, you show a partiality for yellow-colored foods, your taste is most probably low and vulgar.

Dr. Goodall, in explaining his strange theory, says that he first made experiments with animals. "A cat, for instance," he says, "is very much influenced by the color of its food. In one experiment I placed a number of pieces of meat, each tinted a different color, before a cat. The animal looked at each piece carefully, and then selected the red-colored meat. Dogs, on the other hand, do not appear to use their visual sense like cats. If the food smells all right a dog will eat anything.

"Human beings are very sensitive as to the color of their food. By making inquiries among caterers I found that chocolate-colored foods were easily the most popular among the educated classes. The poorer classes have a liking for yellow. One of the reasons of this may be that they think such foods are richer than others."

Pink is by far the most popular color with children. If a child is offered the choice of a pink and a yellow sweet, the pink variety will invariably be selected. Curiously enough, however, foods artistically colored green appear to be avoided by all.

Dr. G. Norman Meachen, the well-known dietetic specialist, upholds the view that diners-out are largely influenced in their appetites by the color of the foods which are brought before them.

"Certain colors," he says, "stimulate the appetite and digestion, while others have the reverse effect. White foods, such as white fish, are stimulants to the appetite.

"Personally, my appetite has often been stimulated by certain colors. I have entered a restaurant with very feeble appetite and ordered a steak. The steak has come up a crisp, red-dish, chocolate-brown in color. I look at it, and immediately begin to feel hungry. Brown baked potatoes have also this effect on me.

The Fate of "Charlie Beresford."

Mr. George Leyton, the popular actor-vocalist, who recently petitioned the King to grant the Crimean and Indian Mutiny veterans a special view of the coronation procession, has been instrumental in causing something like $25,000 to be distributed amongst the old soldiers. His philanthropic efforts are warmly supported, amongst others, by Lord Charles Beresford, who also takes a great interest in boy scouts. He told Mr. Leyton the other day of an amusing experience which befell him recently at the hands of some small patrols. The Portsmouth corps was founded by Lord Charles, who lately decided to personally test their ideas regarding scouting. Driving over the Portsmouth hills, where the youngsters were engaged in manoeuvres, his motor-car was smartly confronted by three youths, who exclaimed in chorus, "We take you prisoner, Lord Charles!" "Well, what are you going to do with me, now that you have got me?" inquired the distinguished captive. There was a brief pause, after which one of the lads replied, in a grave tone, "H'm! Well, when the guv'nor comes back, I spects we shall shoot yer, sir!"

How Cloves Grow.

Cloves are the unexpanded flower buds of a beautiful evergreen tree which grows only in tropical countries. The buds are at first a pale color and gradually become green, after which they develop into a bright red, when they are ready for collecting.

During the drying process they are exposed to the smoke of a wood fire and then to the action of the sun, which accounts for their dark brown color when ready for the market.

The clove tree, which attains a height of 30 feet, is a native of a small group of islands in the Indian archipelago called the Spice Islands, but in the last four centuries it has been carried to all the warmer parts of the world.

Cloves were one of the principal oriental spices which early excited the cupidity of western commerce communities, having been the basis of a rich and lucrative trade since the early part of the Christian era.

Hundred Thousand Places Set Along Coronation Route.

Although the coronation is a long way ahead, London is already beginning to ring with the hammers of the grand stand builders.

It is safe to say that not fewer than 100,000 seats on grand stands will be provided, at prices ranging from one to 15 to 20 guineas.

The route for the coronation procession does not lend itself to much enterprise on the part of the grand stand builder as most of the open space is Government property.

A notable exception is the frontage to the Westminster Hospital, where a stand for 2,000 persons will be erected. Prices here range from five to 20 guineas, including breakfast and lunch and seatholders here will, of course, obtain a view of the procession both arriving and departing from the abbey.

Stands for the naval and military departments will be erected behind the Admiralty building, near to the Mall archway, while Parliament square and New Palace yard will be devoted to the use of members of Parliament.

One of the few private sites is the piece of vacant land adjoining Messrs. Drummond's Bank, close to the Mall Arch, and here 600 seats are to be placed at prices from three guineas upwards.

Along the Pall Mall and St. James street part of the route small stands will be wedged in between the legal and the material frontages of several premises, and here seats in front rows are fetching 15 guineas each, and "standing up" room, behind is offered at three guineas a head.

The royal progress on the second day offers more scope to the stand builder, and one firm alone have secured sites for about, 50,000 seats.

These include the space available as:

St. Clement Danes (Strand).
St. Mary-le-Strand.
St. Mary, Aldermanbury.
Christchurch, Westminster Bridge road.
St. Thomas' Hospital.

Other sites are situated in Piccadilly, Pall Mall, and St. James street, and here the prices range from three to 15 guineas.

A novel and welcome departure has been made by one firm, who, having secured the space round St. Martin's Church for a stand for the royal progress on June 23, have decided to let no seat at a higher price than five guineas. Three thousand seats are offered at prices from five guineas down to a guinea, although at King Edward's coronation front seats were sold at 15 to 20 guineas.

Black China a London Fad.

Though the women of London are having their gowns made up of the same brilliantly colored stuffs as their fashionable sisters in other countries, they are surrounding themselves with a setting of black. For some time black wall papers have been a fad of the wealthy English women, but more recently carpets and upholstery in the same sombre color have become the craze and now follows the latest development in a fancy for black china. Black tea services are being made by London firms. The cups are lined with white and have gilt edges. Other tea services are lined with color.

About 30 years ago black china was exceedingly fashionable. Then came the demand for china in lighter colors. The black china then in vogue used to be lined with a color to harmonize with the scheme of the room. If there were turquoise curtains and upholsteries the cups were blue inside and black outside. In the same way bedroom sets of black were sold. These frequently had the name of the owner engraved on the outside in gold or some color. These black bedroom sets will probably come into use again if the fad for black tea sets continues.

He Gave Up Shooting.

A novelist and dramatist who has had an exceptional career is Mr. John Galsworthy, who has been asking, apropos of the preparations being made by nations for aerial warfare, if "water and earth are not wide enough for men to kill each other on without disturbing the peace and beauty of the air and sky." At Harrow he was an athlete and a monitor, and began life as a barrister. But the work was distasteful, and ultimately he commenced to write, his first book being published in 1899, when he was thirty-two years of age. A delightful sidelight is thrown on Mr. Galsworthy's character by the fact that though once a keen sportsman, now he never touches a gun. Watching a dying bird one day, he suddenly found sport ugly, and gave it up forever.

From the Ranks.

Within eighteen years Col. Carter, who has been promoted to the command of the 2nd Scottish Rifles, has risen from the ranks to his present position entirely by merit and without interest, his career furnishing a striking illustration of what a capable man can do in the army. Col. Carter failed in his early days to get a commission and enlisted in the 4th Dragoon Guards. He was promoted to sergeant, and in a little over three years obtained a commission in the Black Watch at the age of twenty-four. He served with distinction in various wars, and five years ago obtained a brevet-colonelcy at the age of forty-two.

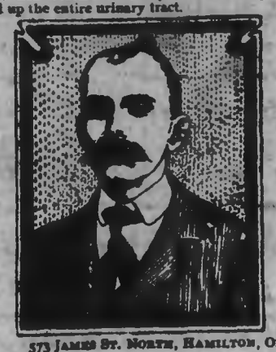
TWO DESPERATE CASES

These Two Men Owe Their Lives To GIN PILLS.

Stone in the bladder is a direct result of kidney trouble—one of the results of neglecting the kidneys that have taken cold or are slightly out of order. Mr. Herman and Mr. Lessard whose letters are given below, were in a bad way until they tried GIN PILLS which cured their trouble by removing the cause.

There is no other kidney pill anywhere that has the merits of GIN PILLS. Sick and diseased kidneys respond quickly to their treatment. Many a case of incipient Bright's or Diabetes has been cured by them. They cleanse, restore and build up the entire urinary tract.



573 JAMES ST. NORTH, HAMILTON, ONT.

Gentlemen,

Four years ago I was taken down with inflammation of the Bladder. During the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, the agony was unbearable, and I became so weak I could not walk across the floor. The doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me.

My wife sent for a box of GIN PILLS to try and see if they would help me. From the first they did me good—the pain was relieved at once, and the attacks began to come at longer intervals. I continued taking the pills for six weeks, and then, to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago came from me and my pain stopped. It is now three years since GIN PILLS cured me. I have had no return of the trouble, and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

There is not the slightest doubt that GIN PILLS saved my life. Yours gratefully, JOHN HERMAN.

JOLIETTE, P.Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with stone in the Bladder.

"He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life".

J. ALBERT LESSARD.

GIN PILLS are no un-tried, doubtful remedy. GIN PILLS have been used for years by thousands in every section of Canada. They are guaranteed by the largest wholesale drug houses in the world—and your money will be promptly refunded if GIN PILLS fail to give relief as guaranteed. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. FOOD COLORS.

If You Like Brown Victuals You Are a Person of Refinement!

An extraordinary food theory has been brought forward by Dr. J. S. Goodall, lecturer to the Middlesex Hospital Medical School. He declares that when you enter a restaurant and select a chocolate-colored food you unconsciously show yourself a man of taste and refinement; but if, on the contrary, you show a partiality for yellow-colored foods, your taste is most probably low and vulgar.

Dr. Goodall, in explaining his strange theory, says that he first made experiments with animals. "A cat, for instance," he says, "is very much influenced by the color of its food. In one experiment I placed a number of pieces of meat, each tinted a different color, before a cat. The animal looked at each piece carefully, and then selected the red-colored meat. Dogs, on the other hand, do not appear to use their visual sense like cats. If the food smells all right a dog will eat anything.

"Human beings are very sensitive as to the color of their food. By making inquiries among caterers I found that chocolate-colored foods were easily the most popular among the educated classes. The poorer classes have a liking for yellow. One of the reasons of this may be that they think such foods are richer than others."

Pink is by far the most popular color with children. If a child is offered the choice of a pink and a yellow sweet, the pink variety will invariably be selected. Curiously enough, however, foods artistically colored green appear to be avoided by all.

Dr. G. Norman Meachen, the well-known dietetic specialist, upholds the view that diners-out are largely influenced in their appetites by the color of the foods which are brought before them.

"Certain colors," he says, "stimulate the appetite and digestion, while others have the reverse effect. White foods, such as white fish, are stimulants to the appetite.

"Personally, my appetite has often been stimulated by certain colors. I have entered a restaurant with very feeble appetite and ordered a steak. The steak has come up a crisp, reddish, chocolate-brown in color. I look at it, and immediately begin to feel hungry. Brown baked potatoes have also this effect on me.

"It is my theory that brown and blue are not conducive to a healthy appetite, and to sit down to dinner in a green-papered room often destroys one's desire for food at all."

TWO DESPERATE CASES

These Two Men Owe Their Lives To GIN PILLS.

Stone in the bladder is a direct result of kidney trouble—one of the results of neglecting the kidneys that have taken cold or are slightly out of order. Mr. Herman and Mr. Lessard whose letters are given below, were in a bad way until they tried GIN PILLS which cured their trouble by removing the cause.

There is no other kidney pill anywhere that has the merits of GIN PILLS. Sick and diseased kidneys respond quickly to their treatment. Many a case of incipient Bright's or Diabetes has been cured by them. They cleanse, restore and build up the entire urinary tract.

573 JAMES ST. NORTH, HAMILTON, ONT.

Gentlemen,

Four years ago I was taken down with inflammation of the Bladder. During the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, the agony was unbearable, and I became so weak I could not walk across the floor. The doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me.

My wife sent for a box of GIN PILLS to try and see if they would help me. From the first they did me good—the pain was relieved at once, and the attacks began to come at longer intervals. I continued taking the pills for six weeks, and then, to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago came from me and my pain stopped. It is now three years since GIN PILLS cured me. I have had no return of the trouble, and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

There is not the slightest doubt that GIN PILLS saved my life. Yours gratefully, JOHN HERMAN.

JOLIETTE, P.Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with stone in the Bladder.

"He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life".

J. ALBERT LESSARD.

GIN PILLS are an un-tried, doubtful remedy. GIN PILLS have been used for years by thousands in every section of Canada. HE IS OUT TO SUCCEED

THE SCOT FINDS HIS WAY TO THE HIGH PLACES.

Writer In Ottawa Free Press Discusses the Method by Which the Canny Products of the Northern Race Manage to Get Into the Good Jobs—The Failures Are Kept Out of Sight.

An amusing article, said to be "by an Englishman," appears in The Ottawa Free Press. We quote these interesting extracts:

Not so very long ago I accepted the legend that the Scots were a superior race, with constitutions like iron, the product of standard porridge, and with brains made keen by an educational system unparalleled in the world.

I laugh at myself now. I could count upon the fingers of one hand the Scotsmen I know who take porridge in the morning—though the Scots are at the present day doing a roaring trade in selling porridge-making stuff to their neighbors.

As to their educational system, what success it has appears to be due to their greed. No one in Scotland will pay for the education of his children if he can get it off the rates. This is the true reason why the "Provost's loon" and the "scavenger's loon" sit side by side in the rate-supported schools, catch the measles from each other, and imbibe the Scotchman's axiom of life that it is man's first duty to get the better of some one else.

Let us briefly examine the result of all this. We see Lord Strathcona and Lord Mount Stephen, those eminent cousins, starting life as cow-tenders, and ending by appropriating Canada. Sir John Houston Reid, the son of a Scottish parson, dropped down in Australia, became its Prime Minister, and is now its High Commissioner.

There is no English Church left. The Archbishop of Canterbury is a Scotsman, and so is the Archbishop of York, who was brought up a psalm-singing Calvinist, while Archdeacon Sinclair, of London, is president of the Caithness Society.

Turn to British politics. The Prime Minister only holds his position because he married a Scottish lady and was captured by a Scotch constituency. His predecessor, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, was a Scotsman; and Mr. Balfour, who was Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's predecessor, is a Scotsman. So is Lord Rosebery, another ex-Prime Minister. So also, by descent, was Mr. Gladstone. The Lord Chancellor is a Scotsman, and so is his probable successor, Mr. Haldane, now Secretary of War. Mr. John Burns is a Scotsman. The Chief Liberal Whip is a Scotsman.

Sir Edward Hamilton, Permanent Secretary to the Treasury, is Scotch Sir Robert Hamilton Lang has for years controlled the finances of Turkey, while Mr. John Lavery, the artist, has got himself into almost every painters' society on the continent. Sir Alex. Mackenzie, another tramp of the Caledonian road, is principal of the Royal College of Music, while Sir William McGregor, after annexing New Guinea to Great Britain, earned many other guineas as governor of various colonies. Sir Henry Babington Smith, Secretary to the postoffice, is, of course, a Scotsman, as is also Mr. Robert Henderson, secretary of the Board of Customs.

An Edinburgh man once visited London for the first time. On returning, he was asked what he thought of the English. "I did na' see them," he replied. "I only interviewed the heads of the departments."

What I have chiefly to complain of is the vast organization of Scots which exists in London, and has for its object what might be vulgarly called "downing the Englishman."

To the English nation the Scot is three times as deadly as the Jew. The Jew works alone; every Scot in London has one hundred and ninety nine thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine other Scots at his back.

Let one Scot get a footing in a firm, and his countrymen flock to him. Let a Scot be chief of a department, and in effect a notice is posted on its door: "No Englishman need apply."

Where, it may be asked, are broken-down Scotsmen to be found in London? It suits the Scots' purpose to make people believe that they all succeed. Of course, they do not. Up one of the alleys off Fleet street there is a gloomy building where are locked up the secrets of the army of Scotsmen who have not sufficient brains, or are too great tipplers, to get on, however hard they may be pushed. Up this alley go the unemployable Scots, and their fellow-countrymen in the metropolis pay their fares home to Scotland, or in some other fashion get them out of the way. Failure is the only devil that Scotsmen dread. They hide away his victims.

A Ticket Machine.

The Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Co. have installed a remarkable automatic machine at Sandhills Station, Liverpool, by which, on dropping a penny in a slot, a ticket is printed, dated, and cut. The machine is worked electrically, the power being supplied from the live rail. When the supply of cardboard is running short the clerks in the office are warned by the ringing of a bell.

SICK HEADACHES AND NERVOUSNESS

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured Me.

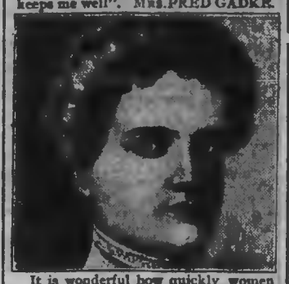
LAKELET, ONT., May 12th, 1910.

"It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This extreme Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking Doctor's medicine.

Constipation was also a source of great trouble for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life" but "Fruit-a-tives" has banished these troubles and I am a well woman.

When I started taking "Fruit-a-tives", I took four at a time, but have reduced the dose so that it is only necessary for me to take one in a week, and that one "Fruit-a-tives" tablet every week keeps me well". MRS. FRED GADKR.



It is wonderful how quickly women get better when taking "Fruit-a-tives". These famous fruit tablets relieve headaches and tone up the whole nervous system. They regulate the bowels, strengthen the stomach, stimulate the appetite, and take away that pain in the back. Pale, weak, nervous women should always use "Fruit-a-tives".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE MAY QUEEN.

Towns Which Still Hold Revel In the Merry Month.

People are beginning to understand that many of our ancient customs and festivals possessed virtues which were denied to them a few years ago, when things of no apparent practical utility were regarded as useless. And so there has been a revival in England of the old custom of crowning the May Queen.

One of the most famous of these May Day festivals is that which takes place at Knutsford in Cheshire. The first blow to many of our customs of making merry occurred during the stern days of Puritanism, when most of them were suppressed, and Knutsford's May celebrations suffered with the rest.

However, more tolerant days saw the revival of the Cheshire festival, and for forty years it has been celebrated in an elaborate manner. The houses are gaily decorated, and thousands of people from Cheshire and Lancashire pour into the town to see the procession.

This is timed to start at two o'clock, and forms up outside the Town Hall. In front go jacks-in-the-green, morris-dancers, jesters, Robin Hood and his men, monks, and other old-time characters, the Queen herself having the place of honor towards the rear.

She is immediately preceded by her courtiers and officials, among whom are the royal falconer, the beefeaters, and the standard-bearers. Attendants carry the crown, sceptre, and sword, while maids-of-honor surround the Queen herself.

The procession makes for the heath, round which it parades once; and then the Queen is escorted to her throne, so that she may preside over the revels that follow. These include a Maypole dance, and morris-dances, which are immensely enjoyed by the children taking part in them. Then comes the great event—the crowning of the Queen.

Another place which celebrates May Day by crowning its Queen is Flore, near Weedon, in Northamptonshire. Flore rejoices in democratic institutions, and chooses its monarch by vote. The village girls elect one of their number on account of her pleasing manners, good conduct, and kindness to the younger children.

Among other places which usually elect and crown a May Queen is Llandudno, where the monarch for one day only is usually chosen from among the best families of Llandudno, Conway, and the district generally, the revels being carried out in a right royal manner.

Not many years ago the Duchess of Westminster crowned the May Queen. After a procession round the ancient town of Denbigh, the company made for the old castle, within the walls of which the young Queen was enthroned.

Everyone has heard of the great doings at Whitlands College, Chelsea, where the girls elect a Queen every year with great ceremony. This custom was started by Ruskin, about thirty years ago, and for some time he made a practice of presenting the girl who was chosen with a gold necklet-chain and cross.

Beat Nellie Blythe.

Lorenzo Prince, managing editor of La Presse, Montreal, has had a unique experience as a globe-trotter. In May, 1901, a number of papers endeavored to have the record of Nellie Blythe lowered by one of their staff. Three American papers, The London Times, The Berliner Tageblatt and Le Matin, Paris, were soon in the field against Mr. Prince, who won hands down, establishing a record of circling the globe in 62 days and three hours.

UNDESIRABLE TOMMIES.

When a Little British Army Goes a (Drum) Long Way.

When a recruiting-sergeant is addressed as "sergeant-major" by a would-be recruit, who is scrupulously clean-shaven and studiously slouching in gait, and careful to advertise his abysmal ignorance of army matters, that recruiting-sergeant is forthwith on the alert. For these are merely some of the disguises of the rogues who make a profession of sampling British regiments, and, accordingly, the recruiting-sergeant sets his wits to work.

Perhaps a sudden shout from behind of "Attention!" will give the game away, or, as the recruit departs from the recruiting-office with his first day's pay, probably intending never to return, a piano near at hand may crash out a brisk march. He automatically changes his step, or marches in time, and in a trice the recruiting-sergeant's hand is on his collar. That piano-playing has been arranged!

Yet another device is to get a bugler to sound the "Fire-alarm!" outside the room where the recruits are being tested. The man who has once served in the army could hardly fail to give a start of apprehension on hearing that.

Despite these and other ingenious precautions, however, there are still numerous rogues who make a good thing out of the ease with which one may enlist in England.

"Why did that new recruit purposely salute me with the wrong hand?" a depot captain recently asked himself. The man was charged with fraudulent enlistment, and subsequently confessed that he had sampled no fewer than eleven regular regiment and four militia ones! It was estimated by the pay department that he had during his career defrauded the public of approximately $280.

Sometimes degenerate doctors, actors, and artists drift aimlessly from one regiment to another. One ex-barrister, captured whilst serving in a Scotch regiment, claimed to have sampled four foreign armies and seven British regiments in the space of four years; and these, as a rule, have no criminal intent. Then there is the man who, being only engaged with a traveling circus in the summer, or singing at a seaside resort, needs a haven for the winter, and enlists—only to desert when spring arrives, year after year.

Gorgeous Mantles.

It is possible that Knights of the Garter, the Thistle, St. Patrick, the Bath, Star of India, St. Michael and St. George, and the Indian Empire will be allowed to wear the mantles which indicate their respective orders at the coronation. If this idea is followed out additional splendor will be added to the scene in the Abbey, for the mantles are of a very gorgeous description. The mantle of the Garter, for instance, is of dark-blue velvet, lined with taffetas. With this there is a surcoat of crimson velvet lined like the mantle and adorned like it, on the left breast, with an eight-pointed silver-embroidered star, within which is the red cross of St. George, the whole encircled by a miniature blue garter.

The mantle of the Thistle is of green velvet, and that of St. Patrick is of sky-blue tabbinet, lined with white silk. The mantle of the Bath is red, and on very high state occasions the knights are entitled to wear crimson surcoats, vest and breeches of white satin, white stockings and shoes, golden spurs, and a high-crowned hat with a plume of white feathers. The mantle of the Star of India is of light-blue satin, lined with white, and adorned with blue and silver tassels with a representation of the Star. The mantle and chapeau of St. Michael and St. George are of blue satin, lined with scarlet silk, the hat surmounted with black feathers.

Quite a contrast is afforded by the mantle of the Indian Empire, which is of purple satin, lined with white silk, and fastened with purple silk and gold tassels, and on its left a representation of the Star.

A Captain of Industry.

"To travel hopefully is better than to arrive, and the true success is labor." These words, once written by Robert Louis Stevenson, hang above the desk of Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge, the head of the enormous store in Oxford street, London, who was recently the victim in a motor smash. They provide the keynote of the character of the man who, starting life as a shop-sweeper, made such good use of his opportunities that, by the time he was thirty, he was a partner in the Marshall Field store in Chicago—a store which has earned joint fortunes for its owners amounting to over $500,000,000. Mr. Selfridge had retired from business, when, growing tired of a life of idleness, he turned his eyes towards London and ultimately founded the huge business in Oxford street.

Doyen Ruler of Europe.

The oldest ruler in Europe is the Prince Regent of Bavaria, upon whom, on the occasion of his ninetieth birthday recently, King George conferred the Order of the Garter. He has had the unique experience of acting as regent of that country during the insanity of two kings. Twenty-five years ago the Prince Regent's nephew, King Louis II. of Bavaria, was declared insane, and the prince was proclaimed regent. Three days later the King committed suicide, and was succeeded by King Otto, who is now sixty-three years of age, and who has been insane since 1875. The prince is extremely popular in Bavaria on account of his sporting proclivities.

The Head.

"Now, my boy, you say you do not know what the head of a regiment is called? Your papa is a soldier, isn't he?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, who makes him mind?"

"Mamma."

THUGS CARRY OFF A GIRL

NEW YORK, JULY 7.—Five young men, believed to have been members of a notorious west side gang, jumped from a taxicab in Central Park last night, ran through shrubbery to a bench, shot a youngman there and carried off the young woman with them. The put the girl inside the taxicab and were gone before anyone of a number of spectators, including a policeman, could reach them, or could even get the number of their automobile.

Frederick H. Raine, 21 years old, is the man that was shot. He escaped with a scalp wound.

LEAPS TO DEATH

Aged Inventor Driven Mad by Failure to Get Audience From Steel Officials Jumps From 14th Story

EVERY BONE BROKEN

PITTSBURG, JULY 7. — Office boys grinned derisively this afternoon while an old man exploited his genius as an inventor and insisted on seeing officials of the Carnegie Steel Company. While the youngsters laughed at his talk, the old man suddenly sprang to the window of the 14-story office and leaped to his death in Fifth avenue.

He was Peter H. Peterson of Washington, Pa., a steel stockholder. Hundreds witnessed the tragedy and a number of women shoppers narrowly missed being struck by the falling body, every bone in which was broken.

Peterson was an eccentric character but he had inventive genius. This he had applied to the contrivance of an electric switch used in coal mines. He had called at the office of the Carnegie Campany to see officials about another patent. Few officials were in their offices, and they were engaged, so the secretary politely informed the old man that he could not get an audience with them at the time.

The man began to criticize the report of the company that had been published in the newspapers earlier in the day, and he then launched into an exploitation of his patents. When the office boys laughed at his earnestness, the old man became indignant. He edged toward the window, but none of the people present divined his purpose.

Before a hand could be reached out to stop him he had cleared the sill and was hurling through space.

Last March he was earning $8 per week, clerking in Eaton's store. Last week we placed him with the H. W. Petrie Machinery Co. at $12 per week. On May 28th his elder brother enrolled for a 30-day course with Moon College. Still some will sneer at 30-Day Shorthand.

MAY SUE CARUSO

Special to The Examiner.

ROME, JULY 1.—Caruso's love affairs are threatening to reach an acute stage.

The story of his adventure with the Milanese shopgirl is well known, and it is also known that, having thrown her over, he was asked to pay damages of $50,000. The girl, he says, has already cost him nearly $3,000 in money, travelling expenses and presents, but she and her parents strongly deny this statement, saying his "generosity" did not go beyond a few hundred dollars which he spent for her on her first journey to Berlin, when he called her there. She says the presents which are still in her possession, were gifts which Caruso himself had from others.

Following the advice of their lawyers, the girl and her parents will try to catch Caruso in America. There, they feel sure, such action would be taken as would enable them to confiscate money due to Caruso, when he sings, and in certain states they can even have him arrested and put in prison, while in Italy there is no imprisonment for such offences.

OLD POWER HOUSE COMPLETELY DEMOLISHED

Thrilling Experience On Buckhorn Lake

A Local Man and Some Friends Have Narrow Escape From Being Drowned in Bad Storm on Thursday---Were Out in Towing Yacht

Another thrilling incident of yesterday morning's storm has come to light, in the form of an adventure on Buckhorn Lake. Mr. Ernest Mann of the Mann Cheese Box Factory, and a couple of other men and a little boy, had a very narrow escape from drowning during the storm. They were out in the middle of Buckhorn Lake in the "Hattie Bell," a little fifty-foot towing tug, and were taking a drive of logs down the lake, when the squall struck them. One of those who were in the boat related a very thrilling account of their adventure to-day. The squall struck the boat broad-side to the storm, and it heeled over, half filling with water which put out the fire of the engine. All on board, even the little boy, worked for dear life. They cut the tow rope and cast anchor as rapidly as possible. It was stated that the boat, which has proven itself a very staunch craft, was lifted right out of the water. One of the residents of that neighbourhood stated that it was the worst storm he had seen in his life. His barn was struck by lightning and utterly smashed to pieces, as well as a number of other buildings.

Hail stones, which were nothing but large ragged chunks of ice, fell in showers, crushing and smashing everything. The crops suffered great damage also.

EARL SCHWEIER SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON

Young Man Who Broke Into House on Sherbrooke St. Gets Above Sentence This Morning---A Local Man Fined $20.00 Other Cases

Six months in the Central Prison, was the sentence meted out to a beardless youth of 17 in the police court this morning.

Earl Schweier's past record is not an enviable one. He has already served four years in the Mimico Reformatory and prior to this new charge of housebreaking, was out on suspended sentence.

"I have done everything to help you to grow up in decency and honesty," said his Worship, in addressing the prisoner. "You have put the community to a large expense and you are at present under suspended sentence. Notwithstanding that, you commit the crime of housebreaking. Kind methods have been used upon you, but you have abused them."

Schweier's crime was that of breaking into a house on Sherbrooke street and stealing a quantity of goods.

Robt. Sheridan, a blacklister, was fined $20 and $3.75 costs for violation of the liquor law. He has left for parts unknown.

Splendid Concert Was Given By The 57th Band

One of the most enjoyable concerts of the season was given by the 57th Regimental Band under the direction of Mr. Gliddon at Victoria Park last night to an immense crowd. The band was in splendid form and played a splendid programme with a snap and vim that was thoroughly appreciated as the enthusiastic applause indicated. In several cases encores had to be given. Band Sergt. Hughes made a decided hit with his cornet solo, "Columbia Polka" which he played in his usual masterly fashion and had to respond to an encore, giving a beautiful rendit ion of the favourite "Love's Old Sweet Song." The excerpt from "Madame Sherry" featuring the haunting "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning of Its Own" was played magnificently by the band—almost by sight too, as the members saw the score for the first time at the rehearsal the night before. Whistling was introduced into the refrain with a charming effect. The descriptive number "The Forge in the Forest' was another gem that has lost none of its popularity, the band doing full justice to the fine selections. A medley of Russian Folk songs was splendidly presented, as was the beautiful overture, from "The Barber of Seville." Among the lighter numbers were the "Wee McGregor Patrol," "Kansas Two-Step" and the intermezzo "Valley Flower."

When Indians Reigned Supreme Throughout North America

The Indians have come and gone. Their passing has been consistent with the rapid advance of civilization. There are still a number of the old settlers living to-day who can impart to us considerable information concerning the habits of the few scattered bands of Indians who roamed over this country sixty or seventy years ago, the remnants of a once powerful race.

To go back to the time when the Indians reigned supreme throughout British North America hunting the wild and woolly buffalo on the vast plains of the Northwest or when engaged in the work of eliminating their enemies or even at the peaceful occupation of fishing or basket making. We would have to go back a hundred years or more.

The civilization of the Indian dates back to the time that the first white man set foot on British North America. The Indians in Canada represent its historic age. The story of the white man's advent into a country, which was populated and practically ruled by this savage race would fill volumes. Chief Joseph Whetung of Victoria County called into the Examiner the other day and related a couple of interesting early days.

In 1835 Chief Whetung's grandparents who were once pagans, were fishing through the ice at the mouth of Emily Creek in the township of Vermillion, when they saw coming toward them a black object. They watched as it came closer and closer. One of them said "it is a black devil," but when it reached the spot where they were fishing it turned out to be a white man driving a horse and cutter. This was the first time these Indians had seen a white man. The white man in quest ion offered to purchase some of the fish, but not knowing the language of the Indians, communications by signs had to be resorted to. He offered the Indians a one dollar bill for some of the fish. But Chief Whetung's father who was among the company, refused to accept it, thinking that it was no good as currency. He said he didnt want a piece of paper. He wanted a white silver.

The white man again searched his pockets and abstracted a fifty cent piece. This Chief Whetung's father accepted with eager gusto. Shortly after this Chief Whetung's grandfather was in Port Hope and was given a quantity of potatoes by a white man. On his return to the Indian encampment he called his people around him and together they held a consultation as to whether the potatoes should be cooked or eaten raw. Finally they decided to eat them raw. This was the first time that these Indians had ever seen potatoes in any form.

BOATS STRIKE SUNKEN LOGS IN SCUGOG RIVER

LINDSAY, JULY 8.—The Sturgeon Point cottagers are up in arms owing to the number of sunken logs in the Scugog river, especially in the vicinity of Lindsay and will in all probability send a complaint to the Minister of Public Works, asking that the river be cleaned up. This condition of affairs is very annoying to the many launch owners who go up and down every day. It is especially dangerous at night; a number of launches have struck many sunken logs during the past week, owing to the fact that the water has gone down. The Manita has also had considerable trouble and is bumping logs every few yards and the other day it was thought that a hole had been punched in the boat as she received such a severe jolt.—Lindsay Post.

Drug Clerk Is In a Most Serious Condition

Shaw The Carp Man Who was Shot by Reeve McRae May Not Live Twenty-four Hours---Crown Attorney Protests Against Manner in Which the Case Has Been Conducted

CORNWALL, ONT., JULY 7.—The attendance at the arraignment this morning of Reeve F. D. McRae who is charged with shooting Shaw the Carp drug clerk, at Bridge End Glengarry, when Dr. Magee tried to recover his son last Saturday, was much smaller than most people anticipated. In fact, outside of the neighbours and friends of Mr. McRae, the accused uncle of Mrs. Magee, who had come up to hear the case, less than two score were present. Police Magistrate Danis of Cornwall, presided. Counties Attroney Dingwall appeared for the Crown, J A. Chisholm and R. A. Pringle, K. C., for the prisoner.

Mr. Dingwall said that the complaint was improper and objected to the ante-mortem statement of Shaw which was drawn up by Mr. Pringle who now appeared for the defence. He had not been permitted to see the wounded man. He read a note from Dr. D. O. Alguire that shows that Shaw's condition was much worse that he might not live twenty-four hours. He could not understand why he had not been sent for when Mr. Shaw's statement was made. He had telegraphed to Dr. Magee to be here this morning, but he had not arrived and he, the Counties' Attorney, was not at the moment, prepared to go on. The charge should be changed from shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm to shooting with intent to murder.

Pringle's Explanation.

R. A. Pringle explained that he was called out at bed time to the Cornwall General Hospital to take the ante-mortem statement of Mr. Shaw, who was said to have a very short time to live. He would have been recreant to his duty had he not gone at once, which he did. The police magistrate was then roused and taken to the town hall, where the various sections of the act were read to Dr. Magee and the information laid on which Mr. McRae was arrested on Monday. He had declined being retained, for the prosecution, until he had consulted Dr. Magee by phone. With the laying of the information his duties ended.

$15,000 Bail Offered.

Mr. Pringle then pointed out that a prisoner convicted under either sections 264 or 273 das liable to the same punishment. He had no objection to a reasonable remand of seven days, but would ask that Mr. McRae be released on bail in the meantime. They were willing to give $15,000 bail He pointed out Mr. McRae was a well-known farmer, who besides his own work, had to attend to his duties as Reeve of Lancaster Township.

Police Magistrate Danish said that he did not wish to exercise his power to grant bail just at present. He would suspend his judgment on this point in the meantime, and would remand the accused until ext Friday.

It will be remembered that Shaw was shot by McRae who leaving with h theautomobile paty that had tried to recover Dr. Magee's baby, which the mother, a Roman Catholic, who left her husband because of religious differences, possessed.

Self Defence Will Be Plea Of Girls On Trial Hunting For Letters

Special to The Examiner:

New York, July 7tr.—When the hearing of Lilian Graham and Ethel Conrad, accused of the attempted murder of W. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire, was resumed before Magistrate Freschi to-day, it was plain that the girls intended to insist that they shot in self-defense. The aged club man, still on the stand, was severely cross-examined by Clark Jordan, attorney for the girls, the latter endeavoring to show that Stokes was not sent for by Miss Conrad to get the letters that he had written to Miss Graham, but that he went to the house hoping to see the Conrad girl alone.

That some of these letters are still missing developed to-day, and an effort is to be made to ascertain their whereabouts. Attorneys for the girls want to know why it is that the private detective of Stoke's hotel, the Ansonia, was permitted to ransack their apartments, to take the letters from a tin box in a closet, when the apartment was supposed to be under the guard of the local police department.

On behalf of the girls, Attorney Jordan said just before court opened, that he had a number of witnesses who have not yet been mentioned in the case whom he will call if necessary. He refused to indicate who they were or what they would testify to.

"Before we are done with this case" he aded, significantly, "we will make Mr. Stokes sorrybe did not follow out his original intention of going to Europe and dropping the case."

The following extracts from W. E. D. Stokes' letters to Lillian Graham might be termed "A Worldly Man's Advice to a Young Girl."

"Marry some rich young fellow whose companionship will be worth more to you than all the worthless admiration of a cheap stage or a heartless social life."

"Nomatter how nice a girl is, let her once go on the stage and she is spoiled."

"Keep your head. Don't touch wine, beers or liquors. They will ruin your complexion."

"Get this little cheque cashed, and when the money comes blow it on something."

"I am too old, so all I can do is to be polite, and some day I will come across a divorcee or a widow who has had all the matrimonial experience she wants for life, and we can be just good friends."

"I want to talk over with you a Chicago widow. She has a little nose and black hair, and does not like Chicago because of the dirty streets, the jogs and such things remind her of her late husband."

"I am over twice as old as you, and I advise you to drop all ideas of stage life; there's nothing in it. If you won't take my advice, I can't blame you, for I told Maude Adams when she was a little girl that she was sure to make a failure of it if she went on the stage."

"Keep your head. . . . The most crushing part of your letters is to give your love to Clarence. I never heard of such a cruel act in my life."

The two defendants and Miss Graham's sister, Mrs. John Singleton, wife of a wealthy California mining man, who accompanies them in court, listened to Stokes' testimony yesterday with frequent derisive smiles. All three dress in the daintiest of summer costumes and present a refreshing sight in the torrid court room.

Rev. Mr. Rochester Puts It Up To Mr. Foy About Lord's Day Act

TORONTO, JULY 7.—W. M. Rochester, clerical secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, said yesterday in regard to the action of the board of control, in asking the city council to confer with the attorney-general and the police commissioners, "with a view of securing, according to the wording of their resolution ,a more reasonable enforcement of the law of Sunday observance in the city," said that it appeared to him that there was some misunderstanding with respect to the situation.

In the first place, the present situation has been created by the action of the police in enforcing the Lord's Day Act in certain particulars, under the direction of the crown attorney, whose authority in this particular has been a judgment of the court.

"This judgment is one given by Mr. Justice Middleton, and was rendered in connection with the trial of certain parties representing restaurant keepers, hotels, news stands and druggists charged with the violation of the Lord's Day Act by selling, in the case of restaurants, cigars, candies and soft drinks to be taken off the premises; and in the case of the hotels and druggists, cigars," he said.

Up to Attorney-General.

"The meaning of this deliverance, as interpreted by the crown attorney, is, that restaurants and hotels must not on Sunday, do a merchant's business, i.e., to sell goods to be taken off the premises. Secondly, the druggists must confine their Sunday trade to the selling of medicines, etc. The action o fthe authorities was, therefre, suggested and directed by the authority of the court in interpreting the Provincial Lord's Day Act. The stated cases were taken at the instance and under the direction of the attorney-general's department for the distinct purpose of securing an authoritative deliverance that could guide magistrates and other administrative officers in the enforcement of the law, in other

WILD WEST SHOW ARRIVED THIS MORNING

The Young Buffalo Bill Wild West Show arrived in the city from Lindsay at an early hour this morning. Two large trains carried the show, which, after detraining, pitched its tents on the Exhibition grounds. This morning, the streets were crowded with large numbers of citizens watching for the parade. About 11 o'clock the brass bands blared forth, announcing, that the procession was on its way, and was eagerly watched by every eye. Everything was spick and span, and it was a veritable reproduction of scenes in the wild West. There were cowboys, Indians, cow girls, Mexicans, cavalry men and rough riders, and an old stage coach with a history. The horses were very fine animals, and a feature of the parade was Col. Stewart and his 20-ox-team.

Even at the very early hour at which the train arrived this morning, there were numerous citizens at the station to see it detrain. It is expected that the show will be well patronized this afternoon, as the parade display won the admiration of the thousands who watched it.

A medley of Russian Folk songs was splendidly presented, as was the beautiful overture, from "The Barber of Seville." Among the lighter numbers were the "Wee McGregor Patrol," "Kansas Two-Step" and the intermezzo "Valley Flower."

When Indians Reigned Supreme Throughout North America

The Indians have come and gone. Their passing has been consistent with the rapid advance of civilization. There are still a number of the old settlers living to-day who can impart to us considerable information concerning the habits of the few scattered bands of Indians who roamed over this country sixty or seventy years ago, the remnants of a once powerful race.

To go back to the time when the Indians reigned supreme throughout British North America hunting the wild and woolly buffalo on the vast plains of the Northwest or when engaged in the work of eliminating their enemies or even at the peaceful occupation of fishing or basket making. We would have to go back a hundred years or more.

The civilization of the Indian dates back to the time that the first white man set foot on British North America. The Indians in Canada represent its historic age. The story of the white man's advent into a country, which was populated and practically ruled by this savage race would fill volumes. Chief Joseph Whetung of Victoria County called into the Examiner the other day and related a couple of interesting early days.

In 1835 Chief Whetung's grandparents who were once pagans, were fishing through the ice at the mouth of Emily Creek in the township of Vermillion, when they saw coming toward them a black object. They watched as it came closer and closer. One of them said "it is a black devil," but when it reached the spot where they were fishing it turned out to be a white man driving a horse and cutter. This was the first time these Indians had seen a white man. The white man in quest ion offered to purchase some of the fish, but not knowing the language of the Indians, communications by signs had to be resorted to. He offered the Indians a one dollar bill for some of the fish. But Chief Whetung's father who was among the company, refused to accept it, thinking that it was no good as currency. He said he didnt want a piece of paper. He wanted a white silver.

The white man again searched his pockets and abstracted a fifty cent piece. This Chief Whetung's father accepted with eager gusto. Shortly after this Chief Whetung's grandfather was in Port Hope and was given a quantity of potatoes by a white man. On his return to the Indian encampment he called his people around him and together they held a consultation as to whether the potatoes should be cooked or eaten raw. Finally they decided to eat them raw. This was the first time that these Indians had ever seen potatoes in any form.

BOATS STRIKE SUNKEN LOGS IN SCUGOG RIVER

LINDSAY, JULY 8.—The Sturgeon Point cottagers are up in arms owing to the number of sunken logs in the Scugog river, especially in the vicinity of Lindsay and will in all probability send a complaint to the Minister of Public Works, asking that the river be cleaned up. This condition of affairs is very annoying to the many launch owners who go up and down every day. It is especially dangerous at night; a number of launches have struck many sunken logs during the past week, owing to the fact that the water has gone down. The Manita has also had considerable trouble and is bumping logs every few yards and the other day it was thought that a hole had been punched in the boat as she received such a severe jolt.—Lindsay Post.

Drug Clerk Is In a Most Serious Condition

Shaw The Carp Man Who was Shot by Reeve McRae May Not Live Twenty-four Hours---Crown Attorney Protests Against Manner in Which the Case Has Been Conducted

CORNWALL, ONT., JULY 7.—The attendance at the arraignment this morning of Reeve F. D. McRae who is charged with shooting Shaw the Carp drug clerk, at Bridge End Glengarry, when Dr. Magee tried to recover his son last Saturday, was much smaller than most people anticipated. In fact, outside of the neighbours and friends of Mr. McRae, the accused uncle of Mrs. Magee, who had come up to hear the case, less than two score were present. Police Magistrate Danis of Cornwall, presided. Counties Attorney Dingwall appeared for the Crown, J. A. Chisholm and R. A. Pringle, K. C., for the prisoner.

Mr. Dingwall said that the complaint was improper and objected to the ante-mortem statement of Shaw which was drawn up by Mr. Pringle who now appeared for the defence. He had not been permitted to see the wounded man. He read a note from Dr. D. O. Alguire that shows that Shaw's condition was much worse that he might not live twenty-four hours. He could not understand why he had not been sent for when Mr. Shaw's statement was made. He has telegraphed to Dr. Magee to be here this morning, but he had not arrived and he, the Counties' Attorney, was not at the moment, prepared to go on. The charge should be changed from shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm to shooting with intent to murder.

Pringle's Explanation.

R. A. Pringle explained that he was called out at bed time to the Cornwall General Hospital to take the ante-mortem statement of Mr. Shaw, who was said to have a very short time to live. He would have been recreant to his duty had he not gone at once, which he did. The police magistrate was then roused and taken to the town hall, where the various sections of the act were read to Dr. Magee and the information laid on which Mr. McRae was arrested on Monday. He had declined being retained, for the prosecution, until he had consulted Dr. Magee by 'phone. With the laying of the information his duties ended.

$15,000 Bail Offered.

Mr. Pringle then pointed out that a prisoner convicted under either sections 264 or 273 das liable to the same punishment. He had no objection to a reasonable remand of seven days, but would ask that Mr. McRae be released on bail in the meantime. They were willing to give $15,000 bail He pointed out Mr. McRae was a well-known farmer, who besides his own work, had to attend to his duties as Reeve of Lancaster Township.

Police Magistrate Danish said that he did not wish to exercise his power to grant bail just at present. He would suspend his judgment on this point in the meantime, and would remand the accused until ext Friday.

It will be remembered that Shaw was shot by McRae who leaving with h theautomobile paty that had tried to recover Dr. Magee's baby, which the mother, a Roman Catholic, who left her husband because of religious differences, possessed.

Self Defence Will Be Plea Of Girls On Trial Hunting For Letters

Special to The Examiner:

New York, July 7th.—When the hearing of Lilian Graham and Ethel Conrad, accused of the attempted murder of W. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire, was resumed before Magistrate Freschi to-day, it was plain that the girls intended to insist that they shot in self-defense. The aged club man, still on the stand, was severely cross-examined by Clark Jordan, attorney for the girls, the latter endeavoring to show that Stokes was not sent for by Miss Conrad to get the letters that he had written to Miss Graham, but that he went to the house hoping to see the Conrad girl alone.

That some of these letters are still missing developed to-day, and an effort is to be made to ascertain their whereabouts. Attorneys for the girls want to know why it is that the private detective of Stoke's hotel, the Ansonia, was permitted to ransack their apartments, to take the letters from a tin box in a closet, when the apartment was supposed to be under the guard of the local police department.

On behalf of the girls, Attorney Jordan said just before court opened, that he had a number of witnesses who have not yet been mentioned in the case whom he will call if necessary. He refused to indicate who they were or what they would testify to.

"Before we are done with this case" he aded, significantly, "we will make Mr. Stokes sorrybe did not follow out his original intention of going to Europe and dropping the case."

The following extracts from W. E. D. Stokes' letters to Lillian Graham might be termed "A Worldly Man's Advice to a Young Girl."

Marry some rich young fellow whose companionship will be worth more to you than all the worthless admiration of a cheap stage or a heartless social life."

"Nomatter how nice a girl is, let her once go on the stage and she is spoiled."

"Keep your head. Don't touch wine, beers or liquors. They will ruin your complexion."

"I am too old, so all I can do is to be polite, and some day I will come across a divorcee or a widow who has had all the matrimonial experience she wants for life, and we can be just good friends."

"I want to talk over with you a Chicago widow. She has a little nose and black hair, and does not like Chicago because of the dirty streets, the jogs and such things remind her of her late husband."

"I am over twice as old as you, and I advise you to drop all ideas of stage life; there's nothing in it. If you won't take my advice, I can't blame you, for I told Maude Adams when she was a little girl that she was sure to make a failure of it if she went on the stage."

"Keep your head. . . . . The most crushing part of your letters is to give your love to Clarence. I never heard of such a cruel act in my life."

The two defendants and Miss Graham's sister, Mrs. John Singleton, wife of a wealthy California mining man, who accompanies them in court, listened to Stokes' testimony yesterday with frequent derisive smiles. All three dress in the daintiest of summer costumes and present a refreshing sight in the torrid court room.

TORONTO, JULY 7.—W. M. Rochester, clerical secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, said yesterday in regard to the action of the board of control, in asking the city council to confer with the attorney-general and the police commissioners, "with a view of securing, according to the wording of their resolution ,a more reasonable enforcement of the law of Sunday observance in the city," said that it appeared to him that there was some misunderstanding with respect to the situation.

In the first place, the present situation has been created by the action of the police in enforcing the Lord's Day Act in certain particulars, under the direction of the crown attorney, whose authority in this particular has been a judgment of the court.

"This judgment is one given by Mr. Justice Middleton, and was rendered in connection with the trial of certain parties representing restaurant keepers, hotels, news stands and druggists charged with the violation of the Lord's Day Act by selling, in the case of restaurants, cigars, candies and soft drinks to be taken off the premises; and in the case of the hotels and druggists, cigars," he said.

Up to Attorney-General.

"The meaning of this deliverance, as interpreted by the crown attorney, is, that restaurants and hotels must not on Sunday, do a merchant's business, i.e., to sell goods to be taken off the premises. Secondly, the druggists must confine their Sunday trade to the selling of medicines, etc. The action o fthe authorities was, therefore, suggested and directed by the authority of the court in interpreting the provincial Lord's Day Act. The stated cases were taken at the instance and under the direction of the attorney-general's department for the distinct purpose of securing an authoritative deliverance that would guide magistrates and other administrative officers in the enforcement of the law, in other

WILD WEST SHOW ARRIVED THIS MORNING

The Young Buffalo Bill Wild West Show arrived in the city from Lindsay at an early hour this morning. Two large trains carried the show, which, after detraining, pitched its tents on the Exhibition grounds. This morning, the streets were crowded with large numbers of citizens watching for the parade. About 11 o'clock the brass bands blared forth, announcing, that the procession was on its way, and was eagerly watched by every eye. Everything was spick and span, and it was a veritable reproduction of scenes in the wild West. There were cowboys, Indians, cow girls, Mexicans, cavalry men and rough riders, and an old stage coach with a history. The horses were very fine animals, and a feature of the parade was Col. Stewart and his 20-ox-team.

Even at the very early hour at which the train arrived this morning, there were numerous citizens at the station to see it detrain. It is expected that the show will be well patronized this afternoon, as the parade display won the admiration of the thousands who watched it.

APOLOGIES DUE.

The discovery of the cause of destruction of the United States' battleship, Maine, in Havana harbour, shows how little justified the United States' government was in regarding the explosion as a causus belli. It was not a justification; it was only an excuse. The vessel has been raised and there is evidence that the ship was destroyed by an explosion from within—the ammunition magazine exploding lifted and crumpled back the deck, as no external explosion could have done. "Remember the Maine" became a battle cry, and a strong nation fell upon a decadent, weakened one and spoiled it. The lust of conquest, easily yielded to the popular outcry, and a war was the result. So far as the Spaniards gave cause, this war was an entirely unprovoked one. Would an arbitration treaty or treaties have the result of settling such questions without the arbitriment of armed force? If so, the sooner and the wider the arbitration principle, obtains international recognition and adoption, the better for the peace of the world. Under the circumstances, the United States owes an apology to Spain.

BRITISH CONNECTION.

The Grand Orange Lodge of British America has adopted a political platform, one of whose planks demands the continuance of British connection. With this adoption our whole population is pledged to British connection. Now we can say that every party, every interest, every individual, is in favour of British connection. Every interest in Canada, though it may not talk much loyalty, recognises that its highest welfare and deepest concerns are bound up with British connection. We have practical independence, in the form of practically complete self-government, and we have, what every citizen is bound to maintain, British connection. As to annexation to the United States, that is not to be thought of is no thought of by any Canadian citizen. As to political independence in the distant future, that will not come till the Mother country casts us off. Now that the Orange order has declared for British connection, we are solid on that score all along the line.

PROHIBITION AND BEER.

Some revision of the opinion that prohibition of the sale of intoxicants leads to decreased consumption of drunk, seems to be indicated by the statistics of the sale of beer in the United States. We know that a very large area of the United States is "dry"; nominally, at least; local prohibition is widely distributed. One would, therefore, think that consumption of drink would decrease. During the past year no fewer than sixty-three million barrels of beer have been consumed in the United States; about three quarters of a barrel to every man, woman and child. Excluding the population of the "dry" districts, the average would be much higher. This consumption is equivalent to an increase of 6.21 per cent. The whisky bill of the United States last year was the enormous figure of 146 millions of dollars, an increase of 8 millions, or 5.6 per cent. over the preceding year. These facts are not to say that prohibition does not prohibit; it is possible that without prohibition the increase would have been much greater. Human habits, especially if they are bad, are hard to cure. Taking away the appetite for drink and establishing a sound principle in its stead—the principle of doing right because it is right, from conviction and not from compulsion—is a good basis of reform—the only one that can absolutely be depended upon.

WEEDS AND WASTE.

On a conservative estimate, the reduction of yield of the field and garden crops of Ontario, due to weeds, amounts to at least 25 per cent. That is, if the annual yield of Ontario field crops is 250 million bushels, weeds are responsible for reducing the yield or preventing the production of 60 million bushels. Weeds are destructive to crops, by appropriating the soil fertility and moisture that should go to the growing crop, by crowding the crop plant, shading it and retarding its growth. The soil on which weeds flourish is the deep soil of neglect.

Weeds are not only destructive of the yield of field crops, but are as fatal to gardens, and an unsightly disfigurement. We have a few weeds in the streets of the city, several million more than we should have. Why do we have them? Because we don't try ,the right way, to get rid of them. In some streets, men with scythes are clipping off the tops of the most prominent weeds. This is a useless expense and waste of labour. It does not mean the destruction of a single weed. Besides, it adds to the disfigurement of the streets. Even a green growing weed has a natural beauty, but there is no beauty in untidy brown litter that results from the clipped weeds being left to turn brown and hideous along our pavements. The only way to deal with weeds is to destroy them. Mangling the tops of weeds with scythe is only scotching the snake, not killing it. If weeds were struck at the root and killed this year, there would be comparatively few to deal with next year. The city council is directly breaking the law in allowing weeds to flourish in the streets, and indirectly breaking the law by allowing the owners to allow weeds to flourish in vacant lots.

OPPORTUNITY FOR GROWTH.

Ontario's mines continue to be an attraction to large capital, showing what a valuable provincial and national asset they are. Representatives of big financial and mining interests in London, England, are combing to this country in August, and will proceed to spy out the richness of our mineral deposits.. The Central Mining and Investment Company has recently taken over and consolidated with their own the interests of Messrs. Wernhe, Peit & Co. and Messrs. Eckstein & Co., the largest operators in Kimberley and the South African Rand. These gentlemen are making a tour of Canada and will visit the most interesting mining localities in this country in company with G. G. S. Lindsay of Toronto, formerly President of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company. Arriving in New York on July 28, they will proceed to New Brunswick and ultimately reach Vancouver, after which they will visit both the Skeena River and the Portland Canal. Capital expended in the development of our mines has wider results than the mere lifting of ore. It gives employment, and creates a market for machinery, tools, etc., and also for food stuffs. This latter is important to, especially Ontario, many of whose richest mines lie contiguous, or adjacent to, excellent agricultural lands. The opportunity is presented of profitable agricultural operations. With little expense land is prepared for cultivation and good crops are assured. What is more important is that ready and profitable markets are assured. Settlement is encouraged and the way of development of all the resources of the district opened. With the building of the Transcontinental railway and extension of the Provincial railway, the conditions of progress are provided. It only needs a little more enterprise on the part of the Provincial authorities, to insure filling up the country and development of the agricultural resources and consequent commercial resources of what is called, New Ontario. If, in the past five or six years, as vigorous an immigration policy had been applied by the provincial government as that applied by the Dominion government in respect of its lands in the west, the census of this northern part of Ontario would have revealed a larger population and more wealth than they will now show.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The impending shadow of reciprocity does not daunt the Dominion Steel Works. They show exceptional activity, arguing increased demand. New records were made last month at the Dominion Steel Works, the output of steel and of coke being greater than that of any previous month. The figures are: Pig iron, 26,760 tons; steel ingots, 31,250 tons; rails, 14,800 tons; rods, 8,480 tons; coke, 10,950 tons; shipments, 24,910 tons.

NOTHING TO DEPLORE.

According to the Toronto News' correspondent with Mr. Borden, the Grain Growers at Saskatoon "deplored the action of Mr. Fielding in giving pledges to the manufacturers that their products would not be touched."

It is useful to have this declaration on record, says the Montreal Herald, for there is a disposition manifested in some quarters to assume that the reciprocity agreement was drawn by Mr. Fielding with an eye single to the wishes of the Western farmers, and that hostility to the manufacturing industries of the Dominion was at the bottom of it.

What everyone knows who has followed the controversy is that both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding announced from the very first their refusal to consider any proposals threatening a disturbance of Canadian manufacturing industry. Sir Wilfrid told the Western farmers all that a year ago, six months before the agreement was drawn. He and Mr. Fielding told the American negotiators so when they came to talk business later. It is excellent, of course, to have found a means of advertising so effective that the authorities can hardly keep up with the inflow of immigration of the best sort. All that means increase of purchasing power in the West, which in turn means increase of employment in the East. But it is just as important to secure the stability of the insitutions which have grown up in the East as it is to arrange for more rapid growth in the West. Who ever may reproach them for it, in taking the stand they did Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Fielding did well.

AN ARMY FOR THE WEST.

The West is making its annual bitter cry for men to help in getting in the harvest. The problem will always be a difficult one, for an army of 50,000 men is required, and work is guaranteed for only a few weeks. The opportunity to see the West and to make a little money attracts students who are on their vacations, adventurous spirits, who like a change of any kind, and men who think of settling in the new country. A considerable percentage of those who go for the harvest remain in the country, hire with farmers fo ra longer term, or take up land for themselves.

An army composed of such material is apt to be boisterous, and in previous years complaints have been made of disorderly conduct. Police protection is invoked; but this is one of the numerous cases in which restriction alone is not sufficient. The trip is long, wearisome, and uncomfortable. The ordinary traveller has many comforts and amusements and something should be done to provide these for the great army that will go of the ald of the Western farmer. They should at least have clean, airy cars, in which they can sleep, an abundant supply of pure water, and means of obtaining food at a moderate price. Some reading matter and games would do no harm.

The Reading Camp Association does excellent work in making life more pleasant and profitable for lumbermen and miners, and some service of a similar kind might be done for the harvesters. Of course, there should be no hesitation about sternly repressing rowdyism.—Toronto Star.

THE ANNEXATION HUMBUG.

(Guelph Mercury.)

As the time for the resumption of the Parliamentary Sessional work approaches, the pumped up agony of the opponents of reciprocity over the political effect it will probably have becomes more and more ludicrous to the onlooker.

There is not an intelligent observer of current events in the Dominion of Canada who believes in his heart that the ratification of the agreement and the practice of reciprocal trade would have any perceptible effect on the political future of Canada. It is doubtful whether there is an intelligent observer who believes that there is the slightest chance of Great Britain ever putting a tax on food to promote any object whatsoever. That is to say, the conditions of both countries are such that reciprocity will have no political effect worth mentioning.

The annexation bogey is practically confined to the columns of the Conservative newspapers. Very few speakers mention the matter on the public platform. It is not at all likely that any member of Parliament will have the hardihood to talk such rubbish on the floor of the House of Commons. He would be jeered out of countenance by his opponents and would be privately wigged by his associates for making a fool of himself.

It is very much to be regretted that the opponents of reciprocity have pursued a line of discussion that tends to obscure the real economic and business aspect of what is after all a quite simple matter. Under the agreement, if it were ratified, some Americans agriculturists and fruit growers would send their produce into Canada, while some Canadians would send theirs into the United States. Along a line of four thousand miles these processes would be going on all the time. this is equivalent to saying that every American and every Canadian, who does his own thinking would be found acting in his own interest as he ought to be permitted to do. At the polls sensible farmers will take their choice by voting for reciprocity.

DISLOYALTY DONE FOR.

(Montreal Witness)

One of the chief of those who started the campaign against reciprocity with the disloyalty tag attached to it has got so sick of the consequences that he says he never wants to hear the word 'disloyalty' again. He wants to take it all back, but he still persists in declaring that reciprocity means—eventually—annexation; and he grieves daily and much that the good loyal advocates of reciprocity—as he can now see they all are—should be so simple and so deceived. And it really would be rather pathetic—would it not ?—if it were so. We however, would apply to all such Canadians the words of a New York contemporary: "Among the efforts made by opponents of reciprocity in Congress to prevent a fair commercial agreement between the United States and Canada, the most disreputable and unpatriotic lies in the threat of annexation! What is it, in essence, this threat! It is an appeal on one side of the line to the lust of conquest; and on the other to the fear of absorption and hte loss of national identity."

The New York World wisely says this:

"Who are we that we should undertake to govern Canada before we have learned to govern ourselves?

Before we talk of further annexation, let us first purge government of the corruption htat is eating its way into the heart of American institutions. Let us rid polttics of its Lorimers and its Murphys. Let us curb the sinister power of wealth that defies law. Let us free ourselves from the tyranny of exorbitant prices. Let us strangle race perjudice and establish a government of the people, by the people and for the people in fact as well as in theory.

To add province to provices, state to state, coninent to continent, until the unwieldy mass is crushed under its own weight—this is the madness of kings and the suicide of empires. The danger signal is painted with blood and fire in history, in the grave yard of nations where every tomb bears the record of some insane ambition.

There is no prospect of annexation" The World affirms that there is no real sentiment on either side of the border in favour of annexation, and we are certain that there is no such sentiment on this side, in spite of the alleagtion of a few of those who are so clever that, unlike Samuel Weller, junior, they have eyes like a million microscopes, can see through double doors and corkscrew staircases and have so much imagination that they can give htemselves cold shivers through fear of the unimaginable The United States politicians who have raised this issue are no more sincere than the Canadian politicians who are echoing their words—but even the idle discusion of it is mischievous. From an American point of v iew,pronounces the World, it is doubly mischevious. It awakens Canadian suspicions. It makes more difficult the ratification of the arbitration treaty with Great Britain. It creates resentment throughout the British Empire. It arouses new distrust in the countries lying to the south of us on the American continent. It discredits American honesty and American good faith. It is an appeal to other peoples to believe that we are acting a lie. No intelligent American can honourably identify himself with such a cause.' Are we simple in believing that the World, Mr. Taft and others of like thoughts reperesent by far the larger part of the intelligence of the United States? We have been told so; but then we have been told even worse things by amateur Machiavelles and amateur Jeremiahs. But these are often most disappointed men, as time goes by, and things turn out for the best instead of the worst, in spite of them. It is a bad frome of mind, anyway, to believe the worst of people and things. Better believe the best, because the best often comes out of such believing.

KIT'S COLUMN

As I sit down to write the thermometer stands at 102 in the shade. The oldest inhabitant has crumpled up. We are thankful to note that he is wilted and limp. He is, in fact, bowled over. Asked if this be not the hottest day he has ever known he mumbles something about an imaginary day in some long fled June, then relapses into perspiring silence. Outside a little breeze is flirting with the trees which pretend they are laughing at sweltering humanity as they bow and swing. The red brick houses suggest Hadean thoughts. Only the bees and the young robins look happy, and you are in a mood to pity the Devil. A band is braying somewhere and the fifes are practising the Boyne Water for the glorious Twelfth—(you see how far ahead we must send forth our important "copy")—but the only music the sweetest, the tenderest to which we bend our torrid ear is the exquisite tinkletinkle of the ice in that tall glass of—who whispered lager?—lemonade. Madam.

What did you want to do on that hot, hot day? Sit up to your chin in the lake, or sway in the hammock on the sheltered verandah of your summer home in Muskoka or the Georgian Bay? Lucky mortal! How would you like to be writing platitudes in anything but "stained glass attitudes" in a hot little room in a hot little city for—think of it!—mere paltry coin of the realm? Alas, Madam, not the fattest and most golden of coin dangling before the big eyes of your imagination may purchase from a perspiring brain any but parboiled pabulum.

We may always count on reaction. The hotter public sympathy with Angelina Napolitana grows, the colder will be the chill which rebounds from it as it were. We are now told that this woman is a "bad" woman, the term implying an "immoral" woman. Therefore, no doubt, because we are Christians and what one writer terms "enlightened religionists" we are encouraged to stone her. Up in the Soo where the crime was committed, we are told that one pastor refused to allow a petition for the unfortunate mother to circulate in his church amongst his flock. I wonder what Christ would have thought had He come to Sunday service in that Christian church. He who was never hard on sinners, who was so especially gentle with erring ones of the same sex as His Mother. The understanding Christ! The great white Figure which stands at the head of our creeds, whether Anglican, Roman or any branch or off-shoot of either. Perhaps when you read this, the sentence of death on Angelina Napolitana may have been commuted to life in a prison. Perhaps this "bad" woman will have been given her chance to make good. Whatever happens, it would be more in fellowship with the teaching of the gentle and meek Man of the Cross—He who never cast a stone at an unfortunate, or cursed a thief—if His Minister had extended the hand of brotherly charity to this poor human mother—be she "depraved" or ignorant, or black with crime, rather than shut the church door and refuse to aid her do keep the miserable dregs of life in her body if only in order that thereby she might have time to save her soul. We do not in an age of hardness and infidelity want any exhibition of that kind from the church. Never had she more need to extend sympathy, gentleness and kindliness and understanding to all. Christ taught these things. He did not teach hardness of heart. Pharasaical pride and stifled humbug. We are none of us so superfine and holy that we are beyond the temptation and the fall.

Of all the weird "religions" which have been thrust upon a weak world, that of two brothers who call themselves "Human X-ray Specialists" is quite the maddest. We are apparently fast coming to that stage when all the world will be the huge insane asylum predicted by a scientist. The X-Ray brethren dub themselves "scientists" also. It seems they were attending a young woman who was suffering from consumption until she died of it. Invited by a coroner to give evidence, the following extraordinary conversation occurred: Asked as to his method one man replied that his "science" was known but to himself and his brother; "It has never been put before the public and I shall not disclose it."

"How do you apply this wonderful science?"

"By making passes with my hand. I can treat animals, trees or any living thing."

"If a tree were decayed, could you stop the decay?"

"I could if I wished. I can see through a door—a steel door—or through a person, or a dog."

"What about this young woman?"

"She died because the valves of her heart gave out."

And the magistrate did not commit these cranks to an asylum. Alas my brother, are you sane or am I?

The London papers are here flooded with Coronation news, the echoes of which still resound. Reams of sloppy stuff and dishonest adulation have been written. King George and his good consort will need unusually level heads to withstand all the fulsome flattery and flagrant humbug, and the gods be thanked, they have them. The king dislikes fuss and feathers, but we have a quiet suspicion that Queen Mary thoroughly enjoyed her pomp and splendour after a youth overshadowed by a popular and impulsive mother, and a maturity passed behind the throne. Only the deep solemnity and significance of the ceremony of coronation saved the function from being a progress of wealth and pomp of empire in the very face of the awful poverty and misery presented by one side of London. It was a beautiful ceremony in the mere reading. What must it have appeared to those who were fortunate enough to have witnessed it in the ancient Abbey of the Kings! The King himself tells us it was the most solemn ceremonial of his life. It evidently deeply impressed the Queen, who was seen to be weeping during certain portions of it. It was with kingly spirit and indicative of common sense that the rulers of our empire viewed their investiture with the insignia of a rank which came to them through the mere accident of birth. The theory o fthe divine right of kings has been spurned by democracy. It was not held by Edward. It is not held by George V. The King rules by the will of the people, and in his splendid common sense is content so to rule. He has no fight with democracy. On the contrary, he is the friend of his people, anxious for their love and sympathy, both of which he will need if he is to exercise his prerogatives with wisdom and sanity. King George and his wife are profound humanitarians. For this the whole empire should be thankful.

There is a Parliamentary Ghost who haunts Westminster whenever a royal funeral is imminent. He is a big old man who goes by the name of Ben, though he was never related to the clock or to Disraeli. Ben was last seen just before Queen Victoria died. There is no record of his appearance about the time of the death of the late King. He appeared weaving in and out among the tombs in the Abbey the night before the Duke of Clarence died. It is an old wive's tale that the eve of the coronation he was seen flitting about the Poet's Corned. He was seen by a Beadle, who may have been some relation of the immortal Bumble, and who for some occult reason was prowling about in "the dead vast and middle of the night." Perhaps the Beadle dreamt it. Perhaps he had been having a coronation mug of something stronger than Mrs. Corny's tea. There is room for, hope, now that the crowning is safely over and the scaffoldings have been taken down. The Beadle describes old Ben as wearing "a brown suit of clothes and a plaid shawl," and says that it "glared" at him. My opinion is that Mr. Bumble had invested in one of those magic mugs and—hey presto!—had wished it full of cold punch and drank it every drop. And then he saw Sairey Gamp dancing majestically with Mr. Mould around the massive tomb of Queen Elizabeth.

There is one ghost some of us would not mind meeting in our own halls of government at Ottawa whether attired in a brown suit with buttons or pink pyjamas without any—the Ghost of Reciprocity.

Baby Eczema For Three Years

Three Doctors and Scores of Treatments Failed

The Dreadful Itching Was Stopped and the Sores Healed by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Here is an illustration of the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Ointment has over torturing, itching eczema. By its soothing influence it stops the itching, and it heals the sores as if by magic.

Mrs. W m. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that had ever come under my notice, and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend her, all to no purpose whatever, and all kinds of balms, soaps and lotions were tried, with no results.

"Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she immediately began to improve, and was completely cured of that long-standing disease. That was four years ago, when we lived at Cornwall, Ont., and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent. With a grateful heart I give this testimony to the great value of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home to allay skin irritations and heal and cure sores, wounds and ulcers. 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

Home should be made the most interesting and best loved spot on earth, not merely four square walls of wood and brick; it should be the fountain of civilisation, the very word should touch every fibre of the soul and strike every cord of the human heart with its angelic fingers, a place where that is centralized on the higher and better things of life, bringing forth in the highways and by-ways an influence that will be felt by all with whom it comes in contact. It should be a place where the heart is, a place where our feet may leave but not our hearts, a place where angels unfold their wings, the place we love best, because it is the place where mother is.

* * *

The best brought up family of children we ever knew were educated on the principle of always commending them when it was possible to do so and letting silence be the reproof of any wrong doing which was not really serious. We have heard the children of this household, when their mother had failed to say any word of commendation after some social occasion, ask as anxiously as possible, "What was it, mamma? I know something was wrong. Didn't we treat the other children well, or were we too noisy?" In that house reproof was never bestowed unsought—only commendation of whatever it was possible to commend, was gratuitous. We think this system would be as good for those grown-up children, the husbands and wives, as for those still in the nursery.

* * *

The days come to us like friends in disguise, bringing priceless gifts from an unseen hand; but if we do not use them, they are borne silently away, never to return. Each successive morning new gifts are brought but if we failed to accept those that were brought yesterday and the day before, we become less and less able to turn them to account, until the ability to appreciate and utilise them is exhausted. Wisely was it said that lost wealth may be regained by industry, economy; lost knowledge, by study, lost health by temperance and medicine, but lost time is gone for ever.

* * *

Some of us, at any rate, on both sides of the Atlantic, have begun to realise that serious study is less likely to injure women than pinched waists, late hours, hot rooms and unwholesome food, and we think it is better for our girls to be graduated at schools for science rather than at schools for scandal. We think it will better prepare them for the grave responsibilities of matrimony and motherhood than rapid life in which personal adornment is their chief aim, and how to kill time and secure a rich husband, their principal anxiety.

* * *

The Fourth of July is rapidly becoming a day to be dreaded rather than enjoyed. The Fourth of July means the death of hundreds of children by explosives of different kinds. The daily papers on the fifth of July never fail to contain column after column of death notices from thy pistols, fire crackers and various kinds of explosives. In New England the growing disgust that a day which should be hallowed by patriotic memories should be degraded into a day marked by the killing and maiming of hundreds if not thousands of children and into a day of torture for the sick and nervous and of dread and anxiety for the strong and well. The hospitals of the large cities on the Fourth of July are filled with youngsters of all ages, cut and burned, with their hands torn to shreds, and their sight destroyed or injured, and the death due to lockjaw alone would, if we were not calloused by custom, cause such an outcry that those who the matter before him in the same sell or parents who put into the hands of their children the deadly toys would be held up to general execration. That there is no exaggeration in this statement of the case is borne out by the newspapers of the morning following the Fourth in every city in the country. Among the sick and unwell or those who are in the least nervous the constant din and the sudden ear-splitting explosions cause a degree of misery that in itself would justify the suppressions of all explosives even if they were entirely innocuous to those that handle them and to surrounding property. No one has the right to subject others to torture merely to amuse himself. To bring children up deliberately to disregard the comforts and wellbeing of others is to teach license, not liberty, on the day that should be consecrated to liberty.

* * *

In the home all that is characteristically feminine in woman unfolds and flourishes. Home without woman is a misnomer, for woman makes home, and home is what she makes it. If she is illiterate, her home partakes her of this quality; if she is immoral, her home cannot be the abode of virtue; if she is coarse, refinement does not dwell where she resides. If she is cultivated, pure, refined, those qualities will characterise the home which she creates. The higher the degree of her culture, her purity, her refinement, the more will these qualities characterise thehome of which she is the centre.

* * *

When tempted to criticise the food on the home table, remember the adage that silence is golden. Criticism is never so exasperating to the housekeeper as at the table, where, in spite of hard work and worry, things will occasionally appear that are not as she had planned.

* * *

The self that a woman takes with her in her marriage is her real dower. If her dower can be reckoned in numerals only, no matter how many they may be, wretched indeed will be her husband, impoverished her children, but if she possess industry, gentleness, self-abnegation, purity, intelligence, combined with capability, she is in herself a treasure of treasures.

THINGS GOOD TO EAT

FROZEN STRAWBERRY PUDDING

Beat together the yolks of five eggs, and one cup sugar. Add one-half teaspoon salt, and three cups milk, and cook to form a custard. Strain and cool and flavor with one tablespoon vanilla. Add whites of five eggs beaten stiffly and one and one-half cups whipped cream. Freeze, and serve with strawberries cut in halves and sprinkled with sugar.

SWEETBREADS WITH PEAS

Wash and clean sweetbreads and boil fifteen minutes. Drain, and when cool enough to handle, cut in small pieces. Melt two tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add the sweetbreads and a can of peas. Cook until the sweetbreads begin to brown, stirring occasionally; add one tablespoon flour mixed until smooth in one-half cup of milk and stir. Serve with small squares of toast placed around the dish.

CORN BREAD

Take three cups of buttermilk and add one tablespoon salt; add one teaspoon soda, beating until it foams; add quickly two well-beaten eggs, and equal quantities of yellow cornmeal and rolled oats until a thick batter is obtained. Pour in round muffin rings and bake in a quick oven.

RUSSIAN FROZEN PUDDING

RICHARD HALL & SON

(Copyright, 1909, by Bradley-Garretson Co., Ltd.)

Much is the force of heaven-bred poesy.
—Two Gentlemen of Verona, Act III., Sc. II.

The present is a materialistic age. The age of realism it has been called, and not unjustly. What does it mean? What is its use? What doth it profit? are the questions that are most frequently on the lips of mankind. A critical, utilitarian, commercial time is impatient of poetry. The coal of Pennsylvania and Nova Scotia, the silver of Colorado and the Cobalt, the lumber of Oregon and Quebec, the corn of Illinois and Minnesota, and the wheat of Dakota and Manitoba, interest more than the strongest and sweetest songs of the occasional bard who dares to sound his pipe. All the heaped wealth of all the world will not open the gates of heaven, but the poet's song, inspiring to action, to love, to truth and to charity, gives man, even on this earth, an earnest of things to come.

The daily press has its full page and more of market reports; occasionally it grudgingly allots a scant corner to "heaven-bred poesy." The ordinary man feels a little more diffident in expressing affection for verse, yet poetry is at once the root and flower of all knowledge. In all races before writing or printing or books were known the thoughts that glowed in the minds and hearts of the seeing ones—the prophets, the seers—burst forth in a flame of poesy; and at the height of the nations' civilization the minds that have solaced and guided their fellows have been the fashioners of verse. Shakespeare and Burns, Wordsworth and Tennyson, Whittier and Emerson are the true givers of spiritual life to their nations.

Try as a man may she cannot get away from the influence of poetry. He is rocked into being by the soothing cradle-song of his mother. When he leads his bride to the altar the marriage hymn gives a celestial glamor to the event, and when he is borne forth to rest beside his fathers the requiem solemnly sanctifies the occasion. From the cradle to the grave "heaven-bred poesy," whether he will or no, follows a man through his earthly journey.

Poetry, heaven-bred or born! That is a high claim. Certain it is that the art of poetry cannot be learned. The art of verse-making may be, but that is another matter. It is possible to manufacture flowers so natural in appearance that they may even deceive the eyes of birds and bees, but the honey and the perfume are lacking. In true poetry there is an aroma, a pervading perfume that no art can supply. Shakespeare, Burns, Whittier and Poe were born poets.

That poetry is neglected in these latter days is not altogether the fault of the crowd. Many true poets have sold their birthright for a mess of pottage. Song, beating within their minds for freedom, has had its wings clipped and been taught more profitable flights; but the force of a Kipling, the fine interpretation of nature and humble life of a Riley, find an echo in every heart.

Poetry is the finest gift of the mind to the human race. The surgeon may restore sight and hearing to the blind and deaf, but the cases of such miracles are rare. But, to the spiritually blind and deaf, poetry daily opens a new world of sight and sound. A man reads Wordsworth's words.

"The moon doth with delight
Waters on a starry night
Are beautiful and fair,"

and a new world is opened to his gaze. He reads Browning's

Lest you should think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture!"

for his ears. He hears the cry of humanity for sympathy and love as expressed in Burns and Hood and Mrs. Browning, and anew heart is born within him. Mankind is not ungrateful for the blessings bestowed on him by the poets. In the Temple of Fame they occupy the most exalted places.

"The poets, who on earth have made us heirs
Of truth and pure delight by heavenly lays,"

to use the lines of one of the greatest of them, Wordsworth, have at least an earthly immortality.

Poetry is essential to a complete life. A mind without poetry does not live, it merely exists. Cultivate a taste for poetry; it gives sweetness and light to life. Beauty and truth, patriotism and religion it turns to forms that can be comprehended, and gives them "a local habitation and a name." Let a man take the songs of Shelley and Keats and Tennyson to the woods and meadows with him and nature will have new meaning for his brain, new beauty for his eyes, new music for his ears. Let him gather lessons of life from the pages of Shakespeare and Burns, of Hugo and Goethe, and take them with him into the haunts of men and he will be better able to sustain the weak, sympathize with the suffering, and help the erring. Poetry is not of man, but of God; drink deep at the spiritual fountains of the gifted sons of song.

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

AN EASTER BONNET

"An Easter bonnet! An Easter bonnet! An Easter bonnet!" The very birds in the orchard had taken up the words for their song. Over and over they chirped them at Mary Battencourt, laboriously weeding the strawberry bed. Often they varied the joyless carol, "But none for you! But none for you!"

At times as she worked her eyes were too dim to distinguish the weeds and she pulled up several tender seedlings. She dabbed her forefinger viciously in the moist earth and set them out again. They might live or die for all she cared. She was losing her interest in the yield of the strawberry patch. She was losing her interest in everything, she thought to herself bitterly. Yet even the hope of an Easter bonnet would have made her listless fingers fly. But there was none. As well might she wish for a crown of gold to crown her golden head as for the simplest kind of hat.

The egg money wouldn't do everything. It did a great deal. It had clothed the children comfortably and warmly through the chill winter; it had provided a cheap coat for her with some contriving, it had assisted Santa Claus down the chimney; it had given forth new Easter hats for both the little girls. But when it came to providing one for her, egg took a sudden topple and landed at the foot of the egg ladder, whose first round was marked 12½ cents. Then too, being cheap, her husband had hinted using them freely for the table. And she did not receive anything for that. She had resented his suggestion then; she resented it now. Though all he had said was: "Why don't you have ham and aigs for breakfast some times, Mary? I didn't ay nothin' when you was gettin' 65 cents a dozen. But now you ought to treat!"

And she had "treated" with a generous hand. It had not made much difference for her market for eggs was n otwhat it had been. They had become too plentiful to be a very much desired article.

She finished the strawberry bed and started toward the house with a sigh. It was dim and cool and promised a pleasant change from the burdensome heat. But there was too much to be done to rest.

Every uninterrupted moment must go into sewing—the hard and thankless task of making old garments into new. For the dream of new dresses of embroidered flouncing for the little girls had followed the Easter hat. She never remembered wanting one so much before, and she never remembered not having had one. Always there had been a way. Her husband had contributed to the fund or something had "turned up." Now there was no way. She knew just what she wanted. She had "chosen" it on one of her rare visits to the village store. She had even tried it on and been assured by the mirror as well as the milliner that it was vastly becoming. It would go well with the old ponges, furnished up and retrimmed for the third summer. She did not mind the dress so much. The hat was different. Every one had a new hat. The very children at school boasted what mothers and big sisters were to wear. She had put off her girls' eager questions with a non-committal "Wait and see!"

One more week and they would "see"—see that their mother was poky, shabbily dressed; see, and be ashamed of her. That was where vanity pricked her the sorest. She wanted to look well for the children. She had mentioned the hat to her husband once; after that, pride kept her silent. He had taken no interest in the subject, but had gone on with talk about the new mowing machine, purchased months and months before it was needed. She felt that she could never forgive or forget that.

All that week she hardened her heart against him, seeing him as he was, unlearned, uncouth, the iron pot gliding downstream, with the china one. All of her love, all of his love, his goodness, his unfailing tenderness she put behind her. He had ceased to love her; she had ceased to love him. This was the way people grew apart.

The last stitch had been set in the dainty little dresses before Saturday. But each day, each hour, brought duties of its own. She thought almost with resentment that eggs were to color and hide after the little ones had been put to bed. Always before she had taken a great joy in it. There was always pleasure in seeing how great a diversity of colours her scanty means would give forth. All the shouts of the little ones next morning as they discovered nest after nest, repaid the work tenfold. They were always so proud of the generosity of the rabbit. Well, they should not find him less liberal this year, she thought to herself, as she finished the dishes and put the kitchen in order.

Always before her husband had been with her and they had had a merry time. But he had gone out immediately after supper, not even saying where he was going. She began colouring the eggs, red and yellow, green and blue. They had never come out better. She became so interested that she did not turn at the soft opening of the door.

She turned her flushed face to him, all the brightness dying out, and then turned quickly away. But he was not discouraged.

"Easter eggs and Easter aigs," he said. "You certainly got the secret of 'em. They're the finest I ever did see."

Still she did not answer. She was polishing them with a greased cloth and did not look up.

"Little mother," he went on, "you been colourin' 'em year after year for our own an' for half the neighbors. Didn't it never strike you you'd ought to have a Easter aig of your own?"

She shook her head.

"Well, someways," he said, "it struck me. An' that's where I went. I fetched you one."

He laid it on the table as he spoke—an immense chocolate egg.

"Give it to the children," she said "I don't care for it, thanks."

"But this ain't for the young ones," he went on. "I bought it for you. Sample it. It's a master fine aig."

For answer she laid it with the gaudy pile.

He stayed her hand. "Mary," he pleaded, "try your aig. If it ain't to your likin' you don't need to—"

Something in the voice touched her. She felt a rush of tenderness, dormant for some weeks. After all he did understand! Men were made that way. She smiled at him as she might have smiled on a child.

"I'll try it," she said.

She pulled the egg apart with her discoloured hands. It gave readily. And the yolk was revealed—a golden yolk, a wonderful yolk, a yolk with power to make all Easter dreams come true. It flashed through her mind in a moment—dresses of embroidered flouncing, ready made, hat, everything. It was not too late. There was yet time. He read the thought in her eyes.

"Yes," he said, "I left Joe harnessed. We'll go. Bill'll stay with the youngsters. An' little mother—allus—after this—anything you want?"

And she smiled at him through wet eyes.

"It's a true marriage," she said, like mother talked of. I forgave you for forgetting before I knew you had remembered."

WANTED 40,000 LOCOMOTIVES

Canada to-day has 24,000 miles of railroad. In 1860 the United States had 30,000 miles, to-day she has 250,000, supplying the needs of a population of 90,000,000. It is safe to estimate that Canada will have at least 250,000 miles of road fifty years from now, and the likelihood is that she will have a much greater mileage. As one locomotive is required for every six miles of road, and as there are but 4,000 locomotives in use in Canada at the present time, it will mean that we will require about 40,000 locomotives within the next forty or fifty years, or at the rate of 1,000 locomotives per year. This means an almost unlimited demand for locomotives in this country. This knowledge was at the bottom of the Canadian Locomotive Company's decision to enlarge the capacity of their plant.

Famous Woman Rifle Shot With Wild West

Annie Oakley, the peerless wing and rifle shot of the world, who is well and favourably known in this city, will appear as the bright particular star of the Young Buffalo Wild West Show, which will exhibit in Peterborough Saturday afternoon and night. Miss Oakley was born in Woodland, Darke county, Ohio, of Quaker parentage. Though her parents were opposed to the use of fire arms, she secured possession of one at the age of 14 and soon became the sole provider of game for the family table. It was when she was seventeen years old that she made her first public appearance, and she soon rose to the highest point in her profession. She is known as America's "shooting star", and is the world's most famous wing and rifle shot. During her career she has travelled over fourteen countries and has exhibited her skill before all of the crowned heads of Europe. The late King Edward of England, before whom she gave five exhibitions, and who was himself a fine shot, said to her on one occasion: "You are the greatest shot I have ever seen—America should be proud of you." To this the peerless woman riflist replied: "Your Majesty, I am proud of America." In company with Annie Oakley, the Young Buffalo Wild West Show will present Captain A. H. Bogardus, world's champion sharp-shooter, Carl Lisbon and Colonel O. H. Stevens, the four making up the greatest quartette of marksmen ever seen in a single attraction. The Young Buffalo Show opens its engagement in this city with a great free street parade, which is entirely different from that offered by other attractions of this nature. It is more than a mile in length and one of its features is its great team of 20 oxen driven through the streets by one man. The 700 men and women of this aggregation will participate in this street demonstration.

New Assistant:—"Because we had n't got what she wanted."
Proprietor: "You'll kindly remember in future, miss, that you're here to sell what I keep, and not what people want!"—London Opinion.

That poetry is neglected in these latter days is not altogether the fault of the crowd. Many true poets have sold their birthright for a mess of pottage. Song, beating within their minds for freedom, has had its wings clipped and been taught more profitable flights; but the force of a Kipling, the fine interpretation of nature and humble life of a Riley, find an echo in every heart.

Poetry is the finest gift of the mind to the human race. The surgeon may restore sight and hearing to the blind and deaf, but the cases of such miracles are rare. But, to the spiritually blind and deaf, poetry daily opens a new world of sight and sound. A man reads Wordsworth's words,

"The moon doth with delight
Waters on a starry night

and a new world is opened to his gaze. He reads Browning's

Lest you should think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture!"

for his ears. He hears the cry of humanity for sympathy and love as expressed in Burns and Hood and Mrs. Browning, and a new heart is born within him. Mankind is not ungrateful for the blessings bestowed on him by the poets. In the Temple of Fame they occupy the most exalted places.

"The poets, who on earth have made us heirs
Of truth and pure delight by heavenly lays,"

to use the lines of one of the greatest of them, Wordsworth, have at least an earthly immortality.

Poetry is essential to a complete life. A mind without poetry does not live, it merely exists. Cultivate a taste for poetry; it gives sweetness and light to life. Beauty and truth patriotism and religion it turns to forms that can be comprehended, and gives them "a local habitation and a name." Let a man take the songs of Shelley and Keats and Tennyson to the woods and meadows with him and nature will have new meaning for his brain, new beauty for his eyes, new music for his ears. Let him gather lessons of life from the pages of Shakespeare and Burns, of Hugo and Goethe, and take them with him into the haunts of men and he will be better able to sustain the weak, sympathise with the suffering, and help the erring. Poetry is not of man, but of God; drink deep at the spiritual fountains of the gifted sons of song.

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Lesson for Sunday, July 16, 1911—Manasseh's Wickedness and Penitence.—2nd Chron. xxxiii., 1-20.

AN EASTER BONNET

"An Easter bonnet! An Easter bonnet! An Easter bonnet!" The very birds in the orchard had taken up the words for their song. Over and over they chirped them at Mary Battencourt, laboriously weeding the strawberry bed. Often they varied the joyless carol, "But none for you! But none for you!"

At times as she worked her eyes were too dim to distinguish the seeds and she pulled up several tender seedlings. She dabbed her forefinger viciously in the moist earth and set them out again. They might live or die for all she cared. She was losing her interest in the yield of the strawberry patch. She was losing her interest in everything, she thought to herself bitterly. Yet even the hope of an Easter bonnet would have made her listless fingers fly. But there was none. As well might she wish for a crown of gold to crown her golden head as for the simplest kind of hat.

The egg money wouldn't do everything. It did a great deal. It had clothed the children comfortably and warmly through the chill winter; it had provided a cheap coat for her with some contriving, it had assisted Santa Claus down the chimney; it had given forth new Easter hats for both the little girls. But when it came to providing one for her, egg took a sudden topple and landed at the foot of the egg ladder, whose first round was marked 12½ cents. Then too, being cheap, her husband had hinted using them freely for the table. And she did not receive anything for that. She had resented his suggestion then; she resented it now. Though all he had said was: "Why don't you have ham and aigs for breakfast some times, Mary? I didn't say nothin' when you was gettin' 65 cents a dozen. But now you ought to treat!"

And she had "treated" with a generous hand. It had not made much difference for her market for eggs was n otwhat it had been. They had become too plentiful to be a very much desired article.

She finished the strawberry bed and started toward the house with a sigh. It was dim and cool and promised a pleasant change from the burdensome heat. But there was too much to be done to rest.

Every uninterrupted moment must go into sewing—the hard and thankless task of making old garments into new. For the dream of new dresses of embroidered flouncing for the little girls had followed the Easter hat. She never remembered wanting one so much before, and she never remembered not having had one. Always there had been a way. Her husband had contributed to the fund or something had "turned up." Now there was no way. She knew just what she wanted. She had "chosen" it on one of her rare visits to the village store. She had even tried it on and been assured by the mirror as well as the milliner that it was vastly becoming. It would go well with the old pongee, furnished up and retrimmed for the third summer. She did not mind the dress so much. The hat was different. Every one had a new hat. The very children at school boasted what mothers and big sisters were to wear. She had put off her girls' eager questions with a non-committal "Wait and see!"

One more week and they would "see"—see that their mother was poorly, shabbily dressed; see, and be ashamed of her. That was where vanity pricked her the sorest. She wanted to look well for the children. She had mentioned the hat to her husband once; after that, pride kept her silent. He had taken no interest in the subject, but had gone on with talk about the new mowing machine, purchased months and months before it was needed. She felt that she could never forgive or forget that.

All that week she hardened her heart against him, seeing him as he was, unlearned, uncouth, the iron pot gliding downstream, with the china one. All of her love, all of his love, his goodness, his unfailing tenderness she put behind her. He had ceased to love her; she had ceased to love him. This was the way people grew apart.

The last stitch had been set in the dainty little dresses before Saturday. But each day, each hour, brought duties of its own. She thought almost with resentment that eggs were to color and hide after the little ones had been put to bed. Always before she had taken a great joy in it. There was always pleasure in seeing how great a diversity of colours her scanty means would give forth. All the shouts of the little ones next morning as they discovered nest after nest, repaid the work tenfold. They were always so proud of the generosity of the rabbit. Well, they should not find him less liberal this year, she thought to herself, as she finished the dishes and put the kitchen in order.

Always before her husband had been with her and they had had a merry time. But he had gone out immediately after supper, not even saying where he was going. She began colouring the eggs, red and yellow, green and blue. They had never come out better. She became so interested that she did not turn at the soft opening of the door.

She turned her flushed face to him, all the brightness dying out, and then turned quickly away. But he was not discouraged.

"Easter eggs and Easter aigs," he said. "You certainly got the secret of 'em. They're the finest I ever did see."

Still she did not answer. She was polishing them with a greased cloth and did not look up.

"Little mother," he went on, "you been colourin' 'em year after year for our own an' for half the neighbors. Didn't it never strike you you'd ought to have a Easter aig of your own?"

She shook her head.

"Well, somewayes," he said, "it struck me. An' that's where I went. I fetched you one."

He laid it on the table as he spoke—an immense chocolate egg.

"Give it to the children," she said "I don't care for it, thanks."

"But this ain't for the young ones," he went on. "I bought it for you. Sample it. It's a master fine aig."

For answer she laid it with the gaudy pile.

He stayed her hand. "Mary," he pleaded, "try your aig. If it ain't to your likin' you don't need to—"

Something in the voice touched her. She felt a rush of tenderness, dormant for some weeks. After all he did understand! Men were made that way. She smiled at him as she might have smiled on a child.

"I'll try it," she said.

She pulled the egg apart with her discoloured hands. It gave readily. And the yolk was revealed—a golden yolk, a wonderful yolk, a yolk with power to make all Easter dreams come true. It flashed through her mind in a moment—dresses of embroidered flouncing, ready made, hat, everything. It was not too late. There was yet time. He read the thought in her eyes.

"Yes," he said, "I left Joe harnessed. We'll go. Bill'll stay with the youngsters. An' little mother—allus—after this—anything you want."

And she smiled at him through wet eyes.

"It's a true marriage," she said, "like mother talked of. I forgave you for forgetting before I knew you had remembered."

WANTED 40'000 LOCOMOTIVES

Canada to-day has 24,000 miles of railroad. In 1860 the United States had 30,000 miles, to-day she has 250,000, supplying the needs of a population of 90,000,000. It is safe to estimate that Canada will have at least 250,000 miles of road fifty years from now, and the likelihood is that she will have a much greater mileage. As one locomotive is required for every six miles of road, and as there are but 4,000 locomotives in use in Canada at the present time, it will mean that we will require about 40,000 locomotives within the next forty or fifty years, or at the rate of 1,000 locomotives per year. This means an almost unlimited demand for locomotives in this country. This knowledge was at the bottom of the Canadian Locomotive Company's decision to enlarge the capacity of their plant.

Famous Woman Rifle Shot With Wild West

Annie Oakley, the peerless wing and rifle shot of the world, who is well and favourably known in this city, will appear as the bright particular star of the Young Buffalo Wild West Show, which will exhibit in Peterborough Saturday afternoon and night. Miss Oakley was born in Woodland, Darke county, Ohio, of Quaker parentage. Though her parents were opposed to the use of fire arms, she secured possession of one at the age of 14 and soon became the sole provider of game for the family table. It was when she was seventeen years old that she made her first public appearance, and she soon rose to the highest point in her profession. She is known as America's "shooting star", and is the world's most famous wing and rifle shot. During her career she has travelled over fourteen countries and has exhibited her skill before all of the crowned heads of Europe. The late King Edward of England, before whom she gave five exhibitions, and who was himself a fine shot, said to her on one occasion: "You are the greatest shot I have ever seen—America should be proud of you." To this the peerless woman riflist replied: "Your Majesty, I am proud of America." In company with Annie Oakley, the Young Buffalo Wild West Show will present Captain A. H. Bogardus, world's champion sharp-shooter, Carl Linlou and Colonel O. H. Stevens, the four making up the greatest quartette of marksmen ever seen in a single attraction. The Young Buffalo Show opens its engagement in this city with a great free street parade, which is entirely different from that offered by other attractions of this nature. It is more than a mile in length and one of its features is its great team of 20 oxen driven through the streets by one man. The 700 men and women of this aggregation will participate in this street demonstration.

New Assistant:—"Because we had n't got what she wanted."
Proprietor: "You'll kindly remember in future, miss, that you're here to sell what I keep, and not what people want!"—London Opinion.

Woman Smuggler Tells Thrilling Life Story Fooled Customs Men

NEW YORK, JULY 6.—The adventures of Helen Dwelle Jenkins, the dashing woman whose $350,000 worth of jewels and the tale of their being smuggled into this country have brought notoriety to Nathan Allen, of Kenosha, Wis.; John R. Collins, of Nashville, herself and others, began in Detroit.

"I have no sympathy to ask of the world," she declares. "What I am, I am. I have never known the joys of girlhood. I was married at the age of fourteen. Real friends have been few in my experience.

"My only marriage was an elopement. I was travelling in the north with my mother in October, 1901. I was then 14 years old and in short dresses. In Detroit I met Lee Allen Dwelle. He was 20, handsome, athletic and a graduate of West Point.

"He looked every inch the soldier. His father was the owner of a big line of steamers that plied between Sandusky and Detroit. Ten days after I met him we slipped away from my mother in Detroit, crossed the river to Windsor and were married.

"He had resigned from the army and was learning to master his father's great business. We lived with his mother in the family's old mansions both in Sandusky and Detroit.

His mother was of the old school. She was proud and rich. I was a child and brought no money to the family. She did not like me, child that I was. After an unhappy life with his family for several months, we went away from them to live alone in Chicago.

"There at the end of our first year of married life, my dreams of happiness were completely shattered. I divorced him for cause. I hope he is doing well and is happy. I am not.

Face Still Girlish.

The face, still girlish when illuminated by enthusiasm, in spite of this young woman's unusual career—she is now less than 23 years old—took on momentarily an expression, of hatred auspicion, scorn. In a moment, though she begins to show the animation that had heightened her natural beauty.

Her crowning glory is her great mass of hair, black as the raven's wing. Her eyes are black, and under the excitement that increased as she recounted her story, they sparkled like diamonds under the soft glow of the shaded lights in her library.

Costly paintings and bric-a-brac adorned the walls of the room, showing that taste and unlimited wealth has been joined in the decorative effort. Books of the classics and modern literature filled the shelves of the mahogany cases. A grand piano, which the mistress of the magnificently appointed menage manipulated with deft fingers, occupied a corner of the room.

The story of her life, as told by the young woman is a sensational one. She tells of how she was the ward of Millionaire John R. Collins, of Nashville, who showered money, jewels, property and other favours upon her. A scandal in which she was the central figure killed her mother. Then she met Allen.

Relations With Allen Only.

"Of all the men with whom I have come in contact, of all the men with whom I have associated unconventionally, of all the men who have been pleased to make love to me, of all the men from whom I have accepted flowers and jewels and other costly favours, my relations with Nathan Allen alone justify the world's harsh judgment and criticism," she says. "This is God's own truth. I am being called an adventuress. That cuts me to the heart. I am not an adventuress.

"My meeting with Allen came at a Chicago hotel where we both stopped. I with my sister. The first time he met me he tried to strike up an acquaintance and finally forced himself upon us. One night he took my sister and I to supper.

"Claiming to admire a simple little pocketbook I had, he opened it one day at dinner, held it under the table for a moment and replaced it by my plate. When I went to my room I was amazed to find that Mr. Allen had slipped $300 into my pocketbook. He explained the next evening at dinner that he had no more money than any one human being could possibly spend, that he had found me not only a worthy but a fascinating girl and that he would not permit me to give it back.

"At the end of the second week of my acquaintance with him I told him I was about to leave for New York to begin my studies as a trained nurse. He insisted he would come to New York with me and help me out there. Foolishly I accepted his offer. On arrival here we went to the Hotel Astor. I was shocked after I went to the room to which I was conducted to discover that it was only one of a suite assigned to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins.

"Then began his desperate wooing of me. He was rich beyond any dreams of wealth that had ever come into my brain. He began to shower me with diamonds and other precious jewels. We remained at the Astor two weeks. Then I was induced by him to give up the idea of becoming a trained nurse and went back to Chicago with him.

A New Lover.

"After I divorced my husband I went to live with John B. Collins, a Memphis millionaire, and old friend of my father. I was his ward and he spent much money on me. I was with him in Saratoga, N.Y., when I met Adaloph Jessel Davis of Syracuse, who immediately fell violently in love with me, showering me with money and jewels. He put $8,000 in the bank for me, but broke our engagement later. There was a scandal over it, for he was forced to sue me to get some diamonds back from me. The shock killed my mother.

Mrs. Jenkins then tells of her marriage to Dwelle and divorce after which she returned to Memphis and was adopted by Collins.

"Mr. Collins was getting rich very fast in Memphis. After I had boarded there for a year he gave me 3 pretty cottages in Georgia street. In one of these I lived two years. Then he bought me a handsome home at 180 Union street.

"I deeded all four of the houses back to Mr. Collins after I became associated with Mr. Allen.

"Of m ytrip to Europe with Mr. Allen in the spring of 1909 everything has been told. He had bought me a beautiful house on Sheridan street in Chicago for $35,000 and spent $25,000 on its interior decorations. After we returned from New York he told me he wanted me to come to New York to live. At his order I sold the Chicago home.

"Mr. Allen told me to buy a house in New York regardless of cost up to a million dollars.'

Mrs. Jenkins says she accompanied Allen to Europe as his wife at his imperious command. Collins was with them, she added.

Good Splendour.

"We went over as Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins. I have no idea the amount of money he spent on me in Europe in the purchase of diamonds, sapphires, pearls, laces, lingerie, gowns, and so forth. He bought about as much for his wife over there as he did for me. We returned on the Lusitania, arriving here on June 25, 1909.

"I know nothing in detail of the scheme by which the tens of thousands of dollars of foreign articles contained in our 11 big trunks and three smaller pieces of baggage were smuggled in. I do know, however, that they all got past the customs officers without paying any duties. I recall particularly the purchase of Mr. Allen at Tiffany's in London of a pearl necklace for me that cost nearly $100,000.

"The jewels were taken from me however, to get them through the customs. I never got them back.'

Although her apartment is fitted up in sumptuous style, Mrs. Jenkins does not live extravagantly. She now keeps only two servants—a cook and maid—whereas she used to keep a retinue of ten or more both in the mansion given her by Allen in Chicago and in the house she bought for herself in New York after she had been deserted by her millionaire friend.

Mrs. Jenkins declares that she will sue Allen for the recovery of the jewels and securities, the latter disappearing from a safety deposit vault.

Another Woman.

Another woman of high social standing in New York is said to be involved in the alleged smuggling plot almost as deeply as the mysterious Mrs. Jenkins. The government has already begun a far-reaching enquiry into her purchases of gems here and abroad during a period of more than five years.

The second woman is prominent in New York society. Her picture has been painted by eminent artists. For years she has been a hostess of upper Fifth avenue society. Her jewels long have been objects of special admiration in the ballrooms of the Four Hundred, for they are not only of the most costly sort, but of seemingly infinite variety.

DEADLY ANEMIA

Casts a Shadow Over the Lives of Thousands of Women and Growing Girls

"Not enough blood" is the simple meaning of the term anaemia, though it should scarcely need explaining, for, unfortunately, anaemia is one of the greatest evils in this country, afflicting women of all ages, including young girls. The signs of bloodlessness are plain enough—pallid lips and cheeks, and aching back, frequent headaches, with breathlessness, heart palpitation and great weakness. The only effective treatment is to strengthen and build up the blood, and it is just by the power of making new, rich blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anaemia in more cases than it is possible to place on record. Among the host cured of this trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss C. N. Roberge, of Sorel, Que., who had been in poor health for several years. Miss Roberge says: "I believe that if I had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my illness would have proved fatal. The trouble came on so gradually that I can scarcely tell the point at which it did begin. The first noticeable symptom was loss of colour and a feeling of lassitude. Then I began to lose my appetite, had frequent headaches, and spells of dizziness, and became unable to do any housework, without being completely exhausted. Finally my trouble became aggravated by a persistent cough. I took several kinds of medicine, but did not get any relief. At last I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to do so. After I had taken several boxes there was a noticeable improvement in my condition and I continued using the Pills until I had taken nine boxes. The result in my opinion was marvellous. My appetite returned, my nerves were strengthened, my weight increased, headaches disappeared, and I am enjoying the best health of my life. In gratitude for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me I give this statement in the hope that it may bring new health to some other sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all those troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, and the troubles which attack girls budding into womanhood and women of mature years. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Modern Methods For Killing Off The Flies

(Montreal Herald)

It has struck a far-seeing municipal patriot that the "swatting of the fly" may be turned to such profitable account as to serve the double purpose of creating a flyless city and advancing the circulation of an enlightened and enterprising organ of opinion.

Next to the heat itself, the housefly is at the present moment probably the most universal source of affliction in this city of Montreal. It is with something more than interest, therefore, that one turns to the good city of Worcester, Massachusetts, where resourcefulness, on the one hand, and energy on the other, may result in its achieving that pinnacle of renown which would legitimately appertain to the first flyless city in the world.

Naturally, it is this new feature that first claims attention for it will be a comparatively simple matter to produce scientific data which would form a complete justification for the homicidal measure which has come to be known as "swatting the fly."

The Proofs of the Slaughter.

A boy of fourteen who resides on Hiscox street, recently delivered at the Worcester Telegram office a quantity of dead flies, described as "two gills," thus constituting himself, temporarily at least, the leader in the fly-killing competition, organized by the Telegram in that city. On the same day four other boys and two girls, ranging in age from seven to fifteen, turned over their respective collections, the largest amounting to "one and one-third gills"; the smallest to "one-fortieth of a gill," all the collectors being animated by the belief that eventually they will have a share in the Telegram's "153 prizes, amounting to $650".

Meanwhile it is understood that many future citizens are responding to the adjuration of the enlightened organ and getting busy "with flytraps, fly-swatters, fly-nets, and flypoison," inspired by the high ambition to "make Worcester the first flyless city in the world"—surely a reasonable anticipation, since already there are no flies on the Telegram. One can sympathize with the hope of cash and the dreams of glory; and yet, since ardent hunters will seek the flies where they grow, in the most unsavory places, one wonders whether the Telegram's prizes will suffice to pay the doctors' bills?

Wholesome Truths About Unwholesome Insects.

Of course the Worcester newspaper has local, as well as general, precedents for its campaign, if not for its competition. Dr. Hodge of Clark University, has spared no effort, these many years past, to tell his townsmen wholesome truths about anwhole some insects; the Women's Municipal League of Boston has recently taken up the fly question; the State of Florida, has, as a State, begun a fly crusade; the Boards of Health of Louisiana and the District of Columbia are planning preventive measures; newspaper campaigns of education are being, or have been, carried on by the Chicago Tribune, Kansas City Star, Minneapolis Tribune, Milwaukee Sentinel and Washington Star, and the America Civic Association is planning to interest school children, as Professor Hodge ten years ago aroused the Worcester children to search out the breeding places of mosquitoes.

The civic health authorities of Montreal and The Herald have done their part in the campaign against the many legioned insect.

The latest and most important development along this line is, perhaps the publication of "The House Fly, Disease Carrier, by L. O. Howard, PhD., entomologist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington"—a comprehenive account, in popular language, of the insect's dangerous activities, and of the means of destroying it. In short, information is readily to be obtained, intelligent action is on foot, and the work of sanitary reformation is not likely to be hampered except by public indifference, since good words for the fly are few.

A Solitary Fly Defender.

A writer in Popular Mechanics does suggest that the larvae are useful to some extent as scavengers, that if we destroyed flies it might lead to upset the balance of nature and bring in a worse plague ,and that the fly is actually man's good friend, in that his presence warns us of the breeding places of disease. The last consideration alone is perhaps worth noting. It bears directly upon the fly-swatting competitions.

Flies have large families and many of them. Dr. Howard, starting his calculations April 15, with an overwintering fly, which on that day lays 120 eggs, estimates that by Sept. 10 from the initial brood there will have issued 5,598,720,000,000 adults, one-half of which are females. Against such figures the Worcester lad's "two gills" are laughable by comparison, recalling the New England housewife's saying, "The fly died, and a hundred flies came to the funeral". Clearly, it is useless, except as a means of promoting the temporary comfort of a family, to set flytraps or spread flypaper, since the insects thus disposed of are as one to a million.

Where the "Swatting" May be Most Deadly.

To cope successfully with the fly it is probably better to fall back upon preventive measures like that adopted by the town of Brookline, which every year makes a systematic crusade aginst the mosquito, "and this year," says the Chronicle, "is fighting the fly as well. Public and private dumps, dwelling houses, back yards, barns, pools, swamps and vacant land, in fact every inch of the town, is carefully inspected and all places where these insects are liable to breed are thoroughly treated with oil. Property owners have been asked to co-operate with the Board of Health, and the work will be carried on until October. We commend this good example to the attention of other municipalities. The fact stands without argument that if there are few breeding places there will be less disease for flies to carry. In short, a method like that pursued in Brookline is the only effective way in which to 'swat' the fly."

SPECIAL SERVICES AT S. A. TEMPLE

Special week end services will be held in the S. A. Temple on Simcoe street, conducted by Brigadier Scott Potter, of Toronto, late of Japan. The Brigadier is originally Scotch and has travelled extensively, and therefore has a wide experience of the world generally, and the S. A. in particular. He will conduct his first meeting on Saturday evening and then all day on Sunday. Sunday afternoon, weather permitting, a short, bright service will be held in the park commencing at 3 o'clock. The Band and songsters will assist the Brigadier with these series of meetings and a very profitable time is anticipated. Next Thursday night, July 13th there will be a great welcome meeting of Ensign and Mrs. Merrett, who have the command of the local corp. All are welcome to this series of meetings.

Captain Ernest Regmire will accompany the Brigadier from Toronto and will assist in the services.

A WONDER WORKER

"It heals like magic," is a favorite expression when Dr. Chase's Ointment is used. It works quickly, stops all itching at once, often heals in a single night. For eczema, salt rheum, barbers' itch, skin irritations or eruptions, it is a most satisfactory treatment. Being antiseptic, it prevents blood poisoning.

SANDWICHES FOR PICNICS

When summer sun is shining (and good and hot, at that) picnic time is here. There's no mistaking the sign of the season when you get that feeling that the house is too warm a place to bide in and the yard is too suggestive of weeding and mowing and straightening up. To the woods, to the park, with pa toting the basket filled with dandy "eats," and the youngsters just wild to be turned loose under the shady trees on soft green grass.

Then there's the lunch spread on the ground for pa and ma and the youngsters, too, and maybe sis brings her best beau along. Quite the most important thing the basket divulges are the sandwiches, and ma should remember to prepare plenty of them, for what is a picnic without sandwiches?

Sandwiches made by cutting white bread into thin slices, spreading them with a paste of cream cheese and pimentoes and putting them together with a lettuce leaf are dainty and nourishing. The pimentoes should be chopped rather fine and the spread should be a quarter of an inch thick.

Another sandwich made to gratify and satisfy the appetite has ham and egg as the filling. Take hard boiled eggs, chop the whites fine and run the yolks through a colander. Grind the ham. Mix the yolks and ham together and moisten with mayonnaise. Spread on the bread and sprinkle over the chopped whites, then season. Press together firmly. The mayonnaise may be omitted if desired.

Chicken sandwiches may have the meat chopped and mixed with shredded lettuce, chopped nuts and mayonnaise, or simply sliced, salted, and peppered and put together with a lettuce leaf. Plenty of black pepper and a generous spread of butter is the secret of good, plain sliced chicken sandwiches.

Brown bread to be used for sandwiches is best steamed in one-pound baking powder boxes. Spread and cut bread as for other sandwiches. Put between layers finely chopped peanuts seasoned with salt; or grated cheese mixed with chopped English walnut meat seasoned with salt.

Fruit sandwiches: Remove stems and chop figs finely; add a small quantity of water, cook in double boiler until a paste is formed, then add a few drops of lemon juice. Cool mixture, and spread on thin slices of buttered bread; sprinkle with finely-chopped peanuts and cover with buttered bread.

HANG HIM TO A SOUR APPLE TREE

When mother and the youngsters ask father to go with them for a little picnic party there is one kind of 'em who says this:

"What's the use of going away to a picnic. Throw the dining-room table out and spread the dinner on the floor, then let all the flies in, throw some dust on the sandwiches, sprinkle a few ants in the water, turn the hose on ourselves to remind us of the rain which invariably comes when we are farthest from shelter and cap it off by crowding in the pantry and hanging to the shelves for the usual time it takes us to ride home on the car. Nix on any picnic for me!"

DOCTORS ENDORSE

Newbro's Herpicide

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burrough Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz., writes of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry, scalp material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before but thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Herpicide is for sale at Drug Stores and one dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send 10c. in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

WOMEN AS HARVESTERS

Nebraska Farmers Say They Make Better Farm Hands.

OMAHA, NEB., JULY 6.—This week wheat and oat harvest began in the counties along the south line of the state, and before the end of another week it will be in full swing through the South Platte country.

In other years the cry "Send us men" has been nheard for and wide from the farms, but this year the appeal has been changed. The farmers are exclaiming, "Send us women."

During harvest, stacking and threshing, Nebraska farm wages have for years been around $2.50 and $3.00 a day. Last year ther eswas an advance of 50 cents a day. This season the last year prices will rule, and during the latter part of June, the whole of July and a portion of August the daily farm wage will be from $3 to $3.50 for a ten-hour day.

Until last year the men had the absolute right of way, but now they are being crowded out and to quite an extent are being replaced by young women. Last year a farmer, John Henderson, Beatrice, found himself short of help when harvest arrived. He went to town and called at the employment agency. He offered $3 a day, with board and room, but the idle men who were looking for work thought hte task too hard.

While eating at a restaurant Henderson told his trouble to Miss Millie Jamison, a waitress, who, in a joking way, remarked:

"If you will give me $3 a day I'll go out with you and do the work of a man."

"It's a bargain," answered Henderson, "and I'll take five more girls along at the same wages if I can get them."

Miss Jomison immediately quit her job in the restaurant, and, going out among her girl friends, soon found five who were anxious to go to the harvest fields.

When Henderson reached his farm that evening six young women, clothed in overalls and hickory shirts wearing coarse shoes on their feet, and broad hats on their heads, jumped out of a spring waggon. They sat down to a farm supper and then stowed themselves away for the night in nthe hay loft of the barn. The next morning they were up with the sun, and, after an early breakfast, started for the grain fields where all day long they followed the harvester, shocking the wheat as fast as it was delivered from the binding platform. They continued to work until all the grain was threshed. When they quit each got $120 for 40 days' work.

Local newspapers were filled with comments on Henderson's new farm hands. This year hundreds of girls are doing the same thing and most of the farmers agree that they do as much work, do it as well, and in many respects, are preferable to men.

Although Deputy Labour Commissioner Guye has been unable to make a mohputation, it is estimated that this year not less than 1,000 young women of Nebraska will earn from $50 to $150 each in the harvest fields.

WM. SHAW IS DEAD

Carp Drug Clerk, Who Was Shot at Bridge-End Last Saturday Afternoon, Takes a Bad Turn and Passes Away—Was to Have Been Married This Month—Inquest Adjourned For Week.

Cornwall, July 8.—William Shaw, the young Carp drug clerk who was shot at Bridge-End, Glengarry, last Saturday afternoon, passed away yesterday afternoon. The bullet which caused his death is believed to have been of 44-calibre and came through the back of an automobile before breaking a rib and landing in his left lung. He was motored to Lancaster and taken thence to the Cornwall General Hospital on Saturday night. All the time he retained consciousness and until yesterday morning it was believed that he would pull through. He took a bad turn, however, and passed away late in the afternoon. He was 28 years of age and a native of Scotland. He came to Canada six years ago, was employed in Dr. McGee's drug store at Carp and was highly thought of by the whole community. It is said that he was to have been married this month.

Immediately on information of his death Dr. C. J. Hamilton called for a coroner's inquest and at 8 p.m. the jury viewed the remains at the hospital. After Dr. D. O. Alguire had been given charge of the post-mortem, the inquest was adjourned till 10 a.m. on Thursday, July 13, at the Cornwall court house.

Yesterday the aged prisoner, A. D. McRae, appeared before Police Magistrate Dania, but the County Crown Attorney was not ready to go on, and Dr. Magee, to whom he had telegraphed, was not present. He objected to the form of the information, and read a note from Dr. Alguire, to the effect that the condition of the wounded man was worse yesterday morning, and that he might die within twenty-four hours.

R. A. Pringle, K.C., and J. A. Chisholm, counsel for the accused, were agreeable to a reasonable adjournment, but asked that their client be released upon bail, even to the amount of $15,000. He was an old man, held in the highest esteem in Glengarry, and was reeve of Lancaster Township.

The magistrate was not prepared to accept bail at present. He suspended judgment on this point, and adjourned the case for seven days.

Lost Homesick.

Kingston, July 8.—Two weeks ago Wallace Tacou, aged 12, of Windsor, Ont., ran away from home and came to Kingston, where he formerly lived. He got a position with Mr. Ferguson, today got homesick and gave himself up to the police. Mayor Graham gave him a railway pass home.

SEAL TREATY A FACT

Long-Talked of Agreement Comes to an End With a Prohibition of Pelagic Sealing and a Compact to Divide the Annual Proceeds From Seal Herds—Killing of Birds Left Till a Later Date.

Washington, July 8.—By the terms of the seal treaty signed yesterday, pelagic sealing is prohibited in the seas of Behring, Okhotsk, Kamchatka and Japan.

The convention arranges for the apportionment among the signatory powers of the annual proceeds of the several seal herds in which they are interested, as follows: Thirty per cent. of the skins annually taken from the American and Russian herds respectively is divided equally between Great Britain and Japan; thirty per cent. from Japanese herds, divided equally among the United States, Great Britain and Russia and thirty per cent. from any herds which may hereafter resort to the breeding grounds under British jurisdiction in the North Pacific Ocean is to be divided equally among the United States, Russia and Japan.

In connection with this apportionment the United States will make an advance payment of $200,000 each to Great Britain and Japan. These payments are to be refunded to this country out of the proceeds of the British and Japanese share of skins taken from the American herds. "This payment," says an official statement on the subject, "is in effect merely a loan, and was necessary only because the United States reserves the right to discontinue altogether the killing of the Pribilof Island seals."

The convention also prohibits the hunting of sea otters on the high seas. The treaty will extend for fifteen years and thereafter until terminated by one year's notice by any of the powers concerned. It will now be submitted to the Governments whose representatives have signed it for ratification. Aside from ratification by the Senate it will also be necessary for Congress to pass some legislation to carry its provisions into effect.

While the official statement makes no mention of the disposition to be made of the advance payments of $200,000 each to Japan and Great Britain, it is understood the money is to be used to reimburse the owners of the vessels of those two countries heretofore engaged in pelagic sealing.

A feature is a paragraph prohibiting the importation of sealskins into the territory of any of the parties to the convention which is known as pelagic sealers. The original gray seal skin is practically worthless unless carefully tanned and dyed which can be done to perfection only in London, so that the market for pelagic sealskins is practically destroyed by this provision.

Originally intended to provide also for the protection of plumage birds, the convention did not include that subject, owing to the lack of sufficient data as to the kind and habits of the birds. This matter is left to be dealt with hereafter.

Germany Wants Slice.

Berlin, July 8.—The Russian ambassador called yesterday at the Foreign Office and had a long talk with Baron von Kiderlin Waechter, the Foreign Secretary. He had been directed by Emperor Nicholas to enquire in a friendly spirit concerning Germany's intentions in Morocco.

There has been no intimation of what Germany's pretensions will be in the eventual bargaining between the powers over Morocco. Officials here adhere to the point of view that France, first of all, should state her intentions in the premises.

There is some reason to believe, according to a well-informed and friendly diplomat, that the ultimate basis of negotiations will concern Germany's participation in railroad and industrial concessions in Morocco, and the extention of the Kamerun-Congo Railroad, while in anti-Germany diplomatic circles, the opinion is expressed that Germany first will try to secure a position in South Morocco and fall back upon a demand for railroad concessions if she should fail therein.

Borden Ends Tour.

Winnipeg, July 8.—The western tour of the Conservative leader closed last evening at Somerset. During the last three weeks he has held nearly forty public meetings and spoken at as many more gatherings of grain growers or municipal receptions.

Three meetings were held yesterday, Gladstone in the morning, Portage la Prairie in the afternoon, and St. Pierre in Provencher last evening.

The meeting at Gladstone in the morning was attended by about two hundred persons. Both political parties were represented, and members of both parties were in militant mood.

The grain growers at Portage la Prairie presented Mr. Borden with memorials, "practically the same" as those presented to Hon. Frank Oliver here. This description was given to them by the head of the deputation, W. N. Stewart, president of the local farmers' association.

Died From the Heat.

Woodstock, July 8.—A very sad death occurred at the Alexander Hospital Thursday night about midnight. Andrew Conn, an Irishman of about middle age, was working in the hay field of George Holmes, second concession of Dereham, on Wednesday morning, when he was overcome by the heat. Shortly after 11 o'clock he was taken to the hospital in a condition of unconsciousness and from that time till the time of his death he did not regain consciousness.

Mr. Conn came from Ireland only about a week ago and was with Mr. Holmes only five days. He left a letter which read: "If anything should happen to me, I have left papers regarding my affairs with Rev. A. Stephens in the manse, Warrenpoint, Ireland." Mr. Conn was an unmarried man and leaves a widowed mother in Ireland.

THE KING IS IN IRELAND

Docks Are Lined With Loyal Irishmen as the Royal Yacht Steams Into Kingstown Harbor—Splendid Series of Festivities Will Mark the Visit of Their Majesties to the Emerald Isle.

Dublin, July 8.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary on board, anchored in Kingstown Harbor at 8 o'clock last evening. Every available point along the breakwater and on the landing stages was crowded with cheering Dublinites who, on seeing the King and the Prince of Wales on the bridge of the yacht, burst forth singing the National Anthem. The first division of the home fleet, anchored just outside the harbor, also fired salutes in honor of Their Majesties. The royal party landed this morning.

When they came ashore they were received by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and driven in state carriages to the castle, where they are to reside during their stay. A number of brilliant state functions are to take place in the royal residence during the next few days, including dinners, a levee, a court reception and a chapter of the Order of St. Patrick.

The old building, dating from early in the thirteenth century, is not very imposing in appearance, but it is commodious and well suited for court ceremonies.

In the presence chamber, where the court receptions will be held, stands the King's throne of gilt carved work under a canopy of rich crimson velvet beautifully ornamented with gold lace. In the ball room, known as St. Patrick's Hall, the chapters of the Order of St. Patrick always are held. In the paneled ceiling is a large allegorical painting of George III., supported by figures representing Justice and Liberty. One of the side panels is filled with a painting of St. Patrick preaching to the native Irish, and on the other side is a picture of the submission of the Celtic chieftains to Henry II.

On Sunday Their Majesties will attend service at St. Patrick's Cathedral. The present building dates from 1190 when it took the place of one which had stood on the same site for centuries. During the time of Cromwell, the protector used the cathedral as a law court.

On Monday the King will inspect the Royal Irish Constabulary in Phoenix Park, where he will also hold a review of troops and present some of the regiments with new colors.

The weather is brilliant, and Dublin looks her best in her gala decorations. Enthusiastic crowds are parading the streets.

Among the latest arrivals at the vice-regal lodge are the Earl and Countess of Grimard, the Earl and Countess of Bandon, the Earl and Countess of Carrick, the Countess of Mayo, Lord and Lady Castletown, the Earl and Countess of Rosse, Lord and Lady Castlemaine, and Lord and Lady Pirrie.

Milk Famine Threatens.

Chatham, July 8.—Chatham is threatened with a milk famine. The outlook at present has quite a serious aspect and little babies will be the greatest sufferers.

Milkmen are having a very hard time to secure enough milk to supply the actual needs of their customers, and yesterday the shortage became quite alarming.

The prospects are at present not very encouraging. Though it rained heavily in different sections around Chatham on Thursday the grass has not shown any great signs of picking up yet. The intense heat has so dried out the soil that the rain evaporated before it had a chance to do the grass any good.

Farmers state that the grass in many sections of the county is burned to a yellow crisp—so dry that it cracks under foot. Pasture fields are beginning to be as devoid of a green blade as a city pavement, and the ground beneath is as hard as stone.

If rain does not soon come to the rescue the milk famine will become quite acute.

Looking Into Child's Death.

Niagar Falls, N.Y., July 8.—An enquiry is being held into the death of the adopted two and a half years old boy of Mrs. Josephine Taylor, 2,644 Allen avenue. Eighteen witnesses have been summoned before Coroner Scott. Meanwhile the woman is detained.

Dr. Frank Jones attended the child a few hours before death, finding its body a mass of bruises, and with ugly marks about the neck, indicating that it had been strangled.

According to neighbors the woman, who is young, and has been married only a short time, secured the child from a home in Buffalo a few months ago, and it is said to have been deprived of proper food and was continually beaten because it cried.

Montreal Police Inadequate.

Montreal, July 8.—The annual report of the police department has just been completed by Chief Campeau, the chief feature of which is that, although criminality has increased considerably during the past year, there has been no corresponding augmentation of the police staff. Certain new wards in the city have no police protection whatever.

Deckhands Sentenced.

Kingston, July 8.—Three young men guilty of creating a disturbance on the steamer Kingston were sentenced yesterday. Harry Sullivan, the ringleader, was given four weeks in jail. Walter Hunter and Arthur Francis were each given two weeks. William Sparring was discharged.

Died at 106.

Ottawa, July 8.—The oldest inhabitant near here is dead in the person of Mr Wm. McKelvey, of Cascades. McKelvey is said to have been 106 years of age, and was one of the pioneers of the district, having come over from Ireland when a young man.

PROPERTIES

THE TORONTO MILL is well situated on a valuable site of about three acres, and has a capacity of 1,000 barrels of flour and 100 tons of feed per day. It is running day and night, but has been unable to supply the ever-increasing demand for its products.

THE PETERBOROUGH MILL was purchased (May 15th, 1911) from the Central Milling Company. It is well situated, on the main line of the C.P.R., and has a capacity of 400 barrels of flour and 30 tons of feed per day. It is a most valuable addition to the Campbell Milling Co's plant, and it is necessary to run day, day and night inorder to relieve the congestion of business of the Toronto mill.

THE MIDLAND MILL.—A site for a new mill has been secured beside the Aberdeen elevator at Midland, Ont., comprising nine acres of land, including a water frontage of 500 feet, on which it is intended to erect the new mill, which will have a capacity of 1,500 barrels a day, with buildings arranged to increase the output to 3,000 barrels per day, without structural alterations or additions. The Aberdeen elevator has a capacity of 1,200,000 bushels, and is one of the most complete and up-to-date on the lakes.

The Tilden elevator, with a capacity of two and a half million bushels, is within easy reach. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. have centralized in building huge elevators at Midland and Victoria Harbour.

The directors, after full consideration of the many possible locations, have decided there is no better situation in Canada for milling for both export and eastern trade than at Midland, where all the advantages of low freight rates, cheap electric power (hydro-electric), and a low fixed assessment for ten years, have been secured.

ASSETS

The Company has acquired the business of the Campbell Milling Company, which includes the mills and elevators at West Toronto and Peterborough. The mills, real estate, equipment, good will, etc., have been conservatively valued at $525,024, not taking into consideration the valuable site and concessions at Midland, and from the shares now offered to the public, the Company will have about $300,000 in the treasury to carry on the business and build the new mill at Midland, making total assets of $825,024, there being no bonds or mortgages on the real estate or plants.

The Canadian Appraisal Company have appraised the plants.

On the investment of the two mills now running the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, are earning eighteen per cent., after allowing for all expenses, depreciation, etc., and with the same experienced management and advantages enumerated in the prospectus, it is reasonable to suppose that when the new capital is invested it will bring equally good returns.

EARNINGS

We hereby certify that the earnings of the Campbell Milling Co., West Toronto, after allowing for cost of management, depreciation, etc., have been as follows:

12 months ending July 31st, 1910 ..... $41,674.93
9 months ending April 28th, 1911 ..... 46,304.65

(Signed) STIFF BROS.,
Chartered Accountants.

The interest required to pay 7 per cent. on Preference Stock is $45,500. From the above earnings it will be noticed that this amount is earned by the Toronto mill in nine months, and with the added capacity of the Peterborough plant now in operation, and the Midland Mill, which will soon be in operation, this will more than double the present capacity, so the earnings will be very materially increased.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS

The mill at Midland will be completed early in 1912, and when the three mills are running, figuring very conservatively by past earnings, the net profits are estimated as follows:—

Net earnings	$100,000
7 per cent. preferred dividend	45,500
	$ 54,500
Showing over 7 per cent. on the common	45,500
	$ 9,000

THE GROWTH OF BUSINESS

The necessity for expansion is shown forcibly by the following figures, which represent the annual gross sales of the Toronto mill:

1908	836,630.17	1909	1,108,966.00

EIGHTEEN YEARS OF SATISFACTION

The new company receives the benefit of the good-will and business, which has given eighteen years of satisfaction to the purchasers of their brands of flour, such as "Cream of the West," "Queen City," and "Monarch." It is the only large flour mill situated in the City of Toronto, and in eighteen years they have built up a tremendous local trade, besides being well established throughout the Dominion, West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland, and the United Kingdom.

MANAGEMENT

The Management of the Company is in strong, practical hands. The President, the Honourable Archibald Campbell, has been in the milling business a life-time, and associated with him are his three sons, who have been managing the business for six years. The experience of James Playfair of Midland, and Mr. James Richardson, adds strength to the Board of Directors. The Directors have been looking ahead and have extended all their lines and formed connections, feeling confident that with their present organization and all the advantages enumerated above, they will be able to dispose of the entire products of the new mill, in addition to their present output, at profitable rates.

MARKET

Flour is an every day necessity, and flour ground from our Canadian North-West wheat is finding a ready market the world over, and, with increasing home markets, it is necessary for our established mills to greatly increase their output to take care of the ever-increasing production of wheat.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and will close on or before Monday, July 17th, at 3 o'clock p.m.

The right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and such amounts as may be approved, and to close subscription books without notice.

Prospectus and forms of application may be obtained from and applications forwarded to

St. James' Football Club Defeated By Ladies By a Score Of 3-2

Interesting Game at Jubilee Point in Which the Ladies of St. James' Church Defeated the St. James' Football Club—Winners Were Presented With a Beautiful Silver Cup

The St. James' football club, the winners of the Church League, etc., yesterday met their masters at Jubilee Point, in an exciting game, in which their lady supporters for once were their opponents. Mrs. Wells, the Captain of the ladies' team, decided to play with four ladies in goal and the rest of the team forward. At 4 o'clock, promptly, the players entered the field, the men rolled up their shirt sleeves, and the ladies added a few more hair-pins. Phil. Braun won the toss and Mrs. Wells stole the coin; then, amidst great excitement, the game started. Mrs. Wells got possession of the ball and passed well out to Mrs. Sanderson, who fastened on to the leather like an old Rugby player and sprinted up the wing and when collared by the backs she skillfully passed the ball back to Miss Collins, who, with the combined efforts of Mrs. Wells and party, rushed the St. James' goal keeper, thus putting the ladies ahead. The game was now delayed for a few minutes, while the ladies kissed each other and the men punched their goal-keeper. On resuming, the St. James' were quickly in their opponents' half, but the lady goal-keepers were equal to the occasion, and defended their charge in real good style. Shortly afterwards Phil Braun was seen to be in great pain on the ground, and it was found, on examination, that one of the ladies had put some tickle-berries down his back; but he did not have to leave the field. Turner, who had not been playing with anything like his usual dash, at last woke up, and, taking a pass from Hotston, he turned round and kicked the wrong way, scoring a beautiful goal for the ladies. Shortly afterwards St. James' scored and half-time arrived with the score 2-1 in favour of the ladies.

The second half was keenly contested, the St. James' trying hard to equalize, but there were too many goal-keepers for them to score. A few minutes before time the ladies added another goal, and just on time St. James' scored. Thus a very amusing game ended in a victory for the ladies. Later in the evening a beautiful silver cup was presented to the winners by the St. James' Football Club.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, July 7.—Market opened steady, unchanged to ½d higher. Weaker American cables and more favorable reports from Russia were offset by unfavorable Moroccan news. Following opening, shorts covered, and prices advanced. The forecast is for smaller world's shipments this week. Corn opened ½d lower and remained unchanged during session. Weaker American cables were offset by lighter European offers. In Russia, rains have fallen in the southeast. Crop outlook considered favorable, except in Volga district.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Widening crop damage reports from North Dakota, threatening similar losses in Manitoba, had much to do to-day with making the wheat market strong. Closing figures showed a net advance of 1¼ to 1⅝. Corn wound up with a gain of 1⅝ to 1⅞; oats improved 1 to 1⅝, and provisions 10c to 12½c to 20c.

Million a Month Increase.

Ottawa, July 8.—For the first quarter of the present fiscal year Canada's revenue has been $30,230,646, an increase of nearly three millions, as compared with the first three months of the last fiscal year. For June the revenue was $10,666,209, an increase of $1,053,926.

Expenditure on consolidated fund account for the three months has been $8,925,732, a comparative increase of $106,625. On capital account the expenditure has been $2,308,730, a decrease of nearly one million.

PREMIER'S WELCOME.

Fleet of Boats Will Escort Sir Wilfrid to Montreal.

Montreal, July 8.—Details of Montreal's welcome to Sir Wilfrid Laurier are now officially complete. The Premier and his party will leave Sorel Monday about four o'clock and proceed up the river direct to Montreal, being met on their way by a flotilla of tugs and pleasure craft. This fleet will include about 150 craft, illuminated and decorated. Illuminations and fireworks on both shores of the river will mark the progress of the Premier's vessel.

The harbor will be illuminated in the most complete fashion. A triumphal arch will be erected at the point of debarkation, and the various vessels in port will be decorated in honor of the occasion.

The City Council will attend in a body, and Ald. Gauvin, acting mayor will read the city's address of welcome. Meanwhile, the Liberal clubs, with bands and thousands of banners, will cross the Champ de Mars, pass down Jacques Cartier Square, and take up a position on either side of the thoroughfare.

Immediately after the reply Sir Wilfrid, the civic authorities and other dignitaries in carriages, will leave the wharf by Commissioners street to Jacques Cartier square, and thence to the platform on the edge of the Champ de Mars.

The ascent of Jacques Cartier square will take place under a dome of light, formed by a series of inscriptions sixty feet long and four feet high, covering the entire width of the street. On each side of the square hanging decorations will be displayed. The Champ de Mars will be similarly illuminated, the chief feature being a gigantic portrait of the Premier outlined in fire, with the inscription, "Je me souviens." On the Champ de Mars platform, Mr. Leon Garneau will read the united address of the Liberal clubs of Montreal and districts.

LITTLE HOPE OF PEACE.

Ralph Conner Pessimistic of Settlement in Miners' Strike.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Dr. W. C. Gordon, better known as Ralph Connor, who has been sitting at various points in the Crow's Nest district of Alberta as chairman of the conciliation committee, which has been trying to settle the strike, returned to Winnipeg yesterday and was not particularly optimistic as to the prospects. He expressed the hope, indeed, that the strike now going on would be settled before any further injury was done the people of the west. "The board of arbitration have given their decision," he said, "on which both parties can meet; but unfortunately at the present time this decision has not been accepted. I am hopeful that both sides will see the equity of this proposition we have presented them and will come to a reasonable attitude regarding it."

He went on to say that unless a settlement was reported in the near future, there was bound to be a rise in the price of coal in Manitoba, from the fact that much of the supply of Pennsylvania anthracite would be diverted from this province to Alberta. The price of this class of coal yesterday was $10.50 per ton here.

Said She Was Tired of Life.

St. Catharines, July 8.—Beamsville people accept the theory that the death of Edna Comfort and her child was murder and suicide. The girl seemed to have been a somewhat free character, and it is said she was heard to say she was tired of life. The hot weather, too, may have affected her mind, for why she should have undressed the child is a mystery.

However, the doctors who performed the autopsy are criticized for refusing to say anything as to the result of their examination, the opinion being that it would be better to set at rest stories that are going around.

Some people, however, hold to the double murder theory, strengthened in their belief by the fact that the district is now overrun with Indians and men of unknown homes, picking fruit. Crown Attorney Brennan is at Sault Ste. Marie, and High Constable Boyle is awaiting instructions.

Money "Tight" In West.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Because of the amount of money being put out by the banks in the west to handle the annual crop, other lines of business in Western Canada are to-day hard pressed for funds.

This is the cry from all sections. Collections are reported above the average by collectors, but they are complaining of tight money.

All loans relating to real estate, even remotely, have been cut off in the west on orders from Montreal and Toronto.

In view of the heavy business this is being felt severely.

Aviators Cross Hars Mountains.

Berlin, July 8.—Four aviators completed the most difficult stage of the German circuit flight yesterday by crossing the Hars Mountains from Nordhausen to Halberstadt, a distance of about fifty miles. The first three carried passengers.

The highest point of the mountain system passed is 3,500 feet. The greatest danger was from the irregular winds around the isolated mountains.

Building New Grand Stand.

Winnipeg, July 8.—No time is being lost in the work of construction of a temporary grandstand to accommodate several thousand people at the coming exhibition. Fifteen hundred workmen were on the grounds yesterday before the embers of the fire were cool. Every lumber company in the city is rushing material to the grounds. The exhibition opens in six days.

Cause of Aylmer Dock Collapse.

Ottawa, July 8.—Investigation by Government officials of the collapse of the wharf at Aylmer, Que., Thursday night, in which one woman was drowned and several injured, reveals that the accident was due to the timbers being too light.

You Can't Leave the Beard Behind

So Don't Forget the Gillette

The hearty open-air vacation life seems to makes the beard grow as it never grows at home. To the man without a GILLETTE it becomes a downright nuisance.

Cleanliness, comfort and self-respect demand the morning shave. But boats, trains, summer resorts and camps provide scant shaving facilities.

That never worries the man with a GILLETTE Safety Razor in his grip or his pocket. In lurching cabin or swaying Pullman—on the back porch or beside a convenient stump—wherever the morning finds him—he can enjoy his regular three-minute GILLETTE shave in solid comfort, with a lordly independence of place or circumstance.

Pack your grip with discrimination. Travel light. Leave out the "unnecessaries" of life. But whatever you do, don't discount your holiday by starting out without "The Razor of To-day."

Standard Sets $5.00. Pocket Editions $5.00 to $6.00.
Combination Sets from $6.50 up.

TO CHECK A COLD

It is easy to check a cold if you begin in time. Frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep the cough loose, allay the inflammation, and so prevent it spreading to the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mrs. S. M. About Lord's Day Act words, the attorney-general has been directly responsible for the submission of these questions to the judgment of the court.

Must Enforce Law.

"It would be unreasonable to expect that the attorney-general and his officers would disregard the judgment of the court he was responsible for securing, and it would be rather discourteous to make such a request, and particularly when it is remembered that the powers of the attorney-general are limited to the enforcement of the law.

If any person has a grievance under the law, his redress is to be found in securing an amendment to the act. It is apparent also that a number of people have overlooked the fact that these stated cases in connection with which Mr. Justice Middleton's judgment was delivered were taken, not under the Lord's Day Act of Canada, but under the provincial act, known as C. S. U. C., chapter 194. Under the Dominion act no prosecution can be taken without the consent of the attorney-general; under the U. C., act no such consent is required."

In addition, Mr. Rochester added that in his judgment the pleas made for a different order of things were not very substantial. So far as the judgment in question goes, the restraints imposed upon Sunday buying and selling in the matter of refreshments are those merely relating to goods to be taken away off the premises. The liberty of no one is affected who wishes to go to any restaurant or hotel and get whatever he needs.

CONVENTION WILL BE HELD IN ALBERTA

The following notice has been received here concerning the annual convention of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canda. Indications point to this as being one of the most successful conventions that has ever been held.

To the officers and members of Provincial Federations of Labour, Trades and Labour Councils, National Trade Unions, Federal Labour Unions and International Local Trades Unions in the Dominion of Canada, greeting:—

Fellow Labour Unionists and Brothers,—The twenty-seventh annual session of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada will convene in Paget Hall, Seventh Avenue, East, Calgary, Province of Alberta, beginning at 10 o'clock, Monday morning, September 11th, 1911, and will continue in Session from day to day until the business of the Convention has been completed.

This meeting promises to be one of exceptional interest to the organized labour bodies of Canada, because of the many important matters that will come before it for consideration. Each year has witnessed a wonderful growth in the intricacy and difficulty of the problems to be dealt with by the Congress, and the Calgary Convention will be easily first in this respect. Among the subjects to be discussed are the following:

1. Dominion and Provincial Legislation.
2. The Immigration Laws.
3. The Eight-Hour Bill.
4. Payment of wages on railways fortnightly.
5. The Winnipeg Street Railway strike.
6. The Western Coal Miners' difficulty, as well as the strikes in Nova Scotia.
7. The work of the Provincial Federations, notably that of British Columbia.
8. Abolition of Chinese tax and substitution of agreement or understanding, as with Japan.
9. "Imperial" Labour Exchanges.
10. The arrest of McNamara.
11. Non-observance of municipal fair wage clauses.
12. The attempt upon the part of Russia to secure the surrender of Federenko.
13. The judgment of the United States Supreme Court in the Gompers' case.

In addition to these there are many other matters of vital and every-day interest to the workers. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that every affiliated body should be well represented.

In summoning this convention, your Executive Council cannot too strongly emphasize the necessity of a large representation of delegates at Calgary. Times are progressing and the Labour movement must imbibe some of the freshness and vigour that animate our Western brothers. The problems of the movement are becoming more complex and require the best efforts of the best minds.

Fraternally yours,

William Glockling, President
Gustave Francq, Vice-Pres.
P. M. Draper, Sec.-Treas.
—Executive Council, Trades and Labour Congress of Canada.

BIRDMAN INJURED.

Joseph Richter Crashes Into Bleachers at Toronto.

Toronto, July 8.—Within twelve seconds from taking his seat, Joseph Richter, known as the "Flying Dutchman" and the fearless aviator, who earned fame by his flight around the Singer Building in New York, was lying amidst the wreckage of his machine seriously injured at the stadium at Hanlan's Point yesterday.

Richter is suffering from a simple fracture of the left leg, both shin bones being broken, a skin abrasion on the left thigh and on the bridge of the nose and slight abrasions on both shins. He will not be able to fly again for eight weeks.

A better day or more favorable weather conditions could hardly have been desired. There was not a cloud in the sky and a moderate south by southeast wind was blowing across the field. About a hundred spectators were present in the stadium, and H. E. VanDeventer, manager for Richter, Alfred Shrubb, the well-known runner, and other officials were on the field at the time of the accident.

At three p.m. Richter decided that he would attempt a flight and seemed hopeful that he would be able to soar over the city and alight safely again in the centre of the field. The machine was brought from the tent at 4.15 and over a quarter of an hour was spent in oiling the motor and seeing that everything was working satisfactorily.

When he was seated the motor was once again cranked and the aviator raised his hand, when those who were holding the bi-plane let go. The machine sped along the ground at a rate of about twenty miles an hour and apparently made no attempt to rise. When the machine reached the centre of the field and had not risen an inch from the ground, the officials and a great number of the spectators feared an accident.

Fortunately Richter had the presence of mind to shut off the motor when he saw that it would be impossible for him to clear the bleachers. The machine immediately lessened speed, and Richter tried to circle, but the impetus was so great and the space so narrow, that the machine dashed against the boards.

Richter was thrown from his seat, striking his head against the wires of the bi-plane, and was then hurled with great force into the seat, breaking the shin-bones of his left leg. He did not lose consciousness.

Not Killed by Yaquis?

Toronto, July 8.—James Brown may yet be alive. Although supposed to have been massacred by the Yaquis in Mexico in 1908, C. M. Nutter of the Nutter-Dawson Mining Co., Alaska, declares that he is still alive and in Alaska.

Chief Justice Meredith, a few weeks ago, declared him legally dead, and his niece, Miss Mary E. A. Potvin of Midland, collected an insurance policy of $2,000 from the A.O.U.W.

Owing to the probability that he still lives, Justice Sutherland has now granted the A.O.U.W. an injunction to restrain Miss Potvin from disposing of the money until the matter is cleared up.

Smallpox In Manitoba.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Alarming small pox conditions have broken out in the eastern part of this province. Nineteen cases are reported at Port Alexander on the Winnipeg River. A Prize Han Story.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 8.—Colonel W. M. Parker vouches for a prize sinner in the hot weather yarn contest. He says a setting hen belonging to him died four days ago from the intense heat. From eggs left in the nest on Thursday, four chickens were hatched by nature's heat. Yesterday five more eggs sent forth chickens into a sweltering world.

351 GEORGE STREET CUT RATE DRUGGISTS PETERBORO

Rev. J. W. Larkin of Poughkeepsie believes in Sunday baseball. To prove it he addressed a crowd of 1,000 at a Sunday game, speaking for 30 minutes. He then sang, "There were Ninety and Nine," offered a fervent prayer and then watched the ball game.

Ty Cobb states that he is seriously considering an offer to go on the stage a revision of "The College Widow." Several prominent theatrical men and Outfielder Jimmy Callahan are said to be interested in the venture. Instead of the widow being the heroine the play will be revised, it is said, to place the champion batsman in the leading role, and a baseball instead of a football game will figure in the plot.

Violent Wind Storm Did Much Damage

Gale of Almost Cyclonic Proportions Swept Over Peterboro This Afternoon---Trees and Fences Suffer Severely and One House Was Struck by Lightning

A violent electrical rain and wind storm swept over Peterborough and district shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon and must have wrought considerable havoc through this section, although the fact that the telephone wires are down everywhere makes it impossible to get any details for this issue. The wind, which assumed almost cyclonic proportions, blew trees and wires down everywhere throughout the city, and in the country the conditions must have been a great deal worse. During the storm lightning struck the house occupied by Mr. W. S. Laing, Mark street, and knocked some bricks out of the chimney. No other damage was done to the building

A large limb of a tree in Sheridan street was struck off by the lightning, while two other trees in the grounds of St. John's Church suffered similar injuries in consequence of the wind.

The awnings of the stores of Mr. Evans and Mr. Hicks of Hunter street were shredded by the wind, while a tree adjacent to the Y. W. C. A. rooms was torn up by the roots.

A power wire broke and fell across a small barn at the corner of Sherbrook and Reid streets, setting fire to it. The Fire Department were notified and on arriving, they cut the power wire and no further damage resulted.

A chimney was knocked off a house at 420 Sherbrooke street, by lightning.

A number of trees were blown down throughout the city. On Stewart street a large electric light pole, carrying a number of wires, was thrown across the street, forming an arch over the roadway.

Awnings also suffered considerably, a large number of them being wrenched from their positions.

The fire alarm telegraph system was badly injured by lightning. The east and south circuits were put out of commission, and at the time of going to press Chief Howard could not estimate the damage.

Threatened To Cut Wife's Throat Local Man Fined $8.85 On Charge

Several Cases in Police Court This Morning---Local Man up on a Serious Offence---Other Cases

A local man named Alex. Thompson was fined $5.00 and costs, amounting to $8.85, in the Police Court this morning. The charge was disorderly conduct. According to the evidence Thompson had ill-treated his wife to extremes, last night, and his father-in-law interfered. The defendant, it is said, threatened to cut his wife's throat, and besides this, he is said to have beaten her with his fists. The affair took place last night, at a late hour.

Frank Bone, a south end resident, was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct, on Sherbrooke street, on Friday night. According to the evidence brought out in court, he went into Mr. E. H. Oliver's store at 464 Sherbrooke street, on Friday evening and began calling Mr. Oliver down for speaking to other customers about him, as regards violating the quarantine laws. It is alleged that at the time his home was placarded for scarlet fever, on account of his daughter being inflicted with that disease, he did not stay in as the quarantine law provides for. Some tall talking was done on both sides, which resulted in Mr. Oliver putting Bone out of the shop by physical means. Bone walked up and down the street daring Oliver to come out and fight, but he refused. When he was ordered out he refused to go, and Mr. Oliver, it is said, hit him with a sugar scoop, and then brought a broom handle into action. Bone stated that he came over to pay a bill, and the scrap started while there. Other witnesses were called, and gave evidence, much like the foregoing. The charge was dismissed. His Worship thought that Oliver should have a little more manners if he would be a successful storekeeper, and not agitate a row in the store.

Alex. Ross and Hector Baker were arraigned on a charge of being disorderly on Monday. The case was discharged. They admitted having a keg of lager, but denied being out on the street. Ross stated that he had been here for 28 years and never had any trouble before. He said that they sang a couple of songs inside the house, but raised no disturbance.

ARE SUPPLYING POWER FOR CANADIAN GENERAL

Peterboro Light and Power Company Furnishing Energy For the Operation of C. G. E. While the Latter Concern's New Power Line is Being Built

1000 TO 1200 HORSE POWER

The Canadian General Electric Company's power plant has been shut down temporarily during the rebuilding of the pole line and the construction of two new circuits from the water works dam down. In the meantime the C.G.E. works is being operated by power supplied by the Peterborough Light and Power Company, with whom the Canadian General Electric Company has contracted for a supply of from 1,000 to 1,200 h.p. for 24 hours per day until such times as the new power line is completed, which it is expected will be in the course of about two weeks. The Light and Power Company commenced its contract to-day and the C. G. E. plant is running the same as usual. The power is being furnished from the power house at the Quaker Oats Company's dam which, in addition, furnishes the energy for the Quaker Oats Company for street and house lighting and for operating the cars of the Peterborough Radial Railway.

Met At 4 On Saturday Were Married To-day

To meet for the first time at 4 o'clock on Saturday and to be married on Monday is surely a unique demonstration of the efficiency of love at first sight. The Examiner has learned the details of an interesting little event which culminated in the ringing of the wedding bells at Campbellford to-day.

On Saturday Mr. Freeburn, a widower, whose home is in Bobcaygeon, called at the restaurant of Mr W. P. Jackson on George street south to partake of some refreshments, and while being served remarked to Mrs. Jackson that he was in town looking for a wife. Mrs. Jackson jokingly replied that she knew of a woman who was looking for a husband. The Bobcaygeon man took the suggestion seriously, asked to see the lady in question and was presented to Mrs. Thos. Ashley, a widow, who lately resided in Campbellford. The interview was mutually satisfactory, as is evidenced by the fact that they left for Campbellford to-day to be married at the residence of Mrs. Ashley's oldest daughter.

CANOE UPSET AND YOUTHS HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Two young men had a very narrow escape from being drowned yesterday in the Otonabee, near Crawford's Grove. They were down canoeing, and when out near the centre, the canoe upset. The two youths held on to the canoe until they were nearly drowned, and at the last minute, a young lady and gentleman, who were in closer to the shore, paddled out, and saved the young men. Great credit is due the young lady for her pluckiness. She held onto one of the boys until they reached shore.

WANTED TO BE SEEN AND NOT TO SEE

Special to The Examiner.

QUEBEC, JULY 10.— The members of the Canadian Coronation contingent, while pleased with the public hospitality, were very disappointed by the official treatment, laying the blame on Lord Kitchener. "We went to be seen, we were allowed only to see," is the complaint of eight hundred in the contingent. There were only forty in the King's procession, while others were put to lining the streets on sentry duty.

PRINCE OF WALES IS COMING

Special to The Examiner

QUEBEC, QUE., JULY 10—Sir Thomas Tait, formerly chief commissioner of railways for Australia, returned on the Empress of Britain to make his home in Canada. He has had offers from all three Transcontinental railways and may join the Canadian Northern. Members of the government on the Empress report that the Prince of Wales will certainly visit Canada next or the year after. He may postpone his visit for the year in order to coincide with the official opening of the National Transcontinental.

STEWART RESIGNS

Special to The Examiner

OTTAWA, JULY 10.— Commander Stewart, of the Canadian cruiser, Rainbow, has resigned. It is officially stated that his action is not due to friction with the department, but the dissatisfaction of his family with their position at Esquimault. The men on the cruiser find the conditions of service better than with the royal navy.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Special to The Examiner:

Toronto, July 10.—Frank Gowan, 19, of St. Catherines, was killed this morning by falling 45 feet from the top of a hydro electric pole on which he was working. He came in contact with a live wire, which caused him to lose his balance, and he broke his neck in the fall.

Ottawa, July 10.—General election before the first of September is a probability. If the Conservatives adopt an obstruction attitude when the Parliament reassembles to resume the session, it is said it will not last more than three weeks.

St. Catherines, Ont., July 10.—Constable Tufford is here consulting the Crown Attorney regarding the inquest on Edna Comfort and her little son, whose bodies were found in the waterworks reservoir. It is said the child was certainly killed before being put in the water, and it looks also as if the mother was. It may be a case of double murder.

CYCLONE SWEPT OVER DISTRICT YESTERDAY

A violent cyclone, travelling in a path approximately a mile wide, crossed from west to east, a little to the south of Lakefield yesterday afternoon, doing considerable damage in the way of uprooting trees and blowing over fences. Mr. Harry Stock, who paddled down from Stoney Lake to Lakefield yesterday, informed the Examiner that he had pleasant weather conditions all the way. On reaching Lakefield, however, he found there had been a violent storm there, and as he drove home from the village he found trees blown down across the road, and other signs of a heavy gale. On account of the wires being down it was difficult to-day to secure any details as to the amount of damage done.

DUBLIN, JULY 10.—The King and Queen held a levee in the throne room o fthe vice regal castle and later attended the races at Leopardstown. They were cordially greeted by great crowds. The day was observed as a holiday in the city.

BARN BURNED

Reports still continue to arrive concerning the destruction which was wrought by the severe electrical storm which passed over this section on Thursday last.

A barn belonging to Mr. Joseph Lowes, of Mount Pleasant, was struck and completely wrecked.

Mr. Fred Clark, who resides near Fraserville, had a miraculous escape from serious injury, or, perhaps, instant death. He was making a hasty retreat towards the house when a bolt of lightning struck a tree nearby, badly shattering it. Mr. Clark, who was a few feet way from the tree, received slight burns in the hand.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than those glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY.

The New York Tribune has been investigating some of the arguments which are being advanced against reciprocity by Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, on his tour of the west, and has discovered that he has fashioned his logic to meet the political emergency. The Tribune says:

"Some of our statesmen at Washington who have been enlarging upon the calamity which will overtake the American farmer if the Canadian reciprocity agreement is put into effect have much to learn before they become finished all-round prophets of disaster. The expert who can teach them is the Hon. R. L. Borden, a member of the Canadian Parliament and the leader of the Conservative party in that body, who has been making a trip through Western Canada trying to pursuade the farmers of that region that they have nothing to gain from the free entry of their products into the American market. According to Mr. Borden, there is no long end to the bargain, but only two short ends. • • • According to all known laws of exchange, even including those of horse dealing, it is impossible for both sides to get the worst of it in a bargain. They must either break even or one of them secures an advantage. But Mr. Borden rises superior to the restrictions of mathematics and economics. According to his calculations, each party to a trade can give more and receive less. Both must quit losers, although there is no rake-off. Our anti-reciprocity debaters have not mastered that sort of 'fourth dimension logic. Mr. Borden's speeches show what wonders can be done with it in a political emergency."

Ridicule often accomplishes more effective results than argument. While Mr. Borden's contentions will not withstand investigation in the light of fact and reason, it is difficult to convince Conservatives that such is the case. A fine bit of satire of which the above is a striking illustration, can do much to expose an untenable position to public ridicule. In this instance Mr. Borden's attitude merits the censure which is heaped upon it. —Exchange.

AN ASSAULT ON FACTS.

Mr. Andrew Brodeur, M.P., of Dundas, who accompanied Mr. Borden to the west, in a speech at Gladstone, Manitoba, asserted that the reciprocity treaty of 1854-66 was not a benefit to Canada. This is a sample of the fallacious arguments against reciprocity, founded upon blank misstatement of fact. Every farmer in Ontario, whose memory reaches back, a little over fifty years, knows that the reciprocity treaty of 1854-66 was a tremendous boon to the Ontario farmer. They will remember that reciprocity opened up a big market at high prices for a wide range of farm products which are not now profitably produced, simply because there is no convenient market. Trade will not continue, will not grow between any two countries that is not mutually profitable; and the great increase of the trade of Canada with the United States under the old treaty, is a proof of the value of reciprocity. One year before the old reciprocity treaty came into force, in 1854, the total trade between Canada and the United States was 20 million dollars. Under one year of reciprocity it more than doubled. This trade that was only 20 million dollars in 1853 leaped to 42 millions in 1855. Four years later, under reciprocity it had grown to 48 millions. It reached 55 millions in 1863 the year the treaty was abrogated. The total trade of Canada with the United States had reached 84 millions—an increase of 64 millions in twelve years, or 5 million dollars per year. If, with a Canadian population of 3 million people, reciprocity resulted in such an increase of trade, is it not reasonable to argue and assert that with increased population and increased farm production, a similar measure of reciprocity—almost identical in the natural products carried—will be equally beneficial and equally productive of increased and profitable trade. Will any sane farmer contend that reciprocity will not be beneficial to have us opening up a new market by the removal of onerous duties? Many of the articles covered by the agreement now under consideration, are comprised in the subjoined table, which contains the articles made free, and shows by the figures appended the amount of duty removed:

Cattle less than one year old	$2.00
Cattle valued at more than $14	27 1-2 p.c.
Horses valued at $150	$30.00
Horses valued at over $150	25 p.c.
Swine	$1.50 each.
Sheep and lambs, less than one year	$1.50 each.
Poultry, alive	3c. per lb.
Poultry, dead	5c. per lb.
Cream	5c. per gal.
Oats	15c. per bush.
Barley	30c. per bush.
Potatoes	25c. per bush.
Turnips	25 p.c.
Cabbage	2c. each.
Apples	25c. per bush.
Berries of all kinds	1c. per qut.
Dried apples	2c. per lb.
Butter	6c. per lb.
Cheese	6c. per lb.
Eggs	5c. per doz.
Hay	$4.00 per ton.
Straw	$1.50 per ton.

The statements of Mr. Brodeur and those who talk in the same strain—that the old reciprocity treaty was not beneficial to Canadian farmers and Canadian commercial interests—are simply guilty of an aggravated assault upon facts.

A DOUBLE PLAY.

(London Advertiser)

While Mr. German and Mr. Foster, as directors of a great fruit company, appealing to British investors for capital, speak in the most glowing terms of the future of that industry, Mr. Flavelle, the head of the Davies Packing Company, represents the prospects of his firm in the same rosy light. Yet Messrs. German and Foster pretend on the political platform that the fruit industry is going to suffer, and Mr. Flavelle cried that the packing business would be ruined by reciprocity.

The Davies Company announced a six per cent. bond issue of $1,250,000, which was all taken up in one day. Mr. Flavelle, in booming the issue, told the public of the company's large earnings and its successful competition with the American packers in the United Kingdom, and even to some extent in the United States. He wrote:

"It is reasonable to assume that the experience of the past years will be repeated and that if an occasional year results in no profit in some important branch of the business, compensation will be found in the larger profits of other departments. There is every reason to expect a continued satisfactory margin of profit over and above the interest and sinking requirements of this bond issue."

Why is it that Mr. Flavelle speaks with two voices? As a businessman he says that his company competes abroad with Americans; as a politician he said that under reciprocity it would not be able to compete with them at home! As a politician he was ready to lie down and die under reciprocity. "I am only an infant, unable to bear up against those big, strong, clever Americans"—and he smiled a childlike smile, very like the smile of the heathen Chinee. As a businessman looking for the people's dollars he assures the pubic that the company will go on making money as before. And no doubt they will.

MR. BORDEN AND WESTERN FARMERS.

(The Sun, Toronto)

It is impossible to withhold admiration for the candour shown by Mr. Borden in the unequivocal statement of his position. It is equally impossible for one conversant with the facts to discover any real strength in the argument presented by the Opposition leader in support of the position taken. In his argument, Mr. Borden said he could not see any advantage in the opening of the American market to Canadian food stuffs so long as the United States is itself an exporter of food-stuffs, in any case, he asserted the United States would soon have been willing to admit our food-stuffs free without demanding equivalent concessions in return; he reiterated the expression of fear that if reciprocity is put in force traffic will be diverted from east and north lines to north and south lines.

Two of Mr. Borden's objections seem to answer each other. If the United States, as he intimates, is incapable of affording a market for Canadian foodstuffs there will, under reciprocity, be no diversion of Canadian traffic, in the form of food-stuffs to lines running south, and consequently lines running east will not suffer. Mr. Borden's contention that the United States affords no outlet for the sale of Canadian food-stuffs is answered a second time by his own statement that the United States was about ready to throw off the American duty on imported food-stuffs without waiting for concessions by our Government in return. Why should the United States reverse its historic policy, and allow an open door for the sale of Canadian food-stuffs in the American market, unless American consumers felt themselves approaching a period of insufficient home supplies?

Even if it is accepted as certain that the United States will go on for an indefinite time exporting a large surplus of food-stuffs there would still be an advantage to the Canadian farmer in the opening of that market

Americans Admit Truth About The War Of 1812

(Toronto Star Weekly)

An article of unusual interest to Canadians, appeared the other day in the New York Times. It was featured with big headlines and illustrations, in the Sunday issue of that important paper; and, for the first time in American journalism, as far as we know, it frankly and good-naturedly tells the truth about the war of 1812, admitting that in that conflict the Canadians "licked the Yankees out of their boots."

The article begins by telling how Americans laughed when they heard that the battle of Chateauguay was to be omitted from the recent Empire pageant in London, because it might offend Uncle Sam. "Chateauguay?" exclaimed the people of the Republic, "What is Chateauguay?" Not one American in a million ever heard of it, says the Times, and no wonder there was amusement because the matter was taken so seriously in England. Then the New York paper goes on to remark:

"Why should John Bull be afraid to hurt our feelings by mentioning it? Brother Jonathan rubbed his battlescarred leg, carefully searching for the particular mosquito bite that was made by Chateauguay.

Well, after all, the laugh is on Brother Jonathan, not on John Bull. The reason why John has so edulously carried the memory of the battle of Chateauguay, and the reason why we have conveniently forgotten it, is that the battle is one or John Bull's glories, and hence carried by his historians, whereas, it being a thing of disgrace to us, we dismiss it in a paragraph in the best of our histories.

Chrysler's Farm.

"We call it the battle of Chrysler's Farm, and dismiss it, as mentioned, in a paragraph. In fact, we hurriedly cover it up, as we do most of the land battles of the War of 1812. Theodore Roosevelt, Henry Cabot Lodge, and the rest of our historians try to make it appear that the War of 1812 was fought entirely on the water; and so it was, as far as anything that does us credit is concerned; but the British very properly—from their standpoint—forget what happened on the water and concentrate their attention on such untoward events as Chrysler's Farm—beg pardon, Chateauguay.

"Chateauguay, say the Canadians, was the battle which saved Canada to the British Empire. It is a funny thing that you cannot find its details in any American history; not so funny if you remember that Americans are human, like other people, and do not relish the blazoning of their failures. We were licked at Chateauguay—our manifest destiny was turned southward for all time by an obscure British person named Salaberry, and naturally, we are not advertising the fact. Oh, yes, we mention Lawrence, who accomplished the feat of saying "Don't give up the ship," the ship nevertheless being given up; and we remember Harrison, who defeated a few Indians at Tippecanoe before the war began, and Jackson, who fought a battle after the war was over; but otherwise we have forgotten the heroes of 1812, and most of all we have forgotten Wilkinson, the man who demonstrated the fact that we could not conquer Canada.

"Which is a good thing to remember, even if it was Wilkinson, who taught it to us.

Beaten All Way Through.

"It takes such a performance as this British effort to save our feelings by not mentioning the battle of Chateauguay—it takes such a thing to hit our pride in the midriff and wakes us ot the gloomy fact that once in our history we were beaten. We were beaten on land all the way through the war of 1812; and the result is that when our historians describes that war, they always call it a "naval war". It was a naval war just to the extent that the Revolutionary War, the Mexican War, the Civil War, and the Spanish War were naval wars, and no more.

"Being beaten thoroughly and consistently on land in nearly every battle we undertook, and being victorious at sea, we have soothed our national vanity by making it appear that the war was mainly fought at sea. But it was not. It was fought on land, just as much as any other war. Our naval heroes did as much for us in 1776 as they did in 1812, but we overlook their heroism because our land forces did pretty well in that war. But in 1812-15 the only glory we have is that we gained at sea, and consequently we try to make it appear that the war was exclusively a naval war. Which it was not—by a long shot.

A Convenient Memory.

"In the long record of our steady defeats by the valiant British and Canadians there is none more important in British eyes than that at Chateauguay. The British say it saved Canada to the Empire. So it did, for if our Gen. Wilkinson had been the conqueror doubtless we should have annexed the Dominion. It is a great day in Canadian annals, that in which Wilkinson turned back from Canada and the Dominion became British once for all.

"And we? We have conveniently forgotten it. But that is because we did not win. It is not at all because the battle was unimportant."

The Times goes on to admit that the War of 1812 was purely an attempt by the United States to conquer Canada. Henry Clay said to the House of Representatives in 1810: "The militia of Kentucky alone are competent to place Upper Canada and Montreal at your belt." The wise Jefferson thought that the acquisition of Canada as far as Quebec would be "a mere matter of marching." And President Madison was much abused because he realized that the war was a foolish one. "But," says the Times "these men little knew the spirit that animated the Canadians."

Series of Yankee Defeats.

Then follows an outline of the war with its series of disastrous American defeats, beginning with the loss of Detroit. The story of Chateauguay is honestly told. Wilkinson was the American commander. Wade Hampton was a brave leader with the Yankees. Says the Times:

"Hampton was beaten back. But he fought like a lion. Whatever glory may be parceled out to Hampton and Wilkinson, there is not the slightest question about what belongs to the Canadians. On the night of October 25 Col. Purdy butted through Salaberry's lines. Salaberry produced his men, some of whom were Indians and drove the Yankees back. Meanwhile, Wilkinson had not brought his men to the front. He was said to have been drunk at the time. Whether he was or not, it is perfectly certain that the Canadians repulsed a force several times larger than their own.

"In other words, if the real story of the War of 1812 is ever written, the idle and ridiculuous stories about how it was fought on the sea will be passed up. The true story of how the real campaign was for the conquest of Canada will be written. It will be demonstrated that we were beaten out of our boots, and the battle of Chateauguay, in spite of the fact that it was not much more than a skirmish, will take its proper place among the glories of King George's Empire."

The bulk of American food is produced in the Middle and Far West. The centres of teeming population are mainly in the East. The cities of New England are nearer Canadian farms in Quebec and in the Maritime Provinces than they are to American farms from which they draw supplies. The advantage of proximity to a market is a very real advantage. Again, while the United States has a surplus of wheat of all kinds, it is unable to meet even domestic requirements in hard wheat, such as is produced in the Canadian West. With Minneapolis open to Canadian wheat farmers in the Canadian West would find American buyers competing with British buyers for the kind of wheat of which the Canadian West has something like a monopoly.

But the United States is not going to go on indefinitely producing a great surplus of food. This is not to say that American resources in this direction are becoming exhausted. The cause is found in the fact that the genius of the American people runs along mechanical reather than agricultural lines. As a consequence we find that whereas a little over twenty years ago United States exports of cheese exceeded those of Canada, American imports of cheese are now sixteen times greater than exports of same. We find, too, that American exports of bacon have been cut in half since 1908, and that exports of fresh beef in 1910 were only one-third what they were two years before. As Western Grain Growers said in their presentation to Mr. Borden, while the lines of food production and food consumption are rapidly converging in the United States they are as steadily widening in Canada. While, therefore, it would, because of proximity, be a great advantage for Canadian farmers to secure free access to the American market to-day, the advantage of such access will be still greater in the years to come.

Mr. Borden is not justified in assuming, because of the changes which are coming in the United States, that American tariff barriers are about to be thrown down in any case. The American people are fond of a dicker, and have a rooted objection to the giving of something in return. They will, at any time, be averse to the opening of their market to other countries without securing something like counter-balancing advantages in the markets of countries so favoured. And they are in a position to dicker. If Canada refuses the offer first made to this country Mexico or Argentine will be glad to accept. We will be blind indeed if we do not close with what is offered before a rival steps in ahead.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I ALWAYS intend to do so much in my summer vacations—reading and studying and things like that, I mean—but when I look back at the end of the summer it always seems to me as if I hadn't done much of anything. I've read a book here and a book there and a lot of magazines and that's all."

A teacher said that to me the other day.

Every fall I hear that wail or words to that effect from someone.

I also seem to remember that when I had long vacations myself I often made a similar moan.

Now, I wonder if the trouble isn't that while we "plan to do so much" we don't plan to do anything definite.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for summer reading to make a resolution to read all or all of the best of some worth-while author—Stevenson or Emerson or Lamb or Thackeray or George Eliot, for instance, or if you prefer the moderns, all of Benson's or Agnes Repplier's essays or Meredith's novels or Barrie's books.

Perhaps you enjoy biography? Then why not pick out half a dozen men and women whom you are vaguely interested in and promise yourself to read their lives. I have just read Stevenson by Balfour and I assure you, it was as interesting as many novels and much more inspiring.

If you have never read Les Miserables you might attack that this summer.

Or, if your mind turns to sterner tasks and you want to really study, don't promise yourself to look into half a dozen subjects, but select some one and really do something with it.

Learn something about some science that has hitherto been a closed book to you. Get a simple text-book of chemistry or astronomy or botany or zoology and open a door into a new world.

Or, promise yourself that you will read a dozen good books on hypnotism and clairvoyance and the other manifestations of the unknown world into which science is trying to peek.

Or, if you are an average person, perhaps it might not be amiss for you to review one or two of those grammer school studies that you have completely forgotten or never properly learned. I say "an average person" because I don't know one person in ten of the younger generation who has more than a hazy idea of geography and the other day I put the question to a roomful of people, "What is an improper fraction," and not one of them knew for sure.

So an arithmetic, a grammar and rhetoric, or a good old fashioned geography might not be a bad companion for the summer vacation for most of us.

One word more. If possible, promise yourself to devote just so much time every day to your task. It will not tire you too much. That is, unless you are a complete nervous wreck. Instead, it will probably give a sweetness and a value and character to the hours of leisure which they would otherwise lack.

In a picture there can be no high lights unless there are shadows. It's just the same in life.

FOUR DROWNED WHEN LIFE BOAT CAPSIZED A MARINE DISASTER

Special to The Examiner

SURF., CAL., JULY 8.—Second Officer E. Heuson and three seamen of the steamer Santa Rosa, of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, which went ashore at Point Arguello yesterday, are reported to have been drowend when a lifeboat capsized, while the passengers of the wrecked vessel were being taken ashore by the crew.

Early to-day unconfirmed reports were that a number of passengers, variously estimated at from three to twenty, are missing. Owing to the isolation of the scene of the wreck, accurate information is not yet obtainable.

The four members of the crew all lived in San Francisco.

The Santa Rosa went ashore just before dawn at the mouth of the Honda Creek. It is supposed that a powerful searchlight, used by a gang of railroad labourers, who were working near the wreck, is the cause of the vessel leaving its course, the quartermaster mistaking it for the light of the Uoint Arguello light-house. The vessel lay about 200 yards from shore, near Saddle Rock, where the Yankee Blade was wrecked several years ago.

When the boat struck, the injury did not appear to be serious and Captain Faria, believing he would be able again to float the Santa Rosa, made no attempt to land the passengers. A sharp wind, rising soon after 4 o'clock, htreatened to crack the boat to pieces, and hasty preparations were made to take the possengers and crew ashore. At 5.30 o'clock a heavy swell cracked the vessel amidship, and at 6 o'clock it split in two.

There were 275 persons on board, most of whom had taken refuge in the forward section, as the stern of the boat had received the brunt of the attack of the waves.

The coast is bleak and uninhabited, and the signals of distress shown an hour previous were still unheeded. The breakers rose dangerously, and it was with great difficulay that the first boat was launched soon after 8 o'clock. In it were Third Engineer C. W. Brown and a woman passenger. Brown carried a line to shore, and when he had affected a landing, after a desperate battle with the waves, aid had arrived on shore. A net was rigged on the sohre line and the passengers, women and children first, were taken from the foundering ship, three children and four women.

The disaster in which Second Officer Heuson and three seamen lost their lives occurred just before the vessel broke in two. A lifeboat, carrying five men, had just put out. Heavy seas sent it crashing against the hull of the vessel. Oscar Patterson, a seaman, succeeded in swimming to shore, but his four companions perished.

A life raft, containing twenty women capsized off the bow of the Santa Rosa. Darkness had fallen and the searchlights on shore lighted the scene imperfectly, so that it could not be clearly determined whether all the women were rescued.

Fires were built from driftwood along the beach and when the drenched survivors were landed they were give oncffee and restoratives.

Special trains took the survivors to Lompere and Surf and Santa Barbara Because of the confusion attending this forwarding of the passengers, no check could be taken to determine the number missing.

SPECIAL ENGLISH LETTER

LONDON, JUNE 28.—Now that the Coronation festivities are ended, the decorations in the streets are being quickly dismantled. The seats to view the procession on the route traversed on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th June, are stripped and the timber being carried off. Friday will see them all swept away. The gaudy streets in this rainy weather present a desolate appearance—like the morning after the ball. In the West End, St. James street, Piccadilly and Whitehall, and in the neighbourhood of the Abbey, groups of ragged children and hungry eyed women are picking up "unconsidered trifles" such as bunches of bedraggled paper roses, which, at the Coronation made the processional garlands, and pieces of wood that once were seats of the spectators, are being eagerly removed to the homes of the poor, for firewood. It is a melancholy sight to witness more rejoicing among the poor at the capture of the refuse than was displayed by the rich occupants of the seats, who spent their guineas to view the Royal procession, but a few days ago.

Sightseers at the Abbey.

On Monday, Westminster Abbey, which, on Thursday, June 23, was the scene of the Coronation ceremony was opened to the eager, curious public. The entrance fee of half a sovereign did not prevent large crowds going to see the scene of the magnificent, historical ceremony. There was no crush on Monday, but the Abbey was opened again on Tuesday. To-day, to repeat the exhibition of the coronation scene, it was open at 5 shillings and 10 shillings admission, when large crowds of the curious flocked to see the furnishings which on Thursday last could only be seen by the privileged few. During the next two weeks the Abbey will be kept open to visitors of the finished Coronation scene, and 1 shilling admission will be charged, (at 6d. on the next two Saturdays) Already there is considerable complaint at the "greed" of the Dean and Chapter, in making a charge for viewing a building which belongs to the nation as it was extravagantly furnished at the expense of the ratepayers. This is not fair comment; the people should know the Abbey clergy are devoting the entire proceeds to local charities.

This foolish grumbling of a thoughtless public at the so-called "meanness" of the Abbey authorities is as absurd as the newspaper comments pon the blunders of the police authorities during coronation week. The people themselves realize how incalculable is the thoughtful service they always owe to the London police. The regulations so strictly enforced for the public safety might have been fully needed had the newspapers not issued so many hysterical warnings against too great crowding. The cause of the unexpected smallness of the Coronation crowds was owing to the scare of the public and the announcement of an extra bank holiday, which tempted so many of London's tired workers to spend one of the two coronation holidays in the country, far away from the crowded city.

Since the Coronation and the city procession the King and Queen have had a busy time of festivity, in which the common people and the London poor are participating To-morrow, the city procession is to be, in part, repeated for the benefit of the residentsof North London.

Many of the citizens abstained from going to last Friday's city procession, in the expectation of seeing a similar procession in their immediate neighbourhood on the 29th of June. It is, therefore, hoped the procession will have all the attractions of a military pageant, with the presence of their Majesties and the Royal family.

The Royal School Fete.

On Friday, June 30, the Coronation event is, perhaps, the most interesting of all. At the invitation of the King and Queen one hundred thousand poor Board School children are to have six hours' entertainment at the Festival of Empire, at the Crystal Palace. The organization of such a great gathering of youngsters, with their teachers, has been the work of the Railway and Tramway authorities for some time. There will be a gigantic picnic in the football and cricket fields, and games to amuse the children and a souvenir gift from their Majesties is to be presented to every boy and girl to whom Friday will be the red letter day of their lives.

A Royal Gift.

Among the Coronation gifts was a Royal Sturgeon sent to the King by a Welch lady, who owns a fishing smack. It is interesting, as this rare gift is compulsory by an ancient Act of Parliament, dating back from the reign of Edward II., which assigns all ship wrecks and whales captured to the King, while the Lord Mayor of London cherishes the privilege of claiming all sturgeons caught in the Thames above London Bridge. It is many a century since a sturgeon was so venturesome.

Parliament Again.

As our Coronation revels are now ended, the work of Parliament is resumed. A political crisis is threatening, for the Lords have thrown down the gauntlet, the members of the Opposition appear now to have changed their views on the constitutional question. Lord Lansdowne's notice of amendments to the Veto Bill in committee are to the effect: (1) The establishment of a joint sitting of the two Houses, with the Speaker of the House of Commons presiding, to decide finance bills, (2) bills (a) relating to the Protestant succession, by the establishment of separate parliaments in either parts of the three kingdoms, (c) Other grave matters upon which, inthe opinion of a joint committee the electorate has not been sufficiently consulted to be submitted to a referendum. These amendments which, if persisted in, would wreck the Veto Bill, would upset the Government and bring about a political crisis.

The article in the Times on Tuesday is said by moderate men of both parties to be a bad blunder. It suggests a complete change in the attitude of Unionists, which is not at all connected with their attitude some months ago, and the Constitutional problem, and the effect of it might be to wreck the Unionist party. However, that may be, there are signs that the more eager spirits of the Unionist party, are forcing a general election to take place in December next. The amendments proposed by the leader of the Unionists in the Lords are aimed at the Veto Bill. They may have some effect on the Bill, although the Government is confident that this attempt to overcome the will of the people, as expressed at the last general election, must prove futile. It will not be forgotten that it was at the eleventh hour that the people were invited by the Lords to have resore to the Referendum. This looked like referring disputed questions to the people, rather than to have a Veto Bill, which Unionists were of the opinon would wreck the Constitution. The majority of the electorate decided before the election was over, that the Referendum was a blind, which would give the Peers a new power to precipitate a general election, and make the Peers still masters of the House of Commons, while appearing to delegate the power to the people. After due consideration the people at the polls rejected the tempting bait, and referendum brought about the bitter defeat of the Unionist party. It is not all impossible that the overwhelming verdict of the country, at the last two elections, will be construed by the Unionists to mean a Liberal victory for free trade, but a defeat for Irish Home Rule, and the reform of the House of Lords. A majority of the electors, even at this moment, might say the Irish question was not an issue before the country in 1910, and has never yet had a victory at the polls.

All Saints Won Out In The Semi-Finals Beat Brooklin 3-0

Brooklin started out strong and Morality was called on to stop several hot shots, which he handled with good judgment. The Saints broke away with a goal kick and after many shots, Tooley put one in which opened the scoring for the blue and white. The first half ended with the score 1 to nil for the Saints.

The second half started out with the blue and white pressing hard and scored two goals inside of ten minutes and then Brooklin saw the game was lost, and lost heart and could not recover themselves. From this on till the finish the Saints were satisfied with shooting from any old place, as the heat was intense.

Mr. Geo. James of Bowmanville was the referee and gave good satisfaction.

The Saints' team were: Goal, Morality backs, Gamble, Eames; half backs, Vickers, Simmonite (capt.), Edwards; forwards, Sharman, Gash, Monk, Tooley, Downes.

The Saints meet the fast C. G. E. team to-morrow night at 7 o'clock on the Brinton Meadows, in the first of home and home games for the Midland League championship. Every lover of good, clean football should turn out and see this game.

All players signed with the All Saints' team for the Midland League, attend a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 8 o'clock.

27 LIVES ARE LOST

From Our Own Correspondent.

SAULT STE. MARIE, JULY 10. — Twenty seven lives are believed to have been lost on Lake Superior when the steamer John Mitchell of Chicago was sunk off Vermillion point in a collision with the steamer William H. Mack. The latter was also partially submerged.

INSPECTED CANAL

Col. Anderson, Inspector of Aids to Navigation, for the Marine Department, last week completed a tour of inspection over the Trent Canal, including Lakes Sumsoe and Couchiching. It is expected that an aggressive policy in respect of lighting and buoying the entire canal will follow Col. Anderson's report to his Department.

ORANGEMEN ATTEND DIVINE WORSHIP AT GEORGE ST. CHURCH

"We recognize how we should prize the principles of liberty by the length of time the Orange Order has experienced it,' said Rev. I. Couch in his splendid address to the Orangemen of the city and district, at the George St. Methodist church last evening, on the occasion of the annual ante Twelfth of July church parade.

The Orangement made a fine showing as they left their hall on Simcoe street, about 6.45 and marched up George street, the line reaching from Simcoe street to Brock street. The centre seats of the church had been reserved for them, Lodges 80, 1175 and 50 of the local lodges, and Downer's Corners, Nassau and the visiting brethren turned out, Lodge 50 making an especially fine showing. A special feature of the parade was the juveniles, who turned out in white with orange decorations.

The following officers were in charge of the parade: Bro. Waldie, County Master of Ceremonies; Bro. Chas. Wylie, District Master; Bro. E. Reid, Master of 50; Bro. James Davis, Master of 80; Bro. G. H. Noyes, Director of Ceremonies of 1175; Bro. W. H. Kindred, Deputy County Master, Bro. Harold Dodds, County Director of Ceremonies.

Rev. Mr. Couch chose his text from the 19th chap. of Exodus, the 5th and 6th verses. "Now, therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto Me above all people; for all the earth is Mine. And ye shall be unto Me a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel."

The preacher in eloquent terms, referred to some of the problems which presented themselves to Canada for solution. One of these consisted in our dealing with the inflowing tide of foreign peoples, who bring with them the civil, social and moral home conditions, which as a matter of custom, may seem all right to them, but are repugnant to Canadian civilization. The sancity of the Sabbath day is thus threatened, and other of our religious conditions disturbed and endangered. These new people come under the benefits and influences of our institutions which are superior, but only so in proportion to faithful, effective and judicious administration. National unity depended in part upon the assimilation of our new elements of population. The dissemination of knowledge was another important element. Liberty of speech and of conscience involved free discussion, which was what the order stood for. The true principle of life, either national or individual, was knowledge—it was the fire of life. In this respect the Catholic doctrine was wanting; its results lacked individuality and its members and adherents thought by proxy and through their spiritual superiors. Protestantism differed from this. As the birds of the air sought out their own particular food, and did not take what was brought them, so Protestants do their own thinking, and do not take the opinions prepared by others. The preacher commended our public schools as tending to promote unity among the people. Religion could be taught with better advantage in the home, than in the schools and the churches should cultivate a deeper sense of responsibilty in respect to religious teaching; as precious as the Bible is it should not be forced upon schools to defiance of the wishes of some parents. The preacher insisted upon the importance of personal and practical religion, which could not very well be the result of a too formal and ceremonial worship.

GOOD PROGRAMME FOR BELMONT CLUB REGATTA

The Belmont Club has arranged a very interesting programme for the regatta which they are holding on Wednesday night of this week on the Otonabee river, off their club-house. As will be seen from the list given below most of the events are open, and no doubt there will be keen competition. Following is the programme

1. Gents' doubles, open.
2. Ladies' doubles, open.
3. Gents' single (club members).
4. Mixed doubles, open.
5. Crab race, open.
6. Ladies' singles.
7. Gents', singles, open.
8. Gents', doubles (club members).

After the above events a flotilla will be formed and towed down the river by gasoline boats, after which there will be dancing at the Club House. Badges at 25c each will be sold for admission to the dance.

THERMOMETER TRAVELLING HIGH ONCE AGAIN

Are we in for another hot wave similar to the one that caused so much suffering last week?

The conditions would indicate that such is the case. After comfortable pleasant weather on Friday the thermometer started in to climb again on Saturday, reaching 86 in the afternoon.

Yesterday it was sweteringly hot, the breeze that was blowing was like a blast from an oven, while the mercury ascended to the 94 mark. To-day things are nearly as bad, with a mark of 92 in the shade, while the heavy showers and thunderstorms which passed over the city at noon with an hour between them had no appreciable effect in lowering the temperature, although for the time being there was a little benefit.

The probs promise local thunderstorms and very warm weather to-morrow.

LOCK-MASTER OF LIFT-LOCK HAS RESIGNED POSITION

Mr. H. W. Gillespie, who has been Lockmaster at the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock since the construction of that work, has resigned and has entered into the real estate business with Messrs. Andrew Brown & Company. Mr. Gillespie was a very competent official, and in his retirement from the Government service the Department of Railways and Canals loses a reliable and efficient employee. The navigation interests of the Trent Canal have always found Mr. Gillespie courteous and obliging, while at the same time rigidly enforcing the rules and regulations of the Department pertaining to the operation of the Lift Lock and navigation generally along the Canal.

Mr. Alex. K. Richardson, who has been in the employ of the Department for many years at Peterborough, has been appointed Lockmaster to succeed Mr. Gillespie. Mr. Richardson was an inspector for the Government during the construction of the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock and is therefore not unfamiliar with its construction and operation. The Department is fortunate indeed in being able to secure a man of Mr. Richardson's calibre to succeed Mr. Gillespie.

Died From Sucking An Indelible Lead Penci

London, July 8.—Anna Viola Harris, a little coloured girl residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harris, at 11 Maitland street, died in Victoria Hospital on Wednesday after a long illness which commenced after she had swallowed some of the lead from an indelible pencil which one of the other children brought home from school.

The baby took a great fancy to the pencil and kept it in her mouth for some time.

This was in March, and although strong and healthy before, the child soon became ill and gradually sank until her death occurred.

The cause of death is given as tubercular meningitis. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, and the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith of the B. M. E. Church.

A POPULAR SHOE SALE

McWhinnie's Successor Makes a Good Impression—His Opening Sale Brings the People

The change in Mr. McWhinnie's boot and shoe business, which was taken over last week by Mr. C. E. Smith, formerly with the wholesale firm of the Belleville Shoe Co., has furnished an opportunity to the public of Peterborough for procuring high-class footwear at sweeping reductions on regular prices. Mr. Smith's opening sale announcing reductions equal to 25 to 50 per cent. brought out crowds of customers on Saturday, and to-day the sales continue brisk and lively. This is what Mr. Smith calls a "clean-up sale" and will continue through the month of July. The methods adopted in conducting this sale are calculated to impress buyers with its bona fide character.

The sale is to be a popular one, because the public are to get the bargains as advertised. Watch the Examiner for new snaps every day.

Are Much in Demand in Toronto—Dealers in This District Supply Most of the Frogs Used

SOME DETAILS

Toronto, July 10.—Do you care for frogs' legs?

It is evident, however, that some other Toronto people and not a few tourists, are more friendly to such a morsel, for no less than 300 pounds a week of the delicacy are consumed at the King Edward Hotel alone, and at least as much more at other high class hotels and restaurants.

So at least somebody has the frog taste.

POPULAR AT BANQUETS.

As a tasty bit on the menus of banquets given by local people, Master Frog is taking an increasingly important place. Stripped of such objectionable features as his head, forefeet and body, he presents a far prettier sight than when his corpulent little figure is leaping across four feet of a swamp.

Master Frog is a tremendously abused gastronomic personage. He doesn't deserve the slurs that have fallen upon him as a newcomer. Were he to place his delicate flesh in the centre of his ugly pate, it might alter the case materially. But he leaves the best to the last and places his market value in his hind legs.

When the day comes for execution, nothing is retained but the two rear propellers.

WHAT FROGS COST.

The price paid the dealer for these luscious portions is from 35 to 50 cents per pound. The smaller price is for the slim legs; the 50 cents goes for the adipose kind, those filled and plump with snow-white meat.

Where does the quarter ton of frogs' legs come from every week during the season between April and November? The News made a search this week, and came across some interesting facts.

BECAME RICH RAISING THEM.

There are regular "frog farmers" as well as wheat farmers or fruit raisers. The frog man has in some cases become wealthy from following his business. One of the chief vendors of the delicacy, who raises thousands of frogs on his property along the Otonabee river, near Peterboro, is Mr. Wedlock, has built a handsome home and steam yacht from a portion of the proceeds.

A large quantity is shipped to Toronto from Tweed, and from that point northwestward to Peterboro, thousands of dollars are made annually from this curious industry. Some devote their entire time to it. Others use it as an auxiliary to their regular employment.

PLATTERFUL FOR 75 CENTS

There are on an average seven pairs frogs legs to a pound. Half a pound is a rare good meal when served on a platter by a careful waiter. And that platterful costs the eater at least 75 cents.

So there's a profit left even at that to the cafe manager to buy shoes for the children and ward off the winter's blasts. Everyone makes on a sale of frog, you see.

WILD WEST SHOW WAS A SUCCESS

The Young Buffalo Wild West Show, which was here on Saturday, was largely attended, and was a treat for the local people. The introductory pageant was a panoramic picture of the far West in review. A procession representing the various characters and accoutrements of the day when the white man was first hewing his way in to the vast domain of the aborigines, introducing skilled riders, scouts, Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, rangers, sharpshooters, rurales, vaqueros, the twenty ox-team driven and controlled by Col. Stevens, the veteran of the Civil War; the Santa Fe stage coach, Indian travois, prairie schooners, and every accessory typical of the people and the times, in conjunction with the Cossacks, Tartars and militia men, ladies mounted on blooded equines, and many features of unusual interest.

Afeature of the show was the splendid shooting demonstration of Annie Oakley, also exhibitions by other expert shots.

The night show was also much appreciated, and a large crowd attended. The performance was over about 9 o'clock, and everything loaded soon after.

POLICE COURT

A local man was arrested this morning about 9 o'clock for being drunk in a public place. He was too intoxicated to appear in court this morning, so will be brought up in the morning at 10.

On Saturday night a couple of new arrivals were standing on the corner of Charlotte and George street, talking and when they saw P. C. Middleton coming on his rounds, they stepped off onto the road. He ordered them to move on and one of them refused, and was quite impertinent about it. He said it was a constable's duty to move people on, on the sidewalk, but a man could stand on the street. He was immediately informed that he had no more right to stand on the street than on the sidewalk, but he still was stubborn about it. He would not move, so the officer proceeded to gather him in. They had not gone far, when the other fellow came to the rescue and tried to release the prisoner. He was successful, as a crowd gathered around and made it awkward for the officer. He then let the prisoner go, as he saw that it would be necessary to use his batton, and the offence was not in his estimation a serious enough one, to smash the man up. The man who interrupted him, however, will find himself in an embarrassing position if he runs up against the same officer again.

Another little incident, in which the same officer figured, took place the latter part of last week. An Italian and an Englishman were the leading figures. The Italian was standing on the same old corner—corner of George and Charlotte streets—and the Englishman, who had procured a little too much of the sparkling fluid, butted into the Italian, knocking his hat off. The Italian objected to such treatment, and made threatening gestures, which were followed by an attack by the Englishman. The pair then got busy and were making things warm, when the officer appeared. They soon straightened up and pleaded to be let go, assuring the officer that they would settle the matter without further quarrelling.

CALCULATIONS ON DRAINAGE

From Farm and Dairy.

Some calculations on the financial side of drainage have recently been made by Prof. W. H. Day of the Ontario Agricultural College. A farmer has 50 acres that is rather wet but although not drained it gives say $15 an acre. The value of the crop for five years in succession, together with compound interest, would be $4144 at the end of the five years. If however he were to drain 10 acres of the land each year, and if the drainage increased the value of the crop by $10 per acre (which is a low estimate) then the value of the crop for five years, with interest, would be $5748. After paying for the drainage, with interest, he would have left $4124, the same within $20 as if he had not drained, but if he drained the whole 50 acres at once then the five crops, with interest, would be worth $6908. This after paying for the drainage would leave him a balance of $5121, which is $977 more than if he had not drained. During the next five-year period drainage by the installment plan would net him $1604 more than not to drain at all, and the complete drainage would enrich him by $2764 more than no drainage.

The price allowed for drainage in the calculation was $38 an acre, and the increase in the crop was placed at $10 per acre. As a matter of fact the increase is usually worth much more than this, so that the computation is somewhat unfair to drainage, however it is better to err on the safe side.

But the increase in crop is not the only return from drainage, the value of the land is largely increased. This is illustrated in the case of a certain farm in Lincoln county. It was bought for $4000 about two years ago. Last year $2000 was spent in draining it, and it has since been sold for $12,500.

The Department of Physics, O. A. C., Guelph over which Professor Day has charge, has a large staff engaged in making drainage surveys for farmers wishing to drain; they are kept very busy. Those who wish surveys made this fall should apply at once, as there are nearly as many applications in as can be attended to this season.

The terms on which surveys are made are explained in Bulletins 174 and 175, which may be had free from the Department of Agriculture. Toronto.

MONEY IN DAIRY COWS

From Farm and Dairy.

D. F. Armstrong, Leeds Co., Ont.

I have made money out of dairy cows and I have a few figures to submit for the consideration of those who claim that there is no money in dairying. We commenced to weigh our milk December 1st, 1910. Of the 10 cows then milking three were farrow and the seven others were due to calve in March, April, and May. In December these cows made 3,750 lbs. of milk and 154.5 lbs. of butter. In January eight cows gave 3,565 lbs. of milk, which made 130 lbs. of butter; in February, 3,050 lbs. of milk and 150.5 lbs. of butter. In March five cows gave 3,300 lbs. of milk and made 175 lbs. of butter, a total of 674 lbs. of butter in the four months, as well as 244 quarts of milk for the house. This income is in addition to what they returned me in the factory season when they were at full flow.

On March 1st. 1911, I bought two cows at auction paying $161 for the pair. In that month the two of them gave 2,196 lbs. of milk, making 112¼ lbs. of butter that sold for 26 cents a lb., or $29.12. The two calves sold for $12, a total of $40.12 for the two cows for one month.

It is not out of the reach of the ordinary farmer to obtain $100 a year per cow first, by keeping cows of good dairy quality, and then giving them good care and feed. Things are working out pretty well for the dairy farmer; and with the proposed trade agreement with the United States in operation we shall do even better.

BERRIES AND BEES

From Farm and Dairy.

The following letter, received from Mr. Clark at the time he returned the copy of the article published on page 3, is so full of interest to Farm and Dairy readers that we take the liberty of publishing it:

Editor, Farm and Dairy,—I have been exceedingly busy of late with berries and bees (some of my colonies have made over 100 lbs. surplus honey already this season) that I did not find time to go carefully over your most complimentary article. I think possibly you have said more than I am deserving of. However, the proof of the pudding, they say, is in the eating; I am getting big returns for my labor; and what I can do others can do also.

I am satisfied that the best money I expend is for good labor. I firmly believe far too many farmers are doing with too small an amount of hired help, thinking they are saving, when as a matter of fact they are losing in the end.

I was through my orchard to-day trying to find an apple showing signs of the codling moth work. I discovered only one, and I examined several hundred in different parts of the orchard. In my neighbor's orchard, unsprayed, just over the fence, I can find them by the hundreds. I will have a good fair crop of apples this year; they are beginning to show up well now. All my orchard is plowed and well cultivated. I can see a marked difference between the size of apples on trees that are worked around and those that are not. I have a few trees that I cannot get at to plow around. On these the dry weather is showing its effect in the size of the fruit already

SPRAYING POTATOES

The spraying of potatoes to protect them from bugs and blight is quite as important as the spraying of orchards. I have had no experience in spraying orchards but from figures given from time to time in Farm and Dairy I can figure out just as good returns from spraying potatoes. I have heard farmers say that they had saved the price of their spreying outfit from one acre of potatoes in one year.

Some years ago I visited the Experimental Farm, at Truro, and was surprised to find that although it was in September the potato tops were still green and growing. Our own potatoes and those of all our neighbors had died down under the attacks of blight sometime before. I got directions as to how to spray from Mr. Fuller, the farm superintendent, purchased a spray-motor for $20 and have been spraying my own potatoes since with very satisfactory results. Two years ago when blight was very bad we harvested 200 bushels to the acre and had hardly a sign of rot. Our next neighbor, who had two and one half acres of potatoes might have had an equally good crop but owing to the blight he did not have 50 bushels of marketable potatoes to the acre. He could have bought two or three spraying outfits with the potatoes he lost that year.

In spraying for bugs early in the season use arsenate of lead, or Paris green, usually the latter. Two and one half lbs. of arsenate of lead or one pound of Paris green are used in 40 gallons of water and this will spray one acre of potatoes when the tops are small. We prefer to have the nozzles arranged to throw the spray forward against the tops. Where the spray is directed straight down only the tops of the leaves are reached by the poison.

In spraying for blight it is important that both top and bottom of the leaves be drenched. Two sprayings are usually given for bugs early in the season.

It is important in spraying for blight to spray in time. I have heard Professor Smith at the college say that he could go out on an evening and smell the blight on the potato field. He then started to spray. I do not care to take a risk such as that as I have seen fields apparently healthy one day, completely covered with blight only two days later

We give our first application of Bordeaux mixture (4-4-40) early in August and spray every 10 days or two weeks until early in September. The growing period for the potatoes is extended by spraying and when they are harvested they can be put in the cellar with the assurance that they will not rot, if it is necessary to hold them for a better market.

Drowning at Parrsboro.

Parrsboro, N.S., July 10.—A double drowning occurred near Partridge Island Friday afternoon. Two boys, one the only son of Clifford Gilbert, the other the eldest son of his brother, James C. Gilbert, were bathing in the swimming hole, which has been the popular resort of Parrsboro boys for generations. One of the boys got beyond his depth and the other went to his assistance and was drawn into deep water. A younger son of James Gilbert, who was preparing to bathe, ran home for help, but before assistance arrived both boys were beyond aid. Dr. Dyas, who was on Partridge Island when the accident occurred, worked over the boys for a long time, but was unable to resuscitate them.

The boys were each about twelve years of age.

Her special business will be to determine the approaches to Fort Churchill and other proposed terminals of the Hudson Bay Railway. The Minto will be absent till the close of navigation in the bay, and on her will largely depend the selection of the point to be reached by the Hudson Bay Railway, which will be built under subsidies or guarantees by the Dominion Government. Capt. George Bartlett, an experienced Arctic navigator, and uncle of Peary Bartlett, goes as pilot.

Dr. Bingham Hurt.

Toronto, July 10.—Thrown from his rig when his horse took fright and collided with a street car and a milk wagon, Dr. George A. Bingham, chief surgeon of General Hospital and one of the foremost medical men of the city, was carried to St. Michael's Hospital in a semi-conscious condition shortly after six o'clock on Saturday night.

SOME POULTRY FACTS

From Farm and Dairy.

"Do you consider poultry keeping profitable on the farm?"

This is one of the series of 25 questions submitted to the farmers of Oregon by Prof. James Dryden of the poultry department of the Oregon Agricultural College. The question was directed to farmers on general farms who sell eggs or poultry at market prices, not to fanciers or special poultry keepers who sell eggs and stock at fancy prices.

"A farmer has ideas of his own about such things," says Prof. Dryden, "but he doesn't go out of his way very much to give the public the benefit of his ideas, and therein the public is the loser. The regrettable thing is that very few farmers use a pencil and notebook in keeping chickens, so they must guess a good deal in answering such a question. By long association with fowls, however, throwing grain to them, and gathering the eggs, he is able to form a fairly accurate estimate of the profit.

CHEERY BUSINESS ABILITY

"If the farmers are losing money on the hens, it means a tremendous loss in the aggregate. If the loss should amount to 15 per cent. on the business, that would mean a loss of about $100,000,000 to the farmers of the United States. One should give the farmers more credit for their business ability than to believe that they are going on year after year doing a business of over half a billion dollars a year, if it were a losing proposition. But listen to what they say!

"Answers to the above question were sent us by 333 farmers, of whom 288 answered 'Yes,' 20 'No,' and the rest were non-committal. A few qualified their answers, and I shall quote some of these. The decision on the question is almost unanimously in the affirmative. Later I shall give some evidence from the experiment station.

"Among the answers given by the farmers were the following: 'A profitable side line.' 'To a certain extent receive income otherwise wasted.' 'Depends upon circumstances.' 'Very much so.' 'From 15 to 30 hens; over that a nuisance.' 'Not in the strict sense of the word.' 'Yes, to pick up waste.' 'Yes, as a side issue.' 'Not unless you raise grain.' 'Yes, if kept warm in winter.' 'Of course.' 'Merely as a convenience.' 'Don't know yet.' 'To some extent.'

BETTER THAN OTHER THINGS

"One answers emphatically: 'Yes, more than hogs, sheep, grain or fruit under present market conditions.' Another says, 'Yes, by all means.' Others say, 'Yes, best paying on the farm.' 'To a certain extent.' 'Yes, up to about 35.' 'Very profitable.' 'Yes, much company.' 'Yes, if you have good luck.' 'Yes, in moderate doses.' 'Yes, if not too many kept.' 'Only for family use where no grain is raised.' 'Yes, to a moderate extent.' 'Yes, if one owns his own farm.' 'Very profitable.' 'Yes, for for family use.' 'Would not do without hens.' 'Yes, pay big profit.' 'When proper attention is given.' 'Not the way we keep them.' 'Yes, in a small way.'

"'With good houses, etc., yes, otherwise, no,' says one, and another makes a similar reply, 'With proper care and attention, yes, but if not, I say no.' Others say, 'Yes, as well as anything else.' 'Yes, if proper person has them.' 'Has not been so far.' 'Don't think much of it.' 'Will be when properly regulated.' 'The most profitable on farm of anything.' 'Fairly; total failure last year.' 'A small flock.' 'Large farm, yes; small farm, no.' 'If you have good hens.' 'Owing to the care they get.' 'Yes, if all did as well as the old hens.' 'Yes, on a small place.' 'You bet I do.' 'Yes, if taken good care of and feeds are kept pure.' 'Yes, on a small scale.' 'Only in a small way.' 'Yes, sir; I get in this year on a big scale.' 'When grain is raised on the farm.' 'It helps some.' 'Yes, if systematic.' 'Yes, properly handled, though I have not been particularly successful myself.' 'Yes, if the waste on the farm is considered, and not too many are kept.' 'Yes, on a large farm, not on a small place.'"

The replies would seem to indicate that the profit is in proportion to the care given the poultry, and the amount of the feed raised on the farm.

FIRE AT EGANVILLE

OUTSIDE HELP

Eganville, Ont., July 10.—Not in the history of Eganville has there been such a dreadful conflagration as the fire which started here at 1.30 yesterday. The Bonnechere River divides the town into two equal parts, north and south, over half of the north side now being in ashes, while on the south side an immense amount of damage is done. The loss will amount to between $75,000 and $100,000. The fire originated in the sheds of Mr. McCann, and as there is no protection here except a bucket brigade, the flames soon spread before a strong west wind, which was blowing.

The Pembroke and Renfrew fire brigades were called upon for help. There was a delay in Pembroke, as the station agent had to get orders from headquarters. In Renfrew the delay was caused by the engine having to get up steam. The fire brigades, however, came as quickly as possible, the Pembroke one by the Grand Trunk and the Renfrew one by the C.P.R. The northwestern part of the town was saved, after a great deal of fighting on the part of Pembroke fire brigade. The Renfrew brigade did heroic work as well, saving many residences. The buildings destroyed were:

The grist mill, the woollen mill, Ottawa Hotel, Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, English Church, public school, the new high school, which was under construction, and twenty-five fine residences and business blocks. The two newspaper offices were burned, as well as a sash and door factory and a sawmill.

Only for the river the whole town would have been swept off the map.

Lumber Yard Swept.

Ottawa, July 10.—Fifteen million feet of board measure of sawn lumber intended for the United States market was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in the yards of Ritchie Bros., mill owners, at Aylmer, Que. The cut was valued at $300,000, on which there was insurance of $200,000.

The lumber was owned by the Fraser-Bryson Lumber Co., Ltd., Ottawa; the Hawkesbury Lumber Co., Ottawa; the Pembroke Lumber Co., Pembroke; the Colonial Lumber Co., Pembroke; estate R. Hurdman, Ottawa, and McAuliffe Davis Lumber Co., Ottawa.

The lumber piling yards are located directly to the south of the town of Aylmer, which for a time was threatened by the flames. The Ottawa and Hull fire departments rushed engines and men to the assistance of the Aylmer brigade, and succeeded in confining the fire to the lumber piles. Luckily there was no wind blowing and the flames and smoke shot skyward in a spectacular manner as a result. By five o'clock the fire had about burned itself out.

One woman, Mrs. Smith of Aylmer, was overcome by the fierce heat from the burning piles, and collapsed. Thousands of people from Ottawa and Hull went out to watch the smoke and flames, which could be seen from miles around.

It is thought the fire must have been started by a careless workman lighting his pipe at the noon hour, as the flames were first noticed a few minutes after 12 o'clock.

Nova Scotia Village Threatened.

Halifax, July 10.—Fire late Saturday afternoon destroyed the general store of I. B. Shaffner & Co., at Elmsdale, wiped out three barns and a carriage house adjoining, burned the house on the opposite side of the road, owned and occupied by George Ross, and seriously threatened the whole village of fifty houses.

The Shaffner building is a large four-storey wooden structure with a floor space of 40,000 feet, and, a large stock of goods was distributed throughout the building from top to bottom. This building and the five others constitute a total loss. Only a part of I. B. Shaffner & Co.'s stock on the lower floor, chiefly dry goods and boots and shoes, was saved. The buildings and stock were insured, and the loss falling on the insurance companies will be heavy.

The fire, which began in the upper part of the Shaffner building, is supposed to have started by a spark from an Intercolonial Railway engine that passed an hour before. So far as known no one was in the upper part of the building during the afternoon. The wind was from the southwest and blew towards a meadow on the rear of the I. B. Shaffner & Co. Had the wind been in the opposite direction the whole village would have gone; as it was the flames went against the wind to the Ross residence. By the heroic work the station was saved, [illegible] turning out and keeping blankets soaked with water, and laying them on the side of the house.

There was never any hope of saving I. B. Shaffner's store. It was level with the ground in little more that an hour.

FRANTIC WITH NEURALGIA

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL ALWAYS CURE THIS TROUBLE

Neuralgia is really blood poisoning. To treat it with opium, morphine, cocaine, "headache powders" and other "pain-killers" is a crime.

The only possible way to cure Neuralgia is to purify the blood by making the Kidneys, Bowels and Skin do their proper work in nature's own way.

This is the way "Fruit-a-tives" cures Neuralgia. "Fruit-a-tives" prevents the formation of Uric Acid—keeps the whole system strong and active—and will always cure Neuralgia, Rheumatism and Headaches due to poisoned blood.

RAIN IN WEST.

Grain Growers Say Moisture Augurs Record Crop.

Winnipeg, July 10.—Hard rains all over the west Friday and Saturday are believed to assure a record crop. Heat had been severe for ten days and a few places needed rain badly. Reports from all sections show there has been no appearance of rust. Harvest will commence about Aug. 10, fully ten days earlier than last year. In a good many districts the crop, owing to the rank growth, will be heavy to handle. Haying has already commenced, and the crop is undoubtedly the largest and heaviest in a decade. The condition of the flax crop is stated to be satisfactory. The area under flax is much greater than in any previous year. In most districts the supply of moisture is considered ample to carry the crop through. In a few instances there has been too much rain, and in a few other districts showers would be welcomed.

In the matter of harvest help the whole west is in agreement that it will be difficult to secure a sufficient number of farm hands to take care of the crop. Thousands of men would readily find employment at the present moment in the western hayfields. The hay will hardly be off before harvest begins. Some districts report that as many as a thousand men could be employed immediately. The scarcity of help is more pronounced in Manitoba and Saskatchewan than in Alberta. The crop in Manitoba is more advanced than in the other provinces, with the exception of the winter wheat districts.

POOR CHEER KING.

Their Majesties Pay a Visit to Dublin Slums.

Dublin, July 10.—The citizens of Dublin continue to give ample evidence of their affection and loyalty to King George. The King's movements are watched everywhere by enthusiastic crowds. Yesterday morning Their Majesties attended service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, where they were received by the Most Rev. Joseph Ferguson Peacocke, Lord Archbishop of Dublin. The Rt. Rev. Jno. Baptist Crozier, Bishop of Down, preached the sermon.

In the afternoon the royal party motored to Maynooth College, fifteen miles from Dublin, where they were received by the Lord ieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Aberdeen, and others.

Among other affairs which the King attended was the opening of a playcentre in the poorest and roughest district in Dublin. It was a time of great anxiety for the police, who had several encounters with the crowds, in one of which a sergeant's arm was broken. Troops were brought up, but they were not required.

As soon as the King appeared, the people who are perhaps the poorest of his subjects, were carried away with enthusiasm, and gave him by far the most cordial reception of the day. Men and women, who had been jeering the police and soldiers, broke into hearty cheers, which continued throughout the district. The King and Queen, although tired, showed their great pleasure at this ovation, which was entirely unexpected in that quarter.

Two Bathers Drowned.

Toronto, July 10.—Two men drowned, one seriously injured in diving, and three rescued after a collision of two dinghies, was yesterday's record of accidents by water in Toronto.

James J. Elden, aged 27, an Irishman living at 15 Manitou avenue for the summer, was drowned while in swimming in the lagoon off Clandeboye avenue, and David McKibbon, aged 22, also an Irishman, of 75 Don Mills road, met death in the same manner in the Don River by the paper mills north of Danforth avenue. Andrew Angus, aged 35, was diving from a post off Lee avenue ,when he struck bottom and injured his spine.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has a uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, and strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

LANDLADY KILLED

Petrolea Woman is Murdered by a Former Boarder—Was Shot and Killed by Bullet From a Rifle

TRAGEDY OF JEALOUSY

Petrolea, July 10.—This town was stirred to its depths yesterday when it was learned Mrs. Frederick King, who lives over the Flats, had been shot to death by William Moore, an employe of the Wagon Works Co. The cause of the shooting was a clear case of jealousy. The murderer, who is about twenty years of age, boarded with the King family until about a month or so ago, and was asked to leave the house by one of Mrs. King's sons, owing to the vile language he had been in the habit of using, and also because he had got behind with his board bill. He then went to live with his mother, a Mrs. Perkins of this town, later going to his grandmother's in Oil Springs, leaving there to attend camp in Goderich.

Upon his return from camp he called at the King house and asked to see Mrs. King, of whom, notwithstanding the fact that she was over twice his age, he was enamored. He was met at the door by a daughter of the murdered woman, who informed him her mother was out of the house. He did not say anything at the time, but went away quietly, only to return on Saturday about 11.30 o'clock. He entered the house, which has a front and side door with a verandah running the side and across the front, at the side entrance, without knocking, and found the family preparing dinner. In the room at the time were the victim and her daughter Florence, aged fourteen years, and a married daughter, a Mrs. Hollifield. The latter being nearest to him, asked "What do you want?"

"You stand back," he replied, and immediately pulling a 22 calibre rifle out of one of his pant legs, aimed it at Mrs. Hollifield, who dropped to the floor to avoid the shot, which struck little Florence in the wrist, just at the pulse.

The child screamed and ran out of the house, followed by the sister and mother, the mother turning to the right, the other two to the left, screaming for help.

The frantic mother ran down the verandah, followed by the enraged man and attempted to make for the side door, but was shot in the left side twice before she reached the door, the shots being only six inches apart. In her agony and excitement the terrified woman dashed against the door and fell to the floor of the verandah. She died a few minutes later.

The murderer then threw down the gun and walked into the arms of Policeman Whitlock, who had come up, and who took him to the police station. Here he showed symptoms of opium poisoning. Dr. Dunfield was hurriedly called and washed out the man's stomach and used antidotes to prevent the opium from having a fatal effect. There are hopes of his recovery.

The murdered woman, who was 42 years old, came to Petrolea about a year and a half ago, from Gladwin, Mich. Prior to living in Gladwin, the family lived for a time in Owen Sound and also in Sarnia. She and her husband had not been living together, owing to some domestic difficulty, but the family, which consisted of three boys, a sailor in Montreal, Harry and Sandy in Petrolea, and three girls, Florence, Lizzie and Mrs. Hollifield, also of Petrolea.

When called on by a reporter the girls were sobbing quietly and the home was in perfect order.

"I can't understand why Will would do such a thing," said Mrs. Hollifield. "Poor mother never did anything to him. He appeared to be fond of her and I believe it was a case of jealousy. About two or three months ago he asked mother to marry him, but she refused, saying that she had been married once and she was not going to marry again even if she could."

He did not say much at the time, but Saturday's sequel explains his silence.

About Moore not much is known. He came to Petrolea last fall from Oil Springs and secured a position in the wagon works. Only a few weeks ago the gas exploded, burning him severely about the head. He was taken to the hospital and since resuming work his fellow workmen say that he has been acting strangely. On Sunday night last Moore attended a Salvation Army meeting and seemed to be greatly impressed.

In the hot cell at the police station the prisoner is in a dazed condition, and seems to feel his position keenly.

"Oh, it's awful, it's awful," he keeps moaning. "I never thought I would come to this. I've worried; oh, I've worried; oh, why did I do it? I was driven to it."

The murderer will be taken to Sarnia to await his trial.

Earl Grey for Washington.

Washington, July 10.—When Earl Grey completes his term as Governor-General of Canada, he may come to Washington to succeed Rt. Hon. Jas. Bryce, as ambassador extraordinary and Minister plenipotentiary, according to gossip which is going the rounds of the capital. It is stated that the earl's success as a diplomat has been well proven, and his tact recognized by the ablest statesmen of Great Britain.

Mr. Bryce was appointed to the Washington post in 1907.

Presentation to Teacher.

Kingston, July 10.—Miss Minnie Davis has retired from the public school teaching staff, after 25 years' service. The Board of Education paid her a warm tribute, presenting her with a purse of $100. She was one of the best teachers on the staff.

PREMIER AT QUEBEC

Sir Wilfrid and His Party Get a Great Reception—Coronation Contingent Looking Fine After the Trip

GLAD TO BE HOME

Quebec, July 10.—As the stately ocean liner Empress of Britain swung into her dock yesterday afternoon the band of the coronation contingent played "O Canada," and the large crowd of people which had assembled on the dock sent up three hearty cheers of welcome to the soldiers of the Dominion, who have been representing Canada at the crowning of King George. The cheers were answered with a will by the bronzed crowd of the boys as they swarmed all over the forward decks. They looked perfect pictures of physical manhood and seemed to be delighted to be once more in Canada, even though their experiences on the other side have been most notable, and where they have been almost overloaded with kindness and honors.

But the chief interest in the arrival of the Empress, was the presence on board of Canada's Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, returning from the Imperial Conference and from the coronation festivities. With Sir Wilfrid were Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur. The Liberal leader landed immediately after the ship had moored, and he was given an enthusiastic reception. Sir Wilfrid was met by Sir Lomer Gouin, Provincial Premier; Mayor Drouin of Quebec and other notables. He was at once escorted to the carriage of Lieutenant-Governor Langelier, and, accompanied by Captain Victor Pelletier and Major A. DeL. Panet, A.D.C.'s, to his honor, and his worship the mayor, at once drove with the Premier. Sir Wilfrid will address a big meeting to-night, which promises to be an imposing event. The meeting will take place on the terrace, where a special stand has been erected and which is being handsomely decorated with lights and flags. An address will be presented on behalf of the city and another from the Liberal clubs of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid is looking in splendid form, and his sunny smile was much in evidence as he acknowledged the greetings of his many admirers.

The coronation contingent was dismissed on board the ship, and the men at once proceeded to the various trains which are to convey them to their homes in all parts of the country. The men all appeared to be in a cheerful condition, and seem to have enjoyed their trip thoroughly. They had lots of work to do, but they also had lots of pleasure, and were well treated by the people on the other side. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a guest at the Chateau Frontenac, where he was joined by Lady Laurier.

Seen at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 10.—Antonio Vescio, an Italian who is wanted by the provincial police of Manitoba on a charge of murdering Paolo Di Phillippo, by shooting him at Point Dubois, Oct. 30 last, was seen in Niagara Falls last week, but before at arrest could be made Vescio crossed the river.

Chief Mains and Officer Dowd tracked him to Buffalo, interviewed the police department there and obtained his arrest on Friday. Vescio will probably waive extradition, as he admits his identity and that he killed Phillippo, but claims it was done in self defence.

Orange Parade at Montreal.

Montreal, July 10—Montreal Orangemen to the number of 600 held their annual church service yesterday, preceding it by a parade along the principal streets of the city. Numerous prominent officers of the order were present and colors and regalia were much in evidence. There was, however, no disorder and no attempt at interruption. The annual picnic of the Orangemen takes place as usual on July 12, at Maple Grove, when at least a thousand are expected to participate.

Petes Beaten For First Time This Season

Lost a Hard Fought Scrappy Game at Bowmanville That Had a Very Unsatisfactory Termination---Peculiar Play Arose in the Ninth Innings When Petes Threatened to Win Out by Batting Rally

Saturday's Midland League game at Bowmanville between the Goodyear team of that town and the Peterborough team will go down into history as a 7 to 5 defeat for the Petes. Technically and correctly speaking, however, the score should read Bowmanville 7, Peterborough 6, with the game unfinished. Scrappy and full of wrangling all through the contest had an unsatisfactory termination. It happened in this wise. With two out in Peterborough's half of the ninth and Murphy at the bat, Rahmel, who had stolen second and third cleanly, got a long lead off the bag and tore for home as Beith, Bowmanville's pitcher, shot the ball to the plate. Jones, the Bowmanville catcher, jumped across the plate and in front of Murphy, grabbed the ball without giving the batter a chance to swing and tagged Rahmel as he came in. The Bowmanville team rushed off the field, and although the Petes protested vigorously there was nothing doing. It was a clear case of interference on the part of the catcher, and Rahmel should have been declared safe and Murphy sent to first. After the game Weeks, of Bowmanville, who umpired on account of the non-appearance of Jack Rosevear, told the Petes that he had made no decision on the play, but that the Bowmanville team had left the field without waiting for the verdict. He agreed that Rahmel was safe at the plate, was very sorry it had happened, etc., but there was little satisfaction in that for the Petes.

It was a hard fought and interesting game all through and was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic gathering of fans. Peterborough led 2 to 1 at the end of the second but the home team went ahead in the third and were not headed thereafter although the visitors made a gallant stand in the ninth when they fell upon Beith in hearty fashion and threatened to come from behind by a splendid batting rally. Beith, who twirled such a masterly game against Peterborough in the game here on Coronation Day, worked for Bowmanville again on Saturday and the big fellow seemed to have the number of some of Peterborough's best hitters. He was in fine form Saturday and outside of the first two and the last innings was never in difficulties, getting a host of strikeouts with his fast ball. Ernie Rahmel was on the slab for the Petes and pitched plenty good enough to win but wobbly support at critical stages lost the contest for him. The Rubbermen could not hit him with any degree of certainty and had it not been for the errors behind him he would have carried off the game. He had eleven strikeouts to his credit. The diamond was rough and baked so hard that the ground balls came bopping along at any old angle and the Petes infield used to the velvety smoothness of Riverside Park, did not show their usual accuracy in handling the skippers. Nearly all the errors were made on ground balls, and the tricky nature of the diamond was responsible in no small measure.

The Bowmanville team seemed right at home under the conditions and played a snappy, gingerly game, giving Beith the best of support. Doll, the Bowmanville short stop and Bill Shaw, the Petes left fielder, contributed the feature plays of the day. Doll pulled down a liner from Shaw's bat in the first with his gloved hand, leaping into the air while on the dead run, while Shaw picked a low liner to left off his boot tops with the bases full in the fifth.

A regrettable feature was the failure of Jack Rosevear, the Port Hope umpire to show up, and Ed. Weeks, of Bowmanville had to be substituted. The result was anything but satisfactory and the Petes kicked vigorously on some of the official's decisions. Undoubtedly he was trying to be fair but his mistakes were all against the visitors, who objected strenuously. The climax came in the eighth when Bill Shaw drove a liner down the first base line that was good for two bases. The ball struck a foot inside the line and was easily fair, as the Bowmanville players admitted, but Weeks called it a foul.

There came near being a riot in the next few moments. The Peterborough team, Shaw in particular, stormed around the umpire, and in the midst of the mix-up Jones, the Bowmanville catcher, peeled off his pad and mask and avowed his intention of taking a pugilistic part in the affray. Mr. Shaw of the Petes, had made the same declaration some seconds earlier and the crowd piled upon the field, but the players of both teams kept them back and peace was restored. His Umps declared that Shaw would have to get out of the game but reneged on his decision afterwards. The occurrence was unfortunate, but the Petes' kick was justifiable.

Peterborough broke into the run column in the first innings. The first ball thrown by Beith struck Murphy, who stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored when Beith missed a return from the catcher.

A base on balls to Rowe, a stolen base, a passed ball and an error allowed Bowmanville to even up in their half.

Peterborough went ahead in the second when Craig singled to left, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on W. O'Brien's sacrifice fly to left.

Bowmanville scored three in the third, two in the fifth and one in the sixth, mixing their few hits with infield errors by the Petes. In the meanwhile the Petes were blanked, Beith's splendid pitching holding them in check. O'Hearne singled in the third and doubled to centre in the fifth, while Craig beat out a hit to short in the sixth, but in each case the hitter was stranded. Both teams were blanked in the seventh.

In the eighth, after the exciting episode referred to above, Shaw hit safely, went to second on a bad throw to first, stole third and came home when Sisler allowed Beith's throw to third get away from him.

The Petes tried hard to win out in the ninth with the score 7 to 3 against them. Gonter led off with a ringing double to centre. McFadden followed with a ripping two sacker down the third base line, scoring Gonter. Manager Quinlan, batting for Craig, fanned, McFadden going to third when Jones dropped the third one and had to throw to first. W. O'Brien struck out, but Rahmel came through with a pretty single to left centre, scoring McFadden. Rahmel stole second and third and then tried to purloin the home station with the unsatisfactory result recorded above, thus ending a game that was not ended. The teams were:

NOTES.

The Peterborough team reached Bowmanville via the C. P. R. to Burketon and driving the rest of the journey.

A bunch of college boys, camped on the lake near Bowmanville, turned out in fantastic regalia with a gaily decorated goat as a mascot, and rooted vigorously for Bowmanville. Their singing was a feature of the battle. Doc. McFadden made a hit with the choir by leading them through some of their choice numbers.

Manager Quinlan broke into the game as a pinch hitter in the ninth, and had a perfect average—swung at three, missed three.

The Petes were well equipped with pitchers, with Quinlan and Cresswell warming the bench. They were not needed, however, as Rahmel pitched a fine game.

BEST BALL GAME OF SEASON NEXT SATURDAY

The best game of the baseball season is scheduled for Saturday of this week at Riverside Park when the crack Grand Trunk team, the undefeated leaders of the Belleville City League will meet Manager Quinlan's Midland League team. The Grand Trunks have one grand ball team, strengthened by some of the best ball talent in Kingston and other Eastern towns and will undoubtedly prove the classiest team the Petes have been in action against this season. The locals are very anxious to win this game and will practise three nights this week, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The visitors will likely run an excursion to Peterborough for the game and in that event will bring a big crowd of supporters with them. Local fans will be glad to hear that the game has been arranged, as the Petes have not played at home since Coronation Day.

for both well understand that success spells more money. Quite often just as the goal of one's ambition seems about to be realized something happens that spoils the entire proceedings.

Detroit was playing in New York, a couple were on bases, and Sam Crawford at the bat. Doyle realized he must retire Crawford, the slugging Tiger, if he was to win. He knew he must put everything he had on the ball in order to deceive the hard-hitting Sam. Winding up he cut loose with all his speed; as he did so something snapped in his right arm and it fell limp to his side. The game was stopped, while Doyle was hurried to the club house. The pitching of that one ball ended Doyle's career as a major leaguer. Every possible treatment was tried, but none restored the old-time strength. Doyle never pitched another high-class game in the majors.

BASEBALL

Ball players who are worth while, take all kinds of chances to bring about victory during the progress of a game.

Club owners, who seek pennants, take equally long chances in trying to get together a club that will have a shade on all rival teams.

In a very short time club owners in the majors and minors will be a lot wiser than they were six months ago. Incidentally, they will be much happier or equally sad. They will soon realize the folly or wisdom of the money spent for new recruits since the close of the 1910 campaign.

Baseball is truly a precarious business, not only from the standpoint of the ball player, but the club owner as well. Both are constantly taking big chances to make his team successful,

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, July 8.—The market opened steady and unchanged. The strength in America was offset here by more favorable crop reports from Russia, and there was some selling in the way of profit-taking. The weather in the United Kingdom is favorable, and the weather was against holders. Late was free covering by shorts on nervousness, on private reports from America on damage to spring wheat, and the unsettled political conditions. There was a disposition to cover over the week-end, and at the close the market was firm to ½d to ⅝d higher than yesterday.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Timidity in regard to wet and cooler weather pulled the wheat market down to-day in the last hour of the session. The heavy movement of the new crop was also a big weight upon values. Closing figures were ⅛ to ½ under last night. Corn and oats finished unchanged to within ⅛c decline. Hog products made a ragged wind-up, varying from 2½ advance to 22½ decline.

Met Instant Death.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 10.—Charles Dalzell, 27 years of age, a truckman hauling stone for the foundation of the new Zion Church, met almost instant death on Friday as the result of being struck by a falling derrick. With a number of others he was engaged piling stone off a truck. One stone larger than any other hitherto lifted by the derrick was being hoisted into place, when the back guy slipped from the excessive weight and the derrick with all its gear came tumbling down. Dalzell saw it coming and tried to dodge to one side, but was not quick enough to elude the heavy mass, the top end of which struck him with full force on the side of the head, rendering him unconscious. An examination revealed that the neck was broken. He lived one hour.

Caught Between Booms.

Montreal, July 10.—A supposed kidnapping mystery was brought to a sad end yesterday morning when the body of Leslie Kesseler, aged nine, who had been missing from his home on Maisonneuve street, since Thursday evening last, was found caught head downward between two booms in the canal. The boy had been playing in that vicinity Thursday, and it is supposed he slipped and was unable to extricate himself while attempting to run the booms.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL TO BE LIGHTED FROM RICE LAKE TO ORILLIA AND BARRIE

Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., F. L Fowke, M.P., J. B. McColl, M.P. and Mr. J. H. McClelland, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, have been taking up with the Department of Marines and Fisheries, the matter of the better lighting and buoying of the channels throughout the lakes of the Trent Canal. Hon. Mr. Brodeur, the minister in charge, then promised that as soon as possible after the opening of the lakes and rivers along the system, he would send an inspector to make an examination. On Monday of last week Mr. McClelland accompanied Col. Anderson, Chief Engineer of the Department from Orillia to Rice Lake, with the result that Col. Anderson has made a report to the Department recommending that a large additional number of lights be placed on all the lakes and that new buoys be placed where the Superintendent of the canal deems advisable, so that the streams and lakes along the waterway for 250 miles can be navigated as easily by night as by day. Col. Anderson speaks in the highest terms of praise of the possibilities and future prospects of the Trent waters.

This was his first visit and like all strangers he was amazed at the great reservoirs that are being created to the north of us. Briefly Col. Anderson approves of the recommendations of Messrs. Stratton, Fowke and McColl and the carrying out of these recommendations is left in the hands of the Superintendent Mr. McClellan, who accompanied Col. Anderson and impressed him fully as to the absolute necessity of the work being commenced immediately.

GLORIOUS TWELFTH TO BE CELEBRATED AT COBOURG TO-MORROW

The glorious Twelfth will be celebrated in Cobourg to-morrow when there will be a monster gathering of Orangemen from all parts of the Midland district. Special trains will leave later in the morning on which the Lakefield, Lindsay and other outside lodges will leave. There will be a parade of the Peterborough and district lodges here to-morrow evening on the return from Cobourg. There is also a celebration at Havelock to-morrow and a big gathering is looked for.

PETERBORO CONTINGENT BACK FROM CORONATION

Col. Sergt. Succee, Sergt. Levelle and Signaller Sergt. Brightman of the 57th Regiment, and Sergeant Edwards of the 24th Battery, who were Peterborough's representatives on the Canadian contingent to the Coronation, arrived in the city on the 5.30 G. T. R. train yesterday afternoon and were met at the Station by a number of members of the non-commissioned officers of the 57th, in uniform, and driven in carriages to the Armouries, where a reception was tendered them. Had it been known earlier that they were to arrive in the afternoon the men would have been given a big welcome, with the Band in attendance, but only short notice was received of their arrival. All the four look fit and well after their trip, and state that they enjoyed the experience and the training immensely.

Rev. H. J Keith Elected Moderator Of Presbytery

There was a busy session of the Presbytery of Peterborough this morning when Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox Presbyterian church, was elected moderator for the next six months, succeeding Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, whose term has expired.

The call to Lakefield to Rev. McCorkindale was sustained, and it was arranged that the induction should take place at the end of the present month.

The matter of the re-adjustment of the Springville and Bethany field was put in the hands of a committee to report at an adjourned meeting of the Presbytery to be held in Lakefield.

The matter of the sale of the Cordova church property has been finished through the business ability of Rev. Mr. Skene, of Havelock, and Rev. B. A. Thompson, of Hastings.

The report of the commissioners to the General Assembly was postponed until the next regular meeting in Campbellford in September.

AN INCREASE FOR THE EMPLOYEES OF THE CANAL

Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the canal, have waited on the Department of Railways and Canals with a view to having the remuneration of the lock masters, bridge tenders and overseers along the line of the Trent Waterway increased. Mr. McClellan who returned from Ottawa this morning informs the Examiner that the appropriation passed by the House to allow of this being accomplished is now under the consideration of the Minister and it is expected that the apportionments will be made during the present month and that the increases will date from April 1st, 1911. The employees along the route of the Canal appreciate the efforts that are being put forth in their behalf. The increased cost of existing nowadays is being realized by employees of the Canal as well as by others and Mr. McClellan is recognized as having always been kindly disposed towards the workmen along the Canal.

The Minister of Railways and Canals has been a workman himself and his sympathies go out to the employee so that when the claims are being pressed by the representative of the constituency, Mr. Stratton, the Minister appreciates the fairness and righteousness of their cause.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than those glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

HOT WEATHER HABITS.

The man, woman, or child that takes to ice cream and iced drinks to keep cool is making a mistake. Ice cream, composed largely of starch, is a nitrogenous heat-producing substance. A hissing hot cup of coffee, of tea, is more cooling than ice cream. In hot weather, unless one is actively working and perspiring, as little drink as possible is indicated. Such weather as we have had recently brings danger of sunstroke or heat stroke. A good precaution for those exposed to the sun is to keep the head cool. This may easily be done by placing leaves or a folded handkerchief, saturated with cold water, inside the hat. This simple device may easily mean all the difference between safety and a fatal sun or heat stroke. Hot weather habits, rationally practised, might remove much of the discomfort and danger of the super-heated spell.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

It will be seen by notice in another column that a meeting of Liberals will be held in the offices of Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon, on Saturday evening, July 15th, to arrange a date for a convention for the selection of Dominion and Provincial candidates, and for the transaction of other business, such as the election of officers.

In regard to a candidate for the Local Legislature one might easily be selected who would conduct a successful campaign in the public interests and redeem the riding to Liberalism. The present Government of the Province presents many vulnerable points, and fails in many ways to give an administration satisfactory to the province. As to a candidate for the House of Commons little difficulty should be experienced, and in this connection it may be said that Mr. Stratton, the present representative, would not object to being relieved. He has served West Peterborough in the capacity of both provincial and Dominion representative many years, and these duties have necessarily encroached upon his private affairs, which have, to some extent been neglected in the public interests. He would, therefore, welcome retirement, and would be glad to give his support to any other candidate that might be selected.

THE FOURTH CROSS-CONTINENT

A fourth Canadian cross-continent railway will soon be under construction — a railway that will bring positively the last west under-development conditions; a railway from Hudson Bay to Prince Rupert, to be known as the P. T. C. and H. B. R., the Pacific, Trans-Canada and Hudson Bay Railway. The new line will tap en route the Peace River country, with great acknowledged but yet unknown, wealth of resources. Application will be made for a charter at the present session of Parliament, which will be granted if the Conservative Opposition cease obstruction long enough to permit the addition of this new piece o fthe machinery of national development.

What a wonderful stride of progress this proposal represents; what an awakening to realization of the potential wealth of Canada. The writer of this paragraph can remember seeing an old school wall map of North America, on which the wide area of country, now occupied by thriving cities like Regina, Medicine Hat, Calgary, Lethbridge, etc., surrounded by thriving farming lands, now waving with million-bushel crops, was marked on the map as a blank, and labelled "The Great American Desert." Half a thousand miles north of this Edenic desert is situated a vast inland continent, full of mineral and vegetable wealth, and now to be opened up by a new railway, or a network of new railways. Fewer than thirty years ago the Canadian Pacific Railway was regarded as a visionary enterprise, but the development of Canadian resources has made it entirely inadequate for traffic purposes, and now we find that two more transcontinental railways do not meet our needs, and a fourth is under way, its line running nearer the Arctic Circle than to Peterborough, and still through country rich in agricultural and other resources.

ARBITRATION WINS.

Arbitration is taking the place of club law with beneficent results. The friendly settlement of the Pacific Coast seal dispute removes an excuse for more serious trouble for the four nations concerned — Canada, United States, Japan and Russia. The practice of open sealing threatened to destroy the industry, on the Pacific Coast, and the amicable settlement of the controversy provides for the preservation of seals by forbidding open-sea or pelagic sealing for the preiod of fifteen years. For the suspension of these sealing operations for fifteen years the Canadians and Japanese are to be substantially compensated by the United States and Russia, the assumed owners of the seal rookeries. Canada receives from the United States $200,000 in compensation of the loss to her sealing schooners. The good features of the agreement was that the nations concerned were willing to trust their commercial interests and national ambitions to the verdict of an arbitration board. Time was when even smaller causes of dispute than that arising from the Pacific Coast sealing situation have led to widespread wars. In the settlement arrived at, Canada is recognized to be the largest gainer. While British interests, including Canadian, were not nearly so important as those of the other nations concerned, she obtained just as valuable concessions as Japan, with larger interests. The obtaining of such favourable terms by the British and Canadian commissioners, Ambassador Bryce and Mr. Joseph Pope, Canadian Under-Secretary of External Affairs, is a matter of surprise to the other parties, and is a decided credit to their diplomacy. This friendly settlement of an international dispute is a decided widening of the area of adjustment of international troubles by the pen of the diplomat, instead of the sword of the warrior.

FIGHTING THE HOUSE FLY.

The war against the house-fly, that "messenger of death," as someone not inaptly terms it, steadily goes on. The United States, bent upon extermination, have established a national fly-fighting committee, and the health departments in all the States are taking up the matter. Educational methods are being largely used.

Apart from the fly's dirty habits, there is the fact that he is a germ-carrier. As many as 6,600,000 bacteria of many kinds have been found on a single fly. A fly caught and examined was found to be entirely covered with typhoid bacilli. Experts declare that 5,000 out of every 7,000 deaths from such diseases as cholera infantum and summer diarrhoea would be prevented if there were no flies.

A recent issue of The Woman's World gives a list of rules for dealing with the nuisance that it would be well if all householders would read and remember. The list is as follows:

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulatae on or near your preimses.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or coal oil.

Screen all food.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil, or other cheap preparations.

See that your sewage system is in good order, that it does not leak, is up-to-date, and not exposed to flies.

Pour coal oil into the drains.

Screen all food exposed for sale.

Screen all windows and doors, especially the kitchen and diningroom.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill flies.

Don't forget if you see flies, their breeding place is nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighbourhood, write at once to the health department.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Work At The Imperial Conference

(Dr. J. A. Macdonald)

LONDON, JULY 1.—The Propagandists of Protection for Britain are very angry these days. The cause of their wrath is the refusal of the Imperial Conference to lend itself to their campaign. The politicians are nursing their wrath for the most part inscecret, or giving it expression only in safe hearing. But the protectionist newspapers cannot keep quiet. Their business is to discuss questions every day. In their summing up of the Imperial conference they have not been able to conceal their chagrin and disappointment. They did so strongly hope that the Prime Ministers from the dominions could be snared into an expression of opinion, which could be worked into their own tariff campaign. But never a word did any of the Premiers utter which gave even a crumb of comfort to the weary advocates of the Chamberlain tariff policy. This refusal was so deliberate and so squarely in defiance of the daily appeals and exhortations, and even threatenings of the more aggressive of the protection ist journals, that all the world now knows of it.

Unionist Press on Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, being the senior Prime Minister, and admittedly the ablest member of the Imperial Conference, is made the object of the most direct attacks. The Times went so far as it judged would be prudent in its criticism of Sir Wilfrid, and in damning him with faint praise. But on all hands one hears of the decline of the Times as a leader of opinion since it passed under Harmsworth control; its opposition, therefore, has had no effect. The Morning Post, one of the most aggressive of the protectionist journals is much more outspoken. Again and again it has misrepresented, perhaps ignorantly, both what Sir Wilfrid Laurier stood for in the past and what he stands for to-day. It represented him as asking for protection in Britain, in order that Canada might get a preference. It began by assuming this to be his position in the past and praising him for it, and when he declined to respond to its praise it began to blame. And other protectionist newspapers have behaved in the same way.

Sir Wilfrid Wins Out.

Of course Sir Wilfrid is much too experienced to be caught by any such guile. He gave no heed, made no answer, but did his part as a member of the Conference with such intelligence and effectiveness that, despite the tariff press, he stands out distinctly the most conspicuous figure and the one great statesman from the overseas dominions. All Canadians who are not dyed-in-the-wool Tory protectionists express their pride in him as the representative of Canadian opinion and life in England to-day.

It must not be supposed, however, that he has no warm friends and defenders among the London journals. No Canadian could desire stronger support than he has had, in the chief positions he has taken, from Liberal journals like the Daily Chronicle, the Daily News, and the Westminster Gazette, and from powerful weeklies like the Nation and the Economist. If their views have not been published in Canada the situation in London has not been adequately represented.

A Cabal Against Laurier.

The opinion is held by the leading Liberal journalists in London that protectionist journals in Britain and in Canada have been in league deliberately to weaken Sir Wilfrid Laurier's influence in order, if possible, to promote the political ends they have in view. There is no doubt as to the facts. On both sides of the Atlantic everything that political chicanery could do has been done with this end in view. The London journals, most of them now controlled by individuals or syndicates interested inthe tariff campaign, are kept supplied with prejudiced opinions from Canada, and all kinds of partisan attacks on his character or his policy are sent over and prominently featured. This is meant to destroy him as the representative of Canadian opinion on questions like Imperial tariffs and Imperial preferences. Similarly the offensive attacks on him by the London protectionist journals are reproduced in Canada in the hope that they may count for something in the next Federal elections. Whether true or not, as London Liberal journalists affirm, that there is a protectionist cabal against Sir Wilfrid, all the essential facts fit in with that theiry.

London's Cheers for Laurier.

But it cannot succeed either here or in Canada. In Britain it has failed already. On the day of the Royal progress through London no one man in the long line of carriages, outside of Royalty itself, was given so quick, so enthusiastic and so prolonged cheering throughout the entire seven miles of the procession as was Sir Wilfrid Laurier. At ever stage his striking feautres were recognized and instantly the cheers broke out, his name often being called again and again. This refusal of the people to be influenced by a considerable section of the newspapers seemed to illustrate what the Lord Advocate for Scotland said to me about the last general election in Britain: "It was a campaign of the platform against the press, and the platform won." In the present instance the protectionists press seems equally futile in its efforts to damage the influence of the foremost Canadian statesman.

A True Canadian Policy.

And Canada will understand. Most thoughtful Canadians will approve of the reasonable position taken by the Prime Minister on the question of old treaty restrictions, on immigration, on Empire organization and Empire trade, and on matters of defence. That position was at once truly Canadian and truly Imperial. And because Sir Wilfrid refused to be dragged into domestic politics in England, he proved himself the truer Canadian and the greater Imperial statesman. The fact that he would not enter the controversy, even in self-defence, is to his credit, for had he denied some of the protectionist allegations he would of necessity have had to commit himself for or against. This he absolutely refused to do.

As a result he stands out more conspicuously than ever before as the overseas statesman of whom all the Empire is proud, and more prouder than his fellow-Premiers from the other dominions. His speech at the Constitutional Club to a rather hostile audience, in which he discussed the reciprocity agreement, and gave straight denial to the annexation talk in which ignorant and irresponsible people and those with other ends in view so persistently indulge, was, as Sir Gilbert Parker said, the speech of a master, frank, courageous, strong. No matter what the cable despatches may say, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has "done Canada proud" on this important visit to London.

changeable nature of Canadian weather.

Prince Rupert's hesitation in accepting a cheque for $30,000 in payment of its city taxes by the Grand Trunk Pacific, speaks volumes for the growth of a city that half a dozen years ago had no place on the map and no name.

A STRANGE DOCTRINE.

(Brantford Expositor.)

In defence of trade restriction and high tariffs, Mr. Borden has made some strange statements, and presented very specious arguments. For instance, he said at Estevan:

The reduction of the tariff on agricultural implements in 1894 drove out of business 15 to 25 small small industries, which in itself rendered combines and mergers much easier.

Does Mr. Borden fly in the face of world-wide testimony, and assert that a protective tariff is inimical to combines and mergers? He is not specific in his language, but he would lead the listener to believe that a protective tariff promotes the creation of competing industries within a country. If Mr. Borden will take the trouble to devote an hour's study to conditions in the United States, where he says the big mergers are located that threaten Canadian industry, he will find all the testimony is to the effect that these mergers and combines come into life and exist because of high protection. And in Canada the situation is exactly the same. The unrest of the people is largely because of the mergers.

CANADA CLIMBING.

(London Advertiser.)

A bulletin issued by the International Agricultural Institute, with headquarters a Rome, places Canada seventh in the list of wheat-producing countries of the world. The wheat crop of 1910 ,north of the equator, was divided as follows:

Country	Bushels.
Germany	141,885,000
Austria	57,580,000
Bulgaria	49,126,000
Denmark	4,550,000
Spain	137,449,000
Belgium	12,448,000
France	254,363,000
British Isles	58,235,000
Hungary	198,482,000
Italy	153,339,000
Luxemburg	624,000
Norway	314,000
Netherlands	4,324,000
Roumania	110,828,000
Russian Empire	776,619,000
Sweden	7,52,000
Switzerland	2,756,000
Canada	149,990,000
United States	686,443,000
British India	357,108,000
Japan	23,728,000
Algeria	39,375,000
Tunis	4,042,000
Total	3,240,141,000

South of the equator, Argentina, Chili, Australia and New Zealand are credited with a combined production of 249,632,000 bushels in the last season. This year the Canadian west alone will produce 300,000,000 bushels if present predictions are verified, and Canada may take fifth place, ranking next to France. The obvious lesson is that the British market can not indefinitely absorb the Canadian surplus, in competition with the world, or even with British countries on a preferred basis. The need of new outlets for Canadian wheat is an argument for reciprocity with the United States, which appeals to every wheat-grower who is not deluded by politicians.

Lost Something ?—Try Our Lost Column —Good Idea !

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

WE pride ourselves, in weighing worth and merit,
Too much in virtues that we but inherit.
Some punctual grandsire makes us hate delay
And we are proud to keep our oath and day.
But our ancestral follies and abuses
We still indulge in and make for them excuses.
Let him be proud, dared men be proud at all,
Who stands where all his fathers used to fall,
Holding their virtues fast and passing on Still higher good through his own victories won."
—I. O. RANKIN.

"Yes, I suppose I shouldn't have said that, but you know I am naturally quick tempered. I inherit it from my father, I think. You know he had an uncontrollable tongue."

So I heard a woman say the other day. She said it very complacently and apparently felt entirely content and justified in her excuse.

Isn't that a queer and yet common state of mind?—to think that because one is born with a predisposition to some particular fault one's yielding to it thereby becomes entirely excusable?

"I can't help being obstinate. It's a regular family trait. The Bartletts never could give up anything they really set their hearts on."

"Oh well you mustn't blame me for being rather revengeful. We're all that way. It's in the blood never to forget a friend or forgive an enemy."

"I suppose I am rather quick to jump at conclusions, but that's my natural disposition. You mustn't lay it up against me."

How complacently and with what serene self-justification people go about saying things like that.

If anything, it seems as if they were proud rather than ashamed of their inherited feelings.

Now of course the fact that one is naturally very weak in some direction might explain one's yielding to temptations of that sort a little oftener than other people. But it wouldn't explain one's yielding all the time. And it wouldn't excuse one's yielding at all.

Someone has said, "While we are not responsible for the character that we bring into the world, we are responsible for that we take out."

It seems to me that sums up the whole situation in a sentence.

We aren't responsible for having a tendency to be quick tempered or pig-headed or unforgiving, but we most certainly are responsible if we do nothing to conquer it. And doubly responsible too—both for ourselves and the generations that are to inherit our unconquered weakness.

"We gain the strength of the temptation we resist," says Goethe.

Better still, we not only gain it, but we pass it on to countless generations and take away from them the weakening prop of being able to say, "I am quick tempered, I am pig-headed, I am unforgiving—because it's in the family."

HARKING BACK HALF A CENTURY

Mr. James Stewart has left with the Examiner a copy of the Examiner, dated Jan. 5th, 1860, thirteen years after its establishment as "The Despatch." In 1853, the late Mr. Augustus Sawers, conducting the "Despatch" renamed it the "Examiner." In 1860 the Examiner was conducted by James Renfrew. Among all the advertising announcements it contained at that date, not one has a living representative. This issue of the Examiner, Jan. 5th, 1860, contains one important living link between that time and the present. It is the marriage notice of Mr. James Stewart, still living among us. It reads as follows:

At Peterborough, on the 2nd Inst., by the Rev. J. M. Roger, James, second son of the late Lieut. Stewart, H. M. 19th Regiment, to Miss Ellen, fourth daughter of John Finlason, Esq., merchant, Aberdeen, Scotland."

No Desire for Food

The Stomach Seems Played Out and the Appetite Fickle.

The Digestive System is Overloaded With Poisons—Relief Comes With the Use of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Weak stomach, loss of appetite, indigestion and all the accompanying symptoms of energy, tend to make the springtime anything but joyous for many people.

The system is full of poisons, the blood is impure, the liver and kidneys have been overworked in an effort to remove the waste matter and have failed .This accounts for the bilious ness, the constipation, the backaches and headaches.

How is this condition to be overcome? There is no quicker or more certain way than by the use of Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This treatment gets the liver and kidneys in action at once and ensures regular movement of the bowels.

The poisonous waste matter which has been clogging the digestive system is removed and the organs of digestion are enabled to properly perform their duties.

Appetite is sharpened, you eat your food with a relish, the stomach is strengthened, the vital organs get the nourishment they require, and vigour and energy are restored.

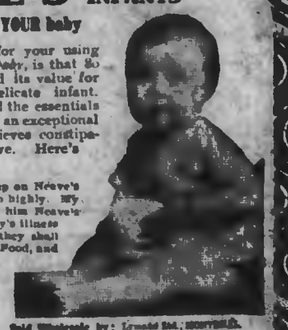
NEAVE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS

is the RIGHT FOOD for YOUR baby



The strongest argument for your using NEAVE'S FOOD for your baby, is that 80 years experience has proved its value for the youngest and most delicate infant. NEAVE'S FOOD contains all the essentials for flesh and bone forming in an exceptional degree—assists teething—relieves constipation—and makes baby thrive. Here's what one mother says:

"My baby has been brought up on Neave's Food, of which I cannot speak too highly. My baby did not thrive until I gave him Neave's Food, and he has never had a day's illness since. If anyone asks me what they shall give their babies, I say Neave's Food, and they get on just the same as mine, and thank me for telling them." Mrs. Savery of Bristol.

GARDEN PARTY WAS A SUCCESS

A very enjoyable and successful garden party was held last night at the residence of Mrs. D. J. Lundy, Aylmer street, under the auspices of the All Saints' Women's Guild.

The Salvation Army Band was present and rendered excellent music, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The lawn was very prettily decorated with Chinese lanterns and electric lights, which were strung along the trees. This, together with the many coloured costumes of the ladies, presented a very beautiful scene.

A refreshment booth was placed on the grounds and the refreshments, in the form of ice cream, cool drinks, etc., were dispensed in a very able manner by those in charge.

A very pleasantly spent evening was brought to a close by the rendition of the national anthem.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

JASPER PARK

Inspected by Hon. Frank Oliver the Minister of the Interior

"Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, and Mr. Howard Douglass, Commissioner Dominion Parks, returned to Edmonton June 27th from a trip over the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. to the Rocky Mountains and an inspection of Jasper Park, the new five thousand square mile National Park. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the reserve, which embraces some of the finest of the magnificent scenery, for which the Canadian Rockies are famous throughout the world. Speaking of Jasper Park, Mr. Oliver stated that the scenery was of a grandeur and ruggedness similar to that of Banff, the only difference being that it is on a larger scale. The valley of the Athabaska is very wide compared with the Bow River at Banff, and the mountains are higher, and from a tourist point of view there is everything to attract. The rails of the Grand Trunk Pacific have now reached the confines of the Park."

MORE DAMAGE BY THE STORM

Since the publication in yesterday's issue of an account of the storm that occurred in the afternoon it has been ascertained that a telegraph pole on Bethune street, north, was rent asunder by the velocity of the storm, the top portion being suspended by the wires in a tree, and the lower portion precipitated across the side walk. The suddenness of the storm was also responsible for a considerable amount of the damage done. The wind and rain found access into the Quaker Oats Company's offices before the windows could be shut, and on reaching the opposite side of the office burst through a number of the windows, which were already closed.

The Weather Man Can Give Little Hope

The weather man can promise no cool weather for the immediate future, nor anything but local scattered thunder storms, says the Toronto Star. The general storms are passing further to the north on their way from Manitoba to Quebec.

It appears that this heat is not coming from the West, the usual course, but from the East. What they call in technical language the "subperhanent high" has unusual 'energy this summer. In ordinary words, this scientific term means the area of high pressure which is more or less permanent on the Atlantic just north of the equator, and which is accompanied by hot weather. This month the heat is unusually energetic, and is forcing its way far into the continent. It is this influence which is counteracting the effect of the cool waves coming from the West. In the Prairie Provinces it is quite cool and raining. In Winnipeg last night there were two inches of cold rain. In Calgary the thermometer dropped to 40 degrees.

We Must Just Wait.

"We in Ontario," said the weather man, "can get no permanent relief until this heated area of high pressure from the Atlantic is driven out. A real heavy piece of low pressure from the West would fix us up, but unfortunately we are too far south from the centre to feel the effects. In Northern Ontario it is cooler and raining. We here have to wait until the low pressure works down to us. It is impossible to say when this will happen. There is no immediate sign of relief. There will be local thunder storms, but they are not enough.

"The encouraging feature of the situation to-day is that the area of rain is more widespread than it has been for several days."

A TOWER COLLAPSES

Victoria College Toronto is Struck by Lightning and Eight Firemen Were in Peril—Considerable Damage

FIRE IN MONTREAL

Toronto, July 11.—Victoria College tower was struck by lightning during yesterday's storm, entailing a damage of $3,000. Eight firemen, among whom was Chief Thompson, narrowly escaped death when the charred tiles and timbers of the tower fell, and some of them were knocked to the floor, just two feet from the spot where the debris tore a great hole in its descent to the floor below. Valuable mummies, 3,000 years old, and specimens of ancient armor escaped damage. A few old document were damaged by water, but, unfortunately, nearly everything of worth, including many valuable books, had been removed from the building, which is undergoing alterations and repairs. Difficulty was found in turning in an alarm owing to the tele? phone company's practice of shutting off their service during thunderstorms. The hose in the building, which has not been used for years, was used at first, but soon gave out.

The tower at the southeast corner of the college was struck at 5.30 o'clock. B. Cleveland of the Kew Beach volunteer fire brigade and three other men were sitting on the front steps at the time, waiting to get in to do some painting on the interior. There was a deafening clap, but they did not suspect that the building had been struck until a piece of tile from the tower slithered down the roof and fell in the gravel driveway before them. They went out and saw a thin spiral of smoke curling upward from the tower.

Rushing to the west side of the building they broke a window and hurried upstairs, where they found the college line of two-inch hose, which, under the direction of Mr. Cleveland, they soon got into action. With this they were able to extinguish the burning particle, which fell from the inside of the roof of the tower, and thus kept the fire from spreading downward.

This was not for long, however, as the old hose, which has not been used in years, soon gave out under the pressure of water and, bursting in several places, became useless. By this time, however, the flames beneath the tower, so we see that the falling brands failed to set it alight.

Prof. Horning, who was in the new library to the west of the building, saw the men break the window and make entry. He thought that they were breaking into the place, and, having a key hurried around to the front door. It was not until he was ascending the steps to this that he learned that the college was on fire. Just as he was going up the steps, he was struck on the arm by a piece of falling tile, which inflicted a slight wound on his right arm at the elbow.

When the firemen arrived they had great difficulty in getting their rigs into the grounds. The building is enclosed by a stout iron fence. It is approached by two driveways of soft gravel curving out from a single gateway. It was with great difficulty that the 40-foot aerials and ladder hitches were turned into this and the heavy five-ton trucks came near to sticking fast in the soft gravel of the driveway.

Once inside, Chief Thompson led his men right up to the seat of the trouble. There they worked like Trojans immediately under the burning floor of the tower. Ugh. While eight of them were enclosed in this narrow space, the tower roof, weakened by the burning of the beams and joists and bearing the weight of a heavy terra cotta ball, gave way and fell in, a smother of sparks right over the eight firemen.

Their escape was little short of a miracle. A hole ten by eight feet was torn in the floor not two feet from where they were standing.

The damage is estimated at $3,000. Of this $2,000 will be required to rebuild the tower and the remaining $1,000 is in damage done to the plaster by the water poured into the tower. This damage would have been much greater had it not been that this section of the building was left practically empty when about $20,000 worth of curios and antiques belonging to the Royal Canadian Museum were removed to that place about two weeks ago.

That the fire was not a fast travelling one, is instanced by the fact that half a dozen mummies, aged about 3,000 years, escaped without injury. These, except one, which is owned by the college, are the property of the Royal Canadian Museum. There was also a quantity of old Japanese and other armor, and many valuable books in another part of the building, and all were unharmed. The college bell, which is swung just below the point where the lightning struck, was unharmed.

RAIN WAS GENERAL

Most Parts of Ontario Got a Shower Yesterday But the Temperature Was High Everywhere

THE WEATHER OUTLOOK

Toronto, July 11.—True to the prediction of the observatory officials, rain arrived yesterday. It was no mean shower, either, for the rainfall for the 24 hours amounted to nearly an inch, or .93 inch, to be exact.

And another comforting assurance from the meteorological headquarters is that today will be cooler. The cool-[illegible] temperature [illegible] Sandpoint, for the mercury will in all probability be as high to-day, as it was yesterday. But from that bugbear of hot weather we all abhor—excessive humidity, we will have relief, for Yesterday was a hot day all over the Province of Ontario, and the thunderstorms were general, particularly in the lower lake region. The rainfall, however, was not quite so heavy as in Toronto, although the observatory officials have not yet been able to judge accurately as to the extent and severity of the showers in different localities. The mercury stood at a high figure in many cities yesterday, 96 degrees being reached at London and 92 at Ottawa.

Ontario is unfortunately situated just at present as regards air currents, and that is why this poor old province has been put through such a gruelling display of torrid temperatures.

Hanging over the South Atlantic coast for some weeks there has been a warm belt of high-pressure air, which has been seeking a means of escape to districts of low pressure. Here is where we got it during the past week. There happens to be a vast area of low pressure atmosphere in the Hudson Bay district and towards this happy place the hot winds of the high-pressure zone forced themselves automatically. Toronto unluckily, was in the path of these migratory breezes from the sunny south and we suffered on account of it. Southwest winds all over the province for the past few days have been the hardest to bear. They are coming directly from the heated area of the Atlantic coast. It takes a long time for this zone of high temperature to collect there, and, unfortunately it will take some considerable time before we again get rid of its meanderings.

The scorching rays have done damage to much of the fruit crops. Farmers in the different districts around Toronto report that their crops are suffering greatly from the hot weather and the scarcity of rain. All the grain and root crops that were planted late will hardly be worth harvesting. Many farmers expect their harvests to be all in the barn this month, which means that the grain has been sown, ripened and harvested in less than three months, which is far too short a time to produce good grain.

Sixty-One Deaths From Heat.

Toronto, July 11.—Fifty deaths were registered at the City Hall yesterday, ten of these being returned as due to heat.

To date sixty-one persons have succumbed to the terrible weather of the hot spell, sixteen of these being children.

The persons returned yesterday as succumbing to the heat were:

Alfred Hearsley, aged 28, 1 Euclid place; Helen Margaret Woods, aged 6, 269 East Gerrard street; Kenn J. Dooley, 10 days, 30 Mackay avenue; Hugh Mullersy, 45, 346 East King street; Maria Wilbur, 5, 361 Pacific avenue; David Smith, 40, 185 Hallam street; Martha Foyston, 36, 108 Palmerston avenue; Dorothea Eva Benish, 4 months, 326 Sunnyside avenue; Alex. C. Howell, 1 month, 19 Garden avenue; Jane Lister, 73, 169 Grange avenue.

Twelve Die In Chicago.

Chicago, July 11.—Heat deaths and prostrations continued yesterday, although the maximum temperature was only 89 degrees. Twelve deaths, superinduced by heat, and many prostrations, were reported.

Four In Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—Four deaths and 12 prostrations resulted from the heat here yesterday. The weather bureau thermometer registered a maximum temperature of 95 degrees at 4 p.m.

Ten In Washington.

Washington, July 11.—More than a half score of persons succumbed to the heat here yesterday, but there were no fatalities. In the down town streets the thermometers registered 100 degrees.

New York, July 11.—The death list at 11 o'clock had eighteen victims on it, the count including the entire metropolitan district. Prostrations numbered above 200. With no further relief by showers, the night was proving to be one of the most uncomfortable of the season.

Ammunition Cargo Confiscated.

Berlin, July 11.—A news despatch from Madrid says: The German consul-general here finds that the seizure of the German steamer Gemina by the Spanish authorities at Corcubion, on the charge that the vessel was carrying war material for Portuguese royalists, was justified, and orders the confiscation of the cargo of 154 tons of ammunition.

Divided Keg of Powder.

Pittsburg, July 11.—In the effort to divide a keg of powder in a fair and square manner, Vendering Goolish was blown to atoms, and John Semenich is dying of terrible burns in a local hospital.

Goolish took out a handful, and placed it on the table beside him. Semenich did the same. After discussion how to divide the remainder it was decided to set it off. The largest pile of powder also exploded. Goolish was blown through the roof.

R. C. Church Ties Press.

London, Ont., July 11.—Rev. G. W. Dewey, pastor of the Empress avenue Methodist Church, in the course of a sermon Sunday night, declared that the press of Canada, and especially of London, was not free.

PROPERTIES

THE TORONTO MILL is well situated on a valuable site of about three acres, and has a capacity of 1,000 barrels of flour and 100 tons of feed per day. It is running day and night, but has been unable to supply the ever-increasing demand for its products.

THE PETERBOROUGH MILL was purchased (May 15th, 1911) from the Central Milling Company. It is well situated, on the main line of the C.P.R., and has a capacity of 400 barrels of flour and 30 tons of feed per day. It is a most valuable addition to the Campbell Milling Co's plant, and it is necessary to run day day and night inorder to relieve the congestion of business of the Toronto mill.

THE MIDLAND MILL.—A site for a new mill has been secured beside the Aberdeen elevator at Midland, Ont., comprising nine acres of land, including a water-frontage of 500 feet, on which it is intended to erect the new mill, which will have a capacity of 1,500 barrels a day, with buildings arranged to increase the output to 3,000 barrels per day, without structural alterations or additions. The Aberdeen elevator has a capacity of 1,200,000 bushels, and is one of the most complete and up-to-date on the lakes.

The Timm elevator, with a capacity of two and a half million bushels, is within easy reach. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. have centralized in building huge elevators at Midland and Victoria Harbour.

The directors, after due consideration of the many possible locations, have decided there is no better situation in Canada for milling for both export and eastern trade than at Midland, where all the advantages of low freight rates, cheap electric power (hydro-electric), and a low fixed assessment for ten years, have been secured.

ASSETS

The Company has acquired the business of the Campbell Milling Company, which includes the mills and elevators at West Toronto and Peterborough. The mills, real estate, equipment, good will, etc., have been conservatively valued at $525,024, not taking into consideration the valuable site and concessions at Midland, and from the shares now offered to the public, the Company will have about $300,000 in the treasury to carry on the business and build the new mill at Midland, making total assets of $825,024, there being no bonds or mortgages on the real estate or plants.

The Canadian Appraisal Company have appraised the plants.

On the investment of the two mills now running the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, are earning eighteen per cent., after allowing for all expenses, depreciation, etc., and with the same experienced management and advantages enumerated in th prospectus, it is reasonable to suppose that when the new capital is invested it will bring equally good returns.

EARNINGS

We hereby certify that the earnings of the Campbell Milling Co., West Toronto, after allowing for cost of management, depreciation, etc., have been as follows:

12 months ending July 31st, 1910 ..... $41,974.93
9 months ending April 28th, 1911 ..... 46,324.45

(Signed) STIFF BROS.,
Chartered Accountants.

The interest required to pay 7 per cent. on Preference Stock is $45,500. From the above earnings it will be noticed that this amount is earned by the Toronto mill in nine months, and with the added capacity of the Peterborough plant now in operation and the Midland Mill, which will soon be in operation, this will more than double the present capacity, so the earnings will be very materially increased.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS

The mill at Midland will be completed early in 1912, and when the three mills are running, figuring very conservatively by past earnings, the net profits are estimated as follows:—

Net earnings	$100,000
7 per cent. preferred dividend	45,500
	$ 54,000
Showing over 7 per cent. on the common	45,500
	$ 9,000

THE GROWTH OF BUSINESS

The necessity for expansion is shown forcibly by the following figures, which represent the annual gross sales of the Toronto mill:

1907	$545,103.16	1910	1,130,477.20
1908	836,630.17	1909	1,103,366.00

EIGHTEEN YEARS OF SATISFACTION

The new company receives the benefit of the good-will and business, which has given eighteen years of satisfaction to the purchasers of their brands of flour, such as "Cream of the West," "Queen City," and "Monarch." It is the only large flour mill situated in the City of Toronto, and in eighteen years they have built up a tremendous local trade, besides being well established throughout the Dominion, West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland, and the United Kingdom.

MANAGEMENT

The Management of the Company is in strong, practical hands. The President, the Honourable Archibald Campbell, has been in the milling business a life-time, and associated with him are his three sons, who have been managing the business for six years. The experience of James Playfair, of Midland, and Mr. James Richardson, adds strength to the Board of Directors. The Directors have been looking ahead and have extended all their lines and formed connections, feeling confident that with their present organization and all the advantages enumerated above, they will be able to dispose of the entire products of the new mill, in addition to their present output, at profitable rates.

MARKET

Flour is an every day necessity, and flour ground from our Canadian North-West wheat is finding a ready market the world over, and, with increasing home markets, it is necessary for our established mills to greatly increase their output to take care of the ever-increasing production of wheat.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and will close on or before Monday, July 17th, at 3 o'clock p.m.

The right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and such amounts as may be approved, and to close subscription books without notice.

CRACK TWIRLER HERE WITH BELLEVILLE TEAM

Ashton Who Was Given a Try Out by Montreal Eastern League Team This Season Will Pitch For Grand Trunks Against Peterboro on Saturday

That Peterborough will have their work out out for them in their game at Riverside Park, with the Grand Trunk team of Belleville, is indicated by the fact that Ashton, the crack Montreal twirler, who was given a try-out by the Montreal Eastern League team, and taken south with the Royals on their spring training trip, will be on the rubber for the visitors. The Grand Trunks have not lost a game this season and are considered much stronger than last year when they defeated the local T. A. S. in decisive fashion by 11 runs to 3. It promises to be by long odds, the fastest exhibition seen here this season, and no doubt a big crowd of fans will turn out for the battle, which marks the first home appearance o fthe Petes in three weeks. The Belleville team is considered about the fastest in the East, and their line-up has been strengthened by the addition of several star Eastern players. They will have their strongest team on Saturday, as will the locals, who are practising three nights this week, in preparation for the battle. uinlan will likely pitch for Peterborough, and it should be a pitcher's battle between him and Ashton.

Final Games In The Midland Football League

The best soccer exhibition of the season should be on the cards to-night when the Canadian General Electric team will meet All Saints in the first of the final games for the Midland League championship. The kick-off will take place at 7 o'clock sharp at Brinton Meadows with Mr. W. S. Harris handling the whistle, a guarantee that both teams will have to play football from the drop of the hat. On their records C.G.E. and All Saints are well matched and there should be excitement all through. C. G. E., champions last year, cleaned up their district with Bethany, Lakefield and Havelock without a defeat, scoring 9 goals to 1 and they polished off St. James 'the Church League winners by 8 goals to 2 on the round. All Saints finished a close second in the Church League and have strengthened considerably since, as shown in their recent series in the Midland League semi-finals with Brooklin, whom they defeated by 3 goals to 1.

The C. G. E. team for to-night will be as follows: Goal, Hull; full backs, Evans, Hooper; halves, Allen, Pagett, Dawson; forwards, Corless, Mason, Miller, French, Dawson.

All Saints' team for to-night's game with the C.G.E. will be as follows: Goal, Moraity; backs, Gamble, Sharman; half backs, James, Simmonite (capt.), Edwards; forwards, Smith, Gash, Monk, Vickers and Downes. spares, J. Pearson and E. Hardie.

The two teams will meet in the second game of the finals on Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the Exhibition grounds. A silver collection will be taken up at both games. All lovers of football should not miss the games of this series, which promise to be the most exciting yet played here.

UMPIRE WAS KNOCKED OUT

PHILADELPHIA, PA., JULY 10. — Umpire Finneran, behind the bat in this afternoon's game between the Cardinals and the Phillies, was knocked cold by Sherwood Magee in the last half of the third inning. Finneran called Magee out on strikes, and after an argument which resulted, the latter being put out of the game, they came to blows.

When Finneran arose to his feet the police had escorted Magee from the field. Finneran's face was a mass of blood ,and several teeth were knocked down his throat. When the teams took their positions again the umpire was in no shape to continue and Rigler handled the game alone.

WOLGAST VS. WELSH

Will Meet and Fight for a Big Purse Soon

LOS ANGELES, JULY 10.—Ad. Wolgast, champion lightweight of the world, and Fred Welsh, Great Britain's contender for that title, will probably fight for the honour and a side bet of 10,000 in some arena on the coast on Labour Day. After a heated colloquy, which ended in disagreement, the principals and their managers met again last night, and on Welsh's explanation of cablegram from his backer, Harry Marks, of Cardiff, Wales, that the amount of bet had been mailed, Wolgast and his manager Tom Jones, tacitly agreed that the bout would take place with either Jack Welsh or Eddie Smith as referee.

Welsh and Wolgast will meet again to-day and endeavour to reach an agreement.

Says Wolgast Will Win.

CHICAGO, JULY 10.—Owen Moran, the British lightweight, who was knocked out in San Francisco by Ad. Wolgast on the Fourth of July thinks Packey McFarland of Chicago would not stand much chance in the ring with Wolgast.

"McFarland passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to England.

"McFarland is not as strong as I am, and my money goes on Wolgast if they fight," said Moran. "Packey will find that Wolgast can throw him all around the ring and wear him out inside of 20 rounds sure.

McFarland is not strong enough, neither is Freddie Welsh, while Wolgast will slaughter K. C. Brown if he gets at him again.

JORDAN IS LEADING HITTER

Tim Jordan, the Toronto first baseman, leads all the hitters of the Eastern League, in long-distance batting. His nearest rival is Charlie Hanford, of the Montreal team. Jordan has made 16 doubles, 4 triples, and 10 home runs this season, and is within 4 of 100 safe hits for the season. Tim will likely be the first player in the Eastern to reach the hundred mark and may get the even century before the team goes away Wednesday night. Jordan also leads the league in run-getting, with 60 to his credit. Ward Miller of Montreal leads the base-stealers, with 32 to his credit. Honus Wagner, of Pittsburg, who leads the National League in batting, has made only 95 hits, and has played 10 more games than Jordan. Ty. Cobb of Detroit, and Joe Jackson of Cleveland, are both over the 100 mark.

Another violent thunderstorm visited Peterborough shortly after noon to day accompanied by a very heavy downpour of rain. The lightning was unusually sharp and frequent and the thunder very heavy. No reports of serious damage being done throughout the city have been received by the Examiner but there were minor accidents in several places as the result of the disturbance. The storm played havoc with wires everywhere and as a result the streeet car service was tied up for a long period while industries using electric power had to suspend work for the time being.

GOING TO HULL.

Montreal Orangemen Will Walk There To-morrow.

Montreal, July 11.—Members of the Prince of Wales Loyal Orange Lodge and other Orangemen of Montreal will proceed to Hull tomorrow to take part in the celebration of the 221st anniversary of the battle of the Boyne.

In an interview, A. G. Ellis, secretary of the Orangemen's Association, explained that there was no intention whatever on the part of his associates to hurt anybody's feelings by parading on this occasion, but as the local lodge of the district of Hull had taken the initiative in regard to this demonstration, the members of the order would respond to the invitation of their brethren to join in the celebration.

"There is no reason why we should not parade at Hull, or in any other place in this country, which is free to every faith." Mr. Ellis proceeded. "and I do not see any reason or justification for the Orangemen's decision being misinterpreted just because a large majority of the population are of another faith than ourselves. I am sure no slur is intended. The Loyal Orange Association is incorporated and we can demand protection there if it should be necessary.

"I would like to emphasize that it is not the association that has picked out the town of Hull as the scene of a parade, but it is the local lodge that took the initiative. The outside lodges will go there simply as visitors."

"We expect a big turnout," concluded Mr. Ellis, "and you may be sure that the parade will take place."

RAVAGED BY FLAMES

Cochrane Nearly Obliterated by Raging Forest Fire—Several Villages Are Wiped Out

SEVEN DEAD?

North Bay, July 12.—A terrible disaster has overtaken Northern Ontario as a result of heat and lack of rain. The whole country is burning up with bush fires everywhere, which have been blazing for over a week and reached their climax yesterday, licking up in their fiery path everything before them. Fanned by a terrible gale of wind, the flames swooped down on villages and mining camps of the north country, and the loss of property will run into immense figures, while the death roll must be great, as the Porcupine district, where the fire is at its worst, contains thousands of prospectors, whose camps are scattered over a wide area of country heavily timbered.

From North Bay northward for three hundred miles and covering a wide section east and west, the flames are busy in their work of destruction and death, and miners, prospectors and settlers are in desperate plight, if they even escape with their lives, for supplies, buildings and equipment are being wiped out of existence by a roaring wall of fire which illuminates the sky for many miles.

The town of Cochrane, at the junction of the T. & N. O. Railway, and transcontinental, which was nearly wiped out the other day by fire, was leveled to the ground yesterday, and the inhabitants are in a bad way for food and shelter, and asking assistance from neighboring towns to the south.

South Porcupine and Pottsville have been wiped off the map, while Golden City was visited by fire, but the best part of the town was saved, thus far only the outskirts being burned.

The south part of Tisdale has been swept clean, and other townships have suffered severely.

All the mining camps from Dome to Whitney Township have been burned. Hundreds of people, men, women and children, were forced to rush into lakes and streams to seek refuge from the intense and blistering heat of the conflagration, an inferno of terror with immense clouds of smoke darkening the sky, illuminated by sheets of flame, as the fire leaped from tree to tree with frightful rapidity and a terrible roar.

A report has come in that F. Flynn, A. Yuill, and W. J. Fletcher, have been burned to death, while Billy Moore and three foreigners lost their lives by drowning, near South Porcupine town, while running from the flames.

The flames swept down on South Porcupine town and Pottsville yesterday and wiped out both towns so quickly that the inhabitants were driven into the lake, as no living thing could withstand the fierce heat and fire, which burned the very ground.

Gasoline boats removed refugees from both towns to Golden City, across the lake, where they were cared for, although the outskirts of that town were in flames, and a desperate fight was being waged to save the place. The provision supply is only sufficient for several days at Golden City, and relief is being asked for from outside points.

At the town of Cochrane every thing is burned except the Transcontinental Railway office, the T. & N. O. agent's house, Johnston's poolroom, the Imperial Bank, McKinnon's office, the T. & N. O. Railway's new passenger station and freight shed; all the rest being wiped out clean, including the Bank of Ottawa, a handsome brick block; T. J. McManus' store, the Rothschild's block, the Dempsey Hotel, King George Hotel, Pelnagio block, postoffice, Hudson Bay Co. store, Whan drug store, A. R. Springer's store and C. H. Lloyd's store. Only five buildings are left standing in this prosperous town of 2,050 inhabitants.

Cochrane inhabitants are without food, as nothing could be saved but the clothes on their backs. They are also without sleeping accommodation and are being housed in box cars, railway stations, Foley, Welsh & Stewart, contractors, offices, the railway round house and freight shed. Appeals have been sent for assistance to New Liskeard, Haileybury, Cobalt and North Bay, and the mayors of these towns called special meetings of councils last night to arrange succor.

All construction camps on Ontario Government's new Porcupine railway from Golden City west were swept out of existence, and the men had to run for their lives.

Kelso, which lost a number of buildings as the result of bush fires Sunday, is again threatened and in grave danger.

Hollinger mining plant is supposed to be all right, as it was fire-swept some time ago, and is now surrounded by large clearings and comparatively safe.

At times the wind velocity was 70 miles an hour. South from Cochrane the fire was apesmodic more or less along the entire line of railway, approaching North Bay as close as Widdifield, only fourteen miles away. Porcupine is cut off from the outside world, and the fire is still raging there

T. & N. O. train No. 2 ran off the track at mile post 152, which is about 12 miles south of Swastika. The train consisted of engine, tender, two baggage and two first-class cars. Heat is supposed to have spread the rails. The train was placed on the tracks again about 9 o'clock.

The loss of life to prospectors and settlers must be great, and will not be known for days, as the survivors will find great difficulty in getting out the trails being obliterated and country rosds destroyed.

Supt. Black and staff of the Ontario Government Railway will remain at their posts all night, arranging and sending relief trains to the stricken towns.

The North Bay Town Council will send $300 worth of provisions to Cochrane on the first train. Blankets, tents and other supplies are required and being collected to go forward on relief trains.

Barn Struck.

Tamworth, Ont., July 12.—Lightning yesterday afternoon struck the barn of Murray Stinson. About twenty tons of hay and 150 bushels of oats, wagons, and contents were all burned. Loss $2,000.

Fifteen Thousand Dollar Blaze.

St. Catharines, July 12.—Fifteen thousand dollars' damage was done to the furnace building at the Contains Reduction Co.'s silver smelter at Thorold last night.

Fire Sweeps Embrun.

Embrun, Ont., July 12.—Fire again played havoc in the neighborhood of Ottawa, when the whole south side of Edmond street of the village of Embrun was swept by fire on Monday afternoon. Damage of $20,000 was caused. The following places were burned: A fine new house of Mr Menard, Jos. Dore's house and stable, Mr. F. Pellier's harness shop and dwelling and outbuildings, Jos. Gannault's dwelling, butcher shop and stables, Wilfrid Loiselle's house and outbuildings, Gilbert Emard's house partially damaged.

Alpena, Mich., Burning.

Bay City, Mich., July 12.—Despatches to The Tribune, say Alpena Mich., a lumber city, is burning up Oscoda with 1200 population, has been destroyed. Fire is raging at Cheboygan and three other towns are in danger. Several bridges also have been burned. Fire apparatus from this city has been sent to Alpena.

Metropolis Gives Sir Wilfrid a Rousing Reception—Big Flotilla Meets the Steamer

ADDRESSES PRESENTED

Montreal, July 12.—Both banks of the river were ablaze with light as the Government steamer Druid, bearing Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party, passed up the channel. Sir Wilfrid's admirers did not wait until the vessel docked at the wharf here before commencing the reception, but pressed every available tug and vessel into service and met the Druid miles below the city with a flotilla of boats gaily bedecked and illuminated. From dozens of points fireworks added brilliance to the scene. The dock at Victoria Pier was the climax in the way of illumination. A towering arch outlined in incandescents had been erected, and everywhere were banners and bunting. Huge streamers bearing mottoes, were stretched on high, the inscriptions being: "Welcome, Sir Wilfrid," "Nestor de la Conference," "Long live the Premier," etc.

On landing at Victoria Pier Sir Wilfrid was presented with an address of welcome by Acting Mayor Ganvin, to which Sir Wilfrid replied very briefly, expressing his pleasure at being once more in Montreal. The Premier, accompanied by his Cabinet Ministers and members of the City Council, then drove through densely packed streets to the Champ de Mars, where an address of welcome was given by Mr. L. Garneau, representing the Liberal Clubs of the city, to which Sir Wilfrid replied.

A reception was held on the terrace at the Place Viger Hotel, and the celebration ended with a grand illumination of Place Viger Square.

Replying to the address of the Liberal clubs, Sir Wilfrid spoke along similar lines to what he did on Monday night in Quebec. He acquitted Canadian manufacturers of the charge that they were at the bottom of the opposition to reciprocity. "They are sensible men, and would not be so foolish as to arouse opposition to that measure," said the Premier. He declared that the real source of the opposition to reciprocity was traceable to the Imperialistic jingoes of Canada and Great Britain. "These Imperialists and Nationalists both attack me from opposite sides. After the present fight is over, you will find them devouring one another, and the Imperialists will swallow the Nationalists."

May Louise Rogers, 7 months old, laughter of Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Helena B. Walcott, Washington, D.C., wife of C. D. Walcott.

—— Hartmann, 7 years old, son of Mrs. Louis Hartman, Newfield, N.J., who is in a serious condition at the hospital.

A. McMurty, New York, engineer of the train.

W. A. Ryan, New York, fireman.

When the Federal Express from Washington to Boston leaped from the embankment yesterday morning, a day coach next to the baggage car was caught at the bottom of the heap and smashed into matchwood, and not a person inside escaped death or serious injury. The heavier Pullmans, five of them, that crashed down after it, held together, and the sleeping passengers inside, although badly shaken, for the most part suffered no worse than broken bones and bruises.

With one or two exceptions, all those in the hospitals to-day were expected to recover. Several, however, are in a critical condition. Among them are Daniel Kissmer, head brakeman, whose home is in New York. His skull and several ribs are broken, and he has internal injuries. John F. Vonpfeiffer of Readville, Mass., and Mary McSweeny and Miss Loretta McCrohan of Philadelphia may not survive. Mrs. McCrohan received several broken ribs and internal injuries.

The wreck will be responsible for two more deaths if Mrs. Sarah Calabra of Philadelphia succumbs, for she is about to give birth to a child. Three of her children, aged from two to five years, are at the hospital with her, none of them badly hurt.

All the patients are covered with bruises and cuts, showing the manner in which they were thrown about their cars when the train rolled down the embankment.

In a private ward at St. Vincent's Hospital is W. A. King, a young machinist, who recently came to Bridgeport from Kansas City, and who went to Philadelphia Monday to meet Geo. H. Kirby, who was coming from Kansas City to get employment in a local factory. Although King shows hardly a scratch the accident drove him stark mad. He raved and shouted continuously for his "pal." "When they were dragging me out I saw two legs under the wreckage," he said in one of his lucid moments. "The trousers were the same King George wore."

Kirby has not been found here, although the wreck is burned except the Transcontinental Railway office, the T. & N. O. agent's house, Johnston's poolroom, the Imperial Bank, McKinnon's office, the T. & N. O. Railway's new passenger station and freight shed; all the rest being wiped out clean, including the Bank of Ottawa, a handsome brick block; T. J. McManus' store, the Rothschild's block, the Dempsey Hotel, King George Hotel, Pelnagio block, postoffice, Hudson Bay Co. store, Whan drug store, A. R. Springer's store and C. H. Lloyd's store. Only five buildings are left standing in this prosperous town of 2,050 inhabitants.

Cochrane inhabitants are without food, as nothing could be saved but the clothes on their backs. They are also without sleeping accommodation and are being housed in box cars, railway stations, Foley, Welsh & Stewart, contractors, offices, the railway round house and freight shed. Appeals have been sent for assistance to New Liskeard, Haileybury, Cobalt and North Bay, and the mayors of these towns called special meetings of councils last night to arrange succor.

All construction camps on Ontario Government's new Porcupine railway from Golden City west were swept out of existence, and the men had to run for their lives.

Kelso, which lost a number of buildings as the result of bush fires Sunday, is again threatened and in grave danger.

Hollinger mining plant is supposed to be all right, as it was fire-swept some time ago, and is now surrounded by large clearings and comparatively safe.

At times the wind velocity was 70 miles an hour. South from Cochrane the fire was apesmodic more or less along the entire line of railway, approaching North Bay as close as Widdifield, only fourteen miles away. Porcupine is cut off from the outside world, and the fire is still raging there

T. & N. O. train No. 2 ran off the track at mile post 152, which is about 12 miles south of Swastika. The train consisted of engine, tender, two baggage and two first-class cars. Heat is supposed to have spread the rails. The train was placed on the tracks again about 9 o'clock.

The loss of life to prospectors and settlers must be great, and will not be known for days, as the survivors will find great difficulty in getting out the trails being obliterated and country rosds destroyed.

Supt. Black and staff of the Ontario Government Railway will remain at their posts all night, arranging and sending relief trains to the stricken towns.

The North Bay Town Council will send $300 worth of provisions to Cochrane on the first train. Blankets, tents and other supplies are required and being collected to go forward on relief trains.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL
Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Fate of the Rich Man and Lazarus

Stumbling Stone Removed —Words of the Savior Explained and Made Clear.

Winnipeg, July 9th.—Pastor Russell delivered two addresses here to-day which will never be forgotten, even by those who did not commit themselves fully as endorsing his every utterance. We report one of his discourses from the text, "And in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off and Lazarus in his bosom" (Luke xvi, 23). Addressing the public under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association, the speaker said:—

I am not choosing my topic for this occasion according to my own preferences, nor do I wish to do so. Realising that a great cloud of superstition and erroneous interpretation of God's Word acts as an earth-born cloud to hide the heavenly Father from our eyes of faith, I am continually addressing myself to the removal of this barrier, to the intent that the light of the knowledge of the glory of God as it shines in the face of Jesus Christ our Lord may shine into the hearts of all of God's dear people more effulgently than heretofore; to the intent that, with the clouds removed, our eyes may behold the King in His beauty, and our hearts be drawn to Him as to a Father, as to a God of love, as to an Almighty Saviour.

Time and again as I have delivered an address setting forth the Divine Plan of the Ages from the Bible standpoint, I have been approached afterward by Christian brethren who said, "What you say, Pastor Russell, is cheering, is God-like, is just what our hearts are hungering for and crying for, but—but I cannot accept it because of the Lord's Word respecting the 'Rich Man and Lazarus,' and His description of their fates."

What I say to these privately never reaches the ears of others who have the same query and the same obstacle to meet, hence I take this as my topic on this occasion, not only for the benefit of this audience, but for the benefit of the larger audiences to whom I speak weekly through the columns of the press of this land and Great Britain and Australia — numbering millions. All need to have this stumbling stone removed from their pathway, and by God's grace we will remove it. He will remove it, using our stammering lips for the purpose.

It is not sufficient that I declare that in the Scripture under consideration the great Teacher was giving a parable. It is not sufficient that I quote, "Without a parable spake He not unto the people." Some dear, earnest children of God would object, saying, "It reads, there was a certain Rich Man, etc." I must, therefore, prove that it is a parable and not a literal statement by showing that, considering it as a literal statement, it would be untrue and absurd. After thus proving it to be a parable I will discuss it as such.

If it be a statement of literal facts then all the facts must be taken literally. This would mean that because a certain man was rich and fared bountifully every day and was clothed in purple and fine linen he would go to an eternity of torment, without a single charge being made against him along the lines of murder, or injustice or blasphemy, for in the account nothing of the kind appears. Furthermore, nothing is said of the poor man as being a godly man, a saint, but merely that he was poor, full of sores, which the dogs licked; and that he ate the offal from "The Rich Man's" table.

If those be the grounds and conditions upon which any of us have had hope for eternal bliss, surely a comparatively small number could claim it. Did we ever have such experiences? If not, what ground have we, according to this teaching, for a hope of reaching Abraham's bosom? And, additionally, if the statement is a literal one, Abraham and his bosom must be considered literal also, and if only two or three who were beggars like Lazarus were before us, what hope would we have for room in Abraham's bosom? But enough of this! We see clearly that the statement is parabolic and we must look for such an interpretation as will fit all conditions. And here it is!

Viewing the matter as a parable, our difficulties all disappear as soon as we get the key. The great Teacher in this parable was criticising the leaders of the Jewish nation and foretelling their fate. He Himself was an outcast, so were His disciples and so have all been since who have become His followers. As He was so are we in this world."

"The Rich Man" of the parable represented the Jewish nation. The fine linen he wore represented the typical justification granted to that nation under the Law Covenant made with Israel at Mt. Sinai. "The Rich Man's" purple raiment pictured the royalty which belonged to Israel as God's typical kingdom in the world. Thus we read, "Solomon sat upon the throne of the kingdom of the Lord, in the room (or stead) of his father David." Jesus recognized this kingdom dignity as still belonging to that nation when He said, "The kingdom shall be taken from you and shall be given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof" (Matthew xxi, 43).

The Rich Man's bountiful table represented the glorious promises of God which were theirs primarily, and granted to no other people until after they had rejected Jesus and crucified Him. St. Paul refers to this table in this way and quotes David the Prophet saying, "Let their table become a trap and a snare and a recompense to them." This was because they did not rightly appreciate their glorious promises and live up to the conditions which they required. The death of The Rich Man represented the cutting off of national Israel from all those special privileges and advantages every way which had been theirs for centuries. "The Rich Man" (the Jewish nation) began to sicken from the time of the crucifixion—from the time that Jesus said, "Your house is left unto you desolate; henceforth ye shall see Me no more until that day when ye shall say, Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

The saintly few were gathered out of Judaism into relationship with Christ at Pentecost, and "The Rich Man," the nation, continued to be sick and finally died in the year A.D. 70, when Titus, the Roman general, captured Jerusalem, the entire land of Palestine being laid waste.

The Jewish nation has been a dead nation since the year A. D. 70. It is in hades, in the tomb. But this implies its resurrection in due time, for the figure of the tomb, hades, does not represent a perpetual condition, but a temporary one, from which Messiah will grant a release, and hades, in every sense of the word, will be destroyed.

But the parable declares that Dives was in torment! How could this be, seeing that the word hades signifies the death state, the unconscious condition? We answer that the Jewish people have a double aspect, in the parable and out of it. Nationally, they are dead or asleep, but as a people they are very much alive—no other people more so. It is as a people that they have been suffering the tortures of persecution during the past eighteen centuries, while as a nation they have been dead, buried, in hades, and are awaiting a resurrection, of which the present Zionism is an advance token. Soon Israel's persecutions will end, when Messiah's glorious Kingdom shall take its power; and then will come their national resurrection, for they are to be actively and specially identified with the Messianic Kingdom shortly, as its earthly and visible representatives.

As the two tribes of Judah and Benjamin were represented in "The Rich Man" in a very special sense, the other ten tribes, scattered amongst the surrounding nations, would, at a like proportion, represent his five brethren. God's dealings with the Jews will be the same wherever they are—no preference will be shown — "They have Moses and the Prophets, let them hear them." This could not be applicable to any except these two tribes and the other ten tribes of Israel, for they alone had Moses and the Prophets.

All scholars will concede that the Greed word hades and the Hebrew word sheol, rendered hell in our common version, really signify the death state, the tomb. Various Scriptures tell us of the silence of sheol and hades and that there is neither wisdom nor knowledge nor device there; that the dead know not anything. Scholars, therefore, have been perplexed greatly at the statement of this parable that The Rich Man lifted up his eyes in hades, being in torments.

The difficulty dissolves as soon as we have the proper interpretation to the parable and see that the Jewish people died as a nation and were buried as a nation, but did not all die individually. The people of Israel, outcast from their own land among all the nations of earth, are very much alive, socially and personally, having suffered for all these centuries.

Only very recently we have had an exhibition of how this Rich Man (Israel), dead as a nation, but alive as a people, has appealed to Father Abraham to have Lazarus cool his tongue with a drop of water. Of course, the thought would not be that a spirit finger would take a drop of literal water to cool a literal tongue. A drop of water on the tip of a finger would not afford much relief anyway.

The interpretation must be looked for along the lines of the parable. The fulfillment came when the Jews of this country in a general petition requested the President of the United States to co-operate with other "Christian nations" and intercede on behalf of their people in Russia that they might have more liberty and less persecution, that their torments might be cooled.

If we have found The Rich Man, let us now seek for poor Lazarus. He represented a God-fearing and God-seeking class outside the pale of official Judaism—not all the Gentiles, but certain ones concerning whom Jesus said, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel!"

The Jews were in the habit of speaking of the Gentiles as "dogs." The great Teacher Himself used this expression (Mark vii, 25-30). Lazarus had no fine linen garment granted to him because he was outside the pale of Israel, for whom alone the typical sacrifices were offered. Lazarus had no purple robe for the same reason—because the kingdom of blessing, for the time, belonged exclusively to the seed of Abraham. The dogs (other Gentiles) licked his sores, in the sense of considering the Lazarus class upright and godly and in some sense showing sympathy for them. His eating of the crumbs that fell from the children's table signifies that Jesus did, on a few occasions, allow some special blessings of healing, which were for the Jews, to go to this worthy class of Gentiles.

For instance, the daughter of Jairus, raised from death, was a crumb from the children's table to one noble-minded Gentile who feared God and who had built a synagogue for the Jews. The healing of the centurion's servant was another crumb from "The Rich Man's" table to one of the Lazarus class. Healing the daughter of the Syro-Phenician woman was another crumb from "The Rich Man's" table to a member of the Lazarus class. In answer to her request Jesus answered, "It is not proper to take the children's bread and give it to dogs"—Gentiles. Accepting the suggestion the woman replied, "Yea, Lord, yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from the children's table." Her faith in God marked her as one of the Lazarus class, outside "The Rich Man's" household. She was a companion of dogs (Gentiles), and for the time could merely have a crumb from "The Rich Man's table."

As the death of "The Rich Man" represented a change in his affairs, so the death of the Lazarus class indicated a change in the affairs of the outcast class. But, instead of being buried, they were carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom—not to heaven, not to purgatory, not to some intermediate state. As Abraham in the parable represents God, the receiving of the faithful of the Lazarus class into the bosom of Abraham figuratively represents the acceptance of this class as the true children of Abraham—true children of God. As Jesus went outside "the camp" bearing the reproach of His nation, before He died, so did all of His followers who belonged to that nation. They were all recognized as outcasts with the Gentiles; these the Lord received as His children by the begetting of the Holy Spirit. And so St. Paul tells us that we who were by nature Gentiles were not of the stock of Israel. But, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed (children), and heirs according to the promise"—joint-heirs with Christ, members of the great Messiah (Galatians iii, 29).

Here, dear friends, we have a consistent interpretation of this parable, and it relieves our minds greatly. It assists also in illustrating to us the special relationship of the Jews under the Law Covenant and how this special relationship was lost by reason of their unbelief and how their unbelief alienated them from the Divine favor of this Gospel Age and constituted a deep and wide gulf between them and the spiritual Israel class represented in Lazarus in Abraham's bosom.

We thank God that the promise of the Scriptures is that with the end of this Gospel Age this gulf of unbelief and consequent separation from Divine favor will be done away and Israel will be delivered from the torments of these centuries and experience a national resuscitation or resurrection under the glorious privilege, favors and advantages of the New Covenant.

Since God's favors are thus marked out for the heavenly and the earthly Seeds of Abraham — the earthly through the heavenly—it follows that the blessing of the other nations will come about through their affiliation with these. In other words, we may understand that the Divine Government established in Israel in the hands of the Ancient Worthies will be the centre of Divine favor, and the people of other nationalities must come to this centre for their supplies of truth and grace. Thus the Prophet represents the matter, saying, "Many nations shall go and say, Come and let us go up to the mountain (kingdom) of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths; for the Law shall go forth from Mount Zion (the spiritual Kingdom) and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem (the centre of the earthly Kingdom)" (Micah iv, 2).

As thus all nations, peoples, kindreds and tongues shall be brought gradually to an appreciation of the Divine Plan, they shall all be blessed with Restitution privileges and opportunities and with an enlightenment from the rays of the Sun of Righteousness, which then through the appointed channels will be flowing all the earth. Thus will the original Covenant have its amplified fulfilment; first, in The Christ, the spiritual Israel; secondly, under the New Covenant with Israel after the flesh; and through these bless all the families of the earth, so that all the willing and obedient may gradually attain to the standards of the children of God and be possessed of the "liberties of the sons of God"—freedom from sin, sorrow, pain and death. As the Old Law Covenant was with Israel only, so the New (Law) Covenant will be with Israel only. Other nations will share it by becoming Israelites, "Proselytes of the gate," not under the Old but under the New Covenant (Ezekiel vi, 60, 61). "He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear."

A Little Risky.

Suppose your wife—it is a wild supposition, of course, but let us just imagine it for once—set up her own judgment against yours in some vital matter. Try this way out of the difficulty. Say to her:

"My dear, you know that my judgment is above criticism, for I had the inspired wisdom to select you from among the many, but you, on the other hand, cannot place absolute reliance upon your judgment if, after accepting me, you find yourself wavering as to your confidence in my ability to direct our ways."

You will readily see that a wife in wisdom cannot protest against such a diplomatic assertion of domestic leadership.

The "Peacemaker."

This was the title earned by the Earl of Selborne on account of the splendid work which he did while High Commissioner in South Africa from 1905 to 1910. He is an ardent sportsman, as well as a clever administrator, a fact that recalls a joke which he made at the expense of a Frenchman who went out partridge-shooting with his lordship's party one day. The Frenchman was a very poor shot, and on the second day someone at breakfast said to Lord Selborne, "What shall we shoot to-day?" "The Frenchman," he replied gravely, "for if we don't shoot him, it is a thousand to one he will bag us before lunch."

When Coffee Was Unpopular.

Coffee was introduced into England in 1652 and within the next ten years became the fashionable drink of London. A few years later, however, in 1663, there was a great uprising against the "oriental beverage of hades." It was satirized on every hand, the bitterest invectives coming from the pulpit. One leading minister characterized it as "the sirup of soot mixed with the essence of old shoes," and another declared that it was "a poison which God had made black that it might bear the devil's own color." The bitter crusade soon wore itself out, and by the time of Charles II. coffee houses were known in every village in the land.

Carlyle and His Pipe.

Carlyle smoked often and complained much of dyspepsia. A friend once ventured to suggest that his smoking might perhaps injure and depress him. "Yes," Carlyle said, "and the doctors told me the same thing. I left off smoking and was very meeserable, so I took to it again and was very meeserable still, but I thought it better to smoke and be meeserable than to go without."

"Look here," exclaimed young Mr. Cutter Tarter in desperation, "is this or is it not a wedding tour?"

"Why, of course," snapped young Mrs. C. T. "It's our wedding tour. What on earth did you think it was?"

"Well, I'm beginning to think it's a lecture tour. Now, cut it out, see?"—Toledo Blade.

Eczema Worse in the Spring

The Blood is Watery—Difficult to Get the Healing Process Started.

But Whatever the Cause You Can Relieve the Itching and Heal the Sores With

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Salt rheum and eczema are usually worse at this time of year because of the sudden change of temperature and the watery condition of the blood.

It is not necessary to refer to the suffering caused from the intense itching nor to the tendency of these ailments. The essential point is how to bring about cure, and if you have been reading the cures reported from time to time in this paper you will already know that there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis and every form of itching skin diseases.

This ointment stops the itching almost as soon as applied, lessens the discharge from the vesicles or blisters, cleans out the morbid growth and stimulates the process of healing.

Because other treatments have failed, you may feel discouraged. But in Dr. Chase's Ointment there is a cure for you. We know this because of the reports we have received from so many thousands of cases.

For instance, there is the cure of Mrs. Nettie Massey, of Consecon, Ont., who had psoriasis or chronic eczema so bad that almost the whole body was covered with sores, and three doctors failed to cure her. One doctor said she could never be cured. Write to Mrs. Massey about her case.

A Doctor's Story

How a Trained Nurse Dominated One of His Patients

By EDWIN T. MARTIN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Is that you, doctor?"

"Yes. What is it?"

"My nurse is killing me."

"Who are you?"

There was a click, followed by silence. I waited for some time, but, getting no response, hung up the receiver, turned over and tried to go to sleep. The effort was unsuccessful. I recommended the trained nurses for all my patients and felt responsible for them. And if there had been no responsibility whatever the fact that a nurse was killing any one and I had been called on to prevent the murder was quite enough to keep me awake.

The next morning it occurred to me that the woman who had called me must have been interrupted at the telephone. Whoever interrupted her very likely heard her message to me. If she was delirious I would either have been called up by the person who had stopped her and the matter explained or the fact would be mentioned to me during the day while I was making my round of visits. I started out after my morning office hour had expired expecting a solution of the mystery.

I called upon every one of my patients that day who was ill enough to have a trained nurse. There was not one of the women, so far as I could discover, who was not perfectly satisfied with her nurse. There was not one who was delirious or had been delirious during the night. After having made the last call on my list I tried to think of some one I might have omitted. But this was but a momentary thought, for it was impossible, even if I had made no memoranda, that I should have forgotten any seriously sick person I was treating.

I went to bed that night troubled. There was a mystery that I did not like. I regarded it as possible that a nurse might so dominate a sick person, especially a woman, that the invalid would not dare to complain of her to the attendant physician. I had once been treating a woman who when I sent the nurse out of the room for something said to me in a hurried whisper, "Doctor, if you don't take that nurse away from me I shall die." I dismissed the nurse and never forgot the episode. Indeed, it taught me that it might be possible for a patient to suffer under a nurse's care or want of care or dominating will power and not be accorded an opportunity to inform the doctor without the nurse being aware of the complaint.

When making professional visits I keep in constant touch with my office by telephone and the next day was called up by my assistant, who said:

"A very singular message came about half an hour ago. A woman telephoned: 'Doctor, oh, doctor, do get rid of this nurse! She is'— The message was cut off at that point, and I heard nothing more."

With this second call for help I began to be worried and puzzled beyond measure. I could not believe that any one of my patients could be out of her head without my being informed of the fact. The nurse was likely to be aware of it and would surely report the matter to me. There was the uncomfortable alternative that some nurse was obnoxious to the invalid of whom she was in charge and the patient had telephoned me and been stopped by the nurse. There was another horrible view of the case—that a mysterious, slow murder was being practiced on one of my patients, who was trying to communicate with me and was stopped by the murderess.

The next day I started on my round of visits determined to note every case of an invalid woman with a view to determining her relations with her nurse. Though I was a young practitioner, I had fallen into a large practice and had a long list. I soon learned that with the multiplicity of responsibilities resting upon me it would not be a difficult matter for a nurse to keep a patient from communicating with me if the former were disposed to do so. It was impossible for me to attend to my patients and make an investigation at every house I called.

As soon as I had finished my day's calls I telephoned to a detective agency to send me a young and well dressed man who would pass for a physician. A Mr. Jernegan called on me during the evening. I told him of my mysterious calls and asked him to make my round of visits with me the next day in the guise of my assistant with a view to discovering which one of my patients was not en rapport with her nurse. He was a genteel looking young man and listened to all I said without comment. The next morning he reported, a beard he had worn shaved off with the exception of a pair of mutton chop whiskers, a pair of glasses on his nose and a hand bag for surgical instruments. We doctors have a peculiarly unmistakable walk when we carry our satchels, and as Jernegan preceded me down to my automobile I noticed that he had got it to perfection. Indeed, I think he looked more like a medical man than I.

I took Jernegan into every house where there was a woman patient sick enough to require a trained nurse introducing him in some cases as my assistant, in others as a consulting practitioner or specialist whose views I desired to obtain. While driving from one house to the next I intended to visit I gave him a hint as to what I should require of him, that he might be prepared to speak with an apparent show of knowledge of the subject, especially when there was a nurse who had some knowledge of it herself. Though some of my cases were causes of anxiety to me, I could not but be amused at the serious, thoughtful manner he entered upon each case I asked him to consider. He even knew enough of a consulting physician's relations with the doctor who calls him into the case to defer to the other's judgment while giving an opinion. And I was surprised at how adroitly he concealed the fact that he didn't know what he was talking about.

We entered one house where the nurse, Mrs. Webster, a woman rather older than the average, was a very motherly person and evidently devoted to her charge, Miss Edwards, down with typhoid fever. Or, rather, the patient was in that weak state which follows immediately after the disease. Jernegan put on more professional importance than usual, reminding me of certain doctors I have known who conceal their want of knowledge of a case under an appearance of great wisdom. Presently he said to me:

"Please excuse me, doctor; there are certain features of the case that I should like to inquire about from the nurse." Then, turning to her, he added, "Mrs. Webster, I desire to confer with you in another room."

I glanced at the nurse, and her expression spoke volumes. She could not refuse to go with him, yet her face told me that she dreaded to do so. She looked a sort of appeal to me, as though to communicate without speaking that there was a reason why she should not leave the patient. But Jernegan's face indicated that the interview in another room must take place, and the woman led him out. He shut the door behind them and left me with the patient.

The moment we were alone together an agonized expression came over the invalid's face.

"Have you called me by telephone?" I asked.

"Twice."

"Tell me in a few words what is the trouble."

"She's trying to poison me."

The expression on her face was so full of horror that I stopped here. I went to the telephone and called for another nurse, then took to the patient, told her what I had done and that I would remain until the arrival of the substitute. This done, I went about the room collecting what medicines I could find.

Meanwhile Jernegan remained in the other room with the nurse. In ten minutes the one I had called for arrived, and, placing my patient under her care, I went to the room where Jernegan and Mrs. Webster were. Jernegan was looking at a book, Mrs. Webster was standing looking out of a window. She appeared very much troubled.

"There's your quarry," said Jernegan, for the first time dropping all assumption of being a doctor.

"I know it," I replied. "The patient has told me all. Mrs. Webster, will you please come downstairs?"

We all went to the floor below where we would not disturb the patient with a scene, and I told Mrs Webster to prepare to leave the house. She said she must go to the patient's room, but I did not permit this, of course.

I did not like simply to turn the woman off because I suspected she had some malign intention toward her patient, and I did not like to have her arrested, for I hardly knew what to charge her with. Notwithstanding the invalid's condition, I went to her, leaving Mrs. Webster in charge of Jernegan, and asked her if she felt strong enough to tell me what had occurred between her and her nurse. Miss Edwards told me that she had seen Mrs Webster on one occasion dropping a powder in some fluid medicine before giving it. After that Miss Edwards held in her mouth all the medicine given her till her nurse's back was turned, then got rid of it.

A sick person is so liable to see what does not actually occur that I would not act upon this information without the discovery of some poison on the premises. This could not be done without an analysis, and I felt obliged to discharge Mrs. Webster, though I told Jernegan to have her shadowed for a few days. None of the drugs found turned out to be poison. This did not prove that the nurse did not have some poison which we could not find. I could get nothing very satisfactory out of the patient and was forced to believe that her fears were the result of her physical condition. I therefore paid no further attention to the matter so far as concerned the nurse.

After Miss Edwards' recovery, taking up a newspaper one day, I noticed that Mrs. Webster had been arrested for attempting to poison Miss Edwards while the latter was ill and under her care. It was charged that the nurse's name was not Webster, but Coates; that she was a distant relative of her patient. Miss Edwards had fallen heir to a large estate, and Mrs. Coates was next of kin and in case of Miss Edwards' death would inherit the property. It was charged that the nurse had purposely secured the case to get rid of her patient.

The case was tried, and everything I had seen stated in the newspaper was proved except the poisoning. I think it probable that it was the nurse's intention to get her charge out of the way either by poison or malicious domination. But since no poison was found the nurse was acquitted.

THE TERRORS OF THE TINY TADS

1—It's very nice and cool and dark, beneath the forest's shade.
The Tiny Tad is going out—he's got a bit afraid.

2—But what's the matter with him now? Why is he running so?
And listen to that awful noise! What is it? Do you know?

3—It is this naughty Turkey-ring. Won't someone make him stop?
His gobbling is unbearable. Oh, see him skip and hop!

4—The Tiny Tad? Where has he gone? Oh, look; I guess he's here!
Also a big Sparrowvercoat is after him I fear!

HOLYROOD PALACE.

Historic Castle Has Been the Scene of Stirring Episodes.

Few regal edifices have undergone more vicissitudes than Holyrood Palace, which is now being subjected to several alterations and improvements to fit it for the occupation of King George and Queen Mary when they stay there in July. It occupies the site of Holyrood Abbey, founded in 1128 by King David I., on the spot where he was supposed to have been saved from an infuriated stag. The legend goes that the King was hunting in the forest of Drumsiech, in the immediate vicinity of Edinburgh, and was assailed by an enraged stag, which unhorsed him, and probably would have put a very speedy end to his existence had not this Scottish monarch, like the first Christian Emperor, been favored of the saints.

As a reward for his piety, and in consideration of his great liberality to churchmen, a cross descended from Heaven in the moment of his danger, with which he stoutly attacked the beast. The latter, finding itself overcome, quickly made its way out of the woods, and left the King and the cross masters of the situation. Thus to prove his gratitude to the saints who had interceded in his behalf, he founded the Abbey of Holyrood for the canons regular of St. Augustine.

The canons were allowed many privileges, and succeeding monarchs added to the gifts of the founder, Holyrood Abbey becoming the most opulent of all religious institutions in Scotland. In due time a royal residence was erected close to it, although it is doubtful how soon it became the permanent home of the Kings of Scotland. Certain it is, however, that James IV. lived there. It was during his residence, on account of Mass having been celebrated in the chapel, that a revolutionary mob broke in and despoiled all the religious ornaments, leaving only the bare walls. The rioters even profaned the vault which had been used as the royal sepulchre, broke open the leaden coffins, and carried away the lids, but as the royal bones were not negotiable articles, the anti-Papists were forced to leave them behind.

But worse misfortunes were still to come, and they came with Queen Mary. Her Majesty's misfortunes commenced at a very early period. The first Sunday after her arrival a mob beset the palace for the purpose of instructing her in the proper way of worshipping God. To such a pitch of enthusiasm had the spirit of these religious instructors risen that it was only with difficulty they were restrained from hanging the priest who at that moment was officiating in the chapel. Mary locked herself in her apartment with her Mass book and her father-confessor, while tumultuous zealots assailed the gates and pronounced themselves certain Her Majesty was making for eternal perdition, and must soon be utterly lost unless she listened to John Knox and abjured beads and images.

Then came the historic night of March 9th, 1566. As Mary and a small party were having supper, Darnley and Ruthven, followed by other conspirators, entered for the purpose of seizing David Rizzio, the accomplished Italian secretary and skilful musician, who had gained the Queen's confidence and roused the jealousy of the Presbyterian lords and ministers of the Kirk. Anticipating their purpose, Rizzio threw himself behind the Queen and clung to her dress; but was stabbed by George Douglas, leaning over Mary's shoulders. During this exciting scene the Queen's husband held her fast in his arms, while another of the conspirators held a pistol at her breast. The room in which the fatal supper-party took place is still in existence.

Queen Mary's Daily Life.

According to a letter published in The Yorkshire Post, and written by a lady holding a high position at court, the Queen at 9.30 a.m., begins the day's work by going through her large correspondence (which she has previously opened) with two secretaries. Then some interviews with the governess, nurse, housekeeper, and the heads of departments in the palace. Then appointments with furniture makers and various trades-people till 1.30. In the afternoon Her Majesty visits an hospital or some charitable institution, or a picture gallery, or visits some other interesting places in or near London, such as the City churches, the halls of the various City companies, etc. After tea the Queen again summons her secretaries for more correspondence, and gives one or two interviews. After dinner she reads till 10.30, and then retires to rest. In the country, expeditions to historical or other interesting places in the neighborhood with some of her children are arranged, or some local charities or institutions are visited.

THE KING AS A LADY.

When King George Lost the Handkerchief That Classified Him.

From the "fixtures" that have been made already it becomes more and more apparent that this is going to be a "dancing season," as King George and Queen Mary themselves are very fond of dancing.

King George in the lancers recalls a very merry dance when His Majesty was Duke of York. It was at Malta, and a dance was organised, literally on the spur of the moment, on board one of the ships. The duke was always willing to join in anything that promised a bit of fun, so in "record time" a ball room was rigged up on the quarterdeck. It was agreed, since there was not a girl in the whole party, that those who were to take the ladies' parts should wear white handkerchiefs on their left sleeves.

Presently a "lady" approached the present King, and with what was meant to be a demure simper asked for the pleasure of a dance.

"Go away, you juggins," was the royal retort; "I'm a 'lady' myself, but I've lost my blessed handkerchief. Have a cigar!"

Another amusing story, in which Queen Mary figured, is recalled. It was at a state ball at Buckingham Palace a few years ago. The late Prince Francis of Teck, the Queen's brother, went up to a scion of a noble house, and, remarking that he was not dancing, asked if he could find him a few partners.

"No, thanks, old chap," was the reply, as the man stifled a yawn; "dancing is such a bore, I think I will rest a little longer."

Presently the man in question—he is now a full-fledged peer—ventured to approach the present Queen, and request the honor of a dance. Her brother "Frank," however, had been before him.

"Thank you," was the reply of the Queen, with a cool glance at him, "but dancing is such a bore, is it not?"

His lordship went home.

FAMOUS RETORTS.

Witty Remarks That Have Been Repeated Time and Again.

It was Steal who said of a certain noble lady—"To love her is a liberal education." It is common to apply this to sundry wrong ladies; but the real subject was, I believe, Lady Elizabeth Hastings; and I also believe that the vulgate—"to know her," instead of "to love her," is erroneous.

It was Sir George Cornwall Lewis who said that life would be very bearable but for its pleasures.

It was Bentham who said—"Boards are screens"—and he never said a truer word—because what the Board does is the act of nobody, and anybody can be made to answer for it. Therefore, he argued, Boards are not a fit instrument for executive business.

It was Sheridan who, in reply to a speech by Dundas, said — "The right honorable gentleman is indebted to his memory for his jokes, and to his imagination for his facts;" and who once alluded to "that easy writing which makes such uncommonly difficult reading."

It was Thomas Campbell—not Byron—who employed the caustic expression as to Barabbas having been a publisher.

The sarcastic statement to the effect that the British shot Admiral Byng "pour encourager les autres" is, I think, frequently ascribed to Napoleon. The latter may have said it; but I think it was first said by Voltaire in the twenty-third chapter of "Candide."

It was Emile Ollivier who, on the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, told Napoleon III. that he entered on that contest "with a light heart."

The phrase "to end a thing, or mend it, as used by Gladstone in refer-more to the money or purse; and has since that time been generally accredited to him as his own idea. But this is a mistake. It occurs in "The Heart of Midlothian," chapter 4; and again in "The Monastery," chapter 19; and most probably it is pretty nearly as old as the hills; and when all's said and done, there is nothing very wonderful about it.

There is a good saying ascribed to Mrs. Grote. That lady knew Louis Napoleon during his first exile in England; and she loved him not, nor was her love of him increased by his famous "coup d'etat" in 1852, and she always confidently predicted his speedy fall. Shortly after he became Emperor she was presented to him at Paris. He, probably knowing her sentiments towards himself, received her coldly, and asked her whether she was likely to make a long stay in Paris. She had her revenge, for she replied—"No, sire, not long!"

Some sayings, though correctly fathered, have a way of getting applied to wrong subjects. Thus the phrase—"He could be silent in seven languages." This is commonly, but erroneously, said of Von Moltke, in allusion to his command of languages and of his own tongue. But in point of fact it was originally said of Immanuel Bekker, the philologist, who, in addition to his own extraordinary linguistic attainments, was peculiarly taciturn and reserved.

On the premature enumeration of expected poultry—called by common people, "counting your chickens before they're hatched"—there are sundry quaint sayings. Thus in "St. Ronan Well;" chapter 30, when Captain Jekyl says to old Touchwood that his memory has let slip Mr. Touchwood's name, the testy old nabob replies—"My name! Why your memory must have been like Pat Murtough's greyhound, that let the hare go before he caught it."

"Finally, there is the famous piece of advice to a lady whose ideas on the subject of matrimonial proposals were inclined to be somewhat prolepic and sanguine—

"Don't you act like Nancy Baxter,

—From "Pebbles and Prabbles," by the late Major-Gen. F. Maxwell, LL.D.

Oldest Baptist Minister.

Rev. Evan Edwards, of Torquay, is now, it is stated, the oldest Baptist minister in the world, having been born in the year of Waterloo, and at 96 he is still hale and strong, both physically and mentally.

Until quite recently he often occupier the pulpit, and is rarely absent from morning service at his old church. He began his ministry in 1838 at Beckington, in Somerset, and is, perhaps, the only man living who knew personally the three great evangelists of Wales—Christmas Evans, John Elias, and Williams of Wern. Robert Hall he never met, but John Foster, the essayist, was one of his hearers when, as a young man he preached in Robert Hall's pulpit at Broadmead, Bristol.

Manuel Plays Golf.

King Manuel of Portugal, who now, it will be remembered, lives at Richmond, has developed a great liking for golf, and plays on the Mid-Surrey Club links. He also goes in for rowing. He is extremely nice to all with whom he is brought into contact, so it is said, and is very popular.

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 1st, 1910.

"I am well acquainted with a man, known to thousands in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, who for nearly a year was practically a cripple from Rheumatism. He was so troubled with the disease that he found it difficult to even turn over in bed. His heart appeared so weak that he could hardly walk up stairs.

Last June, he received a sample of "Fruit-a-tives". He used them and dates his recovery from that time. To-day, there is no man in Vancouver enjoying better health.

He was building a house this fall and shingled a good part of the roof in a driving rain, without suffering any bad effects". JOHN B. LACY.

Mr. E. E. Mills, (assistant postmaster at Knowlton, Que.,) also writes:

"I honestly believe that "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest Rheumatism cure in the world". Try it yourself.

SUCKERS TAKEN IN.

Niagara Falls Pool-room Has Been Fleecing Betters.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—In a poolroom at Lewiston, frequented by many Toronto men since its opening a month ago, William Burnham of Williamsport, Pa., a business man, was yesterday trimmed for $600, according to the police on the American side. The operators of the poolroom are said to have runners in Toronto as well as the American cities. Many suckers are said to be brought from Toronto to be bunconed.

According to Burnham's story, he was approached by a stranger in Prospect Park on Monday and told of easy winnings on the ponies. When the stranger offered to take him to the poolroom he swallowed the bait and was willing. Several other suckers have been trimmed at the same time.

The poolroom is in the basement of a building near the landing of the Toronto steamers, and many men coming from Toronto never get nearer the Falls than the spacious room where the betting is done. Some fat rolls of Canadian bills have been left in the hands of the operators, who are said to come from Buffalo, Toronto and Hamilton. No arrests have been made as yet.

RESISTED ARREST.

And Montreal Recorder Deals Severely With Rowdies.

Montreal, July 12.—"I will protect the police when they are assaulted while in the performance of their duty. I shall be very severe with any such cases that are brought before me in the future," said Mr. Recorder Dupuis in the Police Court yesterday.

These remarks were caused by an epidemic of assaults upon the police Monday night. Adelard Lesperance was charged with being drunk on St. Lawrence street at 2 p.m. Constable Lavoie claimed that Lesperance accosted him and asked him to have a drink. When the constable refused Lesperance began to abuse and fought with great vigor the constable's effort to take him to the station; $10 or one month.

Hermenegilde Arpin, drunk and disorderly on Montcalm street, put up such a beautiful scrap that Constable Berthiaume had to secure the help of outsiders to take him along; $20 or two months.

Z Boisvert's fight was a little tamer and $5 or 15 days was considered enough for his rather poor exhibition. Contsable Pilon had no trouble in subduing him.

Sir Joseph Ward's Imperialism.

London, July 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Interviewed before leaving for New Zealand yesterday, Sir Joseph Ward said he had the strongest feeling that the future of the old world and the newer portions were tending in the direction of closer and more practical unity. "I am anxious to see," he said, "closer association of Great Britain and the Dominions with a view to the preservation of the scattered Empire as one in reality. The fact of oceans dividing us does not diminish the necessity of our coming together. I am very proud to recognise that this sentiment is growing both at home and abroad."

Rurales Fought Maderists.

Puebla, Mexico, July 12.—Four rurales and two Maderists were killed and twenty-four other persons wounded at Tienda de Raya, near Metepec, on Saturday, when forty-five rurales stood off 1,000 Maderists.

The engagement resulted from a misunderstanding of the motives of the Maderists as they approached the town.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Altho the government report received a bullish construction here, most traders took the view here that the effect had been discounted before hand. The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ⅝d higher on corn. Berlin closed ⅝c higher on wheat, Buda Pest ⅝c higher.

MONTREAL, July 11.—There continues to be a steady demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and as the prices bid for the lower grades and samples wheat are in line a fair amount of business is passing, but the prices bid for the higher grades are still out of line with values here. There was also an increased demand for spring wheat flour for export account, and sales of several thousand sacks were made at an advance in prices. The local trade is fair.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 11.—The railways reported 68 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 877 cattle, 1221 hogs, 749 sheep and lambs and 92 calves.

The quality of cattle was medium to good as a rule, with a considerable percentage of grassers.

Trade was slow, with prices steady at Monday's decline, with the exception of one or two loads of butcher cattle that were reported at $5.85 per cwt., which was about 10c better than on Monday.

Prices for sheep, lambs and calves were unchanged.

Monday a test trip of four ordinary barrels filled with water was made, all of which were successful in following the current, and came over the cataract without being damaged, and are now on exhibition.

Wanted Sun Put Out.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—When the mercury was nearly at the top of the glass yesterday the firemen were called out by an alarm from Box 21. When they arrived on the scene, five-year-old Harry Simms explained that he wanted them to put out the fire in the sun, so that his baby brother could sleep.

The motions was lost on objection by Senator Cummins.

If you have a heating problem to solve, Get this Booklet
IT TELLS ABOUT THE SANE HEATING OF HOMES

"Comfort & Health" tells about a heating system.

It goes into the question of healthful heating and shows how important a part the furnace plays in the health of your family.

It explains the principle of warm air heating; how the furnace draws in fresh air, warms it and circulates it moist and pure to every room in the house.

Then it tells about the perfect warm air furnace—the "Hecla." The furnace that cannot leak gas. The furnace that gives heat without dust. The furnace that is easy to run, and what is more important, how that furnace—The "Hecla"—saves you one ton of coal in seven.

"Hecla" Furnace

Cannot Leak Gas
Gas in the house is disagreeable. Often it proves dangerous to the health. The "Hecla" is so constructed that gas cannot get into the living rooms. The places where gas leaks occur in the ordinary furnace are fused in the "Hecla" so that gas cannot possibly find an outlet.

Saves 1 Ton in 7
The "Hecla" uses only six tons of coal where others use seven. It is the steel ribbed fire pot that makes this saving. How flanges are of steel plate placed close together and welded into the fire pot get more heat from your coal is told in "Comfort & Health."

BARN WAS BURNED

Mr. Purdue a Heavy Loser as a Result of Yesterday's Severe Electrical Storm—Much Damage Was Done

SOME INCIDENTS

The storm which passed over this section yesterday at noon did considerable damage in different parts of the country, and probably was felt worse further north, where it is reported, several barns were burned and other such damage done. Mr. Michael Purdue, who resides on the 3rd concession and 2nd lot of Ennismore, had the misfortune to have his large barn, containing the season's hay and a quantity of wheat burned. The damage is in the neighbourhood of $2,500, the building and contents being totally destroyed. The lightning struck the building about 12 o'clock and seemed to set it on fire all over at once. Mr. Purdue had a hard time trying to save his horses, which were in the barn, but was successful in doing so. There was a very heavy rain, and a quantity of hail fell. A number of farm implements were also destroyed.

Among other incidents and damage done by the storm, the chimney was blown off the schoolhouse on the Communication Road, and a number of trees were blown down.

A valuable cow belonging to Mr. Fred Cann on the second line of Smith, was struck and killed by lightning, during yesterday's storm.

A bolt struck a wire which was fixed to a stove funnel in the Montgomery hotel, Mrs. Montgomery, who was sitting near the stove, received a shock which momentarily numbed her arm.

During the storm a bolt struck the roof of the transformer Department of the C.G.E., knocking a hole in it. Several other bolts flashed in on the wires, some of them shooting across the inside of the building, but there was little damage done.

FACTS ABOUT LOCOMOTIVES

The selling price of a modern up-to-date locomotive is in the neighbourhood of $20,000. Audits of the Canadian Locomotive Company's books show that they have earned at the rate of a little over $300,000 per year. With their capacity doubled they should make it $600,000 yer pear.

The manufacture of locomotives is a profitable enterprise in that amongst other considerations there are no book debts. The railroads pay for their locomotives in instalments every thirty days on progress certificates, so that a locomotive manufacturing concern receives cash for its output as the manufacturing proceeds and obviates the necessity of keeping large stocks of raw material on hand. They order simply as requirements arise. The elimination of book debts enables the locomotive companies to obtain a much larger profit than if they were compelled to wait many months for their money.

FIRE UTTERLY DESTROYS TWO TOWNS IN MICHIGAN NO RELIEF IN NORTH

Bush Fires Raging From Kelso to Cochrane and Latter Has Been Practically Wiped Out---Practically All the People Are Homeless---Many Michigan Families Are Missing

Special Wire to The Examiner.

COBALT, ONT., JULY 12.—No rain fell during the night, and bush fires are still raging from Kelso to Cochrane, the latter being wiped out, with the exception of two or three buildings. Practically all the people are homeless, but a relief train from North Bay is on the way. The heat and smoke are unbearable.

TWO TOWNS GONE.

BAY CITY, MICH., JULY 12.—Starting in a lumber yard and aided by high winds, a fire swept the twin cities of Oscoda and Ausable, on the opposite sides of the Ausable River, with a population of a thousand each, clean, in a few hours' time, last night. The fire jumped from Oscoda to Ausable and only three buildings are left and which are in Ausable. No loss of life is reported so far. Many inhabitants are living in the swamps, about the still-burning towns, without food.

MANY FAMILIES MISSING.

DETROIT, MICH., JULY 12.—Many families are missing in the fire swept lumber district of North Michigan.

TORONTO, JULY 12.—A special meeting of the Ontario Cabinet was held to-day, and the T. & N. O. Commission were instructed to take full charge of the relief operations in Northern Ontario. Sick and injured women and children will be brought out free. The Commission was authorized to spend whatever money the circumstances require.

The Board of Control this morning voted $5,000.00 towards the relief of those suffering from forest fires. The city may take further action, as to sending supplies as soon as definite information as to what is needed, is received.

Said Farewell To Popular Pastor Who Is Coming To Warsaw

On Wednesday evening, June 21st, a goodly number of the people of St. Ola Mission, assembled at the Methodist parsonage, St. Ola, to spend the evening with Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Huffman, who were closing a pastorate of four years on the mission, and were about to leave for their new appointment at Warsaw. The ladies brought baskets well ladened, the contents of which were greatly enjoyed by all present. The interest of the evening centred in the practical expression of appreciation and esteem in which all held Mr. and Mrs. Huffman.

An address was read to Mr. Huffman by Mr. W. B. Greer, of St. Ola appointment and superintendent of the Sabbath school, and the presentation of a durable leather suit case was made by Mr. James Wellman of the Cashel appointment.

The address to Mrs. Huffman was read by Mrs. James Wellman, and a beautiful friendship quilt presented by Mrs. Maud Potter on behalf of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Cashel, under whose direction the quilt was made, assisted by ladies from every part of the mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Huffman each made suitable replies, thanking the good people of the mission, not only for the words of appreciation and esteem contained in the address and shown by the presentations of the evening, but also for the many kindnesses of the people during the four years they had spent among them, and further expressing regret in having to part with so many warm and loyal friends.

Mrs. Huffman had previously been presented with a beautiful autograph quilt by the Ladies' Aid of the St. Ola appointment, of which society she had acted as president for nearly two years. The presentation was made in connection with a largely attended ice cream social held under the auspices of the Aid on the evening of the 24th of May.

Mr. and Mrs. Huffman left St. Ola on Tuesday, June 27, arriving at Warsaw on the following Thursday evening, and have been very kindly and cordially received by the good people of the Warsaw circuit; and are looking forward to a very happy and successful pastorate.

Twenty Port Hope People Are Ill From Effects Of Ptomaine Poisoning

(Port Hope Guide)

Over twenty persons in town are seriously ill from ptomaine poisoning, alleged to have been caused by eating jellied veal. Mr. Charles Massie was the first to show the symptoms, he having had the veal on Thursday for supper. About 8 o'clock on Friday morning he was taken suddenly ill and notwithstanding every care he grew worse. Saturday evening his condition was very serious, and fears were entertained for his recovery. Mrs. Massie and daughter Mildred, and Mr. Massie's sister, Mrs. Gaudrie, have also been very sick and are still confined to bed.

Unfortunately the illness at the Massey home did not stop the sale of the meat and the disease gradually spread. On the same day (Friday) Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baulch and three children were taken down, and they are still confined to bed.

And the sale continued on Saturday, Mr. Henry Reynolds very unfortunately purchasing a quantity of it. He and Mrs. Reynolds, two sons Clive and Eric, and daughter, and Mamie Hewson, a niece, were taken very ill yesterday. Mrs. Reynolds' condition being quite serious last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil McNaughton, Park street, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornthwaite, Cavan street, Mrs. Wm. Moffat, Park street, and Mrs. Evans, at Wildwood, are very ill from the same cause.

The disease is very similar to cholera, vomiting, purging, and high fever and in many of the cases referred to above the patient's fever reached 104.

The doctors report that to-day the patients are all on the way to recovery and should be out around in a few days.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR CAN'T RESIST LURE OF PORCUPINE

PORCUPINE, JULY 11.—Even the prospect of a share in the Carnegie fund cannot keep some of the professors at their college desks. The famous Yale teacher, in the Mines Department, Professor Hunteon, resigned a few months ago to get into practical work. He looked the field over and very soon saw in Porcupine the coming gold camp of the world, and now he is here looking the camp over. By his pleased smile it is plain that he has no regrets over his late resignation.

The great mining writer and all-round mining expert, Dr. McLaren, is also here, on another of his many visits to the Porcupine.

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—STENTON.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, July 11th, at 3 p.m., at the residence of Mr. Geo. Stenton, cor. Hunter and Water Sts., when his eldest daughter Mary Ada was united in marriage to William J. Smith, of Napinka, Man. The Rev. John Fee, of Bethany Tabernacle, officiated.

After a dainty dinner and congratulations they left on the 5.30 G.T.R. train for Lindsay, where they will in future reside.

POPULATION OVER 18,000

It is Learned That the Census Returns Will Show Peterborough's Population Greater Than Was Thought

ANNOUNCED SHORTLY

It is said that the census returns will show that Peterborough's population is now over the 18,000 mark. The Examiner has learned unofficially that such is the case, although the official returns have, of course, not yet been made public. The assessors rolls, returned last October, showed the population at that time as being 16,923 and it was felt that this was not a complete indication of the entire population. The returns of the census are expected to show that the city's population is over a thousand greater than the assessors' total. The figures will be awaited with interest.

THE FUTURE OF THE MILLING INDUSTRY IN CANADA

Canadian wheat makes the best flour produced in the world. The millers of other countries, in order to meet the situation, endeavour to obtain Canadian wheat, but the users of flour, the bakers and housewives, are finding out that the best flour is not only made from Canadian wheat, but is milled in Canada. The demand for Canadian flour is so great that the mills are taxed to the utmost to satisfy the demand. There is nothing in the commercial world of a greater certainty than the future of the Canadian milling industry. This being the case, an opportunity to secure stock in a well-managed and favourably situated flour milling company, is one that the careful investor will be quick to appreciate.

The Campbell Milling Company of West Toronto and Peterborough, has found it necessary to enlarge its outfit, and for this purpose has organized the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, which will take over the entire existing business and erect new mills at Midland.

Campbell, Thompson & Company, 43 King street west, Toronto, are offering $300,000 seven per cent. commercial preferred stock in the new company at par, which carries with it a bonus of twenty-five per cent. commercial stock.

The stock is unusually attractive, and intending investors are advised to communicate with Messrs. Campbell, Thompson & Company. A prospectus will be mailed on request. Prompt action is desirable, as the stock is being subscribed rapidly. The books will be closed not later than July 17.

The management of the new company will remain the same as in the Campbell Milling Company.—Advertisement.

NEW VERSE IN NATIONAL ANTHEM

Special Wire to the Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., JULY 12.—A new second verse for the national anthem has been arranged. It reads:

"O Lord our God arise
Scatter his enemies,
Make wars to cease,
Keep us from plague and dearth,
Turn thou our woes to mirth
And over all the earth,
Let there be peace."

LORDS WILL SURRENDER

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., JULY 12.—Balfour conferred with Lansdowne and Lord Knollys, closely in King's confidence, conferred with Balfour yesterday. It is generally believed that in spite of the cry "No surrender," the Lords will give in.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM O'BRIEN.

The death occurred yesterday evening at 6.30 o'clock in St. Joseph's Hospital of Mr. William O'Brien, of 465 Roger street. He was an old and highly respected resident of the city, whose many friends will regret to learn of his demise, following a short illness. The late Mr. O'Brien was born in Otonabee, but had lived in Peterborough the greater part of his life. He was a member of St. Peter's T. A. S. and of St. Peter's congregation. He is survived by his wife and one son, William, representing Gordon, MacKay, Toronto, and two daughters, Mrs. Torpey of Lakefield, and Miss Jean, at home.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning, at 9 o'clock, from 465 Rogers street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN METHOD OF CHARGING FOR LIGHTS TO BE INTRODUCED

Peterboro Light and Power Company Will Charge 10c Per Room Per Month With a 3c Per Kilowat Charge For Energy---Present Rate is 7c Per Kilowat---A Big Saving For the Consumer

The Electric Power Company, which controls the Peterborough Light and Power Company, to-day, through the medium of the local newspapers, announces the inauguration shortly of a new system of charges for house-lighting in Peterborough—an important change that will mean a lowering of the rates to the average consumer and the placing within his reach of the possibility of the cheap use of electric fans, irons, toasters and other similar appliances. The new system has been used by the Electric Power Company in the new fields in which they have operated and have proved so satisfactory that the Company has decided to introduce the rates wherever they are doing business. At the same time it should be understood that the system is not compulsory—patrons may adhere to the old method of charges if they so desire—but it is thought that when the advantages of the new rates are understood, most people will be glad to adopt this method.

Briefly, the company proposes to charge a rate of 10c. per room plus 3c. per kilowat for the necessary current. Room in this case, means the same as does a real estate man in describing a house—it does not include bathrooms, halls, attics, verandahs or cellars. At the present time there is no room charge, but the consumer pays 7c. net per kilowat for energy.

A couple of examples may be given to illustrate how the new system works out. For instance, in a certain nine roomed house on Water street the bill averages per month $4.25. The average monthly consumption is 60.7 kilowats. Under the new method the consumer would be charged 10c. per room, a total room charge of 90c. and 3c. per kilowat, $1.81 in all, making the total monthly bill $2.71. In this case the monthly saving to the customer would be $1.54 per month, or a yearly saving of $18.48.

The monthly average bill, in a five-roomed house on King street, is $1.72. The consumption averages 24.6 kilowats. Under the new arrangement the consumer would pay 50 cents room charges and 73 cents for current; a total cost of $1.23, and a saving of 49 cents per month for the consumer.

The fact that there is no room charge for verandahs, cellars, etc., means that light used in these places is paid for, under the new system, at only 3 cents per kilowat, instead of at 7 cents, as at present. In the same way the householder may use energy to operate his electric toaster or iron, or run an electric fan, and will be charged only 3 cents per kilowat. Just now he is paying 7 cents for the same privilege. This is the greatest benefit that will be derived from the change, as it places these desirable household articles at an operating cost that is reasonable and that can be afforded by the average citizen.

It is estimated that the change will mean a reduction of about 18 per cent. in the cost of current.

The new system will be introduced about August 1st, and new contract forms are being printed embodying these rates.

Otonabee Suffers Severely By Recent Storms Much Damage Done

Reports are daily reaching the Examiner Office of the damage done by the recent storms throughout the Townships. Otonabee residents appear to have suffered as much as those of any portion of the County. The information received to-day of the storm last Thursday shows that it was pretty general throughout Otonabee, but the damage not so severe as that occasioned by the later storms. During this storm Mr. Louis Downer, of the 4th line of Otonabee, had four fine yearling cattle killed by lightning.

Mr. Albert Carpenter of the 9th line of Otonabee had his stable struck, and burned.

Mr. John Elmhirst of the Third Line, lost ten cattle. These cattle had been lying in the barn yard, and were driven out by Mr. Elmhirst in order that they might secure shelter from the sun under the trees, where they were when the storm broke. The lightning struck the tree but none of the cattle were killed at the time. They were badly frightened and made their way to another clump of trees, which, apparently, was struck later on, during the storm and all of the ten cattle were killed. Mr. J. D. Johnson had his barn struck and badly damaged, but not burned, during the same storm.

In yesterday's storm, Mr. Vincent McCarthy, who lives one mile east of Keene, had his barn struck and burned, 35 loads of hay, all his poultry and 18 young pigs, everything excepting his machinery being destroyed. On this he had an insurance of $1200, which would not begin to cover the loss.

The farmers of Otonabee are enthusiastic over crop prospects, but hope that storms occasioning such damages, are about over for this season.

Suggests Need Of A New Launch Wharf At Juniper

STONEY LAKE, JULY 12.—The opening service at Juniper Island was held last Sunday. Rev. Dr. Glover, a returned missionary from China, presided.

Owing to the increased length of the pavilion, it is very difficult to see or hear the speaker from the rear. A change in the arrangement of the seats, putting them in semi-circular fashion facing the preacher, who might stand in the centre of the south side, would work a great improvement. Besides placing every person in closer touch with the speaker, it would to a large measure prevent the diversion of the attention of the audience to scenes going on in the open lake during the hour of service.

The erection of a small platform about one foot in height would enable the leader to be seen and heard more plainly. It could be constructed to roll about on large casters in order that it could be moved out of the way on week days to give a clear floor for the nightly hops.

Another matter that might be drawn to the attention of the Cottagers' Association is the unsatisfactory provision that exists for the accommodation of yachts and sail boats. The wharf might be made three times as long and six feet wider than the present structure and would give better satisfaction. It is so waterlogged that one side is submerged, and so narrow that two persons can scarcely pass.

—Simon the Sailor.

More Power Craft Added To Stoney Lake Fleet

STONEY LAKE, JULY 12.—Mr. J Clark Acton has had a new engine installed in his yacht, the "Hiawatha." It is of the four-cylinder type, manufactured by the Stoddard Dayton Co., and is capable of developing thirty-five horse power.

Gilbert Gordon of Lakefield, has a new motor boat, built on very speedy lines. She is powered with a twenty-five horse power Hazard engine, and gets away at sixteen miles an hour.

"Hal" and "Ken" Crane have a splendid new yacht this year, called the "Marie." She measures twenty-five feet, over all, built on the lines of the "Black Arrow." The engine develops twelve horse power, and was manufactured by the St. Lawrence Co. of Brockville.

Professor Mackenzie has increased the flotilla of Stoney Lake, by purchasing a commodious launch from the Toronto Gas Engine Co. The boat is of the Hunting Cabin type, thirty-two feet long, and powered by one of their own special "Hunter" four-cylinder engines, which develops twenty-five horse power.

Mr. T. C. Elliott has added a new dingy to the equipment at his summer home, "Lariston Hall."

Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman of Norwood, take great pleasure out of their new motor boat, which Mr. Ackerman built himself during his spare moments last winter.

—Simon the Sailor.

ARE OFF TO COBOURG

Orangemen of City and District Are Celebrating Anniversary of Battle of the Boyne at the Lake Shore To-day

A GREAT TURN-OUT

Peterborough people were awakened this morning by the familiar sound of the fifes and drums and the blaring of Orange tunes by the brass bands, as the different Orange bodies of the city and district prepared to leave for Cobourg, where the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne is being celebrated to-day. The local lodges were out in splendid strength and made an imposing appearance as they marched to the G. T. R. Station to take the regular morning train for Cobourg. The Lakefield Lodges, Nassau L. .O L. and other lodges in the district surrounding Peterborough, did not leave until about 10.30, going on a special train. In addition to the Orangemen many hundreds of Peterborough people went to Cobourg to-day to see the big procession and all trains leaving here were crowded. There will be a procession of the local and district lodges this evening from the station to Central Park on the arrival of the contingent from Cobourg.

MISS GLADYS SEWARD STILL WINS SUCCESS

A letter written to Mrs. Collins, Mount Forest, by Mr. Harry Field, with whom Miss Gladys Seward is studying the piano, gives very gratifying evidence of the continued success and brilliant promise of the very talented Peterborough girl. The letter is as follows:

My Dear Mrs. Collins, — Many thanks for your kind letter, and I am delighted to see that your pupils are doing so well. I played last week in Bad Elster symphony concert, with a great ovation and magnificent notices. I am arranging for Gladys to play there in August. She is making great strides and has the Beethoven concerti in G nearly ready. She will, I hope, play the Chopin and Beethoven in Dresden, Lipsic and Berlin next season.

I am giving her harmony lessons and McWilliams will take her for composition. I think she will compose. She played the Tocatella in G with Tocatella Adagio (Fiese) 5 pages long at my last afternoon without one mistake. The Fiese is awfully difficult. She has a wonderful gift. She played at the coronation along with Prof. Percy Sherwood. I hope the people in Peterborough will still remember her.

VISITOR FROM CANTERBURY

The Rev. H. Lewis, pastor of the First Baptist church of Canterbury, England, will speak at the mid-week service of Murray street church to-night. Mr. Lewis was a delegate to the World's Baptist Alliance held in Philadelphia last month, and is seeing Canada before his return to the old land.

The quarterly business meeting will be held at the close of the address, when the report of the Building committee will be presented and candidates received for a baptismal service for next Sunday.

GIVEN TEN DAYS IN GAOL

Joe. Kelley, who gave his home as Toronto, was arraigned in the police court this morning before the City Clerk, who is acting in the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble. He pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk and disorderly. He said he came down to work at Auburn, but unfortunately had been drinking before coming to to town and got on a drunk. He wanted a chance, promising that if he was given it he would go to Lindsay, where he had a situation in view. He was given the option of a fine of $2.40 which he was unable to pay, so will remain in the city for the next ten days, a guest at Castle Nesbitt. Kelly raised a row on George street last evening about 6.30 and at first would not submit to arrest, but was finally overcome.

Geo. Hope was drunk yesterday and as a result came up this morning. He pleaded that it was the first time in three years, and that he would make it four the next time, so was allowed to go.

STICKS TO HIS GUNS.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier does not come back from England, tired out. He throws himself into the forefront of the fighting line. No matter what tactics of opposition may be devised and applied, he still sticks to reciprocity. Speaking at the great welcome scene in Quebec, he made his position plain. He said:

"I have come back to Canada now to take up the work of the country. The question of reciprocity was taken up by Sir John Macdonald, by Sir Alexander McKenzie. All parties expressed in favour of it. The last trip to Washington I made thirteen years ago, and could not come to an understanding. I said we could exist without the Americans. I said we would not come again, but they must come to Ottawa; and in time the American Government has come to Ottawa. They have tendered us the olive branch, and it would be criminal to repulse it. It would be a crime against civilization. Yet when this was ready to fall in our hands, the Conservatives faced about and declared themselves opposed to reciprocity. They talk of fear of annexation. There is only one word for that: 'Nonsense.' The friends of the manufacturers have urged these views on the Opposition. I don't believe they should oppose what will increase their own prosperity."

POLES USED IN CANADA 1910.

The Forestry branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics dealing with the poles for telegraph, telephone, and electric wiring, purchased in Canada during 1910. The total number of poles purchased was 762,841, or an increase of 118 per cent. over 1909. The total value of these poles, at point of purchase, was $1,043,874, and the average price of poles was $1.33, or less, by 6 cents, than the price per pole in 1909. Steam railways, telephone, and telegraph companies used 95 per cent. of these poles, the remaining five per cent. being used by Electric roads, and power and light companies; ninety-seven per cent. of the total consumption were cedar poles, which, for their cost, give better service than any other wood. At present none of these poles are treated or preserved by any method, in which respect we are far behind the United States. The United States, using in 1909, 3,738,740 poles, at an average cost of $1.89, or at 50 cents more per pole, than in Canada, found that it paid them to use preservative methods. During the last three years the treatment of poles has advanced rapidly, so that in 1909, fifteen per cent. of the total number were treated by the creosote or other methods. This is an increase of sixty-seven per cent. over the number treated in 1908. At present the United States have 87 timber-treating plants, while Canada has none. It is to be hoped that this great inequality will soon be done away with, and that pole users in Canada may take up this cheap and rational method of securing greater service from the poles used, and thus lessening the drain on the forest.

While conservation of our timber resources is desirable, according to the recognized methods, one way of saving our timber, as represented by street poles in cities, is to dispense with their use altogether. This can be done to the advantage of all the interests concerned. It would seem that with the increasing cost of poles, under-grounding of wires by conduit systems would, in the end, be cheaper. And there is no doubt that the public would appreciate the change. There is no greater disfigurement to the streets of a city than ghastly lines of crooked poles, leaning at all angles, and bearing a net work of sagging wires. These poles, some of them more than two feet in diameter, at the base, are a great obstruction to traffic and interference with proper pavement construction and maintenance. The lines of wire are an obstruction to the use of fire ladders, in case of fire, and in many other ways street poles are a pestilent nuisance. In residence districts, where stately shade trees flank the streets, pole-strung wires are responsible for a great destruction and mutilation of trees. Employes of companies that own wires, cut, hack, and mutilate trees at will, without regard to the beauty or symmetry of the trees themselves, or the rights, or wishes, of the citizens, or owners. It appears their charters authorise this disgraceful vandilism. Here is a chance for the exercise of the influence of the Conservation Commission in a new direction. The charter of such companies should be amended by parliament in such a way that they would not have supreme power to outrage and disregard civic and private rights; should not have the power at will to cut, slash, and mutilate trees, and gash boulevards without consulting those who are concerned in maintaining the beauty of a city's streets. Public utilities are public conveniences, but the public should not be compelled to pay too high a price for them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Some scientists tell us that the earth is going the way of the moon—growing cold. This weather gives the lie to such scientists.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, was courteously, and even cordially received in the west; but the welcome was to the man; not to his message. Mr. Borden's slogan was "Down with reciprocity." The reply of the west was "We want reciprocity."

Complaints are made that some census enumerators are neglecting to take all the names of residents. If this is the case, it is quite contrary to human nature. Enumerators are paid by the name—five cents each—and the more names they take the more they make. No census enumerator will knowingly miss a chance to make an honest five cents.

It is proposed to give a welcome to Mr. Borden on his return to Ottawa. This is very proper. Mr. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier are both estimable men and as such are worthy of hearty receptions on their return home. There is, however, this difference in the thing behind the two welcomes. Sir Wilfrid is welcomed back from England for what he did do, and Mr. Borden is welcomed back from the west for what he didn't do.

A Protestant minister in London, Ont., complains that "anti-Catholic items" are not "played up enough" in the London press. This, remarks the Montreal Herald, is very sad. Probably the London papers, in the interests of business and of London, find it advisable to respect the feelings of the Catholic population as much as those of the Protestant. There is an easy way for the minister in question to amend matters. He can start a newspaper himself and do all the playing-up that he likes, or he can turn his pulpit into one and do it there.

DOWN TO A SINGLE ISSUE.

(Montreal Herald.)

Events are moving rapidly to clear the way for a straight fight between the parties on the single issue of reciprocity, as defined by the agreement framed by Mr. Fielding and President Taft.

There seems to be no doubt, after what happened in the Senate yesterday, that the agreement will be ratified, and ratified soon, without amendment, on the part of the United States. The Senators who have been most aggressive in their opposition have expressed themselves as convinced that it will carry, and are not disposed to offer further amendments merely to waste time. The chances are, therefore, that Washington will have done its part before the first of August.

Then Canada will have, for the first time since 1866, the chance to take what, until the other day, Canadians were all supposed to be eager to get, access for the natural products of the country to the markets which are most convenient, but which have been closed for over half a century.

On the one side will be Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal party, standing sponsor for the agreement by which the gates are to be opened.

On the other side will be Mr. Borden and the Conservative party, vowing that the gates must be closed.

If the farmers in the counties want the advantages the agreement offers, they have only to indicate their approval of the agreement.

To do so they have no choice but to vote for the Liberal leader and the candidates who support him, for his opponents, who must succeed him in office in case of a reverse, is pledged to the hilt to prevent the agreement being ratified.

It is a simple issue, therefore, which cannot be qualified or evaded, between those who want to take advantage of the agreement and those who are pledged and determined not to let them do so.

* * *

There is not much doubt about what the answer will be. What happened to Mr. Gierman when he met a convention of his old friends in Welland is a sign of how the farmers of Ontario feel. The convention was unanimous against the man who had six times been elected by its aid, and who, on any other issue, could probably have taken a good percentage of the delegates with him. The reports from all along the St. Lawrence counties tell the same story. The farmers, who have been waiting for this, mean to have it, even at the cost of a temporary breach of their party affiliations. Nova Scotia, Quebec, the Prairie Provinces are of the same mind. The sooner it is over the better.

KING WILLIAM AND THE POPE.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

To-day, if traditions hold true, there will be many references throughout the country to the glorious, immortal memory of King William III, and the great service he rendered the world by defeating the designs of Popery. The part that was played by the Pope in advancing the designs of King William is usually ignored. The man who takes his knowledge of history from popular tradition is likely to accept it as a fact that King William and the Pope were natural and mortal enemies. As a matter of history they were allies, even at the time when King William was assisting the people of England to rid themselves of the presence and influence of an obnoxious Catholic king.

The one thing which William sought to make clear before starting out for England was that he was not embarking on a war of religion. Such an interpretation of his policy might have been fatal to his designs. His great enemy was Louis IV of France. In his dealings with Louis he felt the need of all the assistance he could command. Especially did he wish to maintain the alliance with the Emperor of Germany, Leopold I. To secure the friendly cooperation of Leopold it was necessary to first secure the support of the Pope, for it was generally known that in religious matters Leopold would follow the Pope. One of the things that William did, therefore, before starting on his expedition to England, was to open up a correspondence with the Pope. He represented that the Catholics of England would obtain from him the toleration which they never could be sure of under James. He declared that there would not only be a serious political advantage gained by separating England from the French interests, but also a positive benefit for the Church of Rome. The Pope was won over to the side of King William, and with him went the head of the Hapsburgs. "This," said Lord Acton in his Lectures on Modern History, "is the touch of mystery in the revolution of 1688. James, the champion of the church, had alienated Rome."

As a matter of fact the friendly relations between King William and the Pope existed throughout the struggle with Louis IV. A correspondent writing from Rome some years after the revolution was scandalized at the comparisons that were made between the Protestant William and the Catholic James, and declared: "The Prince of Orange has more friends here than either in England or Holland, and the king (James) is universally hated."

It seems no more than fair that in these days when we are endeavouring to read history for the sake of history, rather than for the sake of bolstering up special causes and perpetuating ancient feuds and prejudices, this feature of the history of the Revolution should receive some measure of attention. Heretofore, so far as we have been able to observe, the part played by the Pope as an ally of King William has not been sufficiently emphasized.

A Fourth Transcontinental Railway Is Contemplated

Prince Rupert Daily News)

Canada is to have another transcontinental line. Its Eastern terminal will be at Fort Churchill on the Hudson Bay. Its Pacific Coast terminal will be Prince Rupert. Application is being made to Parliament this session for an Act incorporating the new Railway Company under the name of "The Pacific Trans-Canada, and Hudson Bay Railway Company." To the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Northern transcontinental lines the new Trans-Canada line must soon be added. The splendid sweeping stretch of its main line and branches which extend through the rich Peace River Country must be traced out on the map of Canada to be thoroughly appreciated.

Mighty Web of Steel.

From Fort Churchill on Hudson's Bay to Prince Rupert on the Pacific the Dominion of Canada spreads out splendid expanses of territory rich in yet undeveloped resources of mine, forest, and farmland. Navigable rivers and lakes already link up the country in a wonderful manner. Government issued reports state that only railway facilities are required to awaken the heart of this district into vigorous agricultural and grain producing development. The new Trans-Canada Railway is already requesting the right to begin the awakening. From Fort Vermillion on the Peace River right in the core of the country, southwards to Edmonton, northwards to Fort Smith, eastwards to Fort Churchill, and westwards through Laurier Pass to Prince Rupert, like a gigantic spider web of steel the projected lines of the great new railway extend. Surveyors have already sketched out the general directions of the lines. Only the sanction of Parliament is required to begin work on Canada's fourth transcontinental.

What is the Land Like.

From Edmonton the first part of the main line projected goes north to Athabasca Landing, already a promising centre, as business men in Prince Rupert to-day are well aware. Towards Fort Vermilion the line then goes through the Lesser Slave Lake district. Of this district Mr. H. W. Selby, D. L. S., says in the Government Blue Book: "The Peace River Road cuts these lands from southeast to north-west, through a strip of prairie from half a mile to a mile in width. The soil is a rich black loam on clay subsoil, and is covered with an abundant growth of upland hay. This prairie is suitable for farming purposes. . . . There is very little waste land in those surveyed, and when it has been demonstrated that grain can be grown there profitably, and being on the leading highway through this country, it should soon be settled by a good class of homesteaders.

Only Waits Railway.

"Until the past year no white settlers had located on these lands, but white settlers have begun to make improvements and sown a few acres of grain as an experiment. This looked very well when I saw it, but there is not likely to be much grain grown until railway facilities are secured."

Here, too, is the Swan River country of which the same report says: "Railway facilities will make the Swan River country one of the most favoured settlements in the West. Its close proximity to mining prospects, considerable areas of spruce and poplar, good soil, plenty of fuel, good water and excellent climate, caused by the almost universal east and west winds, leads one to this optimistic view."

These and other reports in similar strain describe the heart of the land to be served by the new railway, land clearly abundant in natural resources, the wealth of which will flow through Prince Rupert Pacific-wards.

Once the incorporation of the new company is completed, the construction of the railway is likely to be swifter than that of its forerunners in the transcontinental field. All the gains made from experience in these great achievements in railway construction will be to the advantage of the latest comer, and the existence of the other main lines will facilitate the transportation of materials and supplies. The Grand Trunk Pacific has a line projected also into Fort Churchill from Melville on the main line, and agreements will probably be come to between the G.T.P. and the Trans-Canada Company. Provision is made for such agreements in the new company's request for an Act of Incorporation.

Competition is Life.

Undoubtedly the coming of another transcontinental to Prince Rupert will increase the prosperity of the city, and the well being of the citizens. For competition is the life of trade, and the existence of the other line will stimulate the first to advantageous effort. Without doubt efforts will be made to attract the new railway to make its terminus at Stewart or Port Simpson. Prince Rupert will be alive to this. On the other side of the Dominion there is the chance that in spite of the excellent harbour at Fort Churchill the more southerly Port Nelson on the Hudson Bay might be selected as the Eastern terminus.

These are points to be settled after the application of the new company passes before Parliament. The Hudson Bay sea route to Great Britain and Europe has long been known as the shortest in summer and fall, just as the Prince Rupert and Dixon's Entrance route is known as the shortest to the Orient, through the Pacific. Thus the immense importance of the Trans-Canada line is easily realised, especially in conjunction with the wheat and grain raising prospects of the Peace River country.

Thomas successfully for many years, he decided to sell out and build a mill at Toronto Junction.

This move also proved to be a wise one, and in the past eighteen years, by keeping his plant modern in every respect, and with the rapid growth of Toronto, he built up a very large local and export trade.

The mill at West Toronto has been running steadily day and night for over two years, and they find it necessary to greatly increase their output. The senator's three sons have had the management for the past six years, under his supervision, and no doubt this expansion of building a mill at Midland will prove as profitable as the other moves they have made.

The spirit of progress which has always permeated the Campbell business is again demonstrated in their latest move. They have arranged to erect a new plant at Midland. The Campbell Milling Company, Limited, has been organized, which will embrace in one company the existing business and its extensions. Campbell Thompson & Co., 43 West King St., Toronto, are offering $300,000 7 per cent. preferred stock in the new company at par, which carries a bonus of common stock. It is being subscribed for liberally, and intending investors should communicate with them promptly, as the books will be closed not later than July 17. A prospectus will be mailed on application.

THE WEATHER

One of the most severe thunderstorms of late years passed over here yesterday afternoon. Not only was there vivid lightning and deafening thunder, but a high wind accompanied the torrential rain. For an hour and a half the rain came down in a deluge, such as is seldom seen in this section. The total amount on the level was 2 inches and 17-100. An inch of rain in 24 hours is a heavy fall. Yesterday's downpour was over 220 tons of water on every acre. The rain has cleared and cooled the air, and the thermometer went down to 60 last night.—W. P.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c. and 10c. Sold only at our store,—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury.

MILLING HISTORY

Wheat in the early days was crushed by stones, and Senator Campbell and the Campbell Flour Mills Company was one of the first millers in Canada to introduce rollers. He attended a convention of millers in Cincinnati in the seventies and returned to his home in Chatham, Ontario, filled with the idea that rollers must be installed at once in his mill instead of stone. This progressive step soon brought in splendid results, and after running mills in Chatham and St. Thomas successfully for many years, he decided to sell out and build a mill at Toronto Junction.

This move also proved to be a wise one, and in the past eighteen years, by keeping his plant modern in every respect, and with the rapid growth of Toronto, he built up a very large local and export trade.

The mill at West Toronto has been running steadily day and night for over two years, and they find it necessary to greatly increase their output. The senator's three sons have had the management for the past six years, under his supervision, and no doubt this expansion of building a mill at Midland will prove as profitable as the other moves they have made.

Luck Of Ball Players Illustrated

The fact that members of the St. Louis National Baseball team were on the train which crashed into the street at Bridgeport, Con., yesterday morning, when a round dozen were killed on the spot, or fatally injured, and a hundred more were badly hurt, while the coach in which the St. Louis team was travelling never left the rails, standing with all its occupants unshaken, furnishes another instance of the wonderful immunity of baseball teams from injury in train wrecks.

Taking all things into consideration professional ball players travel more during the season than any other collective parties, more even than vaudeville artists, or one night or weekly theatrical companies, since ball teams move around once or twice a week, and over long distances, yet there is no case on record, where a major ball team has been caught in a train wreck, and any of its members have been badly or fatally hurt.

This fact is well known to travelling men, and those whose business it is to handle passenger traffic, and with certain travelling men the belief that no harm can befall a train which is carrying a baseball team, is so strong as to be almost a religion.

Drummers in the United States travelling between cities, which are likely ot provide this traffic always endeavour to make it convenient to ride on the same train as a baseball party, firm in the belief that nothing untoward can happen to that train.

While the theory that a baseball train is immune from danger occasionally gets severely jolted, as in the present case, the percentage of train accidents which cause injury to ball players is certainly practically nil. railroad history tells of many cases where trains with baseball coaches on have passed over broken rails, which have caused disaster to trains following immediately behind.

Passenger agents realize this peculiarity of traffic and there is always lines, for the baseball business.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

DOES the college girl who wants to hear of some way to earn money this summer think that I have forgotten her?

For I haven't. To prove it, here are some suggestions that have accumulated in the pigeon hole of my desk which is dedicated to her.

"Young mothers who are tied down with even one baby," writes one correspondent, who incidentally is the possessor of two, and therefore feels very warmly on the subject, "would all like to feel there was one refined reliable person to take care of their children for an afternoon or an evening so that the parents can go out. Such a person ought to be in great demand and make a great success. I speak from experience in my own neighbourhood where it is only possible so far as I know to get the women who work by the day."

This suggestion was meant for the "unusual occupations for women" column, but it seems to me that this would also be very good summer's work for the college girl. Incidentally let me add I have received such suggestions from several sources, so I am pretty sure there is a niche in every neighbourhood for such work.

Why couldn't the young college girl send out some cards to her young married friends, stating in some pretty way that she would be willing to do such work?

* * * * *

"A librarian friend tells me," writes another correspondent, "that one of her helpers who learned how to catalogue when the town built a free library, had earned a large sum of spending money cataloguing linen closets for wealthy summer people.

"She said that the young woman used a system similar to that in her library and the results were most satisfactory.

"Wealthy people with small libraries might take kindly to the services of a cataloguer, since in lending books so many valuable copies are lost, especially in the houses which are occupied but half the year."

SATURDAY'S GAME WITH BELLEVILLE PROMISES TO BE A CORKER

With Ashton, the Montreal Eastern League try-out pitching for Belleville, and Quinlan doing the slab work for Peterborough, the game between the Grand Trunks of Belleville and the Peterborough Midland League team at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon should be a corker, and promises to be by long odds the best exhibition of baseball seen here for some years. Word has been received from Belleville that the Grand Trunks are bringing their strongest team to Peterborough and expect to repeat their victory of last year over the blue and white team. The locals, however, cannot see the thing in the same light, and are out to add another victory to their already very creditable string. By the way the fans are talking, there will be a big crowd on hand for the battle, as local followers of baseball are hungry for a game, and realize that Saturday's struggle will be a keen battle between two good teams. Every member of the Peterborough team is expected to be out in uniform at practice to-night and to-morrow night at Riverside Park.

CANADIAN GENERAL TEAM AND ALL SAINTS PLAY DRAW IN THE FINALS

There was a big surprise in local soccer circles last night when the Canadian General Electric team, last year's champions, and undefeated this year, met the All Saints team of the Church League in the first of a series of two games to settle the championship of the Midland Football League and the right to play off for the Ontario championship. Even the warmest supporters of All Saints did not expect them to hold the crack C. G. E. team, but hold them they did, the score being a draw. When it was all over each team had scored one goal and thus the championship depends upon the second game, which will be played to-morrow night at the Exhibition grounds. Last night's game took place at Brinton's Meadows and was very largely attended, each team having an enthusiastic coterie of supporters.

The game was a good exhibition all through with both teams going the limit. The Saints were shy James and Robinson, but put up a surprising game in spite of this handicap. Excitement ran high throughout, and interest was added by the fact that both teams shot every chance they got, with the result that the defences were being kept busy. C.G.E. were the first to score. Miller getting around the All Saints' backs and going in on Morasity to score with a neat shot. The Saints evened up a little later when Smith made a pretty pass to Sharwin, who neatly headed the ball past Hull for the tying score.

Neither team scored in the second half, opportunities being thrown away by inaccurate shooting. In several cases, indeed, an open goal was missed. C.G.E. was pressing when time was finally called. The teams were as follows:

All Saints—Morasity; backs, Gamble and Hawthorne; halves, Hardie, Simmonsite, Edwards; forwards, Smith, Gash, Monk, Vickers, Sharman.

C.G.E.—Goal, Hull; backs, Evans and Hooper; halves, Allen, Pagett, Dawson; forwards, Corless, French, Miller, Mason, Dawson.

Referee—Harris.

THE CAMPBELL FLOUR MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED.

Toronto, June 29th, 1911.

Messrs. Campbell, Thompson and Company,
Toronto.

Dear Sirs:—Referring to your purchase of $300,000 preferred stock of the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, I beg to say that the additional moneys now being provided will be used for the erection and equipment of the new mill at Midland and for working capital.

The Company has no bonds, and there is no mortgage upon any of its real estate or plant.

When the new mill is completed the Company will have an immediate capacity of 3,000 barrels of flour per day, and 130 tons of feed, with facilities to increase at a comparatively small expense to 4,500 barrels per day. Our brands, such as "CREAM OF THE WEST," "QUEEN CITY," and "MONARCH," have long been established, and are well known to dealers, not only in Canada, but also in the West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland and the United Kingdom, and I feel confident that we can readily dispose of our entire product at remunerative prices. The wheat from our Canadian North-West is known as the hardest and best wheat in the world, and the production thereof is rapidly increasing and the flour made from this hard wheat is in great demand. Our transportation facilities and freight rates are favourable for exportation to the seaboard, and we therefore have considerable advantage over mills not so well situated.

The new Company will be under the same management as the old one, and taking our past experience as a guide I think the profits of the new Company will be sufficient, within a short time, to provide not only the cumulative dividends on the preferred stock, but a substantial amount available for dividends on the common.

Yours faithfully,

(Signed) ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL,
President.

The above is a copy of a letter received from Senator Campbell in reference to our underwriting $300,000 of the preferred stock.

We would call your attention specially to the last paragraph.

We are offering the 7 per cent. cumulative stock at par, carrying a bonus of 25 per cent. common stock. The books will be closed not later than Monday, July 17th.

Prospectus on application.

HAIR HAPPINESS

It sounds funny but the hair really must feel happy when it is clean and healthy and free from dandruff. So many people have neglected caring for their hair, that a woman with thin, harsh hair, or a man with no hair is not an unusual sight. There is no excuse for unattractive harsh hair since Sageine has been obtainable in Peterborough, and when W. J. Kent sells it with a guarantee to do all that is claimed for it. Sageine means a healthy clean scalp, a luxuriant growth of hair, and it only costs 50c. a large bottle from W. J. Kent, or charges prepaid from B. V. Marion, Bridgeburg, Ont.

TEACHER IS HONOURED

A pleasing event occurred at the close of the school term, when the pupils of S. S. No. 3, Cavan, presented their teacher, Miss Ella McGill, with an address and ebony manicure set. The presentation was made by Miss Marie McBain, and the address was read by Master Frank Woodhouse:

To Miss E. M. McGill.

Dear Teacher,—Although we are glad that the holiday season is almost here, yet our joy is turned to sadness, when we think that your stay amongst us is drawing to a close We feel that we are losing a friend, as well as a teacher, and in the future some of our pleasantest recollections will be of the time spent under your guidance. In our school work your patience and skill, in dealing with our difficulties has done much to smooth the path of knowledge, and although we feel we can never repay you for your efforts, yet we ask you to accept this small token of our good-will and love. We all join in wishing you success and happiness.

Signed on behalf of the school,
Olive Tully,
Molly Woodhouse.

Miss McGill, though taken by surprise, expressed, in a few words, her appreciation of their kindness, and with regret, bade them farewell.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food forms new, rich blood and restores the feeble wasted nerve cells.

WASHOUT

A washout occurred on the G.T.R. between Emily and Cavan, near Omemee, yesterday afternoon, and a gang of section men were at work all night repairing the trouble. All local trains were gotten through on time, although freight traffic was somewhat demoralized for a while.

THE COMET CANNOT BE SEEN HERE

In answer to an inquiry from the Examiner as to where and at what time the Kiess Comet, referred to in last night's paper could be seen, Rev. Dr. Marsh stated that it was daylight an hour too soon in this district to permit of the comet being seen. If Peterboro' was an hour further west in longitude, the comet would be quite easily visible in the early morning.

BASEBALL

Successful ball players, ball players who get the money, are those who take chances, are always doing the difficult or unexpected. It seems rather ordinary to see Cobb make a daring steal of home, to watch Christy Mathewson retire the side on strikes, with men on second and third, and no one out, or marvel as Wagner or Lajoie pulls off some sensational fielding play that averts defeat.

Rounds of applause always greets such performances, but they are soon forgotten. Little does the fan imagine what a dangerous chance Cobb took when he made the daring steal, what a terrific strain Mathewson put on his great right arm when he retired the side, how easily it might have been for Lajoie or Wagner to have been injured, had a false move been made on their part in judging the ball. Ofttimes as the applause dies away for the performance of some unusual feat the player suddenly discovers he had been badly injured. He is helped off the field and the sympathy of the crowd of course goes with him. The following day the man who takes his place may do something equally more difficult, and the idol of the previous day is readily forgotten. In many cases such injuries often result in ending the player's career on the diamond. When one considers these things he invariably reaches the decision that the players are not being overpaid, for he never knows when some little accident may cut off his right to demand good pay.

Several years ago the New York Americans secured a pitcher of the name of Joe Doyle from Wheeling. He at once jumped into high favour with the Gotham fans by pitching two successive shut-out. In other games he demonstrated his right to be classed as major league material. Just when it looked as if the New York club had picked up a very clever young pitcher something happened.

BORDEN IS BACK.

He Renews His Promise to Fight Reciprocity Pact.

Ottawa, July 12.—"I am satisfied that the more thoroughly the Western farmer understands the true report of the reciprocity contract the less he will approve of it. It is needless to add that we shall maintain our position to the end."

The above statement was made by R. L. Borden to the press on his return to Ottawa yesterday morning, from his three weeks' tour of the west. Despite the fact that he had spent his 61st consecutive night in a sleeping car, he looks well and fit. He, however, left yesterday afternoon for George H. Perley's fishing camp at Thirty-One Mile Lake.

No one doubts the power of the Opposition to compel a dissolution by the simple process of holding up supply when the House resumes. The Premier and the members of the Government have already clearly intimated that the Opposition's challenge will be accepted.

Both sides anticipate and are preparing for an early election. The only question now is as to the probable date. Probably no definite or authoritative forecast can be made as to this until after the House has been in session for a fortnight or so. There will be party caucuses on both sides shortly after the House meets, and questions as to political expediency in regard to plunging at once into an election and getting through with the agony quickly, or as to continuing in session for a couple of months or so while the remaining business of the session is put through and a redistribution bill brought down will then be thrashed out.

Meanwhile, if the present hot wave continues, the prospect ahead of the members, already weary of this long-drawn-out session, is not a cheerful one. When the House adjourned tempers were none too good. There will doubtless be some lively rows before long in the Commons chamber.

Another One Comes Down.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—The balloon "Kansas City," was forced to land early yesterday at Lindbie, Iowa, having encountered a severe electrical storm. All aboard safe. At noon the other five contestants were traveling northeasterly over Iowa and Illinois.

MR. SEXSMITH M. P., MR. STRATTON M. P. & MR. THOMPSON M. P. P. ADDRESS ORANGEMEN

Spoke at Big Gathering of Lodges Yesterday in Commemoration of the Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne—Other Speakers Gave Addresses

4000 WERE PRESENT

The Orangemen of East Peterborough held their annual celebration of the Glorious Twelfth at Havelock yesterday, the event being a grand success in every way. The town presented a lively aspect, inasmuch as it was gaily decorated with innumerable flags and streamers, while countless vehicles filled every suitable spot available. At fewest there were four thousand Orangemen and their friends and sympathizers present during the day. In spite of the large crowd, there was the best of good order at all times.

About 1.30 the members assembled at the town hall and paraded the town. The Norwood brass band headed the procession and rendered inspiring music, while each lodge was preceded by a fife and drum band. The following lodges were represented.

Belmont L.O.L. 277.
Percy L.O.L. 59.
Warsaw L.O.L. 284.
Hastings L.O.L. 509.
Enniskillen L.O.L. 562.
Marmora L.T.B. 177.
Coronation L.O.L. 34.
Caledonia L.O.L. 281.
Cordova L.O.L. 500.
Belmont L.O.L. 1309.
Loyal Orange L.O.L. 588 and Havelock L.O.L. 326.

The procession of all the members of these lodges must have been at least a mile long.

The Speeches.

About 2.30 the procession entered Havelock Park, where, notwithstanding the blazing sun, no less than 4,000 persons assembled to hear the remarks of the various speakers. The meeting was opened with a prayer by the County Chaplain, Bro. D. Andrew, after which Mr. Joseph Knox, the Reeve of Havelock, who was the first to speak, addressed the assembly thus:

It affords me great pleasure in welcoming you, as visitors to Havelock, in the midst of our organization today. We have given you the freedom of our streets, of our parks and of any public institutions which we may have. Looking through the rules of your constitution, I see how firm your organization is to select men of truth and integrity. This is a good clause, as any such men will advance the people of this great country. Orangemen could never have come into existence if there had been no necessity for it, and it could not continue if it is not a necessity. I understand this is the 221st anniversary of your organization. From the fact that you have on your mottos "In God we trust," I came to the conclusion that all must put trust in the Jehovah who must ultimately work out the destiny of the nation. As time goes on, we people of the 20th century are making history. Looking back we find that all mistakes have been recorded against the men who made those mistakes. Therefore, we must make no mistakes about assisting in the advancement of the welfare of this great country.

Mr. Sexsmith, M.P.

Mr. J. Sexsmith, M.P. for West Peterborough and Past County Master, who was then called upon, said:

When I look out upon this great crowd of people that has assembled here to-day, I realize the possibility of this country appreciating the great blessing that fell upon the people 221 years ago. We are not here to hurt the Roman Catholic faith, but we are here to celebrate and show to the people of this country that we appreciate the liberties where every man can worship God in his own manner, with no one to molest him. The Orange brethren 220 years ago formed principles which have dealt out more for municipalities than any other organization under the sun. There has been no time in the last 220 years when the Orangemen should stand more shoulder to shoulder than they should to-day. We have the No Tenere decree, which I believe is the cause of considerable trouble already in this country of ours and it must be removed. I understand that some countries have said they will have none of it, and we in Canada say we will have none of it. The Roman church has more privileges in the Dominion of Canada than in Italy. We stand for religious liberty. The Orangemen have nothing to say as to how the Roman Catholics should worship and we have no fault to find with their religion, but we object to the hierarchy who wish to push the Pope back where he will acquire temporal power.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, M.P.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, on being called upon, referred to the great pleasure it was to him to meet so many of the people of East Peterborough, as were assembled to-day in Havelock. It was always a pleasure to address an Ontario audience; they were always well dressed, prosperous looking, well

FRIGHTFUL LOSS OF LIFE IN NORTH

Latest Reports From Fire Swept Mining Districts Throw Fresh Light on Horror ---Launch Capsizes With Twenty-Two on Board---Party of Twenty-Five Prospectors is Wiped Out Entirely

Special Wire to The Examiner.

COBALT, JULY 13.—Refugees arriving here to-day report up to eight o'clock last night, eighteen bodies had been taken out of the shaft of the West Dome mine. The close at the Dome mine is placed at eight hundred thousand. Superintendent Meeks, his wife and two children escaped, but Meeks is almost blind. Mrs. Paddock, Meeks' mother, is seriously injured, and not expected to recover.

It is certain that a large number were drowned in the lake. Returning parties state definitely that a launch containing 22 was swamped in the middle of the lake, and so far as is known not one escaped. Canoes by the dozen were floating around the lake, and it is altogether likely that, being overloaded, they swamped, and the passengers were drowned.

Bristol township was burned over again, and it is feared many prospectors lost their lives. There was an unusually large number in that section and they had no means of escape 25 started from one property in Shaw township and have not been heard of since.

At Dome mine seven known dead and 25 foreigners, took to the bush and hid under brush. They have with out doubt perished, as the bush for miles around were swept clean. Added to the list of known dead are the following: James Welsh, West Dome, William McLaughlin, West Dome, A. Lick, a shoemaker named Taylor drowned at Pearl Lake, Stan. Nicholson, Guelph, the Toronto Star representative drowned at Porcupine Lake, Mike Smith, burned, two unknown Italians, one unknown Frenchman drowned, Billy Kling, head prospector, West Dome, burned, Norman Whatmough, Toronto. The property loss to mining property is about a million and a half.

TORONTO, JULY 13.—Up to noon twelve thousand, seven hundred dollars have been subscribed here for the sufferers in the north.

Porupine stocks are not dealt in on the exchanges to-day.

COBALT, JULY 13.—The latest dead identified at Porcupine are Fritz Meyer, Harry Jackson, Hardy, all of Dome. The total number dead is now estimated at two hundred.

Ghastly Find Was Made At Lift-Lock

Portion of Badly Decomposed Body of Infant Discovered This Morning Adhering to Lock-Gate---Coroner Has Decided That No Inquest is Necessary---No Information is Forthcoming

The men in charge of the Peterborough Lift-Lock made a ghastly discovery at 8.45 o'clock this morning, when a portion of the very badly decomposed body of an infant was found adhering to one of the lock-gates. Only the head and part of one shoulder and arm remained of the body and it was impossible to tell anything about the sex of the infant. It was evident that the body had been in the water for many months—just how long will probably never be known.

The discovery was made immediately after the steamer Water Lily, the tug Ajax, and two gasoline launches had been locked through this morning. On raising one of the gates, after the boats had left, the body was noticed. The superintendent of the Canal was notified over the telephone of the discovery, and he at once communicated with Coroner Dr. Greer, who sent P. C. Middleton over, and afterwards went over himself. The body was buried near the lift-lock.

Dr. Greer informed the Examiner that there will be no inquest as the authorities have absolutely nothing to work upon. It seems reasonable to suppose that foul play must have been committed, but at present there is nothing to implicate any person, nor any clue to the identity of the child.

Kryptok Lenses
The Only Perfect 2-Vision Lenses

Kryptok Lenses embody two pieces of glass, of different refractions, cemented with intense heat into one, and ground into a lens having two distinct focal points.

There is no cement—no clouding of vision—no edges to catch dust or to become crushed and injured in cleaning. Kryptok lenses last indefinitely, barring accidental breakage. A pasted lens may separate at any time and become useless.

Read through the lower part of Kryptoks (near vision)
Look through the upper part of Kryptoks (far vision)
Kryptok lenses are absolutely smooth on BOTH sides.

Try the Candle Test—If the reading wafer of your glasses separates from the lens when subjected to gentle heat, your glasses are not Kryptoks. The Optical dis genuine Kryptoks.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than those glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The results we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily in that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1911

THE "TWELFTH" AT HULL.

The expectation and even, hopes of the mischief makers have come to nought, so far as trouble arising from the Orange parade in Hull on July 12th. For some time imaginative newspaper correspondents and others have been more or less suggestively forecasting serious outbreaks should the Orange Order persist in its declared intention of "walking" in Hull, on July 12. But so far as heard, the day passed quietly with the exception of a few fights between individuals of the lawless element, found everywhere on such occasions. This is as it should be. In Canada a man should be allowed to speak the thing he thinks, and whether he expresses himself in words, or through distinctive badges, or parading the streets in an orderly way, makes no difference. An Orange organization should be as free to "walk" in Hull as a Roman Catholic organization in Toronto or any other Protestant centre. This is a land of tolerance and national existence, in its best manifestations, would be impossible if everybody forcibly resented any demonstration of opinion or belief, not in accord with his own. A party parade, if not offensively conducted, should offend nobody to the point of forgetting good citizenship. Live and let live is a principle that should apply in all our relations of citizenship as well as in trade. A declaration of opposing belief or opinion, however made, does not affect our own. A big Cornish miner, when "chaffed" about allowing his little white to beat him, philosophically replied: "It pleases she and don't hurt Oi." In the same way a street parade pleases those who participate in it and does not injure the spectators, even if they do not believe in the principles or opinions the parade represents. Canadians are becoming more sensible on all sides. The peaceable outcome of the parade yesterday in Hull, is a credit to the Orange Order for so conducting themselves as to not arouse the antagonism of those of contrary opinions held with as much sincerity as those of the paraders, and the people of Hull are to be credited with a large spirit of tolerance and self restraint under a novelty which, in spirit, antagonizes all they hald dear in religious belief and tradition. One party has no warrant for boasting, nor the other for humiliation.

LAURIER IN BRITAIN.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, from his exalted and responsible position in the world of Imperial, as well as Dominion, politics, becomes a target for the malicious and the envious. His influence in the Imperial counsels at the recent Conference was so great that to break the effect of it, even gross misrepresentation was resorted to, in order to injure him in the eyes of the people of Canada, and the other dominions. The jingo press of Great Britain—the Unionist press of that country—and the Conservative press in Canada, if they did not conspire, united in using the same tactics of misrepresentation and misconstruction of his attitude and actions. Both these interests were greatly chagrined and disappointed over the Imperial conference. They had hoped that the representatives of the dominions at the conference would be trapped into some position that could be construed as favouring the preferential campaign of the counterfeit imperialists, and Sir Wilfrid, as the senior premier of the dominions, wielding the largest influence, incurred the bitterest enmity of the friends of the Chamberlain tariff propaganda. Sir Wilfrid refused to be drawn into the domestic politics of Great Britain, but, instead, took his stand on securing, as he did secure, the recognition and rovindication of the rights of Canda as a subject nation within the Empire. He made it plain that while the British Empire is the base that will unite each of the component nations each must have the right of self government, according to the sentiment of the dominion governed. In 1907 Sir Wilfrid, in the interests of Canada's gift of a British preference required the denunciation of the trade treaties with Belgium and Germany and the British Government assented. Canada now wishes to widen her trade relations with the United States and the "favoured nation" treaties with Britain standing somewhat in the way. Sir Wilfrid has persuaded Britain to consent to modify these treaties, so as to give the self-governing dominions fiscal independence and liberty to arrange their trade relations in their own interests. Sir Wilfrid proposed the creation of a Commission in which Great Britain and all the self-governing dominions will be represented, to examine commercial relations with a view of improving them; and his proposal was adopted by the conference. In fine, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the leading overseas spirit of the Conference, and what he accomplished was to strengthen the standing and improve the autonomy and position of Canada in the Empire, while, at the same time, strengthening the Imperial bond. In the language of a great English journalist: "Canada issued from the Imperial Conference greater and more powerful." And this was due to the fact that Canada had Sir Wilfrid Laurier to fight her battles at the Conference.

SUPREME NONSENSE.

The opponents of reciprocity, or to be more exact, the opponents of the Liberal Government, resort to every device to becloud the situation, and they read into the reciprocity agreement meanings that it does not warrant. The Toronto World breaks out in a double-column spasm of hysterics over what it calls the "supreme issue," which it defines as "commercial union with the United States!" And it goes on to argue that Canada is surrendering its fiscal independence, and that Canadian nationality is threatened by the proposed reciprocity agreement. This is the veriest humbug and nonsense. The reciprocity agreement simply proposes the free exchange of natural products, and on a few other articles a lowered rate of duty common to both countries. This was a matter of agreement between Canada and the United States. There was no dictation on either side. The United States could secure no interference with tariff rates without the consent of Canada, and Canada had as little control over the United States tariff. The reciprocity agreement was a matter of agreement, to which both parties have to consent. The United States have not a word to say in adjusting the Canadian tariff. It is the height of nonsense to say that the United States had, has, or ever will have, the least thing to say in the way of arrangement or of adjustment of the Canadian tariff. If a mere trade arrangement, like the reciprocity agreement, effects fiscal independence, what shall we say of hard and fast trade treaties. We have a trade treaty with France. That does not give that country any more power, than it gives to the man in the moon, to interfere with our tariff without our consent.

Besides, if there was the slightest fear of danger of this kind from the reciprocity agreement, we have the remedy in our own hands. The reciprocity agreement is not a hard and fast arrangement. It is not a treaty with a definite period of currency. It is simply an agreement which we can terminate at a moment's notice if it should not prove what we expect it will prove to be.

The World incorrectly says: The "supreme issue" raised by the agreement is "the nationality and future of Canada." This is mere buncombe. The real issue is increased trade between the two countries, with the advantages and profits that come from more unhampered intercourse. Canada has spent millions in transportation facilities, steamship subsidies, etc., to increase our trade, and now we have a chance to adopt a trade agreement that will add immensely to our trade without costing a cent, except a slight reduction of revenue through the removal of duties in the people's interest. We have now an annual trade of 300 million dollars with the United States, and we have felt no national danger. If reciprocity should increase this annual trade to 500 million, do we run any more risk of injury to our national integrity? The hysterical alarmists have a low idea of Canada's patriotism when they insinuate that the people of this country are willing to sell their national existence for the sake of a better market for barley and potatoes.

Grant even that it made us richer, it would be a dear price to pay for making Americans to think that Canada was within their reach. Sir Wilfrid Laurier engendered that belief in a single night! What has Canada to gain from mixing up her affairs with the United States? Our system of government is better than theirs. The British Empire is our anchor, and the British system of government is away ahead of the American system. The hope of humanity to-day is in the British system, and we, as Canadians, are helping to make the British system better. The American system is on trial as it never was on trial before.

What is it to us whether the "American system" is on trial, or even condemned, hanged, drawn and quartered. There is nothing in the four quarters of the agreement that brings Canada within the reach of the United States. If removal or reduction of duties on a few articles of common demand promotes the annexation of Canada to the United States, and, if the United States wants Canada, they have the matter in their own hands, without reciprocity, and we are helpless. According to the reasoning of the opponents of reciprocity all they have to do is to reduce or remove their duties and the thing is done—the "supreme issue" is consummated. What crass nonsense to say that the reciprocity agreement involves anything but increase of trade. If we adopt it and it doesn't work well, we can drop it. It is no fast and hard treaty, but a simple, sensible agreement to facilitate trade to the mutual advantage of the two countries concerned. It has no political significance beyond the broad political significance of international betterment of trade. All this chatter about a "supreme issue" is supreme nonsense.

WESTERN FARMERS REMAIN UNSHAKEN.

Weekly (Farmers') Sun.

During Mr. Borden's tour of the West, which closed last week, the Opposition leader addressed thirty eight meetings, and at thirty of these representatives of farmers' organizations addressed him and urged his acceptance of reciprocity. Even more significant than the number of occasions on which Mr. Borden was pressed to change his course regarding the question now uppermost in the public mind was the choice of the men selected to give utterance to the views of these Western farm organizations. The chief spokesman for Manitoba was J. W. Scallion, Honorary President of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, and a Conservative; the principal spokesman in Saskatchewan was F. C. Tate, M.P.P., one of Mr. Haultain's lieutenants in the Legislature of the Province; the leading place in Alberta was taken by E. J. Fream, Secretary of the United aFrmers of Alberta, and who, in the last Dominion election, was the most effective platform assistant of the Conservative candidate in Red Deer.

Of equal significance is the attitude of the Western press. Two of the most thoroughly independent papers in all Canada are the Winnipeg Tribune and the Saturday News of Edmonton. Both of these papers have made it plain that they would, in the absence of the reciprocity question, have opposed the Government in the coming election. But they look upon reciprocity as the issue which overshadows all others, and they are whole-heartedly in favour of reciprocity. More noteworthy still is the attitude of at least one leading Conservative journal. The Regina Standard, the principal organ of the Conservative party in Saskatchewan, after hearing Mr. Borden, said:

"It was disappointing to The Standard as it was to thousands of his Western admirers, to find that Mr. Borden had nothing to offer against reciprocity except the stock arguments that have done duty at a price per line during the past three months, in party organs and other purchasable sheets.

"When Mr. Scott and Mr. Haultain agreed upon their resolution, and when the Legislature of this Province unanimously adopted that resolution, the die was cast. The opinion of Sasgatchewan was crystallized. The Standard stands by it. The producers of Canada have been sacrificed long enough on the altar of sentiment."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier At The Imperial Conference

(By Dr. J. A. Macdonald)

The propagandists of protection for Britain are very angry these days. The cause of their wrath is the refusal of the Imperial Conference to lend itself to their campaign. The politicians are nursing their wrath for the most part, in secret, or giving it expression only in safe hearing. But the protectionist newspapers cannot keep quiet. Their business is to discuss questions every day. In their summing up of the Imperial Conference they have not been able to conceal their chagrin and disappointment. They didso strongly hope that the prime ministers from the dominions could be snared into an expression of opinion which could be worked into their own tariff campaign. But never a word did any one of the premiers utter, which gave even a crumb of comfort to the weary advocates of the Chamberlain tariff policy. This refusal was so deliberate and so squarely in defiance of the daily appeals and exhortations and even threatenings of the more aggressive of the protectionist journals, that all the world now knows of it.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, being the senior prime minister and admittedly the ablest member of the Imperial Conference, is made the object of the most direct attacks. The Times so far as it judged would be prudent in its criticism of Sir Wilfrid, and in damning him with faint praise. But on all hands one hears of the decline of the Times as a leader of opinion since it passed under Harmsworth control; its opposition, therefore, has had no effect. The Morning Post, one of the most aggressive of the protectionist journals, is much more outspoken. Again and again it has misrepresented, perhaps ignorantly, both what Sir Wilfrid Laurier stood for in the past, and what he stands for to-day. It represented him as asking for protection in Britain in order that Canada might get a preference. It began by assuming this to be his position in the past, and praising him for it, and when he declined to respond to its praises, it began to blame. And other protectionist newspapers have behaved in the same way.

Of course, Sir Wilfrid is much too experienced to be caught by any such guile. He gave no heed, made no answer, but did his part as a member of the conference with such intelligence and effectiveness that, despite the tariff press, he stands out distinctly the most conspicuous figure and the one great statesman from the overseas dominions. All Canadians who are not dyed-in-the-wool Tory protectionists express their pride in him as the representative of Canadian opinion and life in England to-day.

It must not be supposed, however, that he has no warm friends and defenders among the London journals. No Canadian could desire stronger support than he has had, in the chief positions he has taken, from Liberal journals like the Daily Chronicle, the Daily News and the Westminster Gazette, and from powerful weeklies like The Nation and The Economist. If their views have not been published in Canada thesituation in London has not been adequately represented.

The opinion is held by the leading Liberal journalists in London that protectionist journals in Britain and in Canada have bee in league deliberately to weaken Sir Wilfrid Laurier's influence in order, if possible, to promote the political ends they have in view. There is no doubt as to the facts on both sides of the Atlantic, everything that political chicanery could do has been done with this end in view. The London journals, most of them now controlled by individuals or syndicates interested in the tariff campaign, are kept supplied with prejudiced opinions from Canada and all kinds of partisan attacks on his character, or his policy are sent over and prominently featured. This is meant to destroy him as the representative of Canadian opinion on questions like Imperial tariffs and Imperial preference. Similarly the offensive attacks on him by the London protectionist journals are reproduced in Canada in the hope that they may count for something in the next Federal elections. Whether true or not, as London Liberal journalists affirm, that there is a protectionist cabal against Sir Wilfrid, all the essential facts fit in with that theory.

But it cannot succeed either here or in Canada. In Britain it has failed already. On the day of the Royal progress through London no one man in the long line of carriages, outside of Royalty itself, was given so quick, so enthusiastic and so prolonged cheering throughout the entire seven miles of the procession as was Sir Wilfrid Laurier. At every stage his striking features were recognized and instantly the cheers broke out, his name often being called again and again. This refusal of the people to be influenced by a considerable section of the newspapers seemed to illustrate what the Lord Advocate for Scotland said to me about the last general election in Britain: "It was a campaign of the platform won." In the present instance the protectionist press seems equally futile in its efforts to damage the influence of the foremost Canadian statesman.

And Canada will understand. Most thoughtful Canadians will approve of the reasonable position taken by the Prime Minister on the question of old treaty restrictions, on immigration, on Empire organization and Empire trade, and on matters of defence. That position was at once truly Canadian and truly Imperial. And because Sir Wilfrid refused to be dragged into domestic politics in England he proved himself the truer Canadian and the greater Imperial statesman. The fact that he would not enter the controversy, even in self-defence is to his credit, for had he denied some of the protectionist allegations he would of necessity have had to commit himself for or against. This he absolutely refused to do.

As a result he stands out more conspicuously than ever before as the overseas statesman of whom all the Empire is proud and more proud-er than his fellow-Premiers from the other domiaions. His speech at the Constitutional Club to a rather hostile audience, in which he discussed the reciprocity agreement, and gave straight denial to the annexation talk, in which ignorant and irresponsible people and those with other ends in view so persistently indulge, was, as Sir Gilbert Parker said, the speech of a master, frank, courageous and strong. No matter what the cable despatches may say, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has "done Canada proud" on this important visit to London.

MESSRS. SEXSMITH, STRATTON & THOMPSON ADDRESS ORANGEMEN

behaved and good looking—in fact, he thought they were, taken on the whole, as good looking as an audience of West Peterborough people. He congratulated them upon the great turn-out to celebrate the day. His late father and brother were Orangemen, and he did not think they were any the worse of that. He himself had devoted some of his time to some half dozen beneficiary institutions of a different nature. They were assembled to-day to celebrate a great event in the history of the world—the Battle of the Boyne, an event which secured civil and religious liberty to the British world. He had no doubt that all present were loyal to British institutions, and to his Majesty who sits upon the throne. There was no object in erecting instances of straw to batter at them. There was no fear that the Parliament of Canada, would pass any legislation that would interfere with the rights and privileges guaranteed under British institutions. The object of the great display and great gathering of the day was to commemorate the 221st anniversary of an event that meant the end of political tyranny and religious bigotry, so far as the power and influence of the British throne was concerned. He was glad that throughout Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, there was peace and good will, and if the members of the Orange order lived up to their principles, there would be no fear that the principles of Protestantism would retain their ascendancy. He congratulated the brethren upon the splendid success of the day and thanked them for the privilege and opportunity of saying a few words to them. He saw before him many friends he had known for years, and wished them all long life and prosperity.

Rev. Mr. Reeall.

The next to speak was the Rev. Mr. Reeall who said:

I am glad to be able to show my colours, and it pleases me to see so many political figures here to-day. There are reasons why every Protestant oughtto be clear, straight and true in regard to this great matter. I have always advocated a spirit of tolerance, but the time has come, it seems to me, in the history of this great land of ours, that we must face the strongest opposition. We have no business to allow this infamous decree to be discussed as it is in the papers. I believe that our people will rise up as men and see that this thing shall not be tolerated in Canada. It is not necessary to stand here to repeat what has already been said in regard to Roman Catholicism in Belgium. It is responsible for the atrocities and horrors perpetrated in Africa. The Orangemen are to be congratulated on their demonstration to-day.

At this point in the proceedings, a selection was given by the band.

Rev. Mr. Folcher.

"I have about covered nearly all Orange societies that should be represented on the 12th day of July," said Rev. Mr. Folcher the next speaker, "but this is my first opportunity of coming to Havelock or any Peterborough district. I am glad to see this large assemblage here to-day. It is a sign that the organization is a living atmosphere of men, giving forth what they believe to be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. There is no double faceedness. All they want is that men should be able to live under the blue canopy of heaven on an equal standing. They also contend that no organization of any kind shall have the opportunity to say that "we want only special privileges, but we will have them." We have nothing against the men and women who form this system of Roman Catholicism; it is the system itself.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P.

"While reading through the clauses of your constitution, I was struck," remarked Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., "to find there the qualifications required by men who join your institution. I say, Mr. Chairman, that if the principles were enforced by the public and lived up to by the individual, perhaps we should not have any criticism in the Orangemen. We live in a critical time in the history of our kingdom. We should of necessity give every man absolute freedom of worship. We, as citizens, must build up a great country here, and it is impossible unless we have a universal language."

Rev. Mr. Skene.

The next speaker, Rev. Mr. Skene, after congratulations, said: "We ought to offer our fellow brethren something better than they have themselves. We cannot win our fellow men by antagonism, but with kindness. Canadians should show them higher character than they are showing themselves. No man should be ashamed of looking back 221 years, to the heroic efforts of the men whose anniversary we recognize and hold this day. I should like to see every man, woman and child become a perfect Christian. I care not whether they be Orangemen or not. They should be good Christians first of all. The church should be first and that will lead up to a higher standard of life.

Bro. J. J. Crowe and Bro. D. Andrew, County Chaplain, gave short addresses, after which Bro. Robertson, the Grand Master, proposed three cheers for the King, and this closed the meeting.

POST CARD COLUMN

July 13, 1911.

A deputation from the infernal region visited the city in the forenoon of the glorious 12th in the form of two full grown human naminals who undertook the enormous jask of driving a herd of 3 cattle thfough a portion of the city, and when they reached the corner of George and King streets, seemed to want to do a little daunge for a change and accordingly drove the cattle up onto the lawns on the east side of George street, north of Perry street, probably thinking that was their best chance to destroy property. Of course, those cattle put the finishing touches on the diabolical act of those two fiends who were driving them and whom Satan seems to have let loose for a season. It is certainly time that the long talked of by-law should be passed and enforced, whereby all cattle taken through the streets of the city be led instead of driven, and that intelligent people be employed to look after them and not leave them in the care of such idiotic devils as are sometimes employed, especially those just referred to.

Are You Anaemic or Bloodless?

If So, the Spring is a Most Trying Time for You.

Your Hope Rests in Getting the Blood Rich and Red by Using

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Shortness of breath and fatigue with slight exertion, failure of the vital organs to properly perform their functions, and pallor of the gums and eyelids, are among the indications of anaemia or bloodlessness.

The blood is thinner and more watery in the spring than at any other season and for this reason the person who is subject to anaemia, or lack of blood, suffers the most.

You must increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood, and this can best be done by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great restorative treatment does not merely stimulate the organs to renewed activity, but cures by building up the system. For this reason its benefits are both natural and lasting.

Sleeplessness, indigestion, neuralgic and sciatic pains and weakness and irregularities of the vital organs become a thing of the past when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

It is only natural that you should get strong and well when this building-up treatment is used, for it supplies to the blood in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which go to form new, rich blood.

Your digestive system has failed to extract sufficient nutrition from the food you eat, and hence the necessity of such direct nourishment as is supplied to the blood by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"THERE," said the little lady who is always doing original things, as she rolled up the darned stockings with the whole one in the immemorial fashion of all housewives, and tossed it into the mended pile. "There, now I can cross that off my list."

"What list?" I inquired.

"Oh, didn't you ever see my list," she laughed. "Well, almost every morning I make out a little list of the things I have to do and then as I get them done I check them off, and you don't know how it helps.

"Here," she brought out a folded paper from under the clock. "Here's my list for to-day. Of course, I don't put down the routine things like dishes and beds."

The list read:

Darn the stoc kings.
Make a batch of cookies.
Mend Fred's trousers.
Put Jeanette's coat in the chest.
Clean the silver.

Four of the seven items were checked off.

"Everyone laughs at me," defended the lady who is always doing original things, evidently suspicioning a twinkle in my eye, "and say they should think I'd rather have the time to D O the things instead of writing them down, but truly it helps a lot. In the first place, it keeps me from forgetting the most important thing I have to do the way I used to.

"And in the second place, it takes the load of remembering off my mind. Really, I used to be always thinking in the back of my head, 'Now what was I going to do next?' Now I simply attend to what I'm doing, and then when I get it done I look at my list.

"And then I get such a satisfaction out of checking things off when they're done. It's like the way my mother used to do when I was going to have some pleasure that it seemed to me I couldn't wait for. She's cut me out a string of paper dolls, one for each day before THE day, and I would tear one off each night and it helped so much."

If there really was a twinkle on my eye I think it had vanished before the end of the lady's plea for her quaint little custom.

Some great person has said something to the effect that the wise folks in this world are the folks who refuse to grow up, who play at life as if it were a game and die still happy children.

Don't you think he would have loved the lady who is always doing original things, and her quaint little list?

LINDSAY'S RATE 30 MILLS ADVANCE ON LAST YEAR

The Lindsay Post says:

Lindsay's tax rate is thirty mills on the dollar. The Protestant rate is thirty mills and the Separate school rate is thirty one mills.

The council at is special meeting last evening struck the above rate of taxation, and the necessary by-law was passed.

Reeve Vrooman in discussing, stated that when it was mentioned on the street that the rate would probably be thirty mills, there was a whoop of surprise and the council came in for considerable criticism and was termed a bad council. A great many people, however, did not understand conditions, or the situation with which the council was confronted. The council, Reeve Vrooman said, was keeping everything suppressed — in fact it was not spending enough to keep the surface good, and all because of our tremendous rate. If the rate was thirty mills, it was because we could not help ourselves. If the rate was kept the same as last year, it simply meant that the council would have to refuse to serve the town at all. The situation was created by the high expenditure on schools, the new William street pavement, the special audit, etc.

Mayor Beal said the council only handled about six mills of the whole amount. If care was not exercised in the future, the rate would be up to forty mills in a few years.

Deputy Reeve Dobson said he wished to take exception to the statement of Reeve Vrooman, that the council was not to blame. When the ratepayers came to the council for anything, it would be gladly voted and when nomination day came round the members held up their hands and said, "We did not do anything to create those conditions."

Mayor Beal.—If each department of the council ran its own business, that body would not be so much to blame.

GRAND LODGE OF KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The fortieth annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias which was held at Sarnia this year proved to be one of the "best ever."

Mr. V. Hamilton and S. H. Baker of this city, were present as delegate from the local lodge. Mr. C. M. Blewett was also present as an officer of the Grand Lodge and this year secured additional honours.

The convention opened on July 11th with Grand Chancellor Fred B. Hubert of Hamilton in the chair.

An invitation was read from the Consolidation committee of Port Huron, No. 18, asking that the Grand Lodge attend the celebration to be held at Port Huron on Tuesday evening, 11th. On motion the invitation was excepted.

The finances of the Lodge were examined and found to be in excellent shape.

A resolution was presented recommending that the sessions of the Grand Lodge be changed to biennial session. Without discussion it was referred to the Judiciary committee.

The usual sum of $100 was granted to the Pythian Review.

The special committee on the Insurance Department referred to the splendid condition of this department and strongly urged the more general use of the benefits of this part of the organization.

Guelph was decided on as the next place of convention.

WAGE QUESTION FINALLY SETTLED

A very important event has taken place in railway circles. The Canadian Pacific has at last effected a settlement with its section employees. Mr. W. H. Noyes, a prominent railway man of Toronto, was in the city visiting his father, Mr. Chas. Noyes of East City, and returned last night, in company with his wife and family. He was chairman of the Grand Executive committee sent to Montreal to try and effect a favourable settlement with the company. The whole trouble was the dissatisfaction of the company with the settlement made by the arbitration. This settlement awarded the foreman $3.00 per day and the trackmen $1.90. To meet this, the company lengthened their sections from six miles to eight, thereby throwing about 400 men out of work, and then the trouble began. The Settlement was finally effected with the company in Montreal a couple of days ago, however, by the sections being put back to their former length, six miles, and the foremen's wages reduced 15 cents per day from the arbitration award, and the men's 10 cents per day, thereby fixing the foremen's wages at $2.85 and the men's at $1.80. The Eastern and Western divisions, however, did not change the wages as set by the arbitration, at terminal points, but on country sections, the wages were lowered by 10 cents per day. The wage now set on the Canadian Pacific puts it on the list of the highest standard wage paying companies of the Dominion.

behaved and good looking—in fact, he thought they were, taken on the whole, as good looking as an audience of West Peterborough people. He congratulated them upon the great turn-out to celebrate the day. His late father and brother were Orangemen, and he did not think they were any the worse of that. He himself had devoted some of his time to some half dozen beneficiary institutions of a different nature. They were assembled to-day to celebrate a great event in the history of the world—the Battle of the Boyne, an event which secured civil and religious liberty to the British world. He had no doubt that all present were loyal to British institutions, and to his Majesty who sits upon the throne. There was no object in erecting instances of straw to butter at them. There was no fear that the Parliament of Canada would pass any legislation that would interfere with the rights and privileges guaranteed under British institutions. The object of the great display and great gathering of the day was to commemorate the 221st anniversary of an event that meant the end of political tyranny and religious bigotry, so far as the power and influence of the British throne was concerned. He was glad that throughout Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, there was peace and good will, and if the members of the Orange order lived up to their principles, there would be no fear that the principles of Protestantism would retain their ascendancy. He congratulated the brethren upon the splendid success of the day and thanked them for the privilege and opportunity of saying a few words to them. He saw before him many friends he had known for years, and wished them all long life and prosperity.

Rev. Mr. Rexall.

The next to speak was the Rev. Mr. Rexall who said:

I am glad to be able to show my colours, and it pleases me to see so many political figures here to-day. There are reasons why every Protestant ought to be clear, straight and true in regard to this great matter. I have always advocated a spirit of tolerance, but the time has come, it seems to me, in the history of this great land of ours, that we must face the strongest opposition. We have no business to allow this infamous decree to be discussed as it is in the papers. I believe that our people will rise up as men and see that this thing shall not be tolerated in Canada. It is not necessary to stand here to repeat what has already been said in regard to Roman Catholicism in Belgium. It is responsible for the atrocities and horrors perpetrated in Africa. The Orangemen are to be congratulated on their demonstration to-day.

At this point in the proceedings, a selection was given by the band.

Rev. Mr. Folcher.

"I have about covered nearly all Orange societies that should be represented on the 12th day of July," said Rev. Mr. Folcher the next speaker, "but this is my first opportunity of coming to Havelock or any Peterborough district. I am glad to see this large assemblage here to-day. It is a sign that the organization is a living army of men, giving forth what they believe to be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. There is no double facedness. All they want is that men should be able to live under the blue canopy of heaven on an equal standing. They also contend that no organization of any kind shall have the opportunity to say that "we want only special privileges, but we will have them." We have nothing against the men and women who form this system of Roman Catholicism; it is the system itself.

Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P.

"While reading through the clauses of your constitution, I was 'struck,' remarked Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., "to find there the qualifications required by men who join your institution. I say, Mr. Chairman, that if the principles were enforced by the public and lived up to by the individual, perhaps we should not have any criticism in the Orangemen. We live in a critical time in the history of our kingdom. We should of necessity give every man absolute freedom of worship. We, as citizens, must build up a great country here, and it is impossible unless we have a universal language."

Rev. Mr. Skene.

The next speaker, Rev. Mr. Skene, after congratulations, said: "We ought to offer our fellow brethren something better than they have themselves. We cannot win our fellow men by antagonism, but with kindness. Canadians should show them higher character than they are showing themselves. No man should be ashamed of looking back 221 years, to the heroic efforts of the men whose anniversary we recognize and hold this day. GRAND LODGE OF KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The fortieth annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias which was held at Sarnia this year proved to be one of the "best ever."

Mr. V. Hamilton and S. H. Baker of this city, were present as delegates from the local lodge. Mr. C. M. Blewett was also present as an officer of the Grand Lodge and this year secured additional honours.

The convention opened on July 11th with Grand Chancellor Fred B. Hubert of Hamilton in the chair.

An invitation was read from the Consolidation committee of Port Huron, No. 18, asking that the Grand Lodge attend the celebration to be held at Port Huron on Tuesday evening, 11th. On motion the invitation was excepted.

The finances of the Lodge were examined and found to be in excellent shape.

A resolution was presented recommending that the sessions of the Grand Lodge be changed to biennial session. Without discussion it was referred to the Judiciary committee.

The usual sum of $100 was granted to the Pythian Review.

The special committee on the Insurance Department referred to the splendid condition of this department and strongly urged the more general use of the benefits of this part of the organization.

Guelph was decided on as the next place of convention.

WAGE QUESTION FINALLY SETTLED

A very important event has taken place in railway circles. The Canadian Pacific has at last effected a settlement with its section employees. Mr. W. H. Noyes, a prominent railway man of Toronto, was in the city visiting his father, Mr. Chas. Noyes of East City, and returned last night, in company with his wife and family. He was chairman of the Grand Executive committee sent to Montreal to try and effect a favourable settlement with the company. The whole trouble was the dissatisfaction of the company with the settlement made by the arbitration. This settlement awarded the foreman $3.00 per day and the trackmen $1.90. To meet this, the company lengthened their sections from six miles to eight, thereby throwing about 400 men out of work, and then the trouble began. The settlement was finally effected with the company in Montreal a couple of days ago, however, by the sections being put back to their former length, six miles, and the foremen's wages reduced 15 cents per day from the arbitration award, and the men's 10 cents per day, thereby fixing the foremen's wages at $2.85 and the men's at $1.80. The Eastern and Western divisions, however, did not change the wages as set by the arbitration, at terminal points, but on country sections, the wages were lowered by 10 cents per day. The wage now set on the Canadian Pacific puts it on the list of the highest standard wage paying companies of the Dominion.

Anniversary Of Battle Of Boyne Successfully Celebrated At Cobourg

Peterboro Lodges Took Part in Big Demonstration at the Lake Shore---Monster Procession of the Orange Lodges of the District---Vigorous Speeches Were Made

"The best ever" are three words that express adequately the successful issue of one of the best 12th of July parades that has ever been held in the district. From early morning until late in the afternoon Cobourg proved to be the Mecca for many thousand representatives of the empire-wide organization known as Orangemen. Even the weather man looked down upon the proceedings with a kindly eye, with the result that the sun shone fair upon the many gaily-coloured banners of the Orangemen and the fresh breezes, which were wafted in from the bosom of Lake Ontario caused them to wave buoyantly over the heads of hundreds of enthusiastic Orangemen. Several special trains were run by the Grand Trunk to the scene of festivities from 7 o'clock a.m., until 2 o'clock, p.m., by which time the mobilization of the Orangemen in the beautiful lakeside town of Cobourg, with its 5,500 inhabitants, had assumed alarming proportion. However, the good citizens of Cobourg proved equal to the task of providing for this vast army of visitors; every available place in the town had been secured and fitted up into a temporary lunch or dining room, so that no cause for complaint could be discovered in the way the necessities of life were provided for.

A Strong Feature.

A pleasing feature of the day was the absolute absence of rowdyism. While it must be admitted that an odd one here and there bore the effects of having indulged in something that was not strictly of the aqua pura variety, yet indirectly speaking, sobriety reigned supreme.

Organizing the Parade.

It was no easy matter to get the procession formed. Arrangements had been carefully made beforehand as to the exact position that each lodge should occupy in the procession. It was a little after 2 o'clock before the two carriages heading the procession and occupied by Col. John Hughes, G.M., ex-Ald. Joseph Batten, Past Grand Master of the Grand Black Chapter, J. Jones, Past County Master, Peterborough, and S. J. Campbell, P. P., Peterborough.

Second carriage—J. Davis, C. M., Capt. Stocker, Past Grand Director of Ceremonies, His Worship Mayor Gummow of Cobourg, C. J. Thornton, M.P., Major J. McCoughchie, and E. H. McLean, moved off, and next followed the Bowmanville Band, and after them came the long line of Loyal Orange Lodges, each with its brigade of silk-hatted, white-gloved leaders; each with its banner commemorating the immortal memory of William Prince of Orange, William III. of England and the Battle of the Boyne. Brilliant as the banners were they were equalled by the gorgeous insigna worn by the respective ladies. The following lodges took part in the parade:

The 57th Band of Peterborough was divided up into three detachments and given as many positions in the parade.

Owing to a misunderstanding in carrying out the order of the parade, one of the Lodges representing Victoria County and principally made up of Indians farked their banners and refused to march. They claimed that they had been given a very inferior position to that which was originally assigned to them.

The parade proceeded by way of Park to Queen street, Queen to D'Arcy street, along D'Arcy to King down King to Henry street, up Henry to University Avenue, along University Avenue to William street down William to King street, along King to Church street, down Church to the park, where an address of welcome, and speeches by prominent members of the order and local clergy were delivered. The platform was occupied by the following men of prominence: Ex-Mayor D. E. Ewing of Cobourg Past County Master, Northumberland His Worship Mayor Gummow of Cobourg; Dr. Montgomery, Newcastle Colonel John Hughes, G.M., of Ontario East; Rev. A. Peston, Bethany Captain Stocker, Orono; Mr. John Rosevear, Cobourg; Mr. B. Collins Millbrook; Ex-Ald. Batten, Peterborough; C. J. Thornton, M.P.; Jas. Worrell, P.G.M.; True Blues, Picton; Rev Mr. Ben Oiel, Cobourg; Rev. Mr. La Claire, Port Hope; Rev. Mr. Beatty Cobourg; and Rev. Mr. Pollock, Cobourg.

Mr. D. B. Collins, P.G.M., acted as chairman. In introducing the first speaker, Mayor Gummow, he said that it gave him great pleasure to be with the Orangemen as an Orangeman, in their celebration. In conclusion he referred to his advanced age and thanked them for the privilege of being present on the platform.

Mayor Gummow in a few brief remarks, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and hoped that they would have reason to remember Cobourg as a place where they had spent an enjoyable day.

"We have the Orange Association gathered around us, especially the ladies, and I wish to thank those who are responsible for the hearty welcome which has been accorded the visiting lodges," said Col. John Hughes in a few brief remarks.

The Two Principles.

"It is not very often that one has the opportunity of speaking to such a vast concourse in the open air," said Rev. Mr. Beatty in his opening remarks. "It is with happy recollections that I recall the visit of the Orange brethren to this town 20 years ago, and I hope it will not be twenty years before you meet again in Cobourg. Orangeism does not mean outward show, such as processions, regalia, etc., but stands for that which comes at the head of every lodge, the Bible. (Applause.) The deeds of our forefathers received their inspiration from their desire for liberty and freedom. The two principles of the Order were: First, that Orangemen should be incapable of persecution or monopoly of liberty of civil rights. They do not exist to persecute other creeds, but to maintain religious liberties everywhere. The principle by which our forefathers bled and died for the liberties which we enjoy is a principle which we must always maintain. That is the second principle. (Cheers.)

The chairman then called upon Rev Mr. Pollock, who, although not an Orangeman expressed himself as being in accordance with the views of the previous speaker.

No Surrender.

Rev. Mr. Ben Oliel, the next speaker, was glad to say that he was an Orangeman and he hoped that brother ministers would do likewise. The more he learned of Orangism the more he had learned to respect it. We not only stand on the grounds of "no surrender," said the speaker in conclusion, but to give others those privileges that we glory in, but which we will not surrender. (Cheers.)

It has often been said that all the Orange order exists for is for the outward display which they can make, said Mr. Thornton, M.P. But there is something more than that in Orangeism. It is built up on the principles of the Bible. It stands for the promotion of the best interests of our fellow brethren, and therefore it should be regarded as one of the greatest benefactors of the present age. (Applause.)

The Protestant Orphan.

Mr. Jas. Worrell, P.G.M., made a brief appeal for funds to assist in the work of caring for Protestant orphans. At the present day 300 Protestant orphans are being housed within the walls of Roman Catholic orphanages. They are kind to do it, and this fact alone should serve to make the True Blues feel ashamed. As a result of Mr. Worrell's appeal, $42.50 was collected, and the same will be applied to the carrying on of the work of maintaining the Protestant orphanage at Pictou.

Next followed a brief address by Mr. E. H. McLean, P.C.M. of Newcastle, after which the gathering was dispersed with the singing of the national anthem and three cheers for the King.

The Prize Winners.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in selecting the prize winner, as the competition was keen, but finally after careful consideration, the following prizes were awarded:

Canton brass band, first prize, $15. Fraserville Fife and drum band, first prize, $10.

Best dressed lodge—Port Hope No. 1063 first prize;; True Blues, Campbellford, second prize.

The following gentlemen acted as a committee to look after the interests of the visitors, and needless to say they performed their duties faultlessly: J. H. Kirk, WM., H. L. Wicks, Secretary Com.; A. S. Field, Treasurer; A. S. Morrison, D.M., Chairman committee.

Ocean Romance Culminates In A Local Wedding

The culmination of an interesting little romance inaugurated on board a trans-Atlantic steamer two years ago, was reached yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Ernest E. Barnes, late of Guernsey, Eng., was united in marriage to Miss Annie Marshall, formerly of Belfast, Ireland. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. Steinway, Stewart street, by Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will take up residence in Peterborough. The two met on board a steamer coming from England two years ago, became interested in each other and the attachment formed on that occasion grew until yesterday's event culminated the episode.

St. John's Sunday School Outing Was Enjoyable

The annual excursion of the Sunday school of St. John's church was held yesterday per steamer Geneva to South Beach and was a most enjoyable outing, participated in by over 200 people. The rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, the Wardens, Messrs. A. H. Stratton and W. F. Johnstone, the superintendent, Mr. R. J. Devey and the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Warren Dean, helped to make the affair a thorough success in every particular.

Owing to the kindness of many members of the congregation, the prize list was a generous one. The occasion was a memorable one, and the children had a really happy day. Mine Host Brooks at South Beach, spared no effort in entertaining the visitors. The excursionists were given a long stay at South Beach, remaining at that popular place for five hours. The weather could not have been better.

Hackson saw a man climbing up on top of the express car just as the train pulled out of Wolford on the Soo line and ordered him to get off. The tramp swore back to frighten him. Hackson pulled his gun and then the tramp fired. Hackson fell off the train.

TWO MEN FIGURE IN A SENSATIONAL RUNAWAY

A Team of Horses Attached to a Waggon Belonging to the Calcutt Brewing Co. Ran Away—Frank McGee Received Serious Injuries About the Face

A thrilling incident of an exciting nature, which culminated in a couple of men being seriously injured, was witnessed by a handful of spectators on Hunter street to-day at noon.

Frank McGee and Robt Graham were in charge of a delivery rig belonging to the Calcutt Brewery Company and were delivering some goods at the American house on Hunter street when the accident happened. It appears that while the driver of the rig was turning the horses around to go in the opposite direction, one of the wheels became locked in the under gearing of the wagon, with the result that it was completely overturned, and the contents of the wagon distributed over the roadway.

The horses immediately bolted, taking with them the front portion of the wagon, while the driver, Frank McGee, was thrown off and he sustained an ugly gash on the left side of his face. The horses tore along Hunter street at a terrific pace, utterly disregarding the speed limit, but their freedom was short lived. Robt. Graham who, during the mix-up had managed to esconce himself on the tongue of the wagon, managed to check the infuriated animals in their mad career at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer street, but not before he had sustained several bruises of a minor nature.

Medical aid was summoned and McGee, who received the worst injuries, was removed to his home in an auto. The horses were none the worse, with the exception of a few cuts which they received about the legs.

ITALIANS COME TO BLOWS IN C. P. R. CONSTRUCTION CAMP

One Man Has His Nose Partially Bitten Off—Assailant Was Let Out on Suspended Sentence—While His Companion Makes Himself Scarce

A row in the C.P.R. construction camp at Bethany was responsible for the appearance in the Millbrook Police Court of Michelo Malgiere. It appears that during a scuffle in the camp on July 1st, Domenico Festa lost the greater portion of his nasal organ, which, he claims, was bitten off by Paulo Malgiere. He also incriminated Paulo's brother, Michelo, as one who very ably assisted in this unusual surgical stunt. Paulo skipped for parts unknown, however, and has not been heard of since. A warrant is at present out for his arrest.

Michelo was arrested by Chief Constable Miller of Millbrook, and incarcerated in the local jail.

On Tuesday he appeared before Magistrate White of Port Hope, charged with common assault. He was found guilty, but in consideration of the fact that he had already been incarcerated in the local jail for eight days, he was allowed to go on suspended sentence. Crown Attorney Kerr of Port Hope acted for the Crown, while Mr. D. M. Minicolo of this city, acted as interpreter.

On account of the heavy rain on Tuesday the Tennis Tournament, arranged between Petrborough and Omemee, on the local courts, had to be postponed.

The severest storm of the season passed over the village on Tuesday afternoon, lasting over an hour and one-half. Much damage was done in the outlying districts, while the village itself suffered considerably. The belfry of the high school was blown off and several trees were uprooted. The lightning struck the steeple of the Presbyterian church and passing downward, shattered the rafters and wire tubing attached to the lightning apparatus, it passed along the ground. The loss is covered by insurance. A number of barns to the east and south of the village were damaged. During the storm the rain turned to hail and for a time there was danger of broken windows. Telephone communication was destroyed, as many of the wires were down. A washout on the Millbrook line of the G.T.R. occurred at the bridge on the town line between Cavan and Emily, near Lebanon church. Two washouts are also reported near Mt. Pleasant.

A large number from here attended the Twelfth of July celebration in Cobourg on Wednesday.

Mrs. Melville Corneil, of Lindsay, is visiting her mother, Mrs. D. H. Corneil.

Farmers Prosperous In Spite Of Recent Storms

Yesterday was the anniversary of the Glorious Twelfth.

While autoing down to Havelock, to witness the celebration in that town, one of the Examiner staff was observant of many effects of the storm of the preceding day. On some of the declines in the fields large channels had been formed by the deluges of rain, while some of the fields were very much like mud banks.

The trees, as in the city, suffered mutilation by the merciless wind, while one huge tree erstwhile flourishing in the centre of a field, was charred and blackened with an ugly gash down its side, thus indicating the playfulness of the lightning.

It does not appear that any serious damage has been done, however, as some of the crops are already in, and all the farmers seem hopeful of a successful season. Many barns were noticed to be in course of construction, and in many places the road had been repaired, while new telephone poles and wires are extended in every direction. In consideration of these many improvements, it is readily seen what the last two or three years has done towards the facilities afforded to farmers in the district.

DEATH LIST HAS GROWN

Refugees Tell of Hundreds Dead in the North—200 Are Drowned in Lake at Porcupine

SOME OF THE DEAD

North Bay, Ont., July 13.—A thousand people lined the station platform last night when the Cochrane train came in with refugees from the fire, besides several survivors from Porcupine. Most of the passengers were women and children, who had been rendered homeless by the fierce fire which swept down on the town of Cochrane yesterday.

Three men from Porcupine, en route to Bracebridge, were on this train, each one bandaged from head to foot, having been burned in the fire which destroyed the plant of the United Porcupine Mines. They were J. B. Flynn, J. H. Flynn and Gilbert Gibbs, all of Bracebridge, who passed through a terrible experience, and, though severely burned on their arms and heads, feel grateful that they escaped with their lives.

J. L. Flynn's story of the fire was very thrilling. Five was seen coming miles away, and traveling very fast, but the men at the mine thought it would pass the property. Instead, the wind veered and the flames leaped down on the mine buildings. In an instant sleep houses, cookery, office, storehouse and two blacksmith shops were a mass of flames. All attempts to fight the fire were unavailing, and the men were soon surrounded with a wall of flames. Six men who were on the property, and a Colorado mine operator named Dwyer, who sought refuge from the advancing flames were cornered like rats in a trap. The men rushed from one place to another in the maddening heat, with their clothes burning, and finally decided to try to rush through the flames to higher ground. Seven men started, but only three passed through the fire, gaining the rocky eminence burned and blistered, but safe.

When the fire passed and the heat became less intense, the two Flynns and Gibbs rushed back and found the bodies of their companions, burned and blackened, lifeless on the ground. The dead men were the manager of the mine, Andrew Yuill of Wilton avenue, Toronto; Joe Fletcher, Toronto; Frank Flynn, Bracebridge, and Dwyer, the American. Frank Flynn was the brother of the two Flynns who escaped, and Yuill was their brother-in-law.

The fire was swept in a tornado of wind, which nothing could withstand, and the flames rose 200 feet in the air, swirling and roaring like a million live devils.

The fire traveled twelve miles in less than four hours, and, despite the five acres of clearing of the United Porcupine property, jumped the gap and licked up the buildings.

Flynn met a man coming out, who said he had counted forty-eight dead bodies of men and eight dead horses on two miles of road, and they voiced belief that the dead would number hundreds, from their knowledge of the country and the prospect of population.

Fifty coffins were sent in to Porcupine but it is believed many more will be needed.

Scores will be suffering from burns and heat prostration.

A. S. Wright, master mechanic on the Transcontinental at Cochrane, came out with his wife and child and told a vivid story of the fire there. The wind was blowing a gale and the fire swept down so quickly that there was no time to do anything but run for safety. Box cars were run into the town on a contractor's spur and women and children were hustled to safety. Wright returned for an old lady neighbor after getting his own family out, and had to carry her.

Passing a building an explosion wrecked it and threw him, and his burden heavily to the ground. The heat was so intense that he had to dig a hole in the sand with his hands to get breath, keeping his face close to the ground. His face was burned severely, but he managed to get the old lady to safety.

Mrs. Ashbee, who came out from Cochrane yesterday morning, was taken from the train at Englehart, where she gave birth to a child. The sad feature is that the husband was suffocated in a well during the fire. She was kept in ignorance of his death.

A large number of injured are coming out from Porcupine on special trains and will be cared for at various hospitals in the north country.

Fires are still burning and pioneers report that Matheson is surrounded by flames and will have a hard time escaping.

The Warren Lumber Co. at Sellwood burned out yesterday with heavy loss, much lumber being destroyed. Insurance of $90,000 came into effect yesterday.

T. & N. O. Railway Brakeman A. Lefebvre, killed at Latchford yesterday, leaves a wife and nine children.

Men worked hard rescuing children, who ran to and fro, frantic from the fire and flying pieces of wood and tin shingles wrenched from roofs by the gale. All the children were saved, but grave fears are felt for the safety of men in the bush, some saying that fifty may have perished.

Special constables were sworn in and efforts made to keep whisky from the thirsty ones. This was only partly successful, and one man was shot by a constable for persisting in an attempt to get at liquor under guard. The bullet passed through his neck and the wound is not serious, but the effect was salutary.

Martin Rocke, jeweler, took out most of his stock and placed it in a cabin on Columbo Lake, hiring a man to watch. The watchman was repeatedly driven from the post by the flames, but, tied the canoe to the bank and returned, when he could, the stock being intact in the morning.

DYNAMITE EXPLODED.

Accident Added Disaster Cut Off the Retreat in Porcupine.

Englehart, July 13.—Deep gloom pervades the entire camp, as one of the blackest fire calamities in the history of Ontario is gradually unfolded in official correctness with reports gathered from every quarter where messengers can travel. A total of 38 deaths by fire and suffocation and eight by drowning, so far as now known, with nearly fifty still missing and unaccounted for is the harvest of one of the most disastrous forest fires yet experienced in Porcupine. Men and women crazed with fear and driven to desperation by heat, flung themselves into the raging swells on the lake to be carried under and lost on water as well as on land.

The situation was horribly intensified by the exploding of dynamite, blinding sheets of flame cut off their retreat, and death stalked in whatever path they chose to take.

The death list so far as reported from all the prominent mines shows as follows: Burned or suffocated, Porcupine United Mines, Manager Andy Yuill, British Columbia; Frank Flynn, Bracebridge; Joe Fletcher, Bracebridge; Constable Engineer H. Martin, Thorntger, Los Angeles, badly burned; one other employe burned about the hands and lost the use. Phil. Philadelphia, Porcupine C. F. Adams, suffocated, with three others missing. West Dome: Manager Weiss, Miss Weiss (daughter), Mr. and Mrs. Bert Carpenter and wife, and eighteen workmen, all going down into a shaft. Mr. Tracey of New York crawled out of the shaft when suffocation started and is badly burned. Dome Mines: H. L. Silinan, son of President Silinan of the British Metallurgical Society, Mr. King, watchman; Johnson, workman, colored man; Machinist J. Whatough, Toronto, student of Toronto University, one unidentified workman. The list of injured is large. Capt. Meek, Engineer, Myles and Dr. McLean, suffering from smoke and burns in the eyes. South Porcupine: Bodies recovered, Capt. Dundas, employed at Kennedy's store; Meek Smith, bartender, and Tom Gillies, formerly of Toronto. Many are burned and several are missing yet.

By drowning in the lake: Porcupine Lake—William Moore, Armstrong-McGibben; Mirvin Strain, barber; Wm. Ogilvie and several foreigners went down in a canoe and have not been seen since. Women were swept into the lake by the waves as wash to either shore. Many are not accounted for. In Pearl Lake—C. Taylor, late of England, and running a shoe shop. The flames cut through from the middle line of Tisdale and swept a path more than ten miles wide, the wall of fire varying in height only as the length of the trees varied.

The following mines are swept clean: Dome, West Dome, Crown Chartered, swept clean at No. 2 camp; Vipond, Imperial, Standard, Philadelphia, Preston, Foley-O'Brien, lost camps only; Eldorado Porcupine United, North Dome and a large number of operating companies through the south centre of Tisdale. Northern Whitney mines at unnatured Aura Lake settlement was burned but no mine north of the Montreal or Rea are injured. All bodies being buried where they fell.

Places It at 270.

Toronto, July 13.—Two hundred men, women and children drowned in Porcupine Lake, forty bodies strewn along the cordurog road to the Dome mines, twenty men either burned or submerged at the West Dome mines, and eight more at the Dome, is the terrible toll of fire slaughter, according to a telephone message received last night by Weldy Young of Cobalt, at present staying at the King Edward, from his partner Carlton. In order to reach the phone Carlton had to crawl from Porcupine Lake, where over 600 people had gone for protection from the flames, and reach Haileybury by train, nearly 90 miles away.

Of the 600 people who went into Porcupine Lake to escape the flames, Carlton is sure at least 200 must have perished in the waters, newcomers continually forcing out those who had waded out to their depth. The fire raged right to the water's edge, and by burning up the oxygen in the air probably suffocated many more.

Relief Funds Begin.

Toronto, July 13.—With a common impulse, the Ontario Government, Board of Control and Board of Trade moved in the direction of affording relief to the stricken area. The Ontario Cabinet was hastily summoned together and authorized arrangements made in Cochrane to organize a committee to administer for the general good whatever funds and supplies are despatched to the north. The Government will, it is understood, contribute $10,000 as a direct grant.

The Board of Control had no hesitation in voting $5,000 as the city's contribution, and more may be given later as the situation becomes more clearly known. The Board of Trade pooled itself in energetic its desire to promote the interests of the northland by voting $1,000 with a spontaneity that spoke volumes.

FEATURE OF SPEECHES

Toronto, July 13.—Strong resolution condemning the "ne temere" decree, bi-lingual schools, and the proposed measure at home ruler Ireland was carried with enthusiasm by the assembled Orangemen of Toronto district in Exhibition Park yesterday afternoon, following the twelfth of July parade, in which nearly 5,000 participated. The weather was ideal and the speeches were full of even more than the accustomed vigor of Glorious Twelfth flowings of oratory.

Robt. Cellar, editor of The Huntingdon Gleaner of Quebec, in the opinion of many, carried off the oratorical honors of the day, and his utterances on the "ne temere" decree were especially trenchant.

"I am surprised and disappointed at what the Protestant Churches have said in this matter," he said. "They have rolled the words "ne temere" easily under their tongues, and have mingled it with religion and sectarianism. They should not. Marriage is purely a question of civil right. You have suggested all sorts of remedies for the 'ne temere,' but you are not going at the problem in the right way."

He then proceeded to show that the right way of going about it was to block every effort of Popish government in Canada.

Four Thousand Visitors in Barrie.

Barrie, July 13.—This town was ablaze yesterday with flags and bunting, while enthusiastic drummers of Orange lodges from many towns and villages around gathered here to celebrate the Battle of the Boyne.

At the grounds speeches were delivered by Haughton Lennox, M.P., W. A. Boys, M.C., and a number of clergy.

Some Hot Talk.

St. Catharines, July 13.—Two thousand visitors from Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and many surrounding points attended the Orange demonstration here yesterday. Four thousand more paraded in the park, where speeches were given by prominent members of the order. Resolutions were passed condemning the "ne temere" decree and Roman Catholic interference in the public schools.

Two Thousand In Line.

Napanee, July 13.—The County of Lennox and Addington Orange celebration at Napanee was a great success. The parade was nearly two miles long and took nearly an hour to pass. The chair was occupied by Rev. C. W. Demille, county master. Speeches were delivered by Rev. Bro. R. H. Steacy of Ottawa; W. J. Pixel, M.P.P.; Rev. Bro. W. E. Kidd of Napanee, and Bro. Geo. McCartney, grand organizer.

Cornwall Right Royally.

Cornwall, July 13.—The "Glorious Twelfth" was right royally celebrated by the Orangemen of Stormont at the Village of Newington, yesterday. The brethren of the City of Ottawa, together with the Orange Young Britons, to the number of about 700, came in by special train.

Quiet at Hull.

Hull, July 13.—The Twelfth passed off very quietly here. A thousand Orangemen were in line and thousands of Catholics watched them without making a disturbance.

New Direct Line.

Galway, Ireland, July 13.—Sir Edward Morris, the Premier of Newfoundland, speaking here on Tuesday night, announced that his Government was ready to subsidize substantially direct line of steamers between Galway and Newfoundland.

THE BILL IS INTACT

Reciprocity in the United States Senate Weathers Another Attack—The Free List Amendment Defeated

RAPID ACTION

Washington, July 13.—Senator Bailey's free list amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill was defeated in the Senate late yesterday by a large majority. So evident was the margin against it that Senator Bailey did not ask for a roll call.

Pursuing the policy of forcing the opponents of reciprocity to proceed without delay, Senator Penrose urged Senator Bailey to introduce his wool tariff amendment at once. The latter did so, and the Senate adjourned with the amendment pending. It is a modification of the wool tariff bill recently passed by the House, and places all duties on raw and manufactured wool at a general average of 30 per cent.

The consideration of the reciprocity bill is expected to move with rapidity from now on. The wool amendment will probably be disposed of to-day, and Senators Lafollette and Brimstow are ready with their amendments and their speeches against the bill.

"Semi-Democrats," "Borrowed Democrats," and like terms were applied to the Republican Senators supporting the bill by Senator Heyburn of Idaho in a speech against the measure. He declared that when the vote on the bill is taken, all real Republicans in the Senate will be opposed to it, while "the semi-Democrats," will vote for it, along with the "fee simple democrats."

Endorses Laurier's Idea.

London, July 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement that he had stood at each conference for the right of each nation to govern itself, The Westminster Gazette says that is the true basis of Empire, though it may lead to difficulties, none of them insuperable. We have to start on this basis and built upon it, and are convinced we will be able to rear a satisfactory and enduring structure by loyal, affectionate co-operation between the mother and the dominions.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Belleville Team Strongest Peterboro Has Met During the Season

Saturday's game between the Grand Trunk of Belleville and the Peterborough Midland League team will start at 3 o'clock sharp, with Mr. Dan. McCabe handling the indicator. The Petes had a rattling practice last night with nearly every player out in uniform and the team will be in the best shape of the season on Saturday. By all accounts they will need to be, too, as the Belleville team looks like the hardest proposition the Petes have been called upon to meet. Ashton their crack twirler, who was with the Montreal Eastern League team at the beginning of the season, recently struck out eighteen men and held his opponents to one scratch hit and the slugging Petes will have their work cut out for them Saturday to increase the avoirdupois of their batting averages off the big Belleville twirler. There will be one familiar face to the Peterborough fans on the Belleville line-up, as George Minorgan, the fast fielding short stop of last year's West End team is playing the short field position for the Railway Men. Minorgan was attending Albert College in Belleville last term and showed such form that he was snapped up by the Grand Trunks. The latter have yet to lose a game this season, but the Petes are determined to stop their winning streak. Manager Quinlan will pitch for the homesters with the team about the same as usual, and the blue and white players are determined to make Saturday's engagement result in the sixth victory of the season. The prices will be the same as usual, gentlemen 25c., ladies 15c. and children 10c. The biggest crowd of the year will be on hand for the game as the fans remember the decisive manner in which the Belleville team won here last year and are anxious to see the Petes get revenge.

BELMONT CLUB REGATTA WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Splendid Races in the Early Part of the Evening Were Followed by a Flotilla of Illuminated Canoes and the Festivities Were Wound up by a Most Enjoyable Dance

One of the most pleasing and successful events of the season was the Regatta held by the Belmont Club on the river in front of their club house, last night. The races, although being the feature, were not the only event on the programme, as they were followed by a flotilla, and afterwards, a dance in the club house, which was taken part in by a large number of guests. Owing to the refreshing coolness of the evening a large number attended, and the occasion was greatly enjoyed. The regatta began at 6.30, and as the darkness crept on, the silvery mirror of the river was bespangled by star-like headlights and Chinese lanterns, which presented a fairylike appearance, as they flitted back and forth past each other. The whole scene, the confusion of illuminated objects, was most picturesque. As the flotilla of canoes and other craft passed the Club house, they were greeted by cheers which were anawered by the occupants of the boats. The canoes of the flotilla were beautifully decorated with flags and Chinese decorations.

The canoe races were watched with great interest by the crowds, which lined the balcony of the club house and the shores, and proved worthy of the interest displayed. Excitement was added by the occupants of some of the frail craft getting upset.

The prizes, and prize winners, were as follows:

Gentlemen's doubles, open, box of cigars, donated by C. G. Graham, won by Percy and Bert. Stock.

Ladies' doubles, open, box of candies, won by Miss K. Merril and Ola Cavanah.

Mixed doubles, open, belt and candy, won by Mr. McMartin and Miss McMartin.

Ladies' singles, open, box of candies, won by Miss Murial O'Dette.

Gentlemen's singles, open, pipe—James McMartin.

The canoe races were the feature of the evening, and lasted until about eight o'clock, after which the flotilla took place, followed by the dance in the club house.

There was a badge given for the best dressed canoe, which was won by Mr. Harold Burns, whose canoe was truly worthy of the prize. His craft was decorated by illuminated figures and Chinese lanterns, Japanese umbrellas and other novel decorations, giving it a picturesque appearance.

The ladies' single canoe race was probably the most interesting in the race line, as a couple of launches passed the canoes, making the water very rough, thereby giving the ladies a chance to show their efficiency as canoeists. They were applauded as they neared the goal, and, after the race, the bystanders declared it the best contested race of the lot.

The event, as before stated, was probably the most successful one of the season, and was only one more evidence of the fact "that whatever the Belmont Club begins, must conclude by being a high success."

Latest figures showed wheat 1c to 1½c to 1½c off; oats 1c to 1½c to 1¾c, and hog products varying from 10c decline to a rise of 10c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day 1½d to 2d lower than yesterday on wheat, and 1d lower on corn. Wheat at Berlin closed ½c lower, at Antwerp ½c lower, and at Buda Pest ½c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 12.—Owing to the brilliant weather for harvesting in the United Kingdom and the continent, cable advices on Manitoba spring wheat ease weaker and the prices bid showed a decline of 2½d per quarter, as compared with yesterday's, which were away out of line with values here and no business was done. The foreign demand for oats continues good and early in the day sales of several loads were made, but at the close of the market in Winnipeg bids were out of line on account of the sharp advance in prices. The local market was strong and prices advanced 2c to 1c per bushel, with a good demand for round lots, but there were none offering and no sales were made. American corn is also very strong and holders of No. 2 yellow are now asking 75c per bushel for car lots, ex-store.

There continues to be a good country demand for spring wheat flour for export account and further large sales were made. The demand for bran from American buyers is good, but as millers are pretty well sold up for the present no new business was reported.

Oats, Canadian western, No. 2, 45½c to 46c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 45½c to 45¾c; No. 1 C.W., 44c to 44½c. Lots of Business.

Montreal, July 13.—The statement is made on the authority of the president that by the time the Canadian Northern Railway is completed from the St. Lawrence to the Pacific Ocean, there will then be freight to the amount of two million tons annually controlled by Mackenzie and Mann, ready to be sent over the Canadian Northern rails from Vancouver to Montreal, and thence to be transferred to the company's steamers, either here or at Halifax. It was stated that Sir William Mackenzie had personally made the calculation.

Made Break For Liberty.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 13.—While being taken to police headquarters early yesterday to be locked up on a charge of train riding, Charles Davis, colored, assisted Policeman Farrell to recapture Harry Fox, arrested with Davis, who broke for liberty when in sight of headquarters. Fox is thought by the police to have escaped from the western asylum.

MANY GOOD MARKSMEN.

Canadians Winning Money in the Sweepstakes.

Bisley Camp, July 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadians are doing well in the daily sweepstake events. Sergt. Russell at 200 yards range, was first, winning 60s., and Lieut. Blackburn fourteenth, winning 20 shillings.

At 500 yards Bibby was second, winning 60 shillings.

Corpl. Mortimer in the Halford Memorial, was fifth, winning 40 shillings.

With the Canadians are a number of well-known shots, who are not attached to the team. They are:—Maj. Hart McHarg, Col. Stuart, Col. Sergt. Hunter and Pte. Warden, of Vancouver, Capt. Wolfenden, B.C.; Capt. Dover of Truro; Staff-Sergt. Richardson of Victoria; Sergt. White and Sergt. Cliff, Toronto; Lieut. Blackburn, Sergt. Forbes Clark, Winnipeg, and Sergt. Peter Armstrong.

At the S.M.R.C. meeting the Canadian cadets secured the Lee Challenge Cup, and in the Earl Grey Cup, H. Lawson was equal first. Lord Cheylesmere has arranged for a Bisley competition in which the Canadian cadets may participate.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Charges against City Foreman Patrick Mulhall were heard at London, Ont.

The Riordan Paper Co.'s mill at Calumet, Que., was burned with 20,000,000 feet of lumber. The loss is $1,000,000.

The total of victims from heat prostration in Toronto since the first of July is now 65. Three more died yesterday.

Albert May, fire-ranger, shot himself dead in a shanty on Moon River. He is supposed to have become demented from the heat while fighting fires.

The crews of the Red Star steamers in the Antwerp-Boston service joined the seamen's strike yesterday. All the Red Star services are now affected.

Two strangers tried to sell an umbrella at the second-hand store of H. Sugarman of Kingston. Sugarman did not care to buy. One fellow then brutally assaulted him and both fled.

King George and Queen Mary concluded their visit to Ireland yesterday and with the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, sailed on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert for Holyhead, Wales. The investiture of the Prince of Wales takes place in Carnarvon Castle to-day.

Sues For $15,000.

Montreal, July 13.—A fifteen-thousand dollar damage suit against Oliver Asselin has been entered by Controller L. Wanklyn, who alleges that the defendant has made and caused to be published certain libelous statements concerning the methods of the controller in conducting the business of the city. The statements in question appeared in L'Action, a recent entry into the field of French-Canadian journalism, and were later published in the form of an interview in La Presse.

They are to the effect that Controller Wanklyn shewed favoritism in giving out certain civic contracts, notably those for street paving, and that he used his official position to forward personal ends, allowing himself to be moved by personal considerations rather than by a desire for the welfare of the city. La Presse publicly retracted the statements and Mr. Wanklyn is now suing Mr. Asselin for $15,000 unless he agrees to make public retraction. Interest is added by the fact that Mr. Asselin an ex-journalist, is the secretary of the Hassan Paving Co., one of the disappointed tenderers for civic paving contracts.

No Mention of Taxis.

Montreal, July 13.—That the police have no power to arrest a man for refusing to pay his taxicab bill, was the judgment rendered yesterday by Judge Lanctot, when Thomas Davis, 46 Victoria street, was arraigned on a charge of being drunk and refusing to pay for a taxi.

Judge Lanctot explained that while a man was compelled to pay for cab hire as a consequence of a civic by law, there was nothing in either city bylaws or the criminal code referring to such up-to-date vehicles as taxi cabs, and as a consequence allowed Davis his liberty, although recommending that he settle for the taxi at once.

Davis told the court that he had $70 in his pocket. When he returned to his hotel, he was presented with a bill of $11 for the taxi, and when he put his hand in his pocket, his money was missing, and it was for this reason that the taxi bill went unpaid.

Sir Eldon Gorst Dead.

London, July 13.—Sir Eldon Gorst, British agent and consul general in Egypt, whose administration was attacked by Theodore Roosevelt in the latter's Guild Hall speech, died yesterday from a complication of diseases.

Sir Eldon Gorst, K.C.B., was appointed British agent and consul-general in Egypt, in succession to Lord Cromer, in May, 1907. He was forty-nine years of age.

Moving Picture Fire.

Kingston, July 13.—Damage to the extent of $2,000 was done at the Orpheum Theatre by a blaze which started in the operating room as the result of a short circuit. Ned Holder, the night watchman, was found overcome with smoke and carried out by Chief Armstrong and his men. J. Lynn is manager of the house, which is owned by the Griffin Amusement Co.

Cabby Was a Bruiser.

Montreal, July 13.—Because Jim would not give him an extra quarter which he demanded, an infuriated cabman seriously assaulted Mrs. E. W. Bird and her maid, Kathleen Hayes, on the steps of Mrs. Bird's home, 341 Dorchester street west, yesterday afternoon. The man made good his escape before the women recovered from the effects of the blows he had dealt and is now being looked for by the police.

Crippen's Lawyer Suspended.

London, July 13.—Charged with having sold a "bogus" confession of Dr. H. H. Crippen, the American physician convicted and executed for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, and having misconducted the case, Arthur Newton, the solicitor who had charge of Crippen's defence, was yesterday suspended from the practice of law for one year.

Michigan Fires.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—Early reports yesterday from the fire-swept district of Northern Michigan say that several settlers' families and lumber camp crews near Wolverine, and several families near Gaylord are missing.

Of the two towns of Oscoda and Ausable, with 1,800 inhabitants, only a school and two dwellings in the south end of Ausable are left standing.

The high wind was general throughout northern Michigan Tuesday night, and from all over the district came reports of heavy fires fanned to huge proportions by the breeze which is reported at from 40 to 60 miles at various points.

The burned bodies of three men and a woman are reported to have been found yesterday near the railroad tarcks at Ausable, according to an unconfirmed report reaching The Detroit News. The four had apparently been heading for the open fields when they were overcome.

Alpena, Mich., July 13.—The towns of Tower and Onaway are reported to be partly destroyed by forest fires, with heavy losses, also at Millersburg, Metz, Posen and Laroque. Frenchtown, a thickly settled portion of Onaway, is said to have been wiped out.

Farmer Shot Himself.

Tweed, July 13.—Isaac Carscallen, a bachelor farmer, was found dead with a bullet hole through his brain on Tuesday.

It looks as if he had shot himself while sitting on a stone pile under a tree in the lane, for blood was found there, and a 32-calibre Smith and Wesson revolver lay about three feet away. Death was not instantaneous, for he appears to have walked in a semi-circle to about thirty feet away, where he fell. The bullet passed into the head near the right temple.

Workmen Had a Treat.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 13.—Work in factories along the American side of the river between the upper and lower bridges progressed very slowly for two hours yesterday because the workmen were engaged in watching a mysterious woman swimmer sporting about in the treacherous waters at the foot of the two-hundred-foot bank on the Canadian side. What chiefly took interest in the woman's sport was the fact that she failed to wear the conventional bathing suit, preferring Eve's costume.

Pilot to Blame.

Montreal, July 13.—The formal investigation into the grounding of the steamer Stormount near Longue Point, on May 6 last, was concluded yesterday afternoon and judgment was given, placing the whole responsibility of the accident on Pilot Rivard, who was in charge of the vessel, when the grounding occurred. The pilot was punished by the suspension of his pilot's certificate for the balance of the year, and was given a severe reprimand. His apprentice pilot's certificate was returned to him, "so that he might acquire the knowledge which all pilots should possess."

Newspaper Will Build.

Kingston, July 13.—Announcement is made here by The Daily Standard that in order to provide the necessary facility and accommodation for its increased business it will build a handsome three-storey office for itself on Brock street, adjoining the new Bank of Commerce building. Work will be begun at once.

Florence Nightingale Statue.

The memorial in England to Florence Nightingale is to take the form first of a statue to be placed where all may see it, perhaps in Pall Mall, opposite to the Crimean Memorial; next, of a fund to provide annuities (to be known as Florence Nightingale annuities), for trained nurses who, while devoting the best years of their lives to following their vocation, have been unable to provide adequately for their old age or infirmity. Their Majesties the King and Queen have graciously given their approval to this fund. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. G. Q. Roberts, at St. Thomas' Hospital, London. At almost the same time, a mural tablet is to be erected to the memory of the late Florence Nightingale in the Cloisters of Santa Croce, at Florence. It may be remembered that Florence Nightingale was named Florence because she was born in that city, and the house in which she was born, the Villa Colombia, still stands there; it is owned by Herr von Kaufmann, who has given his consent to have a tablet set up over the door in memory of the event.

Suiter Has Disappointment.

The Marquis of Northampton, who has celebrated his sixty-first birthday, is a Knight of the Garter, and one of the biggest landlords in London, owning extensive properties in the Clerkenwell district. He is well-known as a philanthropist, and takes great interest in various religious enterprises. He is not fond of politics, but is a keen student of the social problems of the day, and is an accomplished musician and a great lover of art.

The marquis is a widower, his wife, who was a daughter of the second Lord Ashburton, having died in 1902. It is said that this lady might have contracted an alliance with a member of the royal family, and Queen Victoria was supposed to have interested herself in the matter, but her affection for the future Lord Northampton overcame all else, and they were happily married in 1884.

Bricks They Use In London.

Something less than a century ago there used to be a tax on building bricks in England, and in order to evade it the bricks were made of larger and larger sizes. These were used for cellars and other concealed places. To stop this fraud an act was passed in the reign of George III. fixing the legal size of bricks. Early in Queen Victoria's reign the tax was taken off, and bricks may now be legally made of any size whatever. But any change from the standard size would bring about great inconvenience. All calculations are made for building on this standard size, and the London building acts have practically fixed it at 9 by 4 1-2 by 3 for all time.—London Standard.

Will Be Grand Affair.

The ball which the Duchess of Sutherland will give in June will be a very important social function, for the King and Queen have notified their intention to be present. For this reason the ball, which is to celebrate the debut of Lady Rosemary Leveson-Gower, the only daughter of the Duke and Duchess, is to take place on the night following the Coronation Day, instead of Coronation Day itself, as at first contemplated. Most of the royal and other distinguished guests then in England are expected to be present.

RAID WAS PLANNED

Says Witness at Inquest Into the Shooting of Glengarry Man—Constable Accompanied the Party

THE VERDICT REACHED

Cornwall, July 14.—The inquest into the death of the late William Shaw of Carp, who died in the Cornwall General Hospital on July 7, of a bullet wound received at Bridge End, Glengarry, on Dominion Day, was concluded last evening after an all-day session.

The jury brought in a verdict that W. Shaw came to his death from a bullet fired from a rifle in the hands of Farquhar McRae at Bridge End, Glengarry, July 1, 1911, dying from the effects of his wounds at Cornwall on July 7."

The first witness was Herbert Arthur Tomkins, chauffeur, who drove Dr. Magee and his brother, J. M. Magee, along with the ill-fated Shaw to Bridge End on Dominion Day, picking up Constable Uren at Bainsville.

Dr. Magee told how, along with his brother, Shaw and Constable Uren of Bainsville, he had attempted to recover possession of his six-months-old child. He and Shaw carried revolvers, and after the shooting he took possession of Shaw's gun. He had not applied to the courts for possession of his child, believing that the method he followed was more expedient. He knew his action was illegal, but he took the chance. The party arranged to surround the house on all sides and the move was successful, but his father-in-law, D. C. McRae, was notified of his coming and Mrs. Magee and the child were hidden in a field. He denied that any of his party had threatened or struck any of the McRaes. This was the second time he had attempted to get the child by force.

When he was searching the field, D. C. McRae pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot. Both D. C. and his hired man, Albert Rosser, threatened to shoot on the road, and when they finally started, F. D. McRae dropped on one knee and aimed at the witness. Bad roads gave the auto a jolt, causing the witness to drop into his seat at the moment of the firing. This, he claimed, saved his life, as McRae was aiming at him.

Under cross-examination Dr. Magee denied writing threatening letters to his wife. This led to the production of a letter by Dr. Pringle. Dr. McGee admitted the authorship, and when the coroner had examined the letter, he asked the ladies present to retire while it was read. The letter was turned over to the jury unread.

John Uren, the Bainsville constable, told how he had met the Carp party by appointment and accompanied them to Bridge End. He denied having a revolver or holding up D. C. McRae, but afterwards admitted keeping him cornered while Dr. Magee searched the house. He also swore to seeing F. D. McRae aim and fire at the auto party as they were leaving.

Albert Rossen, an Englishman, employed by D. C. McRae, swore that when they started back Constable Uren had a gun in his hands. Farquhar McRae fired hurriedly. He would have tackled Uren in the house, had not Mrs. McRae told him that Uren had a gun.

HUNDREDS OF REFUGEES ARE POURING OUT OF PORCUPINE

Chairman Englehart Fears That the Worst is Yet to Come—Full Extent of the Horror Will Probably Never be Known—Number of Dead Variously Estimated From 150 to 500

North Bay, July 14.—With an entire carload of coffins on board, a relief train left North Bay yesterday afternoon for Porcupine. The train also carried provisions, blankets, tents, etc.

The latest estimates of the dead vary from 150 to 500, while many think the death roll will reach larger figures. Dome mines, with 300 employes, can account for only about 30 saved, while other mines in the vicinity with smaller payrolls, are in a similar position.

Refugees coming out yesterday from South Porcupine tell a horrible story of being forced into the water of the lake by the fire and waiting hours for succor. A terrific gale was blowing and the waves dashed mountains high, so that very few boats could venture out, but the women and children were taken away, while the foreigners were kept back by a determined young man with a revolver, who threatened to shoot any man attempting to board a boat until the women were taken off.

Billy Moore, a well-known mining man, got in a canoe with Jack McMurchy, Barrister Brooks of Montreal, and George Green, and without paddles tried to breast the waves with short sticks. The canoe was overturned and Moore was drowned, the others escaping.

Survivors from Porcupine tell sorry tales of lying in swamps, besides lakes, and escaping with scorched lungs and burned bodies. Many women and children stood chin deep in the water at South Porcupine for five hours and survived the terrible heat, while many sank beneath, to rise no more.

The actual casualties will never be known, as many lakes and rivers are tombs of prospectors and miners.

Survivors coming out tell of terrible conditions, with a dense pall of smoke hiding the trails, and everybody taking chances. Swedes, Pollocks and Italians, laborers at the mines, rushing through the bush in all directions, many being overtaken by the flames and burned.

A gruesome sight at North Bay yesterday was the loading of the car of coffins which went forward on the relief train, in charge of General Passenger Agent Parr.

Word has been received from the stricken town of Cochrane to stop all people going in there, as great difficulty is experienced providing for those who have remained since the fire.

Eight deaths are already reported in the Redstone district.

Campbell was the only man to escape from the West Dome. Thirty women beings having sought refuge in the shaft from the fire. The Vipond mines were swept clean. Manager W. H. Davidson and twenty-two men, fighting desperately for their lives and property, escaped. Capt. Dunbar, a well-known mining man, had a trying experience, but escaped. Two young men named Strain lost their lives at South Porcupine. Capt. Yost had a hard fight at Goose Lake, and lost seven men.

Special trains on the Government railway are rushing supplies to Porcupine and Cochrane, and tents and provisions will be there in plenty after the first night.

Fire swept clean the townships of Langmuir, Elorado, Shaw, Deloro, Ogden, McArthur and the Cripple Creek district, and how many of the thousands of prospectors escaped cannot be estimated, as only a small percentage could have saved their lives. The Hudson Bay Co. are forwarding supplies to the stricken, and everybody will be cared for.

A party of Queen's University students, who have been touring the mineral belt, escaped with their lives by a narrow margin. The include Wilmer Campbell, Charles Spearman, William Battersbee, Shorty Huff and Oulette. They had to run for miles with the fire all around them.

Manager Meek of the Dome mine went through yesterday morning with his mother to Copper Cliff, both suffering tortures in the shaft. Both are blind, temporarily at least, while the mother may die.

C. T. Young, ex-mayor of Haileybury, is chairman of the emergency committee at South Porcupine, and doing wonderful work in caring for the sufferers. Jack Munro, pugilist, is also chairman of a committee and doing good work.

Every man coming out reports seeing many dead bodies on the trails and roads, indicating that the death roll will be very heavy.

Official Death List.

Toronto, July 14.—The following official list of the dead was received at the Legislative Buildings to-day from Golden City. It represents only the known victims.

The following were drowned: Jules Metager, Paris, France; Andre Le Roux, Montreal; Arpila Mondoux, Cobalt; Chas. E. Adams, Phoenixville, Pa.; — Taylor, address unknown; Wm. Moore, Ottawa; Melvin Strain, Porcupine; Nathan Hass, Spokane, Wash.; Stanley Nicholsen, Guelph.

The burned are: Mack Smith, New Liskeard; R. A. Dwyer, Idaho; Frank Flynn, address unknown; Andy Yuill, Toronto; Joe Fletcher, Cochermouth, England; Pat Dwyer, address unknown; Wm. Ghore, Porcupine; T. R. Geddes, address unknown; Harry Hardy, Bath, England; Fritz Manse, address unknown; John Whatmough, Toronto; Thomas John King, Copper Cliff; Henry Jackson, address unknown; Archer Johnston, Sudbury, Ont.; Lee H. Suiman, London, Eng.; Stanley Fitzmaage, Mubourne; Robt. Weiss, wife and child, Butte, Mont.; James Rennie, Toronto; Jas. Welch, Cache Bay, Ont.; John McLaughlin, address unknown; William King, Boise, Idaho; Angus McDonald, Turner street, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burt, Cobalt, Ont.; Jack Taylor, address unknown; John Destern, address unknown; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. MacQueen, address unknown; John Walls, address unknown; Harry Brookline, address unknown; John Saunch, address unknown; Hugh McLeod, Glencoe Mills; Lester Henninger, Cape Breton; J. W. Granshaw, Inverness, N.S.; Wm. McLean, address unknown; J. Paulin, address unknown; J. Orr, address unknown; W. Besita, address unknown; A. J. Ryan, Lewry, Mass.; Capt. Thomas Dunbar, of Kennedy & Dunbar, address unknown, and a man named Alhod of Kelso, Ont.

Capt. Jack Hamilton, West Dome mine; Dan Smith, clerk, South Porcupine; twenty-seven others known to be dead in the West Dome shaft, names to hand; thirty foreigners known to be dead in one of the Dome shafts; — Lick, burned in bush; Arthur Aho, Copper Cliff, Ont., West Dome; Fritz Manse, workman at Dome mine.

The dead at Cochrane are: A. W. Ashley, painter, drowned; unidentified man, helping Ashley, drowned; French woman and her baby; woman and three children, burned; seven unidentified persons.

Some of the known missing are: Mr. Cartwright and his son, of Ridgeway, Penn., one of the owners of the Pearl Lake mine; and H. A. Sherman, mechanical engineer, Boston.

Survivors of the fire horror came into Toronto on every train from North Bay yesterday. Men from the Dome mines, prospectors, townsmen and mine owners, all came to their homes here, while others who had no homes to go to, stayed at the various hotels.

All brought tales of horror, but there were differences of opinion among the refugees as to whether the reports of the dead were exaggerated or not. One man, hatless and dressed in the best he could pick up in his flight for life, declared that the blazes had not touched the section where most of the prospectors were. Others declared there could never be any official count of the dead.

R. Lingdren, a prospector, reached the city yesterday afternoon being the first man to arrive in Toronto from Porcupine, since the great fire. He estimates that at least a thousand persons have perished, saying that there are 200 dead at the mines and four times that number of prospectors lost in the outlying townships. The fire has raged in four or five townships where thousands of prospectors were operating. Mr. Lingdren discredits the story that 200 persons were pushed into the lake at South Porcupine and were drowned. He says that the most serious drownings were caused by the capsizing of overladen launches and by the burning of a corduroy wharf, on which fifteen persons had taken refuge.

"It is getting worse," was Chairman Englehart's response to inquires yesterday, as to the latest reports from the fire-swept areas.

"The country is still in flames," he continued, "and with no indications of wearing out.

"Everyone that we could take or that wanted to come out of Porcupine are already out of there," continued the chairman. Mr. Englehart received a wire from Chief Engineer Clement, who is in Porcupine at present, stating that plenty of food of various kinds, and sleeping accommodation were on hand for those who remain. There was, however, a shortage of bread, but an ample supply was on the way.

Last Night in Porcupine.

The sights of dying men are pitiful. Twelve empty canoes on the shores of the lake make the outlook horrible. Dynamite has been used in the lake, but no bodies have risen yet. It is estimated that forty were drowned. One man was drowned at Pearl Lake.

Men from McArthur Township report a hard trip. All the townships near here have been completely swept. Pearl Lake, Dewick-Mooreing and McIntyre are the only big mines saved.

Fund Started in Montreal.

Montreal, July 14.—The owners of the Hollinger mine have started a relief fund in Montreal for the Porcupine sufferers, with the following amounts: Henry Timmins, $500; Noah Timmins, $500; John McMartin, $500; Duncan McMartin, $500; D. A. Dunlop, $500.

PASSES REPORT STAGE.

Veto Bill as Changed by Lords Will Be Rejected.

London, July 4.—The House of Lords entered yesterday upon the report stage of the veto bill. The advocates of a compromise have been to some extent pushed into the background during the last day or two by the "No surrender" faction.

The period of acute crisis will be reached with the week beginning July 24, when the Commons will reject the Lords' amendments, and the peers will have to make the final decision.

Lord Courtney yesterday afternoon moved an amendment reinstating the Speaker of the House as the judge of what constitutes a money bill, instead of the joint committee of the two Houses substituted by the amendment lately adopted.

Lord Courtney, who is out of sympathy with the general trend of the veto bill, warned the peers that the Commons would insist on its rights in all financial matters so in the interests of the powers of the Upper House in general legislation, it would be wise for the Lords to yield on this point.

Courtney's amendment was lost without division. Lord Cromer then moved an amendment which the Opposition carried without division, making bills imposing taxation subject to section two of the veto bill if in the opinion of a joint committee, the main governing purpose thereof was not purely financial in character.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Peavey Co. of St. Paul turned over all its assets to creditors.

Bishop Sweeny laid the corner-stone of the new parish hall at Collingwood.

The Warren Lumber Co.'s mill and fifty houses at Sellwood were burned.

The evidence in the Belleville tax lands sale was concluded, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Marsh being the last witnesses.

In a shooting affair with a tramp at Walford, C.P.R. Express Messenger Hickson received a bullet in his shoulder, and broke a rib by falling off a car.

John Price of Clifford was milking when lightning struck his barn, setting it on fire. He promptly emptied a pail of milk on the blaze, and saved the building.

It is reported that a Soo ore train and a freight train collided on the trestle leading to the Soo ore docks in Superior, Wis., Wednesday night. Twenty men are reported killed.

It was announced yesterday that the German gunboat Eber is being sent to Agadir, Morocco. This indicates that the cruiser Berlin's mission to the southern coast of Morocco may be a prolonged one.

"If the coal strike is not settled immediately the situation throughout the west this winter will be most serious," said F. W. Peters, of the C.P.R., yesterday in Calgary. "It will result in people being frozen to death."

Earl Webb, aged 14, who got away from Sarnia jail three weeks ago, stole $70 in Watford, got to Woodstock, and was arrested. Placed in the cells, he pulled down the stove pipes and crawled through the hole to freedom.

Boy Burglar Caught.

Kingston, July 14.—Caught in the act of ransacking the home of Capt. McGladne in broad daylight, a 12-year-old lad at police headquarters has already admitted one theft, and it is believed several other robberies which have occurred in the city can be traced to him.

Members of the family heard a noise in one of the upstairs bedrooms, and when one of the girls went to investigate, found the lad ransacking the place in true burglar fashion. She held the boy until a telephone call was sent to the police station, and handed him over to Constable Mullingar.

The youngster had a bunch of thirty keys in his possession and admitted having stolen them from different merchants.

APPEAL ALLOWED.

Russia Wins Case and Fedorenko May Be Re-arrested.

London, July 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Privy Council has allowed the appeal of the Attorney-General of Canada v. Fedorenko.

As a result of the appeal being allowed Fedorenko may be re-arrested.

The appeal to the Privy Council in the Fedorenko case is really at the instance of the Russian authorities. They pursued Fedorenko, who was charged with murder, and he was arrested in Winnipeg. After some time he was released on technical grounds. The Russian Government took up the matter with the British authorities, who in turn communicated with Canada, and advised that, as a matter of justice, Russia should be allowed to appeal. In the name of the Attorney-General of Manitoba, the case was consequently inscribed. The Fedorenko case has excited widespread interest. The Russian authorities claim he is a dangerous criminal, while friends of the fugitive maintain he is a victim of tyranny. The appeal incidentally should clear up some abstruse points respecting tradition.

Freezing Milk In Blocks.

New Haven, Conn., July 14.—As a result of the present scarcity of milk, experiments in freezing it are being tried in this city, with a view to providing a supply when delivery is slow. The plan is to freeze the milk into blocks of 200 and 500 pounds, which may be used as found necessary. At the present time milk dealers must depend solely on the daily output from dairy farms and are unable to allow for any sudden increase in demand or falling off in supply.

Japanese Grateful.

Ottawa, July 14.—The Japanese Government, through its consul-general, Hon. Mr. Nakamaura, has presented to Fred Cook, former mayor, a set of three beautiful silver cups.

This gift is in appreciation of Mr. Cook's services to Japan in 1909, when he organized in Ottawa and managed, as honorary secretary, the fund for the relief of the sufferers by famine in the northeast prefectures of Japan.

Killed By Ice Wagon.

Ottawa, July 14.—John Morris Nolet, aged two years and six months, the son of Joseph Nolet, 213 Cathcart street, was run over and almost instantly killed by a civil service ice wagon yesterday morning. The little lad was crossing Cathcart street to buy some candy at the corner grocery store, in company with his brother Roland.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, than you can afford to have the best of, than those glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

Says Witness at Inquest Into the Shooting of Glengarry Man—Constable Accompanied the Party

THE VERDICT REACHED

Cornwall, July 14.—The inquest into the death of the late William Shaw of Carp, who died in the Cornwall General Hospital on July 7, of a bullet wound received at Bridge End, Glengarry, on Dominion Day, was concluded last evening after an all-day session.

The jury brought in a verdict that W. Shaw came to his death from a bullet fired from a rifle in the hands of Farquhar McRae at Bridge End, Glengarry, July 1, 1911, dying from the effects of his wounds at Cornwall on July 7."

The first witness was Herbert Arthur Tomkins, chauffeur, who drove Dr. Magee and his brother, J. M. Magee, along with the ill-fated Shaw to Bridge End on Dominion Day, picking up Constable Uren at Bainsville.

The actual casualties will never be known, as many lakes and rivers are tombs of prospectors and miners.

Survivors coming out tell of terrible conditions, with a dense pall of smoke hiding the trails, and everybody taking chances. Swedes, Pollocks and Italians, laborers at the mines, rushing through the bush in all directions, many being overtaken by the flames and burned.

A gruesome sight at North Bay yesterday was the loading of the car of coffins which went forward on the relief train, in charge of General Passenger Agent Parr.

Word has been received from the stricken town of Cochrane to stop all people going in there, as great difficulty is experienced providing for those who have remained since the fire.

Eight deaths are already reported in the Redstone district.

Campbell was the only man to escape from the West Dome. Thirty auman beings having sought refuge in the shaft from the fire. The Vipond mines were swept clean. Manager W. H. Davidson and twenty-two men, fighting desperately for their lives and property, escaped. Capt. Dunbar, a well-known mining man, had a trying experience, but escaped. Two young men named Strain lost their lives at South Porcupine. Capt. Yost had a hard fight at Goose Lake, and lost seven men.

Special trains on the Government railway are rushing supplies to Porcupine and Cochrane, and tents and provisions will be there in plenty after the first night.

Fire swept clean the townships of Langmuir, Elorado, Shaw, Deloro, Ogden, McArthur and the Cripple Creek district, and how many of the thousands of prospectors escaped cannot be estimated, as only a small percentage could have saved their lives. The Hudson Bay Co. are forwarding supplies to the stricken, and everybody will be cared for.

A party of Queen's University students, who have been touring the mineral belt, escaped with their lives by a narrow margin. The include Wilmer Campbell, Charles Spearman, William Battersbee, Shorty Huff and Oulette. They had to run for miles with the fire all around them.

Manager Meek of the Dome mine went through yesterday morning with his mother to Copper Cliff, both suffering tortures in the shaft. Both are blind, temporarily at least, while the mother may die.

C. T. Young, ex-mayor of Haileybury, is chairman of the emergency committee at South Porcupine, and doing wonderful work in caring for the sufferers. Jack Munro, pugilist, is also chairman of a committee and doing good work.

Every man coming out reports seeing many dead bodies on the trails and roads, indicating that the death roll will be very heavy.

Thomas Dunbar, of Kennedy & Dunbar, address unknown, and a man named Alhod of Kelso, Ont.

Capt. Jack Hamilton, West Dome mine; Dan Smith, clerk, South Porcupine; twenty-seven others known to be dead in the West Dome shaft, names to hand; thirty foreigners known to be dead in one of the Dome shafts; — Liek, burned in bush; Arthur Aho, Copper Cliff, Ont., West Dome; Fritz Manse, workman at Dome mine.

The dead at Cochrane are: A. W. Ashley, painter, drowned; unidentified man, helping Ashley, drowned; French woman and her baby; woman and three children, burned; seven unidentified persons.

Some of the known missing are: Mr. Cartwright and his son, of Ridgeway, Penn., one of the owners of the Pearl Lake mine; and H. A. Sherman, mechanical engineer, Boston.

Survivors of the fire horror came into Toronto on every train from North Bay yesterday. Men from the Dome mines, prospectors, townsmen and mine owners, all came to their homes here, while others who had no homes to go to, stayed at the various hotels.

All brought tales of horror, but there were differences of opinion among the refugees as to whether the reports of the dead were exaggerated or not. One man, hatless and dressed in the best he could pick up in his flight for life, declared that the blazes had not touched the section where most of the prospectors were. Others declared there could never be any official count of the dead.

R. Lingdren, a prospector, reached the city yesterday afternoon being the first man to arrive in Toronto from Porcupine, since the great fire. He estimates that at least a thousand persons have perished, saying that there are 200 dead at the mines and four times that number of prospectors lost in the outlying townships. The fire has raged in four or five townships where thousands of prospectors were operating. Mr. Lingdren discredits the story that 200 persons were pushed into the lake at South Porcupine and were drowned. He says that the most serious drownings were caused by the capsizing of overladen launches and by the burning of a corduroy wharf, on which fifteen persons had taken refuge.

"It is getting worse," was Chairman Englehart's response to inquires yesterday, as to the latest reports from the fire-swept areas.

"The country is still in flames," he continued, "and with no indications of wearing out.

"Everyone that we could take or that wanted to come out of Porcupine are already out of there," continued the chairman. Mr. Englehart received a wire from Chief Engineer Clement, who is in Porcupine at present, stating that plenty of food of various kinds, and sleeping accommodation were on hand for those who remain. There was, however, a shortage of bread, but an ample supply was on the way.

Last Night in Porcupine.

The sights of dying men are pitiful. Twelve empty canoes on the shores of the lake make the outlook horrible. Dynamite has been used in the lake, but no bodies have risen yet. It is estimated that forty were drowned. One man was drowned at Pearl Lake.

Men from McArthur Township report a hard trip. All the townships near here have been completely swept. Pearl Lake, Bewick-Moreing and McIntyre are the only big mines saved.

Fund Started in Montreal.

Montreal, July 14.—The owners of the Hollinger mine have started a relief fund in Montreal for the Porcupine sufferers, with the following contents: Henry Timmins, $50; Noah Timmins, $250; John McMartin, $500; Duncan McMartin, $500; D. A. Dunlop, $500.

PASSES REPORT STAGE.

Veto Bill as Changed by Lords Will Be Rejected.

London, July 4.—The House of Lords entered yesterday upon the report stage of the veto bill. The advocates of a compromise have been to some extent pushed into the background during the last day or two by the "No surrender" faction.

The period of acute crisis will be reached with the week beginning July 24, when the Commons will reject the Lords' amendments, and the peers will have to make the final decision.

Lord Courtney yesterday afternoon moved an amendment reinstating the Speaker of the House as the judge of what constitutes a money bill, instead of the joint committee of the two Houses substituted by the amendment lately adopted.

Lord Courtney, who is out of sympathy with the general trend of the veto bill, warned the peers that the Commons would insist on its rights in all financial matters so in the interests of the powers of the Upper House in general legislation, it would be wise for the Lords to yield on this point.

Courtney's amendment was lost without division. Lord Cromer then moved an amendment which the Opposition carried without division, making bills imposing taxation subject to section two of the veto bill if in the opinion of a joint committee, the main governing purpose thereof was not purely financial in character.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Peavey Co. of St. Paul turned over all its assets to creditors.

Bishop Sweeny laid the corner-stone of the new parish hall at Collingwood.

The Warren Lumber Co.'s mill and fifty houses at Sellwood were burned.

The McGuigan Co. of Toronto were awarded the contract for the new filtration plant at Montreal.

The evidence in the Belleville tax lands sale was concluded, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Marsh being the last witnesses.

In a shooting affair with a tramp at Walford, C.P.R. Express Messenger Hickson received a bullet in his shoulder, and broke a rib by falling off a car.

John Price of Clifford was milking when lightning struck his barn, setting it on fire. He promptly emptied a pail of milk on the blaze, and saved the building.

It is reported that a Soo ore train and a freight train collided on the trestle leading to the Soo ore docks in Superior, Wis., Wednesday night. Twenty men are reported killed.

It was announced yesterday that the German gunboat Eber is being sent to Agadir, Morocco. This indicates that the cruiser Berlin's mission to the southern coast of Morocco may be a prolonged one.

"If the coal strike is not settled immediately the situation throughout the west this winter will be most serious," said F. W. Peters, of the C.P.R., yesterday in Calgary. "It will result in people being frozen to death."

Karl Webb, aged 14, who got away from Sarnia jail three weeks ago, stole $70 in Watford, got to Woodstock, and was arrested. Placed in the cells, he pulled down the stove pipes and crawled through the hole to freedom.

Boy Burglar Caught.

Kingston, July 14.—Caught in the act of ransacking the home of Capt McGladne in broad daylight, a 12-year-old lad at police headquarters has already admitted one theft, and it is believed several other robberies which have occurred in the city can be traced to him.

Members of the family heard a noise in one of the upstairs bed rooms, and when one of the girls went to investigate, found the lad ransacking the place in true burglar fashion. She held the boy until a telephone call was sent to the police station, and handed him over to Constable Mullinger.

The youngster had a bunch of thirty keys in his possession and admitted having stolen them from different merchants.

APPEAL ALLOWED.

Russia Wins Case and Fedorenko May Be Re-arrested.

London, July 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Privy Council has allowed the appeal of the Attorney-General of Canada v. Fedorenko.

As a result of the appeal being allowed Fedorenko may be re-arrested.

The appeal to the Privy Council in the Fedorenko case is really at the instance of the Russian authorities. They pursued Fedorenko, who was charged with murder, and he was arrested in Winnipeg. After some time he was released on technical grounds. The Russian Government took up the matter with the British authorities, who in turn communicated with Canada, and advised that, as a matter of justice, Russia should be allowed to appeal. In the name of the Attorney-General of Manitoba, the case was consequently inscribed. The Fedorenko case has excited widespread interest. The Russian authorities claim he is a dangerous criminal, while friends of the fugitive maintain he is a victim of tyranny. The appeal incidentally should clear up some abstruse points respecting tradition.

Freezing Milk In Blocks.

New Haven, Conn., July 14.—As a result of the present scarcity of milk, experiments in freezing it are being tried in this city, with a view to providing a supply when delivery is slow. The plan is to freeze the milk into blocks of 250 and 300 pounds, which may be used as found necessary. At the present time milk dealers must depend solely on the daily output from dairy farms and are unable to allow for any sudden increase in demand or falling off in supply.

Japanese Grateful.

Ottawa, July 14.—The Japanese Government, through its consul-general, Hon. Mr. Nakamaura, has presented to Fred Cook, former mayor, a set of three beautiful silver cups.

This gift is in appreciation of Mr. Cook's services to Japan in 1909, when he organized in Ottawa and managed, as honorary secretary, the fund for the relief of the sufferers by famine in the northeast prefectures of Japan.

Killed By Ice Wagon.

Ottawa, July 14.—John Morris Nolet, aged two years and six months, the son of Joseph Nolet, 213 Cathcart street, was run over and almost instantly killed by a civil service ice wagon yesterday morning. The little lad was crossing Cathcart street to buy some candy at the corner grocery store, in company with his brother Roland.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than these glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

All Work including the Lens Grinding is done on the Premises and Fully Guaranteed.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A HEART-TO-HEART TALK WITH HIMSELF BY A GRIEVANCE LOVER.

(Certain characters seems to need grievances as they do some indispensable article of food in order to maintain the attitude of discontent with which they torture their family and friends.—Dora Melegari in Makers of Joys and Sorrows.)

"I AM very happy this afternoon I have a grievance. It is a splendid grievance and it is against the whole family. I am deeply hurt. I shall sulk for hours and everybody will come to me and try to placate me. I shall have a beautiful time as soon as the family get home.

"Yes, they are all away. That is my grievance. I said I might possibly get home to-day and yet they went off auto riding with the Bemises. Of course I haven't been gone but three days, and of course they don't get auto rides often, but still I think they might have been at home to greet me.

"It just shows how little they care about me. It shows of how little account I am in my own home—doubt if they'd care if I didn't come at all.

"There, I've worked myself up splendidly and here they come. I'll have to open the front door, but I won't say a word until they speak to me.

"Well, I think I did that pretty well. I didn't say a word of reproach, but, by the way, I asked them how they enjoyed themselves, and the short way I answered them when they asked me what kind of a time I'd had, showed them how I felt.

"They all know I'm hurt and they're trying to be as nice as pie to me .They just wanted to know what I'd like best for supper and I said it didn't make any difference, in a tone that showed I felt how unimportant I was.

"I don't know whether I can show my displeasure best by going up in my room and shutting the door or by staying here and just answering in monosyllables. Think on the whole I'll get the most out of it if I stay here.

"What an absurd idea. Someone tried to make me believe that I didn't say I'd get home before to-morrow. Do they think I'll give up my grievance that easily? I guess not.

"Won't I come in the library and sing with them? No, of course I won't. I couldn't do more than that if I felt real pleasant.

"Mrs. Bemis has asked them to go autoing next Sunday, and they think it would be fun if I took someone's place. I love autoing, but I told them I wouldn't think of that. I'll go, all right, but I'll keep them begging me before I say yes.

"Oh, thunder, here's some company coming in the front gate. That means I'll have to be decent. You can't parade grievances in front of company, you know. They don't understand. They simply think you are disagreeable. I guess I'll carry out my other plan and go up in my room and close the door.

"Well, now, I call that a good parting shot. They called to me not to go upstairs, the Randalls were coming, and I said very coldly, 'I dont' seem to be included in the invitations that are extended to this family. I don't imagine their guests will miss me very much.'

"Mother looked as if she was going to cry.

"I think I got its full value out of that grievance, all right. I don't know when I've had so good a one."

My Grandfather's Story

From the Kindness of His Heart He Fell Into a Trap

By EDNA L. TROOP

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

My grandfather, who was a seafaring man almost from the time he was born till he was sixty, told me this story when I was a boy. There were certain incidents and pictures in his narrative that made a lasting impression on my childish mind. I cannot give them as minutely as he who was the central figure of the story nor describe the tropical scenery as he saw it, lighted by a full moon. I can only mention the salient points as I remember them after an interval of many years.

"I was first mate," he said, "of the bark Ann Eliza. We were lying one night in the mouth of St. Johns river, Florida. The crew had gone ashore to a dance at one of the plantations, and the captain had gone in the same boat with them to attend to some business. I was left aboard in command of ten men. The captain had heard that there was a good deal of insubordination among the negro slaves in that region and that bands of negroes had cut loose from their masters and were going about looting whatever of value they could find. He charged me, therefore, to keep a sharp lookout for boats approaching the ship and not permit them to come too near.

"I was sitting on the quarterdeck with a minimum of clothing on me, for the weather was hot, smoking a cigar. The full moon was about an hour high and lit up the palms on the shores and the moss hanging on the forest trees, giving the scenery a peculiarly weird effect. There was not a cloud in the sky and no sound except the waves rolling in on the beach about a mile away, the monotonous rustling being occasionally broken by a song from a negro hut near the river bank.

"I was enjoying the shimmer of the moonlight on the water when I discovered a black speck in it. The water was comparatively smooth, so that I could keep the speck always in view. It soon grew more distinct, and I could distinguish what looked like a couple of paddles, one on each side, flashing alternately in the moonlight. As the spot drew nearer I saw that these were not paddles, but the arms of some one swimming hand over hand, the spot being the swimmer's head.

"Pretty soon the swimmer, a man, approached the ship. I leaned over the taffrail and asked him what he wanted.

"'Please, cap'n,' he said, 'let me come aboard and I'll tell you.'

"I ordered a rope ladder lowered, and the man came up. He was not much above the 'poor white trash' order. He said he owned a small plantation fronting on the river bank just below us, with a few negroes. He had learned that they were that night intending to murder him and all his family and take possession of his plantation. He had come to us for assistance.

"According to the man's story—and he seemed very much affected—unless I sent a force to guard him and his family I would permit their death. If I sent only a part of my men they might also be killed. If I sent them all it would leave the ship unprotected. A man begging for the life of his wife and children is pretty hard to resist. I would be disobeying the captain's orders and putting the ship in jeopardy if I yielded to his solicitations and would permit murder if I refused him.

"I never liked doing things by halves. Having decided to send a force to the imperiled family's assistance, I determined to send every man I had. This would give them the greatest strength in face of danger and throw all the responsibility for the safety of the ship upon me. If she were attacked during their absence I would be killed. I didn't wish any one killed with me. I preferred to take all the risk or none.

"I ordered a boat lowered and every man on board in it. The planter got into the stern with the coxswain in order to direct the course. I put the party under the command of an old salt named O'Neill and told him that if he saw anything to cause him to suspect treachery to tumble the planter overboard and return at once. The men pulled out, and I watched them in the shimmer till they were lost under the bank.

"They had scarcely disappeared when I saw a boat coming from the shore on which they were to land, but more nearly opposite the vessel.

"I knew in a moment that I had been tricked. The swimmer had come to lure away my men in order that a force might loot the ship. In all my seafaring life, with all its dangers, death never seemed so near to me. I resolved to make the best fight I could and kill as many of my enemies as possible. I had aboard plenty of muskets, cutlasses and a few hand grenades. I ran below, gathered half a dozen muskets, two pistols, two cutlasses and a stock of hand grenades. The muskets and pistols I loaded, then carried the outfit on deck, depositing it amidships on the side the boat was approaching. By the time I was ready for a fight the boat was within a cable's length of me.

"'Boat ahoy!' I cried. 'Keep off!'

"They stopped rowing, and a negro's voice called out:

"'Cap'n, can't yo' give us a little liquor? We hain't had nothin' to drink fo' a long spell.'

"'You keep off or I'll give you hot shot!'

"I heard a discussion in a low tone in the boat, then every oar dipped in the water at once, and they made a spurt straight for the ship. I dropped the man at the tiller with a musket ball and fired another shot among the oarsmen. The loss of their coxswain and the wounding of two men at the oars occasioned the check I hoped for. The two wounded men were both seated on the port side of the boat, and when they were disabled the others pulled the boat around to the starboard, exposing a broadside.

"A man in the bow holding a long pole with an enormous hook on the end was evidently the leader of the party, and he made an efficient chief. I heard him tell his men in negro dialect that there was only one man aboard the ship, that there was enough loot there to buy the freedom of every one of them and that it might be possible for them to take the ship and sail away with her. Then he ordered the places of the disabled men filled, equalising the crew on both sides, and under his direction the boat was headed for the ship.

"I felt that my life depended on picking off that man standing in the bow with his grappling hook. I aimed straight for his head, but at the moment the boat lurched, and I missed him. I fired again and saw him stagger, but I could not have wounded him severely, for he maintained his post.

"My stock of loaded muskets was now half exhausted, and I did not from the first calculate on reloading. But I hadn't even time to use one of those that were charged, for the boat's nose struck the ship's side, and while one of the men below used an ordinary boat hook the leader endeavored to put his grappler over the gunwale. I fought it off with a cutlass till several of the men in the boat jumped into the water and swam for the anchor chain.

"Here was a division of the attacking force which I had dreaded from the first. I did what I should have done as soon as the boat struck the ship. Seizing a hand grenade, I threw it down on to the boat. It struck the water and did not explode. The man with the long hook had by this time got it fastened over the gunwale and was climbing up by the pole hand over hand, carrying on one arm the end of a rope ladder. He was an athletic rascal and brave as he was strong. The distance he must climb was not over half a dozen feet. I waited till he had come within a yard of the gunwale, then reached over and clove his skull with a cutlass. He dropped back into the boat in which there were but three others, and I saw that his loss caused confusion and faint heartedness among them.

"I now had two sets of men to deal with; but, their leader having been put out of the fight, I felt more hope than at any time since the attack. Without giving the men in the boat time to recover I seized another hand grenade and, poising it with a deliberate aim, hurled it down on those below. It struck the bottom of the boat, exploded and blew both boat and men to smithereens.

"What I have told you as having occurred after the men started to swim for the bow occupied only a portion of a minute. As soon as one party was destroyed I turned my attention to the other. Three men were swimming forward, and before I had time to form a plan one of them had swung himself up on to the chains under the bowsprit, another was within a few yards of the anchor chain, while the third was still some distance away from anything to cling to. Seizing a cutlass, I ran forward. It was not my only weapon, for I had two loaded pistols in my belt. Running under the gunwale on the deck that I might not be seen, I appeared on the bowsprit just as the foremost man was laying a hand on it. With my cutlass I dropped him into the water.

"I now realized for the first time that I was in no further danger. There were two men against me, but they had no other weapon than cold steel, while I had the advantage of position and a loaded pistol. I had shed enough blood, so I called to the man climbing the anchor chain to let go or I would shoot him. He dropped into the water and struck out for the shore, followed by the man who had lagged behind.

"They had scarcely swum out of sight when I heard the sound of oars, and turning, there but a few hundred yards away was the boat I had sent on an errand of mercy. When the crew came aboard the fugitives had reached the shore. My men had heard my first shot, and the planter took to a thicket. Fearing trouble, they returned, but too late to be of service.

"I believe I would have concealed the facts of the narrow escape I had had if I could have done so. But since the boat's crew had heard the reports of my firearms, and especially the detonation of the hand grenade, I was obliged to give them the story. There were some doubters as to the number of men I had beaten off. The tide had carried away the leaders of the negroes, but the morning brought some of them back again to prove my statement. A party on shore got wind of the matter and came out to hear about the dispute between one man and a dozen negroes—as they gave the number—only two of the attacking party escaping with their lives. This put a different complexion on the matter, and the crew being convinced of the truth of my version of the story, I found myself in the position of a hero. I was referred to after that as the man who had fought twelve, killed eight and never got a scratch. Even that leaves out the two I might have killed."

You Have to Depend on the Filtering Process of the Liver and Kidneys.

These Organs Alone Can Purify the Blood, and They Do Their Work Well When Helped by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

No medical treatment can possibly purify the blood except as it sets in healthy working order the kidneys liver and bowels.

To these organs is assigned the duty of filtering from the blood the poisonous waste matter which is left over when the nutritious elements are extracted from the food you eat. If they are not overcrowded or slow and sluggish in action they keep the blood pure and healthy.

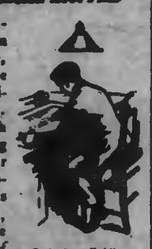
For this reason Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are the most satisfactory treatment you can possibly obtain to purify the blood.

Their effects are prompt, definite and certain. The liver action is quickened, the kidneys are invigorated, the regular movement of the bowels is assured. It is only a matter of a few hours until you begin to feel the benefit of this great medicine. Further use, as often as is necessary to keep these organs active, will cleanse and purify the blood and enable the digestive system to properly do its work.

Backache, headache and bodily pains will disappear, and the fatigue which is an accompaniment of poisons in the system will give way to new vigour and energy. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

LACK OF EXERCISE

Brings on Troubles which are Best Corrected by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills



Sedentary Habits Develop Constipation

Man was intended to live an active, outdoor life, and his digestive system was modelled accordingly. Indoor work with hands or head, long hours sitting or standing still, especially in air that's none too good, slow down the healthy activities of stomach, liver, kidneys and the millions of tiny skin glands.

Constipation, headaches, indigestion, biliousness, rheumatism and similar troubles follow.

Then the worth of that good old reliable family medicine, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, is appreciated. Though it has been in use for over half a century, modern science has not been able to devise a safer or better cleanser for the whole system.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are largely vegetable in composition, free from any harmful drug, and mild yet most effective in their action. They are "Mother's standby" in hundreds of homes because they nip in the bud so many of the common ailments.

TRAVELING IN INDIA.

Changes of Temperature Necessitate Wide Range of Clothes.

Everybody when on a journey in India carries his own bedding, and outside the large establishments of the Government officials everywhere it is needed. You are supposed to carry your own bedding with you just as you carry your own tooth-brush. In the trains—and there are very long train journeys, by slow trains, in India—in the guest-houses of the native princes, in camp, of course, always, and in the hotels and inns, your own bedding is a necessity. Indeed you can scarcely carry too much in India if you wish to be comfortable.

All sorts of clothing, from fur coats to the thinnest of linen, all sorts of hats from a cap to a pith helmet, a spirit lamp, a folding table and chair, a small amount of tinned or bottled food and a supply of mineral water for the train, a large supply of linen and underclothing, for one changes them often, and the laundry work is done by beating on flat stones.

The changes of temperature from noon till midnight are startling. One must give up cold baths and take to tepid or hot water, and be careful, indeed, what, and how much, one eats and drinks. No alcohol before sunset, and very little then, and the plainest and most nourishing food. In this land, as large almost as the whole of Europe, there are only a few large cities, where one can buy any of the luxuries or comforts of life outside the obvious, and what you need you must carry with you. On a large scale you do what the native does, you carry your household gods and goods about with you.

How differently "pick up your bed and walk" sounds in your ears when you see a whole population of hundreds of millions actually carrying their beds with them whenever they move. Why should one take heed as to what one shall eat, or drink, or wear, when a handful of rice, a thimbleful of water, and a loin-cloth suffice. The group of servants in front of their master's door at the hotel, or the hundreds of families traveling by train, by bullock-cart, or even on foot, have squeezed and sifted life's necessaries down to the vanishing point.

IS MYSTERY SOLVED?

THE SPHINX MAY HAVE REVEALED ITS SECRET AT LAST.

The Inscrutable Head That Has Gazed Out Over the Desert Is Said by Professor Reisner to Be the Gigantic Statue of Cephren Who Built the Greatest of the Pyramids —Yields Rich Treasures.

What man or woman is there among us who has not heard of the Sphinx? What traveler in Egypt, that land of fascination, shrouded in mystery and majestic calm, who has voluntarily missed paying a visit to the mighty stone image which for centuries has defied all efforts to lift the veil concealing its origin and symbolism. For hundreds of years it has kept its motionless watch in the desert, striking a chill into the hearts of all who see it. It seemed a great mocking thing of stone set up to teach man the lesson of his own impotence and frailty, mocking at the fruitless efforts of puny mortals to read its secret, certain in the knowledge that it was safe. And now the man is with us who claims to have accomplished what all his precursors throughout the centuries have failed to do—to have read the riddle of the Sphinx. The archaeologists of to-day, of course, claim that Professor Reisner's solution is just what they themselves expected, nothing startling, nothing particularly original; but archaeologists are like the rest of humanity in most vital respects, and they have learnt the wisdom of saying, "I told you so."

Authorities have held widely divergent views as to the date of the carving of the image; by some it is allotted to the period before the fourth dynasty, in which the Second Pyramid was built; whilst by a majority of others it is credited to later times, owing to the more frequent appearance of sphinxes at a later date. Professor Reisner has discovered the statue of the builder of the Third Pyramid which also owes its origin to the fourth dynasty, and his headdress is in every respect similar to that of the Sphinx. Since this particular form of head-dress does not appear anywhere else, the two obviously synchronise. Thus it is proved that the Sphinx is the effigy of Cephren, son of Cheops, who built himself the first and greatest pyramid of the three tombs. The intention in placing the head of the king on the body of a lion is to convey the idea of the monarch trampling down his foes.

After, the watchman of the netherworld and guardian of Ra, the sun-god, is frequently depicted as a sphinx, as, indeed, is Ra himself when he goes forth to war. That explains the fact of the Sphinx being face to face with the rising sun. The peculiar duty of sphinxes is to guard tombs from desecration at the hands of the stranger, so that its position with regard to the pyramid is accounted for. And it is strange how that lifeless thing of cold stone does trouble the minds of those who venture near. You who have gazed at the immobile features of that mighty countenance, which yet has such a strikingly searching and awe-inspiring effect, will realize what I mean. The last strong proof that the Sphinx is representative of Cephren Prof. Reisner came across during excavations around the Third Pyramid, for he, as stated, discovered the statue of Mycerinus, builder of the same. It is probable that this Mycerinus was a nephew of Cephren.

In 1908 three professors, Steindorff, Schiaparelli, and Reisner, were allowed to investigate at Gizeh. Schiaparelli took the First Pyramid, Steindorff the Second, Reisner the Third, which was productive of most interest. The last named professor first turned his attention to the great cemetery west of the First Pyramid, which had been divided between the three of them, his particular portion being the northerly. Here he unearthed the tombs of many of the sons and daughters of Cheops and other matters of interest, his chief work in this direction being the identification of the royal cemetery of Cephren, near the Second Pyramid. In 1908 and 1907 the excavation of the Pyramid Temple of Mycerinus was undertaken. Here was discovered a magnificent alabaster statue of Mycerinus, of which the head was outside the temple, so close to the surface that a tourist's stick or umbrella might have given away its whereabout.

In 1908, while searching for the valley temple of the Third Pyramid —for the Germans had previously discovered the valley temple to a pyramid of later date, proving that the Sphinx Temple was the valley temple of the Second Pyramid—a mud-brick building was discovered, and therein were disclosed a number of priceless treasures. In 1910 was found a beautiful pair statue, in dark slate, of Mycerinus and his queen, which was almost incredibly well preserved and had passed through the centuries undiscovered with only a stone between it and the light of day.

Three temples in all were found, one by Mycerinus, one by his son Shepseskaf, both unfinished, and one by Pepy II. of the sixth dynasty. Unfortunately in an article of this kind, one can only touch lightly on this enthralling subject. The great point is, however, that proof is given of the fact that the statues discovered are of the fourth dynasty pyramids had valley temples. Therefore the great Sphinx Temple is the valley temple of the Second Pyramid, the tomb of Cephren. Moreover, the dispute as to the date of the great diorite statue of Cephren and of the Sphinx itself was finally settled, for exactly the characteristics of the Cephren statue and the Sphinx which were supposed to be of later date were found in the newly unearthed statues.

Defeat That Summer Tired Feeling

There is no reason why you should not feel just as brisk and vigorous in the summer as at any other time. Yet most people do not and they believe that it is just the natural effect of warm weather. It is not. It is because the digestion is weak and the system has been allowed to run down and no effort made to keep it in good running order. When the hot weather comes be very careful what you eat so as not to upset your stomach and take

It is a gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic that influences for good every important organ of the body and brings restful sleep. It is a form of food already digested, and when taken just before a meal stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, causing a sufficient flow of the gastric juice to digest the food, and it promotes perfect assimilation. It also excites the flow of saliva for the digestion of starchy food, preventing fermentation in the stomach and bowels.

Coal Output of Nova Scotia.

Coal production in Nova Scotia for the year 1910 amounted to a total of 6,477,146 tons, being an increase over 1909 production of 291,128 tons. Colliery consumption accounted for 815,720 tons. The protracted strike at the plant of Cumberland Railway & Coal Co. was responsible last year for a decreased output in Cumberland county, 277,982 tons were mined as against 542,640 for the year before. The Maritime Coal, Railway & Power Co. was the chief producer, having raised 161,863 tons. Pictou county produced 836,599 tons, the greatest producer being the Acadia Coal Co. and the Intercolonial Coal Co. Inverness county 384,104 tons were raised, of which the Inverness Railway & Coal Co. contributed 277,267 tons and the Port Hood-Richmond Railway & Coal Co. the balance. The output of Cape Breton county was 4,206,131 tons, which is a considerable increase over that of 1909, when 3,684,808 tons were raised. The great bulk of this tonnage was raised by the Dominion Coal Co., with 3,944,754 tons, and the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. with 836,366 tons. Over eleven thousand persons were employed in the industry during the year.

Want Our Cider.

In this present year of scarcity, there is a greater demand than usual in England for Canadian cider. The supply from Canada has been limited owing to the small crop of apples and the greater portion retailed for consumption as fruit. Inquiries are therefore being made for fresh sources of supply. In connection with these inquiries it is worth while pointing out that while in the south of England the superiority of local-made cider is strongly asserted, there is in the midlands considerable demand for the imported product. It is claimed that owing to the greater sunshine prevailing during the ripening season, Canadian apples yield a liner article than can be obtained even from the best blends of English varieties.—Canadian Century.

Dangerous to Use "Esquire."

The recovery of a letter which had been sent to a little town in Germany and never delivered to the person addressed cured the writer of the custom of adding "Esquire" to a name on the superscription of mail matter. The letter in question would probably have been promptly delivered had the address read simply, "Mr. John Brown." But the sender had addressed it, "John Brown, Esquire," and the communication rested comfortably in the "E" compartment of the post restante department, waiting to be called for by "Mr. Esquire." One of the popular guide books warns against the use of "Esq." saying that it might be mistaken for a name.

One of the Tallest Officers.

Lieutenant-General J. M. Grierson has had a long and varied career in the army, and is generally regarded as one of the best of what may be described as our younger generation of soldiers. His abilities were first discovered by Sir Evelyn Wood, whose right hand on Salisbury Plain he was for some years. Since General Grierson is one of the tallest soldiers in the army at the present day, and Sir Evelyn Wood is, to put it mildly, below the middle height, the contrast between the two, when standing side by side, used to be most amusing, and the name of "Dignity and Impudence" was bestowed upon them by some of the younger officers in the command. General Grierson has a very nice wit, and on one occasion, during manoeuvres, a Howitzer was fired before the sponge stick —the rod used for cleaning the weapons out after a shot has been fired —had been removed. The result was that the stick went sailing through the air, to fall to the ground some distance away. "One of the best efforts I ever saw to 'sweep' the enemy in front of you," was General Grierson's smiling remark to the officer in charge of the gun. It is considered probable that he will be given the command in India before the end of the year, and if this is so it will recall one of his aphorisms to the effect that "India is a mighty convenient place to send soldiers whose presence is not desired at home."

Caste Law.

It is difficult for a European to realise the insuperable barriers which separate the castes of India, but the following may be interesting. The Hindus are divided into over three thousand castes, most of them with sub-castes, speak about nineteen developed languages, and over one hundred dialects.

There are two essentials to a true caste: (1) There is no entry, except by birth; (2) marriage outside the caste is absolutely forbidden.

The highest caste is the Brahmans, admittedly and undoubtedly superior to all the rest. After them come those who are acknowledged to be twice born. The less honored follow in a graduated descent until the untouchable and unspeakable are reached at the lowest depth.

If a man is excommunicated by his caste-fellows, nobody in the caste will marry him. He is dead to his family. Nobody will eat or drink with him. If he is married his wife will not touch him or speak to him. The village barber will not shave him, and the washerwoman will not wash his clothes.—Indian Daily News.

Reviving Grist Mills.

English newspapers tell of an organization of 200 farmers of Hawarden to revive the ancient water wheel gristmills in their vicinity and grind there all the wheat reserved for their own use. Numbers of old country mills are elsewhere being put to a similar use. It is declared that the flour thus produced is "nutritious and fragrant beyond any other in the world."

FIRST FULL STORY OF THE CIVIL WAR'S MOST DARING CAVALRY RAID

How General Shelby, with Only Eight Hundred Men, Invaded Missouri, Captured Twenty Towns, Fought Twoscore Battles and Outwitted Fifty Thousand Federal Troops

SHELBY'S INVASION TOLD IN A NUTSHELL.

GENERAL JO SHELBY'S mounted force in 1863 on invasion of Missouri, 800.

Distance covered, 1,000 miles.

In the saddle almost constantly for six weeks.

Battles and skirmishes fought, forty-three.

Garrisoned towns captured, twenty.

Forts and blockhouses destroyed, eleven.

Enemy killed, wounded or captured, 2,500.

His own force remounted, reclothed and rearmed during the expedition.

Returned to Arkansas with twice as many men as he started with.

Opposed from time to time by 50,000 federal troops.

Won every fight or eluded his pursuers.

This is the story of the most brilliant, arduous and successful cavalry expedition of the civil war.

Many of the facts printed here for the first time are from papers and letters furnished by a member of Shelby's staff.

BY FRANK H. BROOKS.

BECAUSE there was no historian for the Confederates west of the Mississippi River the most brilliant and audacious military movement of the civil war was minimized.

The movement was General Jo Shelby's invasion of his native State, three years after the war began. The object was to recruit his own force, gather supplies for the army in Arkansas and to strengthen the morale of the divisions that had become disgusted on account of the inactivity of the commander and the jealousies of his co-ordinates.

The men who could have written the story were in exile or busily engaged in starting anew for the actual necessities of life. Now and then fragmentary accounts of various phases of the struggle were printed, but there never was a consecutive story of the Southern cause on what was then called the border. During the progress of the war there were no accounts on the Confederate side of engagements, for the reason that there were no correspondents in the field, and there were no newspapers friendly to the cause to print accounts if there had been correspondents.

Besides, the situation in Virginia and other Southern States was such as to subordinate all events on the border. In addition, the Richmond government had no time, or inclination, to help the cause beyond the Mississippi. General Magruder, the best tactician and fighter on the border, had made himself obnoxious to Jefferson Davis when the former was in Virginia, and was banished to Texas, where there was not a federal regiment within five hundred miles of his "headquarters." From that time to the end Magruder was left to save himself.

The story of Shelby's invasion of Missouri is told here in detail for the first time. Some documents, personal and otherwise, furnished by Colonel John C. Moore, who went with Shelby to Mexico after the surrender of Appomattox, where Shelby and his followers offered service to Maximilian.

Shelby was a distinctive personality. Before the war he was a noticeable but unobtrusive citizen in an upheaval of hamlet in Lafayette county, Mo. He had no military training. It is not known that he ever "led a squadron," even for holiday purposes, in the field in the piping times of peace. Though he never aspired to be a leader in the affairs of his people he never hesitated to speak his convictions, but that was his limit. He was known to have the highest type of courage, but he was never aggressive. He was reserved, and even gentle in his nature. The latter trait was often conspicuous in his soldier life. In the days of chivalry he would have been knighted. He was noticeably tender in his attention to all women and a favorite with children.

From the day he raised his first regiment in his home town—Waverly—he evinced traits of diplomacy that marked his after career. Handicapped after the war was well on its way by superiors who were jealous of his initiative and remarkable influence over the soldiery, he always succeeded in having his own way at the last without incurring any malignant hostility. His conference with Maximilian in Mexico City, in which he made that misled ruler a bold proposal, was so direct and courteous that the Emperor, accustomed as he had been to the courts of Continental capitals, paid the American a compliment seldom bestowed by a crowned head upon a subject, much less a plain American.

Our own General Sheridan, who came to know Shelby personally after the war and who had watched his career in the war, said if Shelby had espoused the Union cause and had been properly placed the war would not have lasted as long as it did.

Invincible as a fighter, he was a stern disciplinarian. His motto was that any soldier in his command who would not cordially agree with him in his work was not to be trusted on a comfy at any crossroads.

Incidents of his high ideas of conducting war were [illegible]. One at the close of the struggle illustrates this characteristic. Shelby was on his way to the Mexican border with a thousand of his old men. His scouts brought word that a force of three thousand federals with a six-gun battery was marching to overtake him. Shelby had a staff officer who, to quote Shelby, "could turn the prettiest compliment, make the grandest bow, pay the handsomest compliment and drink the pleasantest toast of any man." He called him to the saddle and handed him a note, with instructions to ride back with all speed to the federal commander, Colonel Johnson. The note read:—

"Colonel Johnson:—My scouts inform me that you have about three thousand men and that you are looking for me. I have only one thousand men, and yet I think I should like to make your acquaintance. I shall probably march from my present camp about ten miles farther to-day, halting on the high road between San Antonio and Eagle Pass. Should you desire to pay me a visit you will find me at home until day after to-morrow."

The message was gracefully delivered. Johnson was a West Pointer and a gentleman. He bowed his acknowledgment and returned a promise "to call." Shelby waited all that night day, but Johnson did not come. To his credit Johnson thought better of it. He sent word that the war was practically over, and he saw no reason for sacrificing any more lives at that stage of the game, "even to accommodate a chivalrous foeman worthy of any cause."

He Called Him to the Saddle and Handed Him a Note.

There was another incident of a different character, and one known only to those immediately interested in it. In the last days of the contest Arkansas was overrun with bandits and other marauders of every degree. To Shelby was given the work of ridding the State of these afflictions. He did it as a civilian rather than as a soldier. It was so thorough and effective that the civil authorities gave all the credit to Shelby, adding that no other man could have done it.

The proposition of Shelby to return to his native State in the third year of the war has a counterpart still later, but on a bigger scale. He proposed that the entire army in Arkansas and Texas, 40,000 infantry and 10,000 cavalry, should invade Missouri under Magruder, Shelby to be in command of the cavalry. The army was to march directly on St. Louis, attack and capture it, and then carry the war into Illinois, Iowa and Kansas. The proposition was seriously considered, and all commanders agreed to it.

Within three weeks the army was to move, when the news of Lee's surrender, and that of Johnson after, dispelled hope of the proposed invasion. Shelby's plan to get possession of the State and prolong the war never materialized. That the proposition caused the authorities at Washington grave concern was never generally known, but such was the fact, and that was one reason why Sheridan was hurried to the Texas border.

With the arm in a sling, his bodily strength enervated, Shelby started on his invasion of Missouri in 1863 with a force of six hundred men and two pieces of artillery. He had asked for eight hundred men and was refused. As already stated, the force granted was really given in the belief in some quarters that it would desert if it were not allowed to go, and the hope in others quarters that it would never come back. Out of his six hundred Shelby selected a company of scouts and forerunners to go on ahead and rally recruits. The company scattered, with orders to report as quickly as possible their results.

Such were Shelby's inspiring methods that before he had gone fifty miles he received two hundred recruits. These were tried soldiers. They had become weary of sluggish tactics, and when they heard of Shelby's movement they deserted from their own commands to join his. There was no effort to get them back. Their commanders knew that they had deserted so as to have a chance to fight. In the history of warfare there are few instances analogous to this.

A quicker appreciation of the celerity of Shelby's flying invaders will be had when it is stated that the country between him and that which he entered is mountainous in part, and at the time when he passed over it there were stretches of scrubby oak and underbrush and miles of uninhabited land that produced nothing that an army needs in its march. Where than this, every important point was occupied by federal troops that were supplied and equipped with all that was necessary to help the morale of soldiers.

Before he could consider himself fairly under way Shelby had to cross the Arkansas River, a torpid, crooked stream that had few places for safe fording. One of the latter was at Dardanelle. The town was strongly garrisoned with federals. Shelby knew it

There was nothing of the freebooter in Shelby's nature. In the rapid dashes he had made upon the first posts he captured he paid for everything his men required. There was one exception. It was at Florence, a small place. When its inhabitants heard that the whirlwind was at its borders every citizen "skedaddled." There was not one left to whom Shelby could pay a cent for what he appropriated. But he gave the order that any man who looted would be shot without trial.

The next important point was Tipton, on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. It was the first important point beyond federal headquarters at St. Louis, and in easy communication with the latter city by wire and rail. The force at Tipton was in command of an old friend of Shelby—Colonel T. T. Crittenden, afterward a Governor of Missouri, and still later Minister at Mexico City in the Cleveland administration. The town held by Crittenden is in an open prairie. Crittenden was a good lawyer and an estimable man, but he never understood warfare. When he learned that his old friend Shelby was marching in, Crittenden moved his soldiers out on the prairie, as he would have done for dress parade.

Shelby was a cavalier. He sent word to Crittenden to get his men out of the way, as he did not wish to hurt anybody. There was a touch of American humor in this warning that the foreign soldier will not understand. But Shelby did not mean to be funny. He knew his man, and he knew that the life of his old friend might be imperilled and that there was nothing to lose by giving him a chance to get away. Crittenden ordered his men to countermarch, and Shelby rallied his troopers until Crittenden and his soldiers were out of sight!

Shelby's next dash was in the direction of Jefferson City, the State capital. Its capture would have given prestige to Shelby's invasion. Its loss would have been correspondingly hurtful to the federals. The federal troops at St. Louis and from all contiguous points were massed at the capital. While the rush of troops to Jefferson City was going on Shelby, literally laughing at his ruse, rode almost leisurely into Boonville, which the federal commander had not deemed necessary to guard.

Boonville was a Southern town before the war and had remained true to the cause. Shelby's coming to the old place was made a holiday, and during his stay there of thirty-six hours his men were feasted and entertained as if there had been no war or rumors of war. It was the only day of recreation that Shelby and his column had had since they captured Dardanelle, in Arkansas.

The invasion up to this point was regarded by the federals as unprecedented. Nothing like it had happened during the whole war. Lee's invasion of Maryland was stately. Shelby's dash was like a pyrotechnical whirlwind. Not only was the federal commander at St. Louis astounded, but Washington stopped sending fresh troops into Virginia and considered the propriety of rushing an additional force west of the Mississippi. Had the Confederate armies in the West been properly officered at that time the war would at least have been prolonged.

Under instructions from Washington all available forces in the West were ordered to Missouri and the troops that had been massed at Jefferson City were hurried to Boonville. The fête at that place was over, and when the first federal troops arrived Shelby had turned his troopers south and was on his way back to Arkansas. A retreat is always more hazardous than an advance.

Federal troops in Missouri and all that could be spared from adjoining States were gathered to cut off Shelby's retreat and crush him. The federals had possession of all railroads and telegraph lines. The number of troops in Missouri at the time when Shelby started back was estimated at fifty thousand. Of course all these were not immediately on his trail. But they were so arranged that they could have been quickly concentrated. Shelby had fewer than two thousand, one-half of whom had been added to his column after he left Arkansas. To save himself with what he had accomplished he had to outmaneuvre, outmarch and outfight an active and well equipped army that would be augmented day by day.

It became a running fire after Shelby was fairly on his way. He chose when it was possible to fight late in the afternoon. He always held his own when daylight fell. The enemy was so harassed in these short contests and quick marches that they were usually content to rest on their arms. By morning Shelby was far on the road and the federals had to renew the chase. It used to be said that Shelby's men slept in their saddles. It was not far from the truth.

Seeking Major Shanks.

There was one incident connected with the retreat that savored of that from St. Petersburg to the Berezina River, in Russia. General Brown, the federal commander nearest Shelby, was a good fighter. He was pressing Shelby hard near Marshall, Saline county, Mo. One of Shelby's grimly fighters was a Major Shanks. He was as rough and ready in his manner as old Murat. He was a hard hitter. Shelby turned over to Shanks nearly one-third of his command with which to hold Brown in check until Shelby attended to another federal force that was across his path.

In a stubborn engagement that followed Shelby was forced to call on Shanks for help. Shanks was so hard pressed that in trying to reach Shelby he had to stop every few minutes and hold his position by the most stubborn fighting. This enabled Shelby to get further on his way, but it was hard on Shanks. He lost his course by the time he had fought his way through, and in his escape to join Shelby he took the wrong road and became separated from his chief. Shelby was loath to leave Shanks in the enemy's hands, and yet he dared not linger. When he had reached a point of comparative safety Shelby halted and waited for Shanks. Somewhere Shanks was waiting for Shelby.

The enemy under almost superhuman endurance was ready to rest in its pursuit. Shelby was out of support, but he took advantage of the lull to line up his men on the river bank near Waverly. In the darkness he rested his men and horses, gave out all the ammunition he had left to his men, gave them a talk such as he knew how to make at times, and then to make his march on the morrow comparatively easy he tumbled all his wagons and the last piece of artillery into the river. To any man but Shelby this would have seemed desperation, for he was still several hundred miles from the Arkansas border, whither he was going. He resumed march on the following morning at daybreak. He went on for two days still looking for Shanks. In that march he fought several skirmishes and made two hundred miles.

Shanks had fooled Brown, and in doing so had captured a federal wagon train, which supplied him with provisions, of which he was in sore need. By detours and swift marches Shanks got out of the federal commander's path and sent out scouts to find Shelby. Near the Arkansas border his scouts came up with Shelby. It was midnight when Shelby heard Shanks' approach. He went out and met him. Shanks' command came in soon after, and the two forces celebrated the remainder of the night, and Shelby and Shanks for the time being forgot that they were commanders and joined in the jubilee. All of the good things that Shanks had captured in the federal wagon train were turned over to the men, and Shelby and Shanks mingled with the soldiers. It was then learned that at no time had the two commands been more than twenty miles apart.

Shelby's return from the invasion added to his reputation for dash and daring. But there were no substantial results. Had Shelby returned to Missouri a year before, or had he had the united support of his superiors, the result would have yielded more important results.

While campfires burned brightly on his return to Arkansas the soldiers murmured in their tents, as did the people of old, and to the welcome of "Well done" was added the moan, "Too late."

Elsewhere in this article it is said that dissensions among the commanders of the Confederate forces that were in Arkansas had much to do with Shelby's undertaking—his invasion of Missouri. One of these dissensions resulted in a duel between Generals Marmaduke and Walker. Such a thing happened only once in the history of the civil war. In an engagement in which Marmaduke was hard pressed he sent an oral message to Walker asking that officer to come to the field of battle.

Walker was a soldier of the old school and refused to receive an oral message. Marmaduke wrote a letter which Walker refused to answer. Marmaduke then sent a letter to Price's chief of staff asking that his (Marmaduke's) command should be removed from Walker's command or his resignation accepted. A correspondence between Marmaduke and Walker followed and a duel was the result. Walker was killed on the field.

Marmaduke and his seconds were arrested after the duel, but on the strength of a petition signed by the officers of Marmaduke's command Marmaduke and his seconds were released. The release was necessary, and was granted because of an impending battle in which Marmaduke and his seconds were to lead. After the battle the release was made permanent. Marmaduke became Governor of Missouri after the war.

One of Marmaduke's seconds in the duel was Colonel John C. Moore, the member of Shelby's staff to whom the writer is indebted for many of the facts in the foregoing story.

Justice of The Plains

Which Was Never Executed

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

There was not the slightest doubt that Jim Russell had stolen Harry Barry's favorite horse. Every man on the Lone Bull outfit looked to his own horse when it was learned that the new cowpuncher had not slept in his bed the night before.

"It's on you, Harry," said Gabriel with meaning emphasis as they trooped in to breakfast.

"And I can take care of it," announced that gentleman impressively. All the merry light had gone out of his brown eyes, and his pleasant mouth wore an ugly, determined look which his comrades had never seen before.

They fell to discussing Jim Russell and the ill reputation which he had borne in Arizona, whence he had drifted northward to the Lone Bull ranch. Many horses had been laid against his reputation, but there had never been any proof.

After the meal was concluded Harry Barry, who had maintained for him an unusual silence, obtained from Miss Clintock leave of absence to hunt his stolen beast. Declining all offers of assistance, he mounted a wiry little scrub which he had captured and broken himself and which was utterly tireless in the chase and followed a freshly broken trail that led aside from well defined paths straight into the prairie.

Once he dismounted to examine the clean imprint of a small hoof, and he grunted as he recognized the little triangular nick made by Nelly's notched fore foot.

"Curl" he muttered as he rode onward, his eyes ever on the lookout for the first blurring shadow of a distant horse and rider. Russell must have been riding since daylight, and Nelly would be tired by this time, for Harry had pushed her cruelly the day before. It had been a hard day, for the cattle along Saltpeter creek had stampeded and the cattlemen had worked until 10 o'clock before the rustive creatures were composed enough to leave with the regular herdsman.

After it was all over and they had partaken of hot coffee before going to bed Russell had come and sat beside his bunk and yarned to Harry of the Arizona country and told him much about a girl who was willing to marry him, only her father had heard so much about his bad reputation that he had forbidden his daughter to see Jim Russell.

"I've got a mind to rustle her off some day just as I would a bunch of cattle, if I was that kind of a chap," said the aggrieved young lover.

"Are you asking my advice?" asked Harry Barry bluntly.

"No, but you are welcome to give it. Fire away," said the other good naturedly.

"Why don't you prove to the old man that you ain't what you're said to be? It's easy to prove you're in the right—if you are!" he added.

"Well," said Jim thoughtfully, "I reckon I've got to tell somebody. It's this way, Harry. We want to get married and go over to Star Lake, where I can get a foreman job with the lumber company and cut out the cattle business forever. I haven't got $10 to my name, but Louise is willing to go with me, and she promised that any time I give the signal she'll bring a few things and go with me. It's a fifty mile ride to Star Lake, where the person is and where there's a little house waiting for us—only, you see, I've got to get hold of a horse that'll take me the whole distance without stopping much, for old man Snyder will hot foot it after us with his whole outfit as soon as he discovers we've lit out. Louise has got her own horse, the fastest critter on the range except your Nelly, and I want to know if you won't let me have your critter for the purpose—eh, Harry?"

"Nary Nelly," said Harry Barry fretfully, for he was half asleep and resented being kept from his well earned slumbers by any man's love affairs.

Jim Russell had gone quietly away, and the next morning Nelly had been missing, and so had been the handsome young scapegrace who had come to the Lone Bull with a reputation painted three shades blacker than a crow, but to whom good natured Clintock had vouchsafed a trial.

Harry Barry riding across the plain a the direction of Star lake found himself pitying Louise Snyder, who was arranging her life affair on the representation that Jim Russell was a man who had stolen a horse with which to elope with her. Of course Harry Barry realized that Jim Russell had tried to borrow Nelly for the occasion, and that showed a degree of decency he did not attribute to his late comrade.

But the thought of his horse rankled in his mind, and he was quite determined that when he met with Jim Russell, as he undoubtedly would before noon, as the girl would have to rest at intervals, he would show no mercy to that horse thief and he would kill two birds with one stone. He would bring a long wanted horse back to justice, and at the same time he would save Louise Snyder from a marriage with a most unscrupulous rogue.

It had rained the night before, and there still remained a certain spongy sens of the soil that held the telltale traces of Nelly's hoofs. Now, there was the trail of another horse, and by the deep indentation Harry Barry knew that they had been hard ridden. He looked ahead where the hazy outline of the Flower ranges might afford a refuge for the elopers. He looked behind him and saw a man pounding along on a tall, sparboned white horse.

"Old man Snyder and riding like the devil," he muttered. "Hope he doesn't pick me for Russell. I'll have to get a drop on him first." He dashed out his pistol and had Mr. Snyder's fat hands high in the air as soon as he heard the young cattleman's stern command.

"W'y, Mr. Barry, I think you must mistake me for a rustler—eh?" he smiled ingratiatingly at Harry Barry.

"It's best to be sure, you know, Mr. Snyder," grinned Harry impudently. "By the way you was lighting after me I got the idea you was trying to run me off the range, and you know as Lone Bull fellows don't let nobody do that."

"Oh, no, far from such thinness!" explained Mr. Snyder impatiently. "I gotta more important matter. That blamed scoundrel of a Jim Russell, he's run away with my daughter, my Louise! If I catch 'em I'll skin him alive."

"If he don't skin you first," said Harry Barry coolly.

"Why should he skin me, eh?" sputtered Mr. Snyder. "What have I done to him, eh?"

"You've taken away his character, you know."

Mr. Snyder stared incredulously. "Taken away his character?" he said slowly. "W'y man, I didn't know Jim Russell had any character."

"Can you prove it?"

The father of Louise scratched his ear thoughtfully. "I can't prove it this minit," he admitted guardedly, "but I reckon I could by writing down to Arizona, where he's from."

"I wouldn't do it," advised Harry Barry. "Jim Russell will probably be married to Louise by that time, and anything you said against him would only be a reflection on your own family. How would you like to have anybody stir up your past?" he asked innocently.

Casper Snyder started violently and looked at Harry Barry keenly. "What do you mean?" he demanded, with a red face.

"What I said," returned Harry, flicking the reins on his horse's neck. "You going my way, Mr. Snyder?"

The elder man looked down at the ground and bit his lips thoughtfully. If he pursued Jim Russell to the death, as he had planned in his first burst of vengeful fury, somebody—perhaps this impudent young Harry—might revive some of those old rumors which had preceded his own advent into this cattle country. Possibly he might find a place for Louise's husband on his ranch and thus keep his favorite daughter at home. At the same time he could keep an eye on his son-in-law.

"I think I'll go home," he said abruptly. "If you should meet up with my daughter, Mr. Harry, you kin tell her that her father says he don't mind if she takes a ride with—with that Jim Russell, but that he commands her to come home and get married!"

"I'll tell her," said Harry Barry heartily as he waved a farewell at the old man and went on his way.

When he reached the cool shadows of the Flower range he eased his horse and rode with slackened rein. He was dead tired, and the day was almost spent. As yet he had not come up with the man who had taken his horse.

He was riding up a little canyon when the rattle of falling stones brought him sharply face about, and he saw the man he was looking for not ten feet to the right of him. Jim Russell, white and desperate looking, stood at bay behind the little black horse Nelly. Louise Snyder was nowhere in sight, but Harry Barry had no doubt her fair frightened face was hidden behind the stump of dwarfed pines.

"Well?" he said sharply to Russell without making a move to draw his weapons, although a six shooter gleamed in the other's hand.

Russell drew near until he was close beside his pursuer. "I took your horse, Harry," he whispered hoarsely, "but I want you to believe me when I take my oath that this is the first time I ever did steal a horse, no matter what they say about me."

"I believe you," said Harry Barry, with the old merry look in his eyes, "but I've promised to take you back with me just the same."

"Where to?" asked the other, hastily backing away.

"Your pa-in-law wants that you and Louise should come to the ranch and be married," said Harry Barry, all resentment gone from his soul. He somehow he could not blame Jim Russell for wanting to marry pretty Louise Snyder, and anyhow, Harry reasoned, life was hard enough for folks without his making it any worse. Very likely Louise would be disappointed in her dashing husband, and perhaps Jim Russell would feel bewitched with the tyranny of old Casper Snyder would be hardly worth the acquisition of a wife, yet he knew that there might be a foundation to their love which would outlast these trials.

"Wants us to come to the ranch and be—married, did you say, or be shot?" demanded Jim Russell incredulously.

"Married," repeated Harry Barry firmly, "and to be sure there won't be any mistake about the matter I'm going to ride over to Star Lake and fetch the old pilot myself. I'll ride on ahead if you want to fetch Louise."

"God bless you, Harry!" muttered Jim Russell under his breath, and those words dashing from him promised a fairer future for Louise than any one might have predicted.

LIGHTNING MEMORIES.

Some Phenomenal Feats by Well-Known English Actors.

To be what is called a "quick study" is a very useful accomplishment in the theatrical profession; but whilst the average actor and actress are rapidly quick in committing their parts to memory, there are certain Thespians who have achieved wonders in that direction.

For instance, Miss Dorothy Grimston, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, "went on" for Lady Isabel in "East Lynne" some three years ago at forty-eight hours' notice. Most people who have seen the evergreen play will remember that the part of the tearful heroine is enormous, for she is rarely off the stage for any length of time. In spite of the hugeness of the task, Miss Grimston accomplished it with ease, and was practically "perfect" at night.

A well-known provincial actor, Mr. Arthur Dennis, who for many years has played Mr. James Welch's parts on tour, is the possessor of a lightning memory. He owns the distinction of having studied the part of Dick Winslet in "The Lady of Ostend" in the space of something like seven hours. Of course, this was not "straight off the reel," the study extending over two or three days; but the length of time devoted to the task was virtually little more than 420 minutes. The part in question covers ninety closely-typewritten pages, and is the longest part in modern farcical comedy. Reduced to printed columns, it would take up a very large section of a newspaper.

Mr. Ashley Page, well known to drama audiences throughout London and the suburbs, is a remarkable "study." Mr. Page doubtless owes much of his talent in this direction to the fact that for many years he has played in "stock" companies where a fresh piece is produced weekly. His best record for rapid study is a classic one, viz., Hamlet, a part known to be the longest in the whole area of Shakespearean repertoire. Mr. Ashley Page made himself master of the role in less than a week, and when it is remembered that poetic diction is a very different sort of material from ordinary melodrama dialogue, the feat appears all the more extraordinary.

Mr. Ollie Seymour, now well-known as a comedian throughout the provinces, once achieved a wonderful feat. He was enacting a small role in "The Silver King" some years ago, and four hours before the rising of the curtain the gentleman who enacted The Spider (the gentlemanly villain role) was taken ill. Mr. Seymour was called upon to take his place. The "script" of forty-five typewritten pages was placed in his hands, and he sat down to study it at 3 p.m. At 7.30 the curtain rose, and when the time arrived for his entrance Mr. Seymour walked in the stage and went through the long and heavy part with scarcely a single appeal to the prompter.

Sir Edward Helped Him.

Mr. Duke, K.C., who, after an exciting account in the law courts, becomes M.P. for Exeter once more, owes a great deal of his success at the Bar to the advice and encouragement of Sir Edward Clarke. It was the latter who, when Mr. Duke was representing a Plymouth paper in the Gallery of the House of Commons, encouraged the future K.C. to read for the Bar. And Mr. Duke is one of the very few journalists who read for the Bar while continuing his Gallery work. He was called in 1885, and soon built up a large common law practice. His first venture into politics was when he stood for Plymouth in 1900, being returned by the largest number of votes ever given up to that time for a member for Plymouth. Mr. Duke is an ardent protectionist, and was, in the early days of the movement, one of the first of Mr. Chamberlain's "whole hoggers."

Coronation Goodies.

During the coronation festivities there promises to be a veritable rain of toys and sweets for lucky children, according to Messrs. Joseph Wells & Sons, the oldest-established firework makers in the country. It appears that there is already an enormous demand for daylight fireworks—shells filled with all sorts of novelties in the way of toys and delicious sweets. Toy guns, Teddy bears, surprise-packets, mouth-organs, fishing-lines, dolls, picture postcards, etc., etc., will shower down when these shells are fired—an innovation which is bound to bring the keenest delight to the children who witness the display. These shells are sold at prices to suit all pockets, and the same remark applies to other wonderful pyrotechnic novelties which Messrs. Wells are selling.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body is no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Robert Meighen Is Dead.

Montreal, July 14.—Mr. Robert Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., died at his home, 140 Drummond street, Montreal, yesterday morning. His death came as a great shock not only to his friends and business associates, but also to the members of his family, for it was quite unexpected.

On Wednesday, Mr. Meighen was about among his friends in the down town districts of the city, and appeared to be in his usual health and spirits.

On arriving home he complained that he was not feeling well, and later in the evening became very ill, and despite every effort that medical science could suggest, he gradually sank, and at a quarter to six in the morning he passed away.

The immediate cause of his death was heart failure, brought on, it is supposed, by an acute attack of indigestion.

Lafollette on Reciprocity.

Washington, July 14.—Two important insurgent speeches against the Canadian reciprocity bill were made yesterday, when Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin and Bristow of Kansas introduced their amendments to that measure and spoke in favor of them and against the specific features of the pending bill.

Senator Lafollette excoriated President Taft's administration, not only with reference to the tariff legislation proposed, but also on his conservation policies. Senator Bristow renewed his fight against the present sugar tariff and urged the repeal of the "16 duties standard" test on imported sugar, which he declared operates entirely in the interests of the American Sugar Refining Co.

Judge Sues For Libel.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., July 14.—Mr. Albert Constantineau, judge of the united counties of Prescott and Russell, has issued an indictment against H. C. Jones, editor of The Review, Vankleek Hill, Ont., charging him with criminal libel. The Review published some pointed comments on the speech of Judge Constantineau delivered at the St. Jean Baptiste celebration in Montreal. The case was called for yesterday at 11 o'clock, before Magistrate Gauthier of L'Original. An adjournment was made to allow the editor to prepare his defence, as it is generally believed that he will put in a plea of justification.

Discussed at Conference.

London, July 14.—The Times intimates that the question of the revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, in order to bring it into harmony with the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty, was fully discussed at the Imperial Conference.

Therefore any new arrangement made with Japan will be made with new authority and new moral force, arising through the previous assent of all the self-governing dominions.

Hence The Times considers that one of the most important results of the Imperial Conference has still to be announced.

After New York Ice Trust.

New York, July 14.—The district attorney and the city police yesterday began investigations of the Knickerbocker Ice Co., which does by far the largest ice business here. The charge is that the so-called "Ice Trust" has withheld ice from independent dealers during the recent prolonged hot weather.

Met With Serious Accident.

Chatham, Ont., July 14.—Acaue Martin, son of Eugene Martin of Dover, while drawing grain at a threshing on Tuesday, met with a serious accident. The horses ran away and Mr. Martin ran out on the tongue to grasp the lines, which he had lost. He found he could not control the animals and jumped from the tongue over one of the horses. In his fall he broke one of his legs above the knee.

A Tiny Bottle.

What is regarded by skilled artisans as the smallest perfect glass bottle ever blown has just been turned out by Robert Gillespie, one of the blowers at the great Whitall-Tatum glass works in Milleville, New Jersey. The tiny bit of glass is not much larger than a kernel of corn, but is in every way perfect, including a ground stopper. Gillespie was at infinite pains to produce the curiosity, which, compared with a 110-gallon carboy, such as is turned out at the same works, could be about like a fly against an elephant. Indeed, a common house-fly could barely crowd into the Gillespie bottle.

Stopped the Pleasure Jaunts.

"Everybody travels nowadays who can spare a little time and money. Most people provide for a vacation season, and plans are laid months in advance around the queries when, where and how to spend the time," says a writer in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse. To show that this was not always so he relates that Emperor Franz in September, 1805, issued an edict in which "travel for pleasure, inasmuch as it was the cause of much money going out of the realm," was strictly prohibited."

A "Fifteen-Gunner."

The number of guns to be fired in honor of great officials and foreign potentates is carefully calculated, and the honor is jealously prized. King Edward conferred an inestimable boon on the Nawab of Junagarh when he raised his salute from eleven to fifteen guns. But this has caused the dusky prince to be fiercely envied by all the other Indian princes, who are only "eleven-gunners."

West Indian Hobble Skirts.

The women of the West Indies have been wearing the hobble skirt for years and are apt to wear it for years to come. The hobble may have originated with these women of the tropics, but they probably care little for the credit, as their hobble is more of a necessity than a fashion decree. They wear a belt anywhere between the shoulders and the hips, and the tight hobble cords is placed just below the knees. They are often forced to walk through long, wet grass and ford streams, and when occasion demands it the skirts are pulled up and the hobble cord holds them in place. Every native woman wears a hobble, but she calls it a "grazitto."

A Cruel Reminder.

His Wife—John, do you remember what took place just three years ago to-day?

Her Husband—What, is this our wedding anniversary?

His Wife—N-no. Three years ago to-day you bought me a new hat.

Miscroscopic.

"You'll not find a steak like that in a hurry," boasted the tall waiter.

And the guest looked up with an icy smile.

"I should say not. It is so securely hidden under these few chips of potatoes it is doubtful if I find it at all."

Strange Occupations.

Some strange occupations figure on Indian census schedules. At the last census, in many villages of Hyderabad and the Central Provinces enthusiastic and devout enumerators returned the village shrines and temples as "occupied houses." The occupant was the idol whose occupation was stated as "granting boons and blessings" or subsistance on contributions from the tenants." Other callings returned on the schedules include collectors of edible birds' nests, receivers of stolen goods, witches, wizards, and cow-poisoners.

Caesar at Large.

The late King's dog Caesar made his escape from the gardens of Marlborough House a few days ago, and his disappearance caused the greatest concern. Caesar still wears on his collar the badge inscribed "Caesar, I am the King's dog," and he had not been long away when he was recognized, in Bridge street, Westminster, and promptly returned to his royal mistress.

Robert Meighen is Dead.

Montreal, July 14.—Mr. Robert Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., died at his home, 140 Drummond street, Montreal, yesterday morning. His death came as a great shock not only to his friends and business associates, but also to the members of his family, for it was quite unexpected.

On Wednesday, Mr. Meighen was about among his friends in the down town districts of the city, and appeared to be in his usual health and spirits.

On arriving home he complained that he was not feeling well, and later in the evening became very ill, and despite every effort that medical science could suggest, he gradually sank, and at a quarter to six in the morning he passed away.

The immediate cause of his death was heart failure, brought on, it is supposed, by an acute attack of indigestion.

Lafollette on Reciprocity.

Washington, July 14.—Two important insurgent speeches against the Canadian reciprocity bill were made yesterday, when Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin and Bristow of Kansas introduced their amendments to that measure and spoke in favor of them and against the specific features of the pending bill.

Senator Lafollette excoriated President Taft's administration, not only with reference to the tariff legislation proposed, but also on his conservation policies. Senator Bristow renewed his fight against the present sugar tarif and urged the repeal of the "16 duties standard" test on imported sugar, which he declared operates entirely in the interests of the American Sugar Refining Co.

Judge Sues For Libel.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., July 14.—Mr. Albert Constantineau, judge of the united counties of Prescott and Russell, has issued an indictment against H. C. Jones, editor of The Review, Vankleek Hill, Ont., charging him with criminal libel. The Review published some pointed comments on the speech of Judge Constantineau delivered at the St. Jean Baptiste celebration in Montreal. The case was called for yesterday at 11 o'clock, before Magistrate Gauthier of L'Original. An adjournment was made to allow the editor to prepare his defence, as it is generally believed that he will put in a plea of justification.

Discussed at Conference.

London, July 14.—The Times intimates that the question of the revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, in order to bring it into harmony with the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty, was fully discussed at the Imperial Conference.

Therefore any new arrangement made with Japan will be made with new authority and new moral force, arising through the previous assent of all the self-governing dominions.

Hence The Times considers that one of the most important results of the Imperial Conference has still to be announced.

After New York Ice Trust.

New York, July 14.—The district attorney and the city police yesterday began investigations of the Knickerbocker Ice Co., which does by far the largest ice business here. The charge is that the so-called "Ice Trust" has withheld ice from independent dealers during the recent prolonged hot weather.

Met With Serious Accident.

Chatham, Ont., July 14.—Acanu Martin, son of Eugene Martin of Dover, while drawing grain at a threshing on Tuesday, met with a serious accident. The horses ran away and Mr. Martin ran out on the tongue to grasp the lines, which he had lost. He found he could not control the animals and jumped from the tongue over one of the horses. In his fall he broke one of his legs above the knee.

A Tiny Bottle.

What is regarded by skilled artisans as the smallest perfect glass bottle ever blown has just been turned out by Robert Gillespie, one of the blowers of the great Whitall-Tatem glass works in Millville, New Jersey. The tiny bit of glass is not much larger than a kernel of corn, but is in every way perfect, including a ground stopper. Gillespie was at infinite pains to produce the curiosity, which, compared with a 110-gallon carboy, such as is turned out at the same works, could be about like a fly against an elephant. Indeed, a common house-fly could barely crowd into the Gillespie bottle.

Stopped the Pleasure Jaunts.

"Everybody travels nowadays who can spare a little time and money. Most people provide for a vacation season, and plans are laid months in advance around the queries when, where and how to spend the time," says a writer in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse. To show that this was not always so he relates that Emperor Franz in September, 1805, issued an edict in which "travel for pleasure, inasmuch as it was the cause of much money going out of the realm," was strictly prohibited."

A "Fifteen-Gunner."

The number of guns to be fired in honor of great officials and foreign potentates is carefully calculated, and the honor is jealously prized. King Edward conferred an inestimable boon on the Nawab of Junagarh when he raised his salute from eleven to fifteen guns. But this has caused the dusky prince to be fiercely envied by all the other Indian princes, who are only "eleven-gunners."

West Indian Hobble Skirts.

The women of the West Indies have been wearing the hobble skirt for years and are apt to wear it for years to come. The hobble may have originated with these women of the tropics, but they probably care little for the credit, as their hobble is more of a necessity than a fashion decree. They wear a belt anywhere between the shoulders and the hips, and the tight hobble cords is placed just below the knees. They are often forced to walk through long, wet grass and ford streams, and when occasion demands is the skirts are pulled up and the hobble cord holds them in place. Every native woman wears a hobble, but she calls it a "grazitte."

A Cruel Reminder.

His Wife—John, do you remember what took place just three years ago to-day?

Her Husband—What, is this our wedding anniversary?

His Wife—N-no. Three years ago to-day you bought me a new hat.

Miscroscopic.

"You'll not find a steak like that in a hurry," boasted the tall waiter.

And the guest looked up with an icy smile.

"I should say not. It is so securely hidden under these few chips of potatoes it is doubtful if I find it at all."

Strange Occupations.

Some strange occupations figure on Indian census schedules. At the last census, in many villages of Hyderabad and the Central Provinces enthusiastic and devout enumerators returned the village shrines and temples as "occupied houses." The occupant was the idol whose occupation was stated as "granting boons and blessings" or subsistance on contributions from the tenants." Other callings returned on the schedules include collectors of edible birds' nests, receivers of stolen goods, witches, wizards, and cow-poisoners.

Caesar at Large.

The late King's dog Caesar made his escape from the gardens of Marlborough House a few days ago, and his disappearance caused the greatest concern. Caesar still wears on his collar the badge inscribed "Caesar, I am the King's dog," and he had not been long away when he was recognized in Bridge street, Westminster, and promptly returned to his royal mistress.

HORRORS OF FIRE GROW SURVIVORS TELL TALE

Varying Estimates as to Loss of Life in North---Actual Figures Will Probably Never be Known---Golden City Saved by the Presence of Mind and Heroism of Ex-Pugilist Jack Munro---Refugees Give Details of Frightful Disaster---Some of Them too Gruesome to be Published.

GREAT HEROISM WAS SHOWN IN MANY CASES

COBALT, ONT., JULY 13.—The greatest holocaust that has ever occurred in Northern Ontario, and even in more settled parts, occurred Tuesday afternoon when, fanned by a hurricane, bush fires did tremendous damage throughout Porcupine camp, entailing the loss of many millions of dollars, and causing the deaths of probably 300 persons.

Early yesterday, when news first came down that the towns of South Porcupine and Pottsville had been destroyed by fire, with the loss of several lives, skeptical people thought the matter was greatly exaggerated. About noon, when a telegram came through, stating that a hundred coffins were needed at once, people began to show anxiety for news from relatives and friends in the camp. When about four p.m., as the train from the north pulled in, bringing over three hundred people from Porcupine, as well as many others from Cochrane, including, for the most part, women and children, each and every station along the line was packed with eager enquirers.

AN AWFUL ANXIETY.

At Cobalt it was difficult to move for the number of people waiting for the train. Here was a group of tear-stained women, whose husbands were somewhere in Porcupine, while yonder a group of men would be discussing the awful situation. Just as soon as the train would stop at a station, parties would search out someone and ask for relatives in Porcupine. In most cases, little was known of their whereabouts, but they were told that so long as they were not working at Dome, West Dome, or in the neighbourhood, they would be safe.

The train that pulled into the southern stations was a woeful sight when the passengers alighted. Men, women, and children, who had lost all their earthly belongings, flocked off at Cobalt or Haileybury, or other stations along the line. Some came from Cochrane and others from Porcupine. Others were there who had lost loved ones in the fire and been forced to come out immediately to make arrangements for their burial.

NO CHANCE To ESCAPE.

That the loss of life will reach the three hundred mark seems inevitable on account of the large number of missing miners. For instance at Dos Moines there were some 300 workmen alone. The only means of escape was down the shafts, and whether they were suffocated below from burning timbers or not will remain a mystery for several days, until the fires die down and the shaft is visited. In one shaft thirty foreigners are known to have perished, and the bodies are now lying on first level. Parties, after the fire, managed to visit this property, and by means of chain ladders made the gruesome discovery. The bodies cannot be raised at present, however. Manager Meek and the clerical force escaped injury.

At West Dome, there will be a tremendous loss of life. Here twenty-seven employes went down the timbered shaft for safety from the flames Mr. Weiss was too experienced a miner to go down a timbered shaft in case of fire unless there were no means of escape.

Found Woman's Body.

Employes of Preston East Dome, who escaped by going down a non-timbered shaft, went over to West Dome after the fire had passed, to see what had become of the workmen.

They saw burning timbers above the shaft, and at once suspected some of the party were below. They secured chain ladders, and one of them descended. About half-way down was found the body of Mrs. Angus Burt, wife of the assayer of the mine. She was hanging to a ladder, dead. A beam had fallen across her chest, and disabled her while the deadly fumes did their work.

On the level below were discovered the bodies of Manager Weiss, his wife and daughter by his side, and others of the staff, numbering 27 in all. Everyone of them was dead, and the fumes almost overcame the rescuing party, who returned to South Porcupine with the news.

Perhaps 81 are Dead.

The total number of employees at West Dome was 84, of which only three are accounted for. They fled just as the fire struck the buildings and managed to get away, although some others that followed were burned, and their charred bodies now are lying beside the trails. The rest of the employes went down the other shaft on the property, and probably shared the same fate.

At Preston East Dome the men crawled down an untimbered shaft, and were saved in that way, chain ladders being put down to them after the fire, and they were rescued. Others lay flat on their faces in the creek, and kept water over them, and the fire passed directly over their bodies without seriously burning any of them.

That more people were not burned to death at South Porcupine is a mystery. As it was, but four persons were burned to death, although many others were seriously burned, including one man, who had both eyes burned out.

Pioneer Geddes Dead.

Tom Geddes was the pioneer of Porcupine camp. He lost his life by going back into the town to his shack to get some clothing. Tom took the Bannerman party into Porcupine two years ago and showed them the claim upon which they found their gold. He was reputed to have made the very first discovery of gold there several years previous, while with a survey party. He made considerable money and lived a retired life in South Porcupine. He was well-known in Cobalt, where he lived several years.

William Gohr was on a roof, trying to save his place and lingered too long. The flames caught him and his clerk, Mac Smith, and both perished. Gohr's wife stood in the lake, with water up to her waist, holding in her arms her infant child, waiting for her husband. She refused to move until he came and when she was taken away her husband was dead. Capt. Dunbar also perished, trying to get some clothes which he had left behind. He was well known as a lake captain and worked on Lake Temiscaming for years. He was about 60 years of age.

Awed Cowardly Italians.

An heroic act occurred on South Porcupine dock. The women and children of the town were being hustled to safety to Golden City, when a gang of foreigners made a rush for the boats moored at the wharf. They threw overboard the other passengers and it looked like a panic until Joe Gardiner, a druggist, and others, came on the scene. Gardiner pulled a revolver and ordered the Italians around and made them wait till all the women and children were safely landed before allowing one of them to get across.

The thirty odd Italians were held there under the gun, as well as others who came along, for nearly half an hour.

The boats had a busy time all the afternoon, although a lot of criticism is heard, survivors stating that boat men put water in their gasoline at Golden City so as not to make the return trip to South Porcupine.

Made Men Flight Flames.

Another instance where revolvers were used occurred at Golden City The town was threatened and there were many men around who refused to fight the flames. Constable Piercy swore in a couple of special officers, closed all saloons and then started off for workers to check the fire. With a revolver in each hand he forced the men on the streets to put out every spark which alighted and his work alone is what saved this townsite. More than one person has been heard to remark that his action was timely and very effective.

Andrew Larue and Nathan Haas, the latter a mining engineer from Spokane were in the same canoe and perished. Mr. Geo. Green, who arrived here from the scene of the disaster this afternoon, and left for Toronto this evening, was in South Porcupine when the fire struck the town and was also in the same canoe from which William Moore was drowned.

Moore Died Hero's Death.

"In less time than it takes to tell it," continued Mr. Green, "the blaze

LOCAL PEOPLE IN THE NORTH

A number of Peterborough people are in the Porcupine country, and naturally, their friends are very anxious to get some information about them. Among them is Gordon (Pete) Campbell, son of Mr. Peter Campbell of the Bank of Toronto. He left for Porcupine about six weeks ago, and his parents, who are in England, are very much worried. Mr. Campbell cabled from England yesterday to Postmaster A. H. Stratton for information which the latter is endeavouring to obtain. Hal. Wallis the former Chieftain hockey player is in the employ of the T. & N. O. at Cochrane, but is thought to be safe as the despatches state that the T. & N. O. camps escaped. Other local people in that section are Messrs. Jack and Dick O'Brien, sons of Mr. Michael O'Brien, Separate school inspector.

GOES UP FOR TRIAL

EVIDENCE HEARD

Alf. Cooney was arraigned before Magistrate Edmison, in the County Court this morning, charged with assaulting and doing bodily harm to Mark Manley. Cooney was sent up for trial. Several witnesses were called and gave varying evidence.

Dr. Harrison, who attended to the injured man, was called to testify regarding the condition of the victim immediately after the assault. He said that when he saw him first, he was lying on a couch, in a condition caused by shock. He found at the base of the skull there was a sore bruise, and further down the spine it was very sore. He also stated that the patient was not absolutely conscious. His left side was paralyzed to such an extent that a pin could be put into the flesh and it would not hurt the patient. The doctor further stated that he had attended the plaintiff from the 22nd of June until the 6th of July. He was the first doctor called, although Dr. Frederick was called to assist. Rollie Dixon, Wm. Carey, and Redmond Carey, also several other witnesses, were called and gave evidence to the effect that on the night of the assault Manley was leading three horses up the road and Cooney ran at him from the side, and hit him with something long and loose, but the witnesses were too far away to say exactly what it was. Rollie Dixon stated that when he saw what happened, he ran to them, and Manley was lying in the ditch, and Cooney was leading the horses to the stable, afterwards taking them to the pound.

It appears that the whole trouble began over a piece of disputed land, both claiming ownership. And this particular incident was one of the times when Cooney thought his neighbour was trespassing.

The Magistrate said that he could do no more than send the prisoner up for trial, and in the meantime he will be allowed out on the same bail as before. He will appear for trial at the next sittings of the High Court. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence, and Mr. A. Wood for the prosecution.

KILLED IN ELEVATOR

Man is Crushed by Runaway Lift While Girls Witness the Awful Tragedy

TEACHING A FRIEND

Special to The Examiner

NEW YORK, JULY 13.—While teaching a friend lately arrived from Ceylon how to operate the passenger elevator in the Duchess apartments, No. 82, West 124th street, C. J. Handray, a Cingalese, the elevator man, was killed last night, and the two daughters of a clergyman had narrow escapes from death. They were rescued after they had been shot to the roof of the building and then tumbled back to the basement in the elevator, which was beyond control.

The girls, who were prisoners in the runaway elevator until another tenant in the building risked his life and stopped the car to save them, were the Misses Margaret and Catherine Jones, daughters of the Rev. George Hebel Jones, a member of th Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church and executive secretary of the Corean Quarter-Centennial Commission.

The friend of the elevator operator whose unfamiliarity with the mechanism of the elevator led to the accident, run away when Handray was caught between the elevator cage and the ceiling of the first floor, and was crushed to death. The police were looking for him last night.

At a quarter beofre six o'clock the Jones girls pressed the button at the elevator shaft door on the sixth floor where they and their father live. In the elevator they saw, in addition to Handray, who was the rgeular operator, another occupant of the car, a Cingalese they had never seen before. Goig down Handray permitted his friend to run the car. The friend tried to stop at the first floor, but failed.

The cage struck between the basement and the first floor, and Handray climbed out, intending to start it from the first floor. He clambered up and leaned over into the shaft to adjust the cables attached to the car. As he did so the car started suddenly and Handray's head was crushed between the roof of the cage and the ceiling of the first floor. His body fell back to the floor below, but the car shot upward to the roof, the man at the lever being too frightened, the girl said afterward, to know what to do.

Striking the top of the shaft with a jar, the car dropped back to the basement. Its speed was lessened by the working of an automatic safety clutch, which was placed in the shaft only two months ago.

PRINCE OF WALES INVESTED WITH QUAINT CEREMONIES AT PICTURESQUE CARNARVON

Description of Interesting Event Which Took Place Yesterday---Young Prince Addressed the Welsh People in Their Own Language---The Details of the Ceremony

CARNARVON, WALES, JULY 13. — In the old and well preserved castle of Carnarvon the young Prince of Wales was invested to-day with the Insignia of his high office.

The quaint old town in festal attire, made a holiday, and drew within its borders thousands of Welshmen from the surrounding country. The weather was matchless, and two hours before the arrival of their Majesties with the Prince, great crowds had gathered along the route from Griffith's Crossing, where the Royal party alighted to the Castle gate. The buildings along the streets were lavishly decorated. Troops, blue jackets and marines kept open the way through which the procession passed. In the vicinity of the castle a thousand London police and firemen held an open place.

Picturesque Scene.

The scene within the castle was most picturesque, the vast enclosure within the towers and battlemented walls forming an ideal setting for the ceremonial. The outer and inner baileys were lined with stands enabling several thousand persons to obtain an excellent view. Their Majesties and the Prince received an enthusiastic reception.

King George and Queen Mary, with the Prince came on the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, from Ireland to Holyhead. This morning a special train brought them from Holyhead to Griffith's crossing, a small station two and a half miles north of Carnarvon.

Loyal Addresses Presented.

Royal carriages and an escort of cavalry were awaiting the party, upon the arrival of whom the procession was formed. Carnarvon was entered by the north road and the party proceeded through the main street to the great Castle Square. Here on a platform in the centre of the square, the mayor and corporation received the Royal visitors and presented addresses.

From Castle Square to the first entrance into the castle there were two processions, that of the Prince of Wales preding that of their Majesties by a few minutes. The Prince entered the castle at the ancient water-gate on the sea front. As he passed in the Prince's standard was hoisted on Eagle tower, while the Royal Welsh choir, of 400 voices, sang.

The King and Queen followed. As they entered the castle the Prince's flag was lowered and the Royal standard ran up.

In the tower near the entrance two suites of Royal apartments had been prepared for their Majesties and the Prince, and to these they retired and were robed for the ceremonial. When they again appeared the processions were reversed, the King and Queen with their suites preceding the Prince and his supporters.

Prince and King.

The party proceeded to a raised platform in the centre of the great inner court yard where the investiture took place. As the King and Queen appeared in the open air the choir sang "God Save the King." This was followed by the singing "God Bless the Prince of Wales" as the Prince appeared and approached his parents who had taken their places on the dais. The Prince in his surcoat, cloak and mantle of crimson velvet, presented himself before the King who placed a crimson velvet cap, ornamented with ermine, and a coronet on the head of his son as a token of principality.

His Hand to His Land.

In the land of the Prince, His Majesty placed a golden verge, emblem of government, and on his middle finger a ring of gold signifying that he must be a husband to his country and a father to its children. While his Majesty was investing his son with the insignia the letters patent authorising the Prince to hold the principality of Wales in trust for the King of England, were read and, later on, handed to him.

The service of consecration followed the bishops of St. Asaph and Bangor officiating being assisted by two Welsh non-conformist ministers. The procession then reformed and moved to the Queen's Gate of the Castle where the King presented the Prince of Wales to the people.

PETERBORO BOY HAD A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE IN THE PORCUPINE FIRE

Mr. Alex Gillespie of Hunter St. East City While Prospecting Near South Porcupine Was Caught by the Flames and Saved Himself by Lying at the Bottom of a Trench Covered With Wet Blankets While the Fire Roared Barely Four Fee Overhead

To lie at the bottom of a four foot trench with his face in the mud, while across the mouth of the trench flames roared for an hour and one half, and to escape without a burn, was the thrilling experience of Mr. Alex. Gillespie, of Peterborough during Tuesday's frightful fire in the Porcupine district. Mr. Gillespie, who is a son of Mr. J. B. Gillespie, Hunter street, East City, arrived home at noon today, and to the Examiner gave a most enthralling story of the awful disaster.

"We were prospecting about five miles south of South Porcupine," remarked Mr. Gillespie. "We noticed the fire approaching and as it steadily drew nearer, we saw there was no chance of escaping if we remained where we were, so we took down our tent and buried it. Brough's camp was about a mile to the north of us, and knowing that there was a big clearing there, we thought that the camp would be immune and accordingly we made our way there as quickly as possible. The fire was momentarily getting closer and we used every effort to save the camp.

The Broughs who, by the way, come from Villiers, in Otonabee, and the rest of us tried everything in our power to save the camp, but as the fire drew nearer, heralded by a terrific wind, which blew us off the roof and then lifted the roof itself, we saw that there was no chance, and realized that we were in the greatest possible danger ourselves. The bunk house caught fire immediately after the roof was blown off and we glanced around for some means of escape. Near the house was a trench some four feet deep, and seizing a blanket each, the thirteen of us soaked them in the water of the well and then threw ourselves into the trench lying flat in the mud and water at the bottom, while we threw the wet blankets over us. Within a few minutes the flames reached us. The heat and smoke was almost insufferable and for an hour and one half we lay there while the flames continued to roar four feet above us. I never thought that we would get out, as I was afraid of being suffocated, but somehow we came through. Each of the thirteen of us took turns in climbing up for a moment and throwing a pail of water over the blankets, and in this way, and by keeping our faces pressed down in the trench, we managed to keep from suffocating. Finally, after a very long time it seemed the flames had passed and then we had to wait until the smoke abated. When we finally climbed out, everything of course had been swept clean and there was nothing left of the big camp. An icy cold wind seemed to follow the fire, and as we were thinly clad, we soon were as cold as we had been warm a few hours before. By lying on the heated rocks, however, we got warm and then started for South Porcupine, which we reached in safety, to find it almost wiped out. We were not burned at all, and our chief trouble was from the effects of the smoke, which had nearly blinded us. My eyes were so bad that I had to lie down with a wet handkerchief over them for two hours before I could see at all. Then we boarded a launch and reached Golden City in safety. I escaped with just the clothes I was wearing and lost everything else in the fire, as did the other members of the party. I consider myself extremely lucky that I got out at all."

The Loss of Life.

"I don't think they will ever know definitely just how many lost their lives," remarked Mr. Gillespie.

IS SAFE AT COBALT

Anxiety as to the Fate of Mr. Dick O'Brien of Peterboro Has Been Set at Rest by the Receipt of a Telegram

PARTNER PERISHED

Fears as to the fate of Mr. Dick O'Brien, son of Separate School Inspector M. O'Brien, Gilmour street, were happily set at rest to-day by a telegram received from him from Cobalt, stating that he had safely reached there, but that his partner, Capt. Dunbar, had lost his life in the fire. Mr. O'Brien was prospecting within the burned territory and naturally his relatives here were very uneasy. The telegram received to-day gave no particulars except that he had escaped, but stated the death of Captain Dunbar. The latter visited Peterborough as Mr. O'Brien's guest during the past winter and made a number of friends here, who will be shocked to learn of his tragic death. Mr. Jack O'Brien was in Cobalt and not in the Porcupine district as was feared by some of his friends. No word has been received from Gordon Campbell, who was known to have been in Porcupine.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1911

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, was mistaken in his policy of having Canada contribute 35 million dollars for the building of dreadnoughts for the British navy, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier was right in adopting a Canadian navy, to consist of cruisers, built in Canada, by Canadian workmen, of Canadian materials. Mr. Borden proposed pouring 35 million dollars of good Canadian cash to give employment to British workmen, and to be spent without Canada, which was to furnish the money, having a word to say, in the way of its expenditure, upon dreadnoughts, which would be junk before they were completed. Sir Philip Watt, director of construction of the British admiralty, has practically pronounced the passing of the dreadnought. He has devised a smaller and less expensive battleship, which will have the destructive energy of a dreadnought, with the speed of a destroyer. The new battleship is to have a speed of nearly forty miles an hour, with guns equal to those of a dreadnought and would well deserve the name of dreadnought-destroyer, for it provides for the exercise of the British specialty, seamanship, and calls for the exercise of lightning manoeuvres. Canada can congratulate itself that it did not adopt the policy of Mr. Borden to sink 35 million dollars in British dreadnoughts, which will be converted into scrap iron by the adoption of the new British engine of destruction, which will make the comparatively unwieldy dreadnought, as useless as the Spanish tubs sunk in Manilla harbour by "Greater-than-Nelson' Hobson. Canada had a fortunate escape when its rulers 'turned turtle," Mr. Borden's 35 million dreadnought giveaway.

HELP FOR THE DESTITUTE.

The terrible death harvest was not all the fruit of the fierce sweep of North Ontario forest fires. The long death roll, however, represents a closed account. In one sense the dead are less to be pitied than the living, for the living have, many of them, lost all means of living—homes, food, clothing; and many bear injuries that entail terrible suffering, and almost disability, for any sort of profitable exertion. It is too early to take in and appreciate the terrible character of the calamity; but the broad fact of needy suffering appeals to everybody with a heart to feel and a cent to help. We all know that there is destitution and suffering to be relieved, so great and of so great an extent, that there is hardly any possibility of doing too much. Food, clothing, furniture, bedding, medicines, and surgical appliances, are all needed, and money represents all of these. While at least a hundred are known to have lost their lives, this gruesome list is being added to every hour or two. The terribly injured are dying, as they are being transported to where their injuries can be treated. For every one fatally burned, or otherwise put out of existence, there are 5 or six that are suffering, and in need help.

Speedy action is demanded. In this case it is doubly true that he gives twice who gives quickly. It can hardly be doubted that public opinion would support the city authorities in voting a liberal sum to relieve suffering, due to the gravest disaster that has ever visited Ontario. A civic grant permits everybody to contribute; while it sets an example to those of ample means who are able, and should be willing, to give larger sums.

In view of the urgency and great necessity of providing assistance for our fellow men, now in dire destitution, and suffering, the Examiner, as will be noticed in another column, has opened a fund for the sufferers in the fire-swept districts of New Ontario. All contributions will be acknowledged in the columns of the Examiner, and promptly forwarded to a duly constituted relief committee.

MINORITY RULE.

The British principle and practice of administration and government are that the manjority rules, not only in parliament, but in every department of consultative action. Mr. Borden and the Conservative Opposition in Parliament are outraging this principle. Mr. Borden has many times stated that obstruction is his policy, that he will use it to force an election prematurely; that is, the minority in parliament will nullify the will of the majority of the people's representatives. The life of the present parliament does not expire by the effluxion of time till November, 1913; so that it has only run about half its course. The Conservative leaders seem determined to sacrifice the orderly course of parliamentary and administrative machinery to party advantage. The excuse is made that the reciprocity agreement should be submitted to the people. Why? It is no new question; it is something that the people of Canada, under the administration of both parties, have been seeking for years. What is the use of parliament, composed of men sent there to represent the people and do their business, if every question is to be submitted to the people? It is the business of parliament to do the public business; and if their way of doing business does not suit the people, there is a regular way, and a constitutional means provided, of replacing unsatisfactory representatives—the voice of the people expressed at a general election. Under certain circumstances, dissolution and an appeal to the people is justified, such as the promulgation of some new policy that will involve great expenditures and other responsibilities; but in the case of the reciprocity agreement it is a simple matter of tariff adjustment, not much different from an annual budget in which tariff changes are dealt with. In 1897 the Fielding tariff was passed by parliament. It involved far greater and more radical changes in tariff—with a far more important bearing upon the interests of the people—than the reciprocity agreement. Yet there was no demand for submitting it to the people. Parliament, as was its duty, attended to the matter. Now we have the reciprocity agreement, a simple matter of the reduction of duties—removing the burdens of taxation from the people, facilitating trade, providing new markets, which, if adopted can, if parliament so decides, be cancelled the next day. This must forsooth, be submitted to the people at a general election.

If we have the turmoil and expense of a premature, unnecessary and unwarranted election, it will be due to the obstructive policy of the Conservative Opposition. Mr. Borden declares that he and his followers will block supply and thus force dissolution and an election. Some of the Conservative journals are ashamed of this policy to such an extent that they resort to the false charge that the Liberal government intends to "spring an election." This is a flat misstatement without a particle of truth in it. It is the Conservative Opposition that, for the first time in the history of Canada, declares its intention of forcing an election by the practice of parliamentary obstruction. The rules of parliament permit this; but it is certain that rules that permit the few to rule the many, that help destroy the British principle of majority rule, will not long exist after the next parliament is elected and popular condemnation of obstruction and popular endorsation of the reciprocity agreement are pronounced.

INFANT MORTALITY.

(Brantford Expositor)

The investigations of Dr. Helen McMurchy of Toronto, on the subject of infant mortality in Ontario have caused thinking people to turn their attention to this vital problem with a view to improving conditions in order that the lives of babies in this province may be saved.

Dr. A. P. Knight of Queen's University, in his excellent little books on "Hygiene for Young People," and "Public School Hygiene," deals in an effective way with filth and ignorance as the two essential causes of so great an infant mortality. The following are extracts:

"Only about half the babies who are born ever live to be men and women. In England, one out of every five dies within a year of its birth. In country places, and in the open and cleaner parts of cities the death rate is about 10 in every 100. In Ontario in 1907, the number of babies born was 53,584 and 8,041 of these died within the first year. In different parts of the United States the death rate among babies is much less in country places than in towns and cities. In the crowded and unclean parts of cities, from 25 to 30 die out of every 100, in hot weather. Many of these lives can be saved.

"But germs and heat are not the only causes of the high death rate among babies. Not a few die because of the ignorance or incapacity of their mothers. Many young mothers have had no training or experience in feeding their infants. They are uncleanly also in their habits and always allow the milk to go bad. The consequence is that the little ones are not properly fed.

"In some cities the milk sold in July and August is often so filthy that it contains no fewer than 3,500,000 germs in each drop. No wonder that the babies die in hundreds in such cities during these months.

"It is not the heat that is the chief cause of the large number of deaths among infants. No doubt the heat does make some of them ill, just as it makes grown-up people ill; but the chief cause of most of the fever and diarrhoea and deaths among infants in summer is impure milk. This has been proved beyond all doubt, because wherever the diet of babies has been changed to clean milk the death rate has at once fallen."

On municipalities rests the responsibility of properly enforcing the health laws that infants may be given a fair chance of life; on the government the responsibility for a more adequate educational course calculated to acquaint girls with the duties and cares of motherhood.

ANOTHER BOGEY SHATTERED.

(London Advertiser)

There has been much darkening of counsel in the attribution of various sinister motives to the American advocates of reciprocity. Annexation, advancement of American trusts, flooding of Canadian markets with American agricultural products, have all been paraded as scarecrows to the Canadian people.

In his recent speech Senator Cummins, of Iowa, an opponent of reciprocity, insisted without contradiction, that enlargement of markets for American export was not even in a small degree the object of the agreement. He said:

"I care little about the chance of increasing our exports, and you care nothing about it. There is not a senator here who has his mind fixed upon that phase of this arrangement—not one. It is a negligible quantity, and everybody knows it is a negligible quantity. Our minds are absorbed with just one thought, the subjection of our farmers to the free competition of Canada. That is the phase of this question which engages our attention. I have not heard a word said heretofore, and do not expect to hear very much said, about the reduction of these duties accomplishing any very great enlargement of our exports into Canada. We are already in possession of her market in manufactured products to a high degree; and if we want to entertain that friendly relation which has been so vaunted here, if we want to add something more to her prosperity, we ought to hope that she will manufacture her own goods under the new departure instead of taking them from the United States.

In the course of the same speech he said:

"The chief purpose of this arrangement is not to enlarge our markets in Canada. It is not the purpose of a man in this chamber."

On the matter of annexation, also a passage of Mr. Cummins' speech is of interest:

"I want Canada's friendship and I may as well say here, because I understand I have been quoted in that Dominion as being in favour of annexing Canada to the United States, that I am not in favour of annexing Canada to the United States. I am not in favour of annexing Mexico to the United States or Cuba to the United States, or Porto Rico, or the Phillippines. Our country is big enough to consume all the energies of the American people in its government. I do not want to add to the severity of our problems by the absorption of other countries, with their different interests and their different ambitions."

These sentiments are clearly the common opinion of the Senate, and are ordinarily taken for granted. A little annexation bluster on the part of two or three individuals has only been laughed at both in Congress, and in the American press.

Sir Wilfrid's Better Chances In General Election Contest

Borden has just learned at first hand and not even the most perfervid of his supporters could argue from his progress through the West that there is any hope in that direction for a public man who proclaims that he will not allow them to have what they so manifestly want. In Ontario there are signs which point to the Liberals being returned with a substantial majority of the representation, for the very reason that men who would otherwise be disposed to vote for Mr. Borden's candidates cannot do so in face of his declaration that the farmers cannot be allowed to take advantage of the opportunity they and their fathers before them have been awaiting, and which states men of both parties for half a century have encouraged them to seek.

In the circumstances, therefore, Sir Wilfrid starts in with the great advantage which the probability of success always brings, and Mr. Borden under the handicap of prospective failure. Mr. Laurier almost won on the reciprocity issue in his first election, in 1891, although out of office, with the prestige he now has all to be won, with Sir John Macdonald against him, with the American protectionists hostile, with the nature of a possible reciprocal agreement badly defined, and with Mr. Blake and other leading Liberals hostile to reciprocity because of this lack of definition. If he came so near to winning then, surely he stands a fair chance of sweeping the country now, with all the conditions reversed. He is in office; his prestige is unrivalled; his enemy is weak; his cause is popular; he has a real agreement to offer for acceptance, probably ratified in advance by Congress. And he knows that the chances are on his side. His manner since he returned to Canada shows that he is more confident than at any other period in his career, more eager for the test, more downright anxious to lead once more to victory.

NARROW ESCAPE IN PORCUPINE FIRE

"There were so many prospectors working throughout the burned section, about whom even their closest friends have no information, that it will be hard to tell just how many perished. There certainly must have been a very heavy loss of life throughout the district.

The Examiner inquired as to Gordon Campbell, son of Mr. Peter Campbell, who is in the Porcupine district.

"I haven't heard anything of him since the fire," remarked Mr. Gillespie. "Golden City was his headquarters, and I saw him a few weeks ago."

"Lloyd Mathers of Mather's Corners, Otonabee, was at Brough's camp and was one of the party who escaped with me in the trench. He came down from the north with me and he lost everything he owned in that country. The problem now is to feed the people. The supplies at Golden City, the only townsite that escapes, are not enough for the crowd of refugees, and unless plenty of help arrives soon, the conditions there will be very bad. That was the chief reason why I got out. I had seen enough suffering without waiting to see people starving."

At Porcupine Lake.

Mr. Gillespie did not see much of the horror at Porcupine Lake, as the worst was over when he and his party reached there after escaping from the flames. However, there must have been frightful scenes there. He saw a few dead bodies at South Porcupine while there were hundreds of carcasses of horses and dogs lying around, the animals having perished in the fire.

Mr. Gillespie, who was a former member of the Peterborough Rugby team and widely known there, has a host of friends in Peterborough who will unite in congratulating him upon his miraculous escape. He intends to spend a month at home and will then return to the Porcupine district. The fire he states, will put the camp back a year, although the blaze will clean up the country effectually and make claims easier to get at.

ASSAULT

North Monaghan Man Pays Fine of $2.00 For Assaulting Man on 12th.

A resident of North Monaghan Township, was arraigned in the Court this morning on a charge of assaulting Albert Crouter, a well-known local man. Crouter gave evidence to the effect that on the 12th of July he went into a hotel, and accused and another man were sitting talking, and he went over to him, and jokingly asked him how chances were in bringing a certain party out to his place, and upon passing the joke, he claims that the accused hit him without even waiting.

In the course of his evidence the accused stated that Crouter's evidence was all correct, but the nature of the remark, which was a very improper and insulting one.

The City Clerk, who is at present officiating during the absence of Magistrate Dumble, in summing up the evidence, stated that although the remark was insulting and things in general were sufficient to cause complaint, yet he (the accused), should have made complaint to the authorities, instead of taking the law in his own hands. A nominal fine of $2.00 was then made.

A local livery man had a man in court, charged with cruelty to one of his horses. He withdrew the charge and paid the costs.

SACRED HEART SOCIAL A GREAT SUCCESS

The second annual social and garden party took place on the grounds of the Sacred Heart Church last evening. As the proceeds were in aid of the building fund of the church it was naturally a parish affair.

Committees had been formed some time ago to look after the different sections necessary for a successful social.

The married ladies of the parish had charge of the commisariat, including the providing and preparing of the supper. The parish, as a whole, supplied all the food required for the evening meal.

The young ladies of the Sodality had charge of the waiting on the table, and also the ice cream booth, assisted by the successful Sacred Heart baseball team. The Sodality were also responsible for the supply of a large amount of the victuals. The Sacred Heart T. A. S. had charge of the Refreshment Booth, as well as a general supervision of the grounds, while the parish, as a whole, fitted up and arranged the beautiful grounds for the evening. The 57th Regimental Band, which was in attendance, furnished some excellent music during the evening, and the assembly, which was a large one, dispersed about 10.30. The affair was a very successful one and it is understood a substantial sum was realized.

The parishioners of the Sacred Heart, ably led by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Fr. McCauley, are to be congratulated upon such a well-arranged party, which passed off without a hitch.

LOCAL MAN BADLY HURT AT COBOURG

When the special trains were leaving Cobourg on July 12th, Mr. Harry Mitchell, a resident of East City, who was attending the demonstration at Cobourg, was attempting to board the last coach of the train, with a large watermelon in his arms, when, in some manner, he fell from the train and was seriously injured. His friends, becoming anxious on his not returning to Peterborough on Thursday evening and yesterday, made enquiries to-day and found that he was required to be taken to the hospital, where his injuries are being looked after. His brother, Mr. Geo. Mitchell, left for Cobourg to-day, and particulars as to the extent of his injuries will not be known until word is received from him. It is to be hoped that his injuries will not be permanent.

NOVEL METHOD OF WATERING GRASS IN CENTRAL PARK

Ald. Morgan has issued an order to Fire Chief Howard to conduct his fire drill at Central Park during the months of July and Agust.

The object of this order is to give the grass of the park the benefit of the water that is used when the firemen are conducting hose drill. This will be done at four o'clock in the morning when required. In addition to the benefit the men will receive from the drill, the water used will tend to beautify the park by keeping the grass green and furthermore, the object of conducting these drills early in the morning is to avoid any danger or annoyance to the public.

This order of Ald. Morgan is a very commendable one, and one that will no doubt serve the best interests of the public.

THE DISTURBANCES WERE PREVENTED BY TROOPS

PARIS, FRANCE, JULY 14.—The National Fete passed off to-day with only minor disturbances. The revolutionary organizations had threatened violence. Small bands of young Royalists cried "Long Live the King," but were chased off the streets by troops, which prevented a socialist procession.

KILLED BY WAGGON TONGUE WHILE SITTING IN A CAR

Special to The Examiner.

CHICAGO, JULY 13.—An automobile frightened a team. The team ran away and collided with a moving street car. The waggon tongue went through the window of the street car. A little boy was sitting on a seat. The waggon tongue killed him, but spared his mother, who sat beside him. It also broke the arm of a man who was within the car.

Before the motorman could stop the car it ran forward about 100 feet, carrying with it the team of horses, the waggon and the driver of the waggon, who was entangled in the mass, but he escaped injury.

Charles M. Baumstark, 8 years old, 2213 Dominick street, died while he was being taken in an ambulance to Alexian Brothers' hospital.

Joseph C. Ankerberg, 23 years old, 2314 North Central Park avenue, an electrician, left leg fractured above the knee, head, face and body cut and bruised; taken to his home.

The accident took place at the corner of Grace street and Southport avenue. The car, north bound, was running at about twenty miles an hour when it approached Grace street. The lumber waggon, belonging to the Adam Schille Lumber Company, was going south on the avenue without a load. An auto truck, said to belong to the United States Express Company, turned suddenly into Southport avenue from Grace street.

As the truck turned north toward the waggon the horses became frightened and shied toward the approaching car. Joseph Koplack, the driver, tried to stop them, but they were beyond his control, and dashed into the car, forcing the tongue of the waggon through the side glass of the vestibule.

Mrs. Charles Baumstark, 2213 Dominick street, was sitting on one of the front seats with her son at the time. She was thrown to the floor of the car. The waggon tongue hit the boy in the back of the head: It killed him almost instantly.

The car was unable to stop and dragged the waggon for one hundred feet, or more. The waggon tongue swept the car like a gigantic flail. It struck Ankerberg, throwing him against the side of the car.

At the time that the waggon struck the street car the horse on the side nearest the car was thrown back onto the front bolster, of the waggon, and instantly killed. The horse fell directly on Koplack, but he escaped any serious injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Baumstark buried their only other child six months ago.

HORRORS OF THE FIRE GROW

was in the town and, fanned by the wind from the southwest, it was travelling at a terrific rate. It was impossible to make a raft and get away in time and therefore we decided it was wiser to find boats. We went to Kennedy's place and he told us he had some canoes but no paddles. We broke in and took out a canoe and as we were getting ready to get in, a bunch made a rush for the canoe. We finally convinced them of the error of overcrowding the craft. After a few minutes spent in persuading the half-crazed mob, Billy Moore returned with a board to serve as a paddle and we got our friends into the craft. We had a good crowd and figured that if everybody kept their heads we would be able to make the other side. Just as we were putting off from the shore a barber named Straine ran up and cried: 'My God, I can't swim; please take me along and if you can't let me in, let me hang to the back; for God's sake, don't leave me behind or I'm done for.'

Overcrowded Canoe.

"After considering a moment, Billy Moore decided to let him in rather than allow him to trail behind. We got him safely in, and started. In less than two minutes it was over, and we were all in the water. Moore came up, holding on to the board and seemed to be holding his own. McMerrick, another passenger, was in difficulties, and seeing he was not able to last, Moore threw him the board. Just then the flames reached over our heads and Moore sank, and that was the last we saw of him. The heat overhead was something terrific, and the smoke so thick we could hardly breathe. Finally we all got hold of the canoe and by a concentrated effort were able to reach shore. We were an hour and a half in the water, and it took all our nerve to hang to the boat".

May Be 500 Dead.

Speaking generally of the fire, Mr. Green said he would not be surprised if there were 500 deaths. To add to the terror of the situation, besides the fire there were scores of horses, cattle and dogs running wild through the town, their disemboweled and scorched bodies lining the streets, already filled with bodies of men.

Acts of heroism throughout the town are too numerous to mention in detail. The horrors of the holocaust are too gruesome to print. As one man expressed it: "To go through this one could travel through hell with a smile on his face."

One could hardly imagine the sight of a man being led through the town with both eyes burned out and moaning only because his partner had perished.

Another with his face and arms a mass of blisters and still another with his abdomen opened by burns.

Man's Hand Fell Off.

Harry Roche a mining engineer, and A. S. Shields, representative of J. B. O'Brian, beat their way back to town when the flames were at their height, and brought out with them an unknown man, who was so seriously burned that a portion of his hand fell off when he was picked up.

At United Porcupine there were the three Flynn brothers, never separated, two are now alive and one remains behind a charred mass. There was no shelter there and men sought refuge on an outcropping of rock. There Andy Thille, the foreman, Frank Flynn, and Joseph Fletcher perished, while another named Dwyer, a Colorado miner, is missing. On the same rock J. L. Flynn and Joe Flynn watched their brother burn to death. J. L. Flynn receiving serious burns on arms and face. With them was Albert Gibbs, whose features were burned beyond recognition and arms and body badly scorched. The flames came upon them so quickly that even blankets to wet and throw around them could not be obtained and yet these hardy men survived the furnace of flames and made their way five miles into Porcupine in spite of their injuries and are now on their way to Breesbridge.

Local Fund For Relief Of The Fire Suffers

The people of the Porcupine district, the survivors of the awful fire that swept over that country during the past week, are badly in need of funds to buy provisions and clothing. The terrible conflagration has wiped out their all; those who escaped, got out with only the clothes they were wearing. It is hard in a prosperous country like this to understand the conditions as they are in the north following the disaster and money is needed urgently and at once to alleviate the suffering. Everywhere funds are being collected for the assistance of the survivors and Peterborough should not be behind other places in the movement. The Examiner has been requested to open a fund for the benefit of the sufferers and will take charge of any donations sent in to this office and see that they are forwarded to the proper quarters. The following have already been received:

Independent Real Estate Company, $25.00).
Peterborough Examiner Limited, $10.00.

EXAMINER'S NEW SERIAL STORY COMMENCES TO-MORROW

The Examiner's new serial story "Adventure," the most fascinating long story that Jack London ever wrote, will commence in to-morrow's issue and readers of the Examiner should see that they do not miss an instalment of this truly great yarn, which is one of the most exciting and at the same time best written stories that the Examiner has published. That is a pretty strong statement in view of the feast of good things this paper has given its readers, but when you have read the last chapter of "Adventure" we have every confidence that you will agree that you have never read a more enthralling narrative of romance and adventure. The scene itself—the South seas—with its fierce blacks is a good foundation to the story, but when you add to this a truly wonderful girl and two men who love her and who end by fighting an unusual and thrilling duel for her you have some idea of the merit of Mr. London's latest story. 'Adventure' starts to-morrow. Don't miss an issue.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

Superintendent John Rothwell, Mr. F. O. Ayers, fourth vice president of the company and a number of others were present.

How To Keep Young

The one desire foremost in the mind of every man and woman who passes 40 years of age is, how to keep young in looks and feelings. To retain youthful vigour and youthful appearance the system must be kept up to par and the germs of disease and decay must not be allowed to make ravages on the body. One great scientist has discovered that man may live to be 150 years of age, possessed of all his faculties, and that the prime of life should be 80 years of age.

How much better it is to be hale and hearty at 80 years of age than it is to acquire all the wealth in the world and be an old broken down man or woman at 60. Sensible thinking people only need a suggestion or a warning to realize the importance of not allowing the health to fail and the vitality to become low, as it is a long, tedious job to rebuild the constitution up to its youthful standard after disease or overwork has sapped the strength and wasted the tissues.

CROPS HAILED OUT

A terrific storm passed over the vicinity of Nassau yesterday morning. It was of but brief duration, but was accompanied by considerable hail. The brunt of the storm was centred about two miles north of Nassau. It is reported that considerable damage was done to the crops by the hail.

VICTIM OF DRINK NEEDS ORRINE

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves. Medical treatment is necessary. Orrine destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink will not be missed and restores the patient to health.

This remedy is thoroughly scientific and is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a guarantee to refund your money if after a trial it has not benefited. Booklet free on request. The Orrine Company, Orrine Building, Washington, D.C. Sold in this city by Wm. Madill.

OUTING WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The 4th annual outing of the Cressman Co. was the best yet. The Rainbow, with 75 employees, left Wolfe street wharf at 1.30 o'clock bound for Higland park, where a programme of sports and games were run off. The trip down the river was a pleasant one and every minute was enjoyed. Singing and music and a jolly good time on board the Rainbow. On leaving Wolfe street wharf a slight shower put in an appearance, but didn't last long enough to dampen the good faith of the merry half-day crowd. The park is a pleasant spot for a small picnic. The surroundings and scenery is good for sore eyes.

After the games and races were over all sat down to supper. The ladies of the party supplied the refreshments and in this line, as well as in others, did themselves proud. Just as all sat down to supper, Miss Olive Edney presented Mrs. Cressman and Mrs. Henderson with a beautiful bouquet of American beauties, with the compliments of the employees. In a well worded address Mr. Cressman, on behalf of the two ladies, thanked the employees.

The spirit of comradeship and good fellowship that prevailed throughout spoke eloquently of the harmonious feeling existing between Mr. Cressman and staff. The outing, which was a grand one, will long be remembered as the most pleasant ever enjoyed by the 75 employees, who thanked Mr. Cressman for his kind thoughtfulness.

Mr. Dewey's orchestra supplied the music, which was universally enjoyed.

Mr. Edney, captain of the winning baseball team is a happy man to-day.

Mr. Patterson, in record time, won the 50 yard dash.

Mr. Dean won the running long jump.

Miss Brammall won the water race.

Miss Stillman and Miss Philips were the winners of the three-legged race.

Miss Long won the boot and shoe race.

Mr. M. Schlueter won the fat man's race.

Little Jos. Duffy won the orange eating contest.

The Henderson challenge race was won by Mr. Henderson. Mr. Henderson is not as young as he used to be, but put it all over the younger men who tried hard to win the big prize.

Mr. Patterson's side won the tug-of-war.

Miss Wesley was captain of the ladies' tug-of-war and won after a hard fight. Miss Emmerson's side worked hard and it was only after ten minutes of the hardest struggling that Miss Wesley was successful.

Miss Kelly carried off the pennant for the football match. The ladies proved to be good kickers.

After supper, the merry crowd started for home, tired but happy.

The full expense of the outing was shouldered by Mr. Cressman, and it is not necessary to say they appreciate the kindness he always shows them. "For he's a jolly good fellow, etc."

DOG KILLED

A large collie dog was struck and instantly killed by a street car this morning at the corner of Park and Perry streets. Whether doggie was trying to steal a ride or attempting to evade the dog catcher will never be known.

LOST FINGER

A little home girl named Mary Thomas, had the misfortune to get her hand caught in a cream separator yesterday morning and had a finger amputated. She was employed at a farm house out in the country, and was brought to the Nicholls Hospital where the injured member was dressed by Dr. Halliday.

GAVE LOTS OF MILK

From Farm and Dairy.

S. A. Freeman, Oxford Co., Ont.

Last year our herd of 70 cows gave us 526,042 lbs. of milk, an average of 7,515 lbs. We received for this milk $6,510.61, an average of $93 a cow. Twelve of the best cows had an average production of 10,426 lbs. of milk. The herd is composed of grades of all sorts.

In 1906 the average production of our herd was 5,149 lbs. of milk. They have made a gain, therefore, of 2,366 lbs. each. They have always received much the same care and feeding. This additional flow at the average price that we receive for milk this year, $1.23½ a cwt., means an added revenue of $2,237. I attribute this gain almost entirely to weighing the milk from individual cows and keeping records. The poor cows have got to travel. I set my standard this year at 7,000 lbs. each, and sold the nine that did not measure up to this standard. I have 12 two-year-old heifers to replace them. I am not satisfied with my herd yet, however, and intend to keep on testing and weeding out the poor ones until the cows have an average production of 10,000 lbs.

In feeding silage is our standby. We grow 50 acres of corn each year. Last year we bought in addition to what we grew on the farm $606.26 worth of mill feed, mostly bran.

HAULING WATER

From Farm and Dairy.

"If I were to come onto your farm and set 750 teams to work for a week hauling water onto a quarter section at the rate of four tons a day, I would then only put on as much water as evaporates in a week when there is a good moisture content in the soil." Such is the very striking illustration used by President Worst of the North Dakota agricultural college, of the great amount of water lost by evaporation.

A thorough harrowing will stop this evaporation and save the moisture for the crop.

WORK ON THE CENSUS HAS JUST BEEN COMMENCED

OTTAWA, JULY 13.—Manifold are the adventures of the census lists and numerous are the processes through which they must pass before they are crystallized into blue book form and are accepted as the official record of the population and pursuits of the eight millions of people in this broad Dominion.

It is true that all the lists from Ottawa have been handed in to the census bureau, that the troubles and trials of the enumerator are over; but this is by no means the end of it. When Mr. Harry Jones gives his name, occupation and defects to the enumerator he may imagine that it is all over, but it is not by any means.

Up in the census bureau in the Canadian building sits Mr. Archibald Blue, the man who thinks in figures. Around him are his cohorts, a staff of 31 regulars and 153 temporary clerks, who will, after three years' hard experience be second to Mr. Archibald Blue in juggling with figures.

One by one the lists come in and immediately they arrive they are seized on by one cohort and registered. Wagon loads come piling in every day containing myriad names but the registration work is quickly done and it is only a herald of the enormous works to follow.

Through the Mill.

Then the lists are passed on to another cohort where they are revised. One by one the names are gone over, that of the unthinking Mr. Harry Jones among the rest of them, and one by one revisions are made. Here the legions of mistakes that do slip in are corrected. Here the chaff is cut away and only the desired information is sifted out.

Then comes the work of adding which keeps a very large number busy. One by one the lists are added up and the totals recorded by 18 adding machines which are shortly to be utilized. Thousands of names pass through the hands of the counters every day.

Compilation, which employes perhaps the largest staff comes next and here it is that the minute details of Mr. Harry Jones' business affairs, financial embarassments, mental defects are examined into. Those who deal in agriculture are placed in one class, those in commerce in another, those in fishing another until at last the whole statistics are completed.

Then the lists are grouped by villages, towns, cities, parishes, townships, provinces, and last of all electoral districts. The records are sent down then to be printed while the lists are carefully stacked and preserved "for the future historian" as Mr. Blue remarked.

So if Mr. Harry Jones has any illusions about its being all over when he signs his name he is very much in error, making one of the biggest mistakes in his life.

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

"ADVENTURE"

By JACK LONDON

CHAPTER I
Something to be Done

He was a very sick white man. He rode pick-a-back on a woolly-headed black-skinned savage, the lobes of whose ears had been pierced and stretched until one had torn out, while the other carried a circular block of carved wood three inches in diameter. The torn ear had been pierced again, but this time not so ambitiously, for the whole accommodated no more than a short clay-pipe. The man-horse was greasy and dirty and naked save for an exceedingly narrow and dirty loin-cloth; but the white man clung to him closely and desperately. At times from weakness his head drooped and rested on the woolly pate. At other times he lifted his head and stared with swimming eyes on the cocoanut palms that reeled and swung in the shimmering heat. He was clad in a thin undershirt and a strip of cotton cloth that wrapped about his waist and descended to his knees. On his head was a battered Stetson, known to the trade as a Baden-Powell. About his middle was strapped a belt, which carried a large-calibered automatic pistol and several spare clips, loaded and ready for quick work.

The rear was brought up by a black boy of fourteen or fifteen, who carried medicine bottles, a pail of hot water, and various other hospital appurtenances. They passed out of the compound through a small wicker gate, and went on under the blazing sun, winding about among new-planted cocoanuts that threw no shade. There was not a breath of wind, and the super-heated stagnant air was heavy with pestilence. From the direction they were going arose a wild clamor as of lost souls wailing and of men in torment. A long, low shed showed ahead, grass walled and grass thatched, and it was from here that the noise proceeded. There were shrieks and screams, some unmistakably of grief, others unmistakably of unendurable pain. As the white man drew closer he could hear a low and continuous moaning and groaning. He shuddered at the thought of entering, and for a moment was quite certain that he was going to faint. For that most dreaded of Solomon Island scourges, dysentery, had struck Berande Plantation, and he was all alone to cope with it. Also he was afflicted himself.

By stooping close, still on man-back he managed to pass through the low doorway. He took a small bottle from his follower and sniffed strong ammonia to clear his senses for the ordeal. Then he shouted "Shut up!" and the clamor stilled. A raised platform of forest slabs, six feet wide, with a slight pitch, extended the full length of the shed. Alongside of it was a yard wide runway. Stretched on the platform, side by side and crowded close, lay a score of blacks. That they were low in the order of human life was apparent at a glance. They were man-eaters. Their faces were asymmetrical, bestial; their bodies were ugly and apelike. They wore nose rings of clam-shells and turtle-shell, and from the end of their noses, which were also pierced, projected horns of beads strung on stiff wire. Their ears were pierced and distended to accommodate wooden plugs and sticks, pipes, and all manner of barbaric ornaments. Their faces and bodies were tattooed or scarred in hideous designs. In their sickness they wore no clothing, not even loin-clouts, though they retained their shell armlets, their bead necklaces, and their leather belts, between which and the skin were thrust naked knives. The bodies of many were covered with horrible sores. Swarms of flies rose and settled, or flew back and forth in clouds.

The white man went down the line, dosing each man with medicine. To some he gave chlorodyne. He was forced to concentrate with all his will in order to remember which of them could stand ipecacuanha and which of them were constitutionally unable to retain that powerful drug. One who lay dead he ordered to be carried out. He spoke in the sharp, peremptory manner of a man who would take no nonsense, and the well men who obeyed his orders scowled malignantly. One muttered deep in his chest as he took the corpse by the feet. The white man exploded in speech and action. It cost him a painful effort, but his arm shot out, landing a back-hand blow on the black's mouth.

"What name you, Angara?" he shouted. "What for talk "long you, eh? I knock seven bells out of you, too much, quick!"

With the automatic swiftness of a wild animal the black gathered himself to spring. The anger of a wild animal was in his eyes; but he saw the white man's hand dropping to the pistol in his belt. The spring was never made. The tense body relaxed, and the black, stooping over the corpse helped carry it out. This time there was no muttering.

"Swine-!" the white man gritted out through his teeth at the whole breed of Solomon Islanders.

He was very sick, this white man, as sick as the black men who lay helpless about him, and whom he attended. He never knew, each time he entered the festering shambles, whether or not he would be able to complete the round. But he did know, in large degree of certainty, that if he ever fainted there in the midst of the blacks those who were able would be at his throat like ravening wolves.

Part way down the line a man was dying. He gave orders for his removal as soon as he had breathed his last. A black stuck his head inside the shed door, saying:

"Four fella sick too much."

Fresh cases, still able to walk, they clustered about the spokesman. The white man singled out the weakest, and put him in the place just vacated by the corpse. Also, he indicated the next weakest, telling him to wait for a place until the next man died. Then ordering one of the well men to take a squad from the field-force and build a lean-to addition to the hospital, he continued along the runway, administering medicine and cracking jokes in beche-de-mer English to cheer the sufferers. Now and again from the far end, a weird wail was raised. When he arrived there he found the noise was emitted by a boy who was not sick. The white man's wrath was immediate.

"What name you sing out alla time?" he demanded.

"Him fella my brother belong me," was the answer. "Him fella die too much."

"You sing out, him fella brother belong you die too much," the white man went on in threatening tones. "I cross too much along you. What make um brother belong you die close up too much. You fella finish sing out, savvee? You fella no finish sing out I make finish damn quick."

He threatened the wailer with his fist, and the black cowered down, glaring at him with sullen eyes.

"Sing out no good little bit," the white man went on more gently. "You no sing out. You chase um fella fly. Too much strong fella fly. You catch water, washee brother belong you, washee plenty too much, bime bye brother belong you all right."

"Jump!" he shouted fiercely at the end, his will penetrating the low intelligence of the black with dynamic force that made him jump to the task of brushing the loathsome swarms of flies away.

Again he rode out into the reeking heat. He clutched the black's neck tightly and drew a long breath; but the dead air seemed to shrivel his lungs, and he dropped his head and dozed till the house was reached. Every effort of will was torture, yet he was called upon continually to make efforts of will. He gave the black he had ridden a nip of trade gin. Viburi, the house boy, brought him corrosive sublimate and water, and he took a thorough antiseptic wash. He dosed himself with chlorodyne, took his own pulse, smoked a thermometer, and lay back on the couch with a suppressed groan. It was mid-afternoon, and he had completed his third round that day. He called the house boy.

"Take um big fella look along Jessie," he commanded.

The boy carried the long telescope out on the verandah and searched the sea.

"One fella schooner long way little bit," he announced. "One fella Jessie."

The white man gave a little gasp of delight.

"You make um Jessie, five sticks tobacco along you," he said.

There was silence for a time, during which he waited with eager impatience.

"Maybe Jessie, maybe other fella schooner," came the faltering admission.

The man wormed to the edge of the couch and slipped off to the floor on his knees. By means of a chair he drew himself to his feet. Still clinging to the chair, supporting most of his weight on it, he shoved it to the door and out upon the veranda. The sweat of the exertion streamed down his face and showed through the undershirt across his shoulders. He managed to get into the chair, where he panted in a state of collapse. In a few minutes he roused himself. The boy held the end of the telescope against one of the veranda scantlings while the man gazed through it at the sea. At last he picked up the white sails of the schooner, and studied them.

"No Jessie," he said very quietly. "That's the Malakula."

He changed his seat for a steamer reclining chair. Three hundred feet away the sea broke in a small surf upon the beach. To the left he could see the white line of breakers that marked the bar of the Balesuna River, and, beyond, the rugged outline of Savo Island. Directly before him, across the twelve mile channel, lay Florida Island, and, farther to the right, dim in the distance, he could make out portoins of Malaita, the savage island, the abode of murder and robbery, and man-eating, the place from which his own two hundred plantation hands had been recruited. Between him and the beach was the cane-grass fence of the compound. The gate was ajar and he sent the house-boy to close it. Within the fence grew a number of lofty cocoanut palms. On either side the path that led to the gate stood two tall flagstaffs. They were reared on artificial mounds of earth that were ten feet high. The base of each staff was surrounded by short posts painted white and connected by heavy chains. The staffs themselves were like ship's masts, with top masts spliced on in true nautical fashion, with shrouds, ratlines, gaffs, and flag-halyards. From the gaff of one, two gay flags hung limply, one a checker-board of blue and white squares, the other a white pennant centred with a red disk. It was the international code signal of distress.

On the far corner of the compound fence a hawk brooded. The man watched it and knew that it was sick. He wondered idly if it felt as bad as he felt, and was feebly amused at the thought of kinship that somehow penetrated his fancy. He roused himself to order the great bell to be rung as a signal for the plantation hands to cease work and go to their barracks. Then he mounted his man-horse and made the last round of the day.

In the hospital were two new cases. To these he gave castor oil. He congratulated himself. It had been an easy day. Only three had died. He inspected the copra-drying that had been going on, and went through the barracks to see if there were any sick lying hidden and defying his rule of segregation. Returned to the house, he received the reports of the boss-boys and gave instructions for next day's work. The boats' crew boss also he had in to give assurance, as was the custom nightly, that the whale-boats were hauled up and padlocked. This was a most necessary precaution, for the blacks were in a funk, and a whale-boat left lying on the beach in the evening meant a loss of twenty blacks by morning. Since the blacks were worth thirty dollars apiece, or less, according to how much of their time had been worked out, Berande Plantation could ill afford the loss. Besides, whale-boats were not cheap in the Solomons, and, also, the deaths were daily reducing the working capital. Seven blacks had fled into the bush the week before, and four had dragged themselves back, helpless from fever, with the report that two more had been killed and kai-kai'd (eaten) by the hospitable bushmen. The seventh man was still at large, and was said to be working along the coast on the lookout to steal a canoe and get away to his own island.

Viaburi brought two lighted lanterns to the white man for inspection. He glanced at them and saw that they were burning brightly with clear, broad flames, and nodded his head. One was hoisted up to the gaff of the flagstaff, and the other was placed on the wide verandah. They were the leading lights to the Berande anchorage, and every night in the year they were so inspected and hung out.

He rolled back on his couch with a sigh of relief. The day's work was done. A rifle lay on the couch beside him. His revolver was within reach of his hand. An hour passed, during which he did not move. He lay in a state of half-slumber, half-coma. He became suddenly alert. A creak on the back verandah was the cause. The room was L-shaped: the corner in which he stood his couch was dim, but the hanging lamp in the main part of the room, over the billiard table and just around the corner so that it did not shine on him, was burning brightly. He waited without movement. The creaks were repeated, and he knew several men lurked outside.

"What name?" he cried sharply.

The house, raised a dozen feet above the ground, shook on its pile-foundations to the rush of retreating footsteps.

"They're getting bold," he muttered. "Something will have to be done."

CHAPTER II.
SOMETHING IS DONE

In the morning David Sheldon decided that he was worse. That he was appreciably weaker there was no doubt, and there were other symptoms that were unfavorable. He began his rounds looking for trouble. He wanted trouble. In full health, the strained situation would have been serious enough; but as it was, himself growing helpless, something had to be done. The blacks were getting more sullen and defiant, and the appearance of the men the previous night on his verandah—one of the gravest of offences on Berande—was ominous. Sooner or later they would get him, if he did not get them first, if he did not once again sear on their dark souls the flaming mastery of the white man.

He returned to the house disappointed. No opportunity had presented itself of making an example of insolence or insubordination—such as had occurred on every other day since the sickness smote Berande. The fact that none had offended was in itself suspicious. They were growing crafty. He regretted that he had not waited the night before until the prowlers had entered. That he might have shot one or two and given the rest a new lesson, writ in red, for them to con. It was one man against two hundred, and he was horribly afraid of his sickness overpowering him and leaving him at their mercy. He saw visions of the blacks taking charge of the plantation, looting the store, burning buildings, and escaping to Malaita. Also, one gruesome vision he caught of his own head, sun-dried and smoke-cured, ornamenting the canoe house of a cannibal village. Either the Jessie would have to arrive, or he would have to do something.

The bell had hardly rung, sending the laborers into the fields, when Sheldon had a visitor. He had had the couch taken out on the verandah, and he was lying on it when the canoes paddled in and hauled out on the beach. Forty men, armed with spears, bows and arrows, and war-clubs, gathered outside the gate of the compound, but only one entered. They knew the law of Berande, as every native knew the law of every white man's compound in all the thousand miles of the far-flung Solomons. The one man who came up the path Sheldon recognized as Seelee, the chief of Balesuna village. The savage did not mount the steps, but stood beneath and talked to the white lord above.

Seelee was more intelligent than the average of his kind, but his intelligence only emphasized the lowness of that kind. His eyes, close together and small, advertised cruelty and craftiness. A gee-string and a cartridge belt were all the clothes he wore. The carved pearl-shell ornament that hung from nose to chin and impeded speech was purely ornamental, as were the holes in his ears mere utilities for carrying pipe and tobacco. His broken-fanged teeth were stained black by betel-nut, the juice of which he spat on the ground.

As he talked, or listened, he made grimaces like a monkey. He said yes by dropping his eyelids and thrusting his chin forward. He spoke with childish arrogance strangely at variance with the subservient position he occupied beneath the verandah. He, with his many followers, was lord and master of Balesuna village. But the white man, without followers, was lord and master of Berande—ay, and on occasion, single-handed, had made himself lord and master of Balesuna village as well. Seelee did not like to remember that episode. It had occurred in the course of learning the nature of white men and of learning to abominate them. He had once been guilty of sheltering three runaways from Berande. They had given him all they possessed in return for the shelter and for promised aid in getting away to Malaita. This had given him a glimpse of a profitable future, in which his village would serve as the one depot on the underground railway between Berande and Malaita.

Unfortunately, he was ignorant of the ways of white men. This particular white man educated him by arriving at his grass house in the gray of dawn. In the first moment he had felt amused. He was so perfectly safe in the midst of his village. But the next moment, and before he could cry out, a pair of handcuffs on the white man's knuckles had landed on his mouth, knocking the cry of alarm back down his throat. Also, the white man's other fist had caught him under the ear and left him without further interest in what was happening. When he came to, he found himself in the white man's whale-boat on the way to Berande. At Berande he had been treated as one of no consequence, with handcuffs on hands and feet, to say nothing of chains. When his tribe had returned the three runaways, he was given his freedom. And finally, the terrible white men had fined him and Balesuna village ten thousand cocoanuts. After that he had sheltered no more runaway Malaita men. Instead, he had gone into the business of catching them. It was safer. Besides, he was paid one case of tobacco per head. But if he ever got a chance at that white man, if he ever caught him sick or stood at his back when he stumbled and fell on a bush trail—well, there would be a head that would fetch a price in Malaita.

Sheldon was pleased with what Seelee told him. The seventh man of the last batch of runaways had been caught and was even then at the gate. He was brought in, heavy-featured and defiant, his arms bound with cocoanut sennit, the dry blood still on his body from the struggle with his captors.

"Me savvee you good fella, Seelee," Sheldon said, as the chief gulped down a quarter-tumbler of raw trade gin. "Fella boy belong me you catch short time little bit. This fella boy strong fella too much. I give you fella one case tobacco—my word, one case tobacco. Then, you good fella along me, I give you three fathom calico, one fella knife big fella too much."

The tobacco and trade goods were brought from the store-room by two house-boys and turned over to the chief of Balesuna village, who accepted the additional reward with a non-committal grunt and went away down the path to his canoes. Under Sheldon's directions, the house-boys handcuffed the prisoner, by hands and feet, around one of the pile supports of the house. At eleven o'clock, when the laborers came in from the field, Sheldon had them assembled in the compound before the verandah. Every able man was there, including those who were helping about the hospital.

Kryptok lenses embody two pieces of glass, of different refraction, coalesced with intense heat into one, and ground into a lens having two distinct focal points.

There is no cement—no clouding of vision—no edges to catch dust or to become cracked and jarred in cleaning. Kryptok lenses last indefinitely, barring accidental breakage. A pasted lens may separate at any time and become useless.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS CURE SUMMER COMPLAINT

Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are babies or young children. At no time of the year is baby in such danger as in summer. At the first sign of illness the Tablets should be given to the little one, for summer complaints come on so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand baby may be beyond help in a few hours. The Tablets never fail to relieve the sick child, and if occasionally given to the well child will keep him well. Mrs. Desire Martin, St. Denis, Que., writes: "I have a baby three months old who suffered from colic and constipation. Castor Oil was of no help at all, but Baby's Own Tablets speedily cured him and now I always keep them in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE
Cost of Glasses

When you think of having your eyes examined and of the possibility of wearing glasses, the matter of cost naturally arises.

As in everything else, good work, careful skilful work, is apt to cost more than work less good.

There is nothing you buy for your personal use that you ought to be more careful about, that you can afford to have the best of, than those glasses that you are going to depend on to preserve and assist your eyesight.

The reason we have succeeded so well and our business has grown so satisfactorily is that the best work is given in every case and a reasonable price is charged.

All Work including the Lens Grinding is done on the Premises and Fully Guaranteed.

HER QUIET MAJESTY.

A Reporter Learns Something of the Queen's Tasta.

"Dressing like a queen" is a phrase usually suggesting an extravagantly gorgeous wardrobe. But in the case of Queen Mary the idea does not hold good.

Indeed, the lady whose income will not admit of rich and gorgeous clothing, and who therefore is neatly but unobtrusively dressed, may feel gratified with the knowledge that she and the Queen have a taste in common.

A woman journalist recently had an interesting chat with a member of the firm of Lucile, Ltd., and learned some interesting information about Queen Mary's taste in dress.

"In the matter of all four styles of dress — morning, afternoon, evening, and, walking costume for country wear —Her Majesty's taste lies in the direction of quiet simplicity," said the informant. "For morning wear her dresses are usually tight-fitting tailor-made in style, and the material is generally tweed or cloth, in either case of fairly fine texture. The Queen prefers tight-fitting clothes of not too soft material, and her favorite color is certainly blue. Her morning costumes are sometimes of sapphire-blue, but all shades of that color are both becoming to, and favored by, Her Majesty.

"No, Queen Mary is not an admirer of the Peter Pan style of neckwear, and invariably wears a high collar.

"In the afternoon you will more often see Queen Mary dressed in pale mauve, or perhaps in white or pale blue. The material varies in accordance with the season of the year.

"For instance, in the summer she will wear crepe-de-Chine, fine voile, or a material composed of silk and cotton, with perhaps a lace jacket of clinging design.

"By the way, Her Majesty shows a distinct partiality for embroidery, and will often favor brocade worked in graceful patterns.

"She dislikes the 'floppy' style, and even in full evening attire inclines towards a simplicity which is almost severe. This style of dress sets off Her Majesty's figure to advantage, for, as many of her loyal subjects will have noticed, she is built on ideal lines—a slender waist, a full bust, low and gracefully-curved hips, and, above all, a perfectly-formed neck.

"For evening wear Her Majesty is fond of satin, and in colors her choice is frequently a combination of black and white. The chief characteristics as regards the actual adornment of the Queen's evening costume are a few good diamonds or pearls, and a touch of blue somewhere about the dress. This may take the form of a bow of ribbon, possibly a sash or insertion.

"The Queen's hats are usually small; frequently they are toques, usually in dark colors, being of different shades of brown and grey. Sometimes a feather serves as sufficient trimming, or perhaps a small buckle.

"If the Queen wears a large hat, it is generally turned sharply up at one [illegible] style of hat being very popular with her. On this type of hat feathers are usually worn.

"Quiet smartness is the keynote of the Queen's blouses. She is fond of chiffon material. Her belts are usually plain, and always match the costume. Her Majesty's gloves are generally white kid. Black is her favorite color in shoes and stockings.

"In private life, especially in the country, the quietness of Her Majesty's dress is even intensified.

"It is a pleasure to make dresses for Her Majesty," wound up the informant, "for she is always so thoughtful and considerate."

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

The White-Eyed Kaffir.

That popular music-hall artiste, Mr. Chirgwin, the "Father of the Profession," who recently celebrated his jubilee, says that it was really owing to an accident that his black face with the white patch over one eye became famous. "I was playing at a garden fete in Gloucestershire," he says, "and while giving my 'turn' some dust blew right into my eyes. On the spur of the moment I rubbed the spot, and in so doing the black paint off my face. When I looked up again the yokels gathered round the stage roared with merriment. 'Ah, look at the nigger with the white eye!' they shouted in chorus. I had fortuitously and instantly achieved a triumphant success. Here you have the authentic story of the White-Eyed Kaffir. I may truly say that the grit in my eye brought the grit in my pocket.

Coffee Drinking.

Commenting on a recent report of cases of poisoning ascribed to drinking coffee, the London Lancet offers some soothing views to lovers of the breakfast cup. "Coffee," says this medical authority, "in common with most articles of food, may disagree with some people, who soon find that fact out and take care to exclude it from their dietary. But it is innocent of poison and to a great number of people is an undoubted boon. Such persons may continue to enjoy their favorite beverage without the slightest fear that for some mysterious reason nature makes some of the beans poisonous. The widespread publication of the fallacy has been most unfair to the public, besides constituting an obvious injustice to the coffee trade."

Hugo and Dumas.

During Victor Hugo's exile Dumas went to Guernsey, where Hugo received him kindly and took him to breakfast on a veranda overlooking the ocean. It did not take Dumas long to discover that Hugo was already posing as the proscribed prophet, and the poet said, with an Olympian wave of his hand, "You see me, my dear Dumas, on my rock of exile like the proscribed ones of antiquity."

"Never mind," said Dumas, with his mouth full. "The butter is far better here than in Paris. There is no disputing that."

SALUTE ROUND THE WORLD.

Crash of Artillery Will Announce the Placing of the Crown.

Not only in Canada, but in every part of the Empire, guns will boom forth simultaneously at the exact moment when the crown is placed upon the head of the King in Westminster Abbey on Thursday, June 22. The shouts of "Long Live the King!" as they resound through the abbey, will find an echo in the most distant parts of the world.

Although no definite arrangements have yet been made, it can be anticipated that royal salutes will be fired in the usual places at all regimental headquarters in Canada boasting artillery corps or cannon.

The Colonial Office has made a request to the Earl Marshal to be informed of the exact minute the crown will be placed upon the King's head, and the information—it is expected that the time will be within a few minutes of two o'clock—will be communicated by the Colonial Office to every part of the Empire, so that arrangements for saluting the King can be made well in advance.

In those parts of the Empire where it is daytime when it is two o'clock at Westminster guns will be fired, and in those places where it is night rockets for bombs will be let off. Taking two o'clock as the actual time, when the King will be crowned, the coronation salutes will be given at the following hours in the places mentioned:—

Still In Harness.

Threatened men live long. In his early days, when he announced his intention of becoming a minister of the Gospel, that wonderful old man, General Booth, who, at the age of eighty-two, is still in harness, forming schemes for the reformation of the world's outcasts, was told by the doctor that "it would be sheer suicide. You would be dead in a year," said the physician. But young Booth would not be deterred. He went ahead with his ideas, and, although he was the sole support of his mother, found time to conduct evangelistic meetings in the slum districts after business hours. And when he married he and his wife separated from any recognised body and went out to catch their converts from public-houses and gambling dens.

Friends were found who sympathized, and one invested a small capital—about $25,000—in William Booth's interest. It is from the income this sum brings in that the general has brought up his family, and at present his only personal moneys are derived from the same source. He does not draw a single penny from the funds of the army, merely receiving his traveling expenses from that source. The original capital returns to the friend who invested it on the general's death.

Racing to the South Pole.

Captain Scott has a rival in his dash to the South Pole in the person of Captain Amundsen, the famous Norwegian explorer, the first man to accomplish the navigation of the Northwest Passage. It is in connection with the latter expedition that the captain tells an amusing Eskimo story. Having lost several dogs, Captain Amundsen, in his best Eskimo, intimated his desire to purchase one from a certain tribe. To his surprise, however, the request was promptly refused. An explanation was demanded, and the man applied to returned next day with a chubby, laughing boy on his back. "Such we do not sell," said the native. The explorer was astonished; something was wrong. "You wished to purchase one," said the man, seeing Captain Amundsen's perplexity. Finally, it was discovered that the Greenlandic term for "dog" was equivalent to "child" in the Netchillie language.

Electrical Tree.

There is a peculiar tree in the forests of Central India which has most curious characteristics. The leaves of the tree are of a highly sensitive nature and so full of electricity that whoever touches one of them receives an electric shock. It has a very singular effect upon a magnetic needle and will influence it at a distance of even 70 feet. The electrical strength of the trees varies according to the time of day, it being strongest at midday and weakest at midnight. In wet weather its powers disappear altogether. Birds never approach the tree, nor have insects ever been seen upon it.

"Nurse Grimston."

Aristocratic nurses in hospitals are no novelty, but few ladies have adopted the nursing profession more wholeheartedly than Lady Sybil Grimston, fifth daughter of the Earl and Countess of Verulam, who is known at the London Hospital Nurses' Training Home at Bow as "Nurse Grimston." Upon the dormitory list appears the simple notification, "11, Grimston, Sybil." By the way, Lady Sybil's father in appearance closely resembles the late King Edward, and was frequently mistaken for him in the streets of London when his majesty was alive.

This distinction belongs to Mr. Robt. Crichton, of Caterham, England, who has just entered his 100th year, and is descended from the Crichtons of Cluny, the same branch as the "Admirable Crichton." Born in Perthshire in 1812, Mr. Crichton has lived in six reigns. He first tried the law, and then went to Australia, where he was one of the first settlers. He is a splendid shot and a keen billiard-player.

HELD THE POSE.

The Bridegroom Model Even Held His Breathing Apparatus.

Sir Luke Fildes, who has been commissioned by the County of Surrey, England, to paint a copy of his portrait of Edward VII. in Buckingham Palace for a county memorial to the late King, is one of the favorite painters of royalty, and has done splendid portraits not only of the late King Edward but of Queen Alexandra and the present King and Queen.

Sir Luke first gained repute as a painter of English and Venetian subjects, afterwards turning his attention to portraits. His first picture, "Fair, Quiet, and Sweet Rest," was exhibited at the Academy thirty-nine years ago, and is separated by an interval of thirty years from the state portraits of King Edward. His celebrated picture, "The Doctor," took the artistic world by storm, and is regarded as one of the most striking of modern works.

Sir Luke tells an amusing story of an inquisitive visitor to a picture gallery. Observing a man standing in rapt attention before a certain painting, the visitor ventured to put the query: "Did you paint that picture, sir?" "Paint that picture?" echoed the enraptured one contemptuously. "Not me. I made the frame!"

Sir Luke also has a good story of a rustic whom he employed as a model for the bridegroom in "The Village Wedding." Soon after the drawing began, the artist noticed that his model became very pale. He made him rest, and presently work was resumed. The model soon became more ghastly than ever. "You don't seem well," said Sir Luke. "I'm a'right, sur," answered the model, "only for holding me breath so long!" The poor rustic imagined it was necessary for the portrait to be taken, that he should hold his breath the while!

The picture was painted for Mr. (afterwards Sir) Henry Tate. Sir Luke had thought over the subject for several years before he made a start, although eventually it proved the quickest painted picture he had ever done. The artist traveled to many places, from Devon to Inverness, to get thoroughly acquainted with the character of the cottages and people. He made many sketches, and on his return to town had the room built up exactly to size at the end of his studio. Even the massive rafters shown in the picture were there.

Courage in the Weaker Sex.

In high police circles woman's trait of courage that exceeds her physical strength is regarded as no new manifestation in the proverbially weaker sex.

"Ever since I became associated with police work," said one experienced officer, "I have noticed that women seemed always ready to help any one in apparent difficulties. Perhaps because they are weak themselves they are disposed readily to help the weaker side without thought of consequences to themselves."

A highly interesting explanation of this undoubted bravery in women was vouchsafed by J. W. Slaughter, the eminent English sociologist, who assigned female courage largely to the maternal instinct.

"Nothing on earth," he said, "can be more ferocious, more dangerous, and more courageous than the female animal defending her young. The maternal instinct in woman is in itself an inspiration to courage. You will never see a woman on the edge of a crowd taking the side of the upper dog. Women, moreover, act more directly than men. They are more impulsive and less calculating.

"We are accustomed to think of women as afraid of this or that, but it is because they have not really had experience. Courage is, after all, a matter of experience. One is not afraid of things one is used to or knows how to deal with."

Age of Fish.

Until within recent years there has been ascertained no trustworthy way of finding out the age of fish. It has been shown that mere size does not indicate age. Reibisch, Heincke and others have discovered that many of the bones, scales and otoliths of fishes have annual age rings resembling those in tree trunks.

Stops Itching Heals the Skin

And Cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, and All Skin Diseases

These Results You Can Be Sure of When You Use

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Quick and certain are the effects of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Itching is stopped almost as soon as it is applied. The sores are cleaned out, morbid growth is arrested, and the healing process is soon set in action.

Compare these results with the tediousness and uncertainty of internal treatment for itching skin disease. By all means look after the health of the blood and the system generally, but get rid of the annoying and torturing skin ailment at once by using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The reputation of Dr. Chase's Ointment has been made by its marvellous success in the cure of eczema and piles. But it is just as effective in the cure of old sores and wounds which have defied ordinary treatments and been given up by doctors.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is prized by mothers as a treatment for the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, skin irritation, scald head and baby eczema. Its soothing influence stops the itching, and it prevents the development of eczema from these lesser skin troubles.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured her boy of eczema when his head was a mass of scabs, and he suffered untold agony from the itching. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Each grate bar has three sides—long wear

When only one side of a grate bar is continually next to the fire all the wear is concentrated on that one side. The life of the grate bar is thus naturally just one-third as long as when the wear is distributed on three sides.

That explains why Sunshine grates have three lives. Each of the four grate bars has three sides. Each time the ashes are "rocked down" (no shaking with Sunshine) the side next to the fire can be changed. Thus the life of the grates is greatly prolonged.

When desired, the heavy bull dog teeth on the grates will seize hold of clinkers, grind them up, and drop the particles into the ash-pan.

How a Parisian Woman Carried Out a Daring Swindle

The other day a smartly-dressed woman, speaking French with an indisputable Parisian accent, and introducing herself as Comtesse So-and-So, attended a specialist's study in the Champs Elysees, Paris. "My son," she said, "is on the verge of losing his reason. He is always talking of jewels and necklaces which he is buying at different jewellers for his lady friends. I believe he is going to become insane. What shall I do?"

"Do not worry," said the specialist; "bring your son here to-morrow, and I shall look at him."

The next day she drove, in a magnificent automobile, to a jeweller's shop, chose a necklace, counted out a dozen or so 1,000-franc notes, and suddenly exclaimed, "I have not enough here to pay for the necklace. Would you mind sending somebody with me to my house? My husband will pay."

"Certainly," replied the jeweller, and a young man was sent along. The Comtesse introduced him at the doctor's establishment, and leaving him alone in a room with the physician of whom she spoke beforehand as her husband, she "eclipsed herself," as the French say. The doctor, face to face with the young man, began gently:

"Well, my young man, you know what it is about. Has the thing been troubling you to-day?"

"Doctor, I am waiting to be paid."

"Paid for what?"

"I want to be paid for that necklace."

"Ah, I see the thing is troubling you. Those friends of yours—"

"I am not troubled about my friends; I must have the money for that necklace."

"Why should I pay you? This is not reasonable."

"But your wife, the Countess, has just bought a necklace."

Here the doctor could not help smiling. "I am not married," he said, "as I have no wife."

This only complicated matters. The more the doctor tried to reason, the more excited the young man became. He talked of having been swindled, and wanted to break down doors, and the doctor, fearing that he had to deal not only with a lunatic but with a violent madman, had to call in the police. At last, when the young man had time to quiet down and explain the situation, the truth dawned at last on the doctor and the police.

PLENTY OF SOAP AND FRESH AIR

An English Borough Proposes to Make People Healthy — Suggestions Added by Correspondent

The Paddington Borough Council are considering the enactment of a new set of by-laws, to provide that every lodger in a tenement house shall, except in special circumstances, cause his bedroom windows to be opened for at least one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon; and to have the floor of his bedroom or bedrooms swept daily, and washed at least once a week.

"As one who is all for fresh air and plenty of soap and water, I welcome with joy this step on the part of the 'Paddington Fathers,'" says a correspondent, who thereupon proposes that the additional by-laws be adopted:—

Any person or persons doing anything prohibited by or otherwise offending against any of the following by-laws shall be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings for a first offence, and not exceeding five pounds for any subsequent offence.

All plates, dishes, cups, glasses, knives, forks, spoons, saucepans, frying pans and other utensils, implements and instruments used in the preparation and consumption of supper shall be washed, scoured, dried, and otherwise made clean overnight, and not left to be washed up with the breakfast things in the morning.

All chimneys, flues, and other passages, holes, and recesses to which smoke has regular access shall be swept once in every three months, and the resultant soot preserved for the cultivation of Coronation Sweet Peas.

All grates, ranges, and stoves shall be blackleaded, and all stone and concrete hearths, whether cracked or sound, as well as all doorsteps and window-sills shall be whitened, once every seven days.

No cobwebs shall be allowed to hang suspended from any ceiling in any room, passage, closet, or cupboard for a longer period than one calendar month.

All beds that have been slept in overnight shall be stripped, and the mattress or mattresses turned back, immediately upon the occupant arising in the morning, and allowed thus to remain airing for a period of at least one hour from such time.

All beds shall be re-made by 10 o'clock a.m.

Once every seven days the bottom sheet of each bed in every bedroom in every house in the Borough shall be removed, and the top sheet substituted for it, and a clean sheet substituted for the top sheet thus transferred.

Every occupant of every house shall wash, or cause to be washed, his or her face, hands, and no less than three inches of neck, at least once every twenty-four hours.

Every male occupant of every house shall shave, or cause to be shaved, his chin, cheeks, neck, and top lip, at least once every three days; provided always that such male occupant does not grow a beard and moustache (which is to be deprecated), or has not reached such age as is favorable to the production or growth of face moss.

Every female occupant of every house shall have her hair out of curling pins or curl papers by midday at the latest each day (Saturdays excepted), and all hooks and eyes securely fastened.

Every child occupant of every house shall have his or her nose duly wiped by some qualified person at least three times a day, and four times on Sundays.
